The Executive Committee of the general church has granted to the North Carolina Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary the privilege of applying the Thank-Offering on salary of Rev. J. F. Minnis. This is quite important, since the North Carolina Branch has assumed responsibility for his salary. We trust that Thank-Offering services may be held in many of our churches, and that the offering may be generous. Brother Minnis is a faithful and efficient missionary, and highly worthy of our best support.

BIRD NEIGHBORS

A few years ago, when doing some plowing, I learned that a number of different species of birds were nesting in the field to be plowed. I decided to save the nests by leaving a bit of ground unplowed around each nest. But though I did my best for the birds, three of the four nests were ill-fated. But then I had the satisfaction of knowing I had done my best for the birds.

The first nest I thus tried to save was that of a meadowlark. On one of my rounds with the plow, I frightened a meadowlark from a tuft of grass. The bird fluttered off, nearly brushing the horses as she did so. I stopped the horses, examined the grass carefully and soon located the nest, which held four eggs. I plowed as near the nest as I dared. Each time I passed the nest, the mother flew off, but returned to her nest as soon as I was off a short distance. All went well for a week. Meanwhile I had marked and planted the field to corn. Then, one night, something destroyed the nest and eggs.

My next attempt also proved a failure, though I did save the nest for the time being. A pair of brown thrashers had built their nest in a hollow, on the ground among the dead weeds. I plowed very carefully around this nest, just as I did about the meadowlark's nest. But this nest, too, was either deserted or destroyed in less than a week.

But my next attempt proved successful. The nest was that of a pair of lark sparrows. The birds had built their nest in a cluster of blue-eyed grass, on a rolling piece of ground. I left a large piece of unplowed ground about this nest. After the eggs hatched, the mother became very tame, so tame that I succeeded in getting a number of pictures of her without the use of a blind, or device for operating the shutter from a distance.

The fourth attempt also proved a failure. A pair of bobwhites had a nest near the edge of the same field in which the thrasher and lark sparrow nests were located. Naturally, it was an easy matter to save this nest, since I left a wide strip of unplowed ground near the fence. The nest at the time held eight eggs. I visited this nest the following day and found that it held but seven eggs. Later there were but six, then five and finally but four eggs, when it was deserted. I never learned what took the eggs.

For a time I felt it was practically impossible to save a nest after it had been built in a field that must be plowed. But last spring, I learned that it is not so hard. I learned when plowing a piece of ground for sweet corn that a pair of vesper sparrows had a nest there, in which lay three eggs. I plowed around this nest, planted the corn and found I had lost but six hills of corn by so doing. Best of all, the eggs all hatched and the young birds reached maturity safely. When replanting some corn the cutworms had taken, I spaded and planted corn where the nest was located. Thus far I had saved three young vesper sparrows without the loss of a hill of corn.

Later, this same pair of sparrows built a second nest a rod or two off in a piece of ground I wanted for a later planting of sweet corn. Naturally, I plowed around this nest as I did around the first which had now served its purpose. That same day, I discovered a third vesper sparrow's nest in the same field which held three young birds. I set a stake near the nest and plowed as near it as I dared. Once some loose dirt fell on the young birds. I took the little birds from the nest and cleaned the sand from them and the nest. Later, I plowed straight for the nest, stopping just before reaching it, and watching the horses carefully lest they step on the nest. When pulling the plow back, the eveners, which is always hard to control, fell beside the nest, again spraying dirt and sand over it. Once more I took the little fellows from the nest, brushed the sand from them and cleaned the nest. Before completing my plowing, I noticed that the mother was back on the nest hovering her youngsters. She stayed on her nest though the horses and I passed within three feet of the nest.

Later, I saved a fourth nest in the same way. I thus saved four nests in all last spring, all nests of vesper sparrows, in which thirteen young birds were successfully reared. And upon investigation I found that those thirteen useful songsters had cost me but six hills of corn. No doubt the parent birds had saved hundreds of hills of corn for me meanwhile, for I noticed that they fed their young large numbers of cutworms.—Alvin M. Peterson in Our Dumb Animals.

AFTER THE CROSS THE CROWN

When all around seems dark and drear,
Thy heart with lonely grief bowed down,
No earthly friend to soothe or cheer,
There's One who lends a listening ear
And says, "My child, give Me thy fear:
After the cross the crown."

When hope lies dead, and not one ray
Of sunshine lights the world's dark frown;
When sorrow's tear, like ocean's spray,
Will from thy burdened heart find way:
In accents tender hear Him say,
"After the cross the crown."

Poor tossed one, weep no more, but leave
At His dear feet thy burden down;
Thy Father speaks, no longer grieve;
Rejoice in Him, His Word believe;
Earth's night is brief; thou'lt soon receive
After the cross thy crown.

EXPECTING CONVERSIONS

A young preacher went to Spurgeon to ask why he did not have conversion in his ministry.

"You do not expect to make converts after every sermon, do you?" Spurgeon asked.

The young preacher replied, "Oh, no, of course, I do not expect them after every sermon!"

"That is just the reason why you do not get them after any sermon," was Spurgeon's answer.—The Missionary Worker.

THE PERIL OF DRIFTING

Gerald Watson waited for Paul Rynders, swung in step with him, and together they walked toward the factory where they were employed.

"A beautiful morning, and one in which we may rejoice," said Gerald. "This is the Lord's morning in which we may rejoice."

"There you are again," replied Paul. "Always saying something about the Lord. Don't you think other people ever get tired hearing you rave along that line of talk?"

"Perhaps they do," Gerald agreed, "but I never tire of talking about One who means much to me. Anyway, I know of no other subject of more vital consequence."

"We are all headed for the same place," asserted Paul, "so I can't see as it makes any difference whether I see things as you do or not."

"Perhaps we won't all arrive even if we are headed," said Gerald.

They were facing the bay as they approached the factory. Three miles across the water they could see the peaceful little village of Windham.

"Want to ride across the bay with me after work?" asked Gerald. "I have an errand to Windham and will drive my motor boat across."

"Sure I'll go with you," replied Paul. "I'm always ready for a ride on the water."

The sun on the western horizon threw a streak of gold across the water as they launched the boat that evening. A scene of quiet beauty lay before them,—a gentle breeze, rippling waters, the nestling village across the bay, fleecy clouds above, a glorious sunset. Halfway across the bay Gerald shut off the power and let the boat drift idly upon the bay. Another boat under full power passed them.

"Guess they are headed for Windham," Gerald said, pointing to the passing boat. "Let's see,—we're headed for the same place, aren't we?"

"Sure," said Paul, looking up in surprise.

"They seem to be getting there, but we are no nearer than we were a moment ago. Maybe we will get there if we wait long enough."

Paul looked up in surprise again. "We can get there all right when you put the power on. We'll never get there by drifting around."

"But we're headed for there," argued Gerald, "just the same as that other boat. If they get there, we ought to."

"Have you gone crazy?" asked Paul. "You're not even talking common sense."

"That is right," agreed Gerald. "I wasn't talking sense. Drifting won't get me there. I must make some kind of an effort. I'll start this engine going, and head the boat directly toward those docks."

In a moment they were speeding across the surface of the water.

"Have you thought any more about everyone being headed for Heaven?" asked Gerald, looking up into Paul's face. "You accused me of acting foolish out there in the bay, but how much different are you acting about your eternal salvation? You are just drifting aimlessly, and you never can reach Heaven in that way. You must take some kind of action to get there."

For once in his life Paul had nothing to say.

"I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life: no man cometh to the Father, but by Me," quoted Gerald. "Those are the words of Jesus Christ. There is one way to God. Jesus Christ is that Way. When you accept Jesus Christ as your personal Saviour, you have an eternal hope. Without Him, you are hopelessly drifting away from God into an eternity of despair. You have no goal in sight. It is time you took action and made a decision for time and eternity. What will you do with Jesus Christ?"

All Paul's arguments vanished into thin air as he came face to face with the fact that he must make his decision. If he ever expected to reach Heaven, he must do it by something else than drifting aimlessly.

"There is but one way," he finally said. "I can see where I have been wrong. I am ready to receive Jesus Christ as my Saviour."—Selected.

THE EVER-PRESENT GOD

"Oh, see the black cloud coming up!" exclaimed Susie Brown. "I'll soon have to run home! Listen! Now it's thundering!"

"I'm no longer afraid of thunder-storms!" answered little Alma Black. "God is everywhere! God is the God of nature and controls all things. Even the wind and the sea obey His voice and do His bidding."

"Does God speak to the storm and make it quiet?" asked Susie in surprise.

"Yes," said Alma, "once Jesus was out on the sea sleeping in a boat when a great storm arose. The people in the boat were very much frightened. They awakened Jesus and He just quietly spoke the words, 'Peace, be still!' and the storm died down."

"Then God is the Master of the thunder and of the lightning, too?" inquired Susie.

"Yes, and He is everywhere," said Alma.

"Then I'll no longer be afraid when it storms!" said little Susie. "Oh, how glad I am! God is everywhere!"

"Yes, even when it is dark as pitch, and stormy as ever. In all kinds of weather," said Alma, "God is near."

Susie hurried home, as she did not wish to get caught in the rain, but she was no longer afraid. She told her little brother and sister, and even her mother, Mrs. Brown, heard: "God is near us when it storms. God is the Master of the storm! Just think, God is everywhere! He makes even the wind and the sea obey Him!"

"Yes, He even directs the sun in its path across the sky," said Mrs. Brown. "The Holy Bible tells of Jesus once being out on the sea asleep in a boat, when a great storm arose. The people all became afraid. They awakened Jesus and told Him what danger they were in. The boat was ready to sink. Jesus then spoke to the wind, and to the sea. He said, 'Peace, be still!' and the storm died down."

"What a wonderful Saviour!" said the children. "Now we can sleep better tonight. God watches over us. God is our loving Father. He is always near."

Soon the children were all fast asleep. Out-of-doors you could hear the "pitter-patter, pitter-patter," and sometimes a peal of thunder, following a flash of lightning. But God was the Master of the storm, so of what was there to be afraid? Alma in her home was sleeping as sweetly as Susie and her little brother and sister in their home, for all knew that a loving Father watched over them, and angels were keeping guard!

Before the children had gone to sleep that night each one had thanked God in this little prayer:

"Father in Heaven, I do thank Thee
For loving watch-care over me.
Teach me to be Thy loving child,
Ever obedient, true, and mild."

The next morning the children awoke refreshed and happy. It seemed that all nature was also refreshed and happy. The grass was still wet, and such a pretty green! The flowers were all brighter than ever. Oh, how fresh and sweet the air was, laden with the freshness of nature, and with the fragrance of flowers! Soon the warm morning sun dried the flowers, the trees, and the grass. The children enjoyed to frolic on the soft green carpet.—Selected.

THE ADOPTED KITTEN

"Oh, mamma, mayn't I stay at home from school and 'muse Nellie this morning, 'cause she feels so bad?" Susie cried, rushing into the breakfast room.

Mamma didn't hear at first.

She was rocking baby and giving three-year-old Robbie his breakfast, and telling Mrs. Clay from next door how she made gooseberry pies, not forgetting to see that Willie got his hair properly combed for school, and directing forgetful Minnie about her lunch; so perhaps it was no wonder Susie had to pull her arm and repeat her question.

"It's Nellie Wilson, mamma. The poorhouse man is coming over for her this morning, 'cause she hasn't anywhere to go now. Her papa and mamma are dead and Nellie's awful frail. She just sits crying and crying, and mis'erable as she can be; and can't I stay home and 'muse her? Maybe I won't ever have another chance."

Susie was dragging the forlorn little figure in shabby black out to the brush-pile, where Furry-purphy had hidden her kittens.

"She don't mind our looking at 'em," she said, eagerly reaching under the brush for one.

"It's the boys and dogs she hid 'em from. Look, aren't they pretty? 'Most big enough to drink milk for themselves now. My, I guess Furry-purphy will be glad when they can. 'cause they're so hungry, and she's so little that mamma says they 'most eat her up alive. Just look how thin and poor she is!"

But presently, with loving pats and soft caresses, the little girls restored her treasures to her, and scampered off to the barn to hunt eggs.

Into all the usual nooks and corners they peered, then scrambled up on the hay papa had bought three days before, and Susie cuddled down in it, making believe she was a bird, and trying to chirp.

But suddenly Nellie asked: "Why, Susie, did you bring one of the kitties out? I hear a mewling."

They scrambled over to the other side, listening again, looked all about, but could find nothing. "She's got a hole away down in the hay—'r else it slipped down itself. Kitty! Kitty!"

Still no answer but that faint, distressed mewling that brought the tears to Nellie's eyes. "It's lost," she said, "and it's so little and crying for its mother. Can we get it out?"

"Why, it can't see out of its eyes; they are so full of dust," Nellie said, pityingly.

"And how thin it is, and so rough! It looks as if it was most starved to death."

And Susie exclaimed, "Why-ee, it isn't one of our kitties at all!"

"Why, Susie! Whose is it, then?"

"I don't know. But it's littler than Furry-purphy's—and bluer—and hers are so plump, and this looks as if it never had anything to eat. It's most like hers, but it ain't. Let's go and show it to mamma."

Mamma looked at it curiously. "No, it's not Furry-purphy's. Looks as if it were part Maltese. Found it in the hay, you say? Then it must be Mr. Dean's cat, had her nest in his haystack, and he loaded it in with the rest of the hay without knowing it. Take it to Furry-purphy. She may take it for one of her own and take care of it. That is the only thing we can do."

The little girls followed, and peeped under the brush pile, presently returning to report that Furry-purphy had taken the waif to her bosom, was nursing it, and gently washing the dust out of the blinded eyes with her soft tongue, as if it were her very own. "She's just 'dopted it," Susie said, "I didn't know cats were so good."

"Mammas have tender hearts," smiled papa. "Hello, here's Davis from the poorhouse! What does he want here?"

Nellie knew. The light faded from her eyes, a great sob rose in her throat.

Mamma saw the big tears flooding her eyes again, and gathered the little figure in her arms. "He has come for this motherless little girl," she said, with a queer little shake in her voice. "But we can't be outdone in Christianity by a cat. Please, go tell him he can't have her. We'll take care of her."

"Well," papa said, "all she will eat and wear won't cost so very much, and the work mainly comes on you. Just as you say; only don't work yourself to death."

"She will help and teach Minnie and Susie to be more helpful," said mamma. "And, anyway, we can't be outdone by Furry-purphy."—Publisher Unknown.

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

"You'll never get that place, Joe," said Fred Baxter, as he and one of his schoolmates stopped to read a new sign in Judge Frame's office window. "Don't you see it says, 'References required'? You or I could never get any one to recommend us. These are high-toned folks." But Joe was already walking toward the office door. "I'll wait for you on the outside," said Fred, seeing that Joe was determined to try for the place.

When Joe came out, he said that he did not have the promise of the place, but that he had given Judge Frame the names of the places where he had worked. At this Fred laughed very long and loud. "Mrs. Murphy hires you to carry out ashes, and Mr. Blake to sweep his walk, and Sally Gates gets you to push her nephew in his wheel chair when it is too cold for her to go out, and on Saturdays you do odd chores for the Beehive grocery, I wonder what references he will get from them. They are very particular people to work for and they will not try hard to help you."

But when Judge Frame drove down into the humble neighborhood where Joe lived with his mother, he found that everyone had a good word for the boy who had applied at his office for the new position. Even Mrs. Murphy said he was the first boy she had ever hired who did not spill the ashes on the floor, and track in mud while working for her. When Fred heard of Joe's good success he became jealous. He said that if he had thought the Judge would have looked in that neighborhood for references he might have had a try at the place himself. It was the first time in his fourteen years of life that he had realized that people are watching the conduct of boys, even when they are doing the little things.

He spoke of it to his teacher and said that he wished he could find a place that paid well. He was surprised when the teacher told him that almost every day he knew of people who wished to hire wide-awake, honest, ambitious boys and girls. "They do not look so much at grades," said the teacher, "but at efforts the pupils make. Often a boy who makes poor grades, but is always doing his best, ranks higher in the real things that business men want than the ones that have the highest grades. What they want most is honor and determination to succeed. That is what got the place for Joe Smith. Judge Frame inquired everywhere and every one had a good word for Joe. It is a responsible place and will mean a promotion soon, so that is why the Judge wanted to be very particular."

Often boys, and girls too, feel that the little, odd duties, the daily lessons, the behavior on the street and such trifles do not count in the eyes of older people. They are apt to imagine that no one is looking on as they work and play and study. But, children, there are never enough ambitious, honorable young folks to fit all the good places open for them. So the little jobs, the daily lessons, the conversation and all else worth while are worth more to the young people than money stored up in the bank. They will have many good places offered to them that careless young people know nothing about.—Publisher Unknown.

STRANGE FACTS ABOUT SNAILS

The eyes of a snail are on the ends of its feelers. The eye is small, barely discernible in fact; is far from powerful, as it recognizes little more than the difference between light and darkness; but it serves the snail's purpose very satisfactorily. Contrary to general belief, the snail does not draw his horns straight back into their receptacles; what he does is turn them inside out—just as we do a tight glove in removing it.

The little creature has a sense of smell, also ears (which lie close to the roots of the horns), but his breathing apparatus is one of his strangest features. Observation will disclose that on the right side a distinct hole occasionally appears, remains open a few seconds, and then closes again. This is simply a cavity in the snail's body into which at suitable intervals he allows a certain quantity of air to enter. When air has thus found its way into his interior, he keeps it there until the oxygen is exhausted by his vital processes; and what remains, laden with carbonic acid, is allowed to escape by re-opening the little trap-door, and the receptacle is again filled with pure air.

The snail's tongue is ribbon-shaped, but with a saw-like surface. Distributed over it are tiny teeth, often as many as 30,000. As fast as one set of teeth are worn away, the incredibly long tongue uncoils and slips into position another set. No difference how old the snail becomes, he always has teeth. The snail's shell is a horny covering that serves to protect it against numerous foes.—L. E. Eubanks in Our Dumb Animals.

COULD WE GO AS WELL AS HE?

"On my arrival from China," wrote a missionary, "I received a letter asking me to call and see an invalid. I knew he was blind, but I was not prepared to see what I did see. He was lying upon the bed, every joint in his body immovable, unable to turn in any direction. His jaw was locked, so that it necessitated the removal of his front teeth to insert the spout of his feeding cup. His whole body was as stiff as a log of wood, but his mind was full of vigor, and his heart was full of grace of service. For twenty-nine years he has lain thus, fed only on liquid foods. For twenty-two years he has been blind. Is it possible that such an one as he could do anything to help others? Listen. Seventeen blind children are supported by his efforts in India; ten in China. A blind Bible woman in Korea. A blind boy in Sudan. A blind boy in Fiji. A blind Bible woman in Jaffa. Three hundred pounds a year is received in answer to prayer by that faithful, sightless, silent, paralyzed disciple in that little shut-in room in Melbourne."—The King's Business.

—The Blue Ridge-Atlantic Conference of the M. E. church met in Bessemer City last week. About fifty ministers were assigned to charges and two district superintendents. The North Carolina Conference (colored, we believe) of the same church will meet in High Point November 25, Bishop Smith presiding. These conferences belong to the northern branch of the Methodist Episcopal church.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

OCTOBER THANK-OFFERING SERVICES Executive Committee Meeting of Women's Work and Inspirational Program Thursday of Conference.

October and February are Thank-Offering months for the women's work of the Methodist Protestant church. There will be additional interest this year in the observance of these occasions in North Carolina on account of the fact that the proceeds will go toward the support of our own North Carolina missionaries in India. When Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis decided to accept the call of our Mission Board to return to India, the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work assumed their support. Up to this time funds have been coming in slowly. At the executive meeting of our Branch at Weaverville it was decided that a request should be sent to the Mission Board to grant us the privilege of retaining the proceeds from Thank-Offering services for the support of Mr. and Mrs. Minnis. The request was granted and our Branch is urging the observance of Thank-Offering services in every church in the state. Where there are Auxiliaries they will, of course, sponsor the movement and where there are no societies, minister, Sunday school superintendents and interested women are asked to cooperate in the observance.

The Methodist Protestants of the state now have an opportunity to express through thank-offering their appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Minnis.

Women's Day at Conference

The executive committee meeting of Women's Work will be held on Thursday, November 5th, in First church, High Point, beginning at 10 a. m. All women visiting conference will be welcome. In the afternoon an inspirational program has been arranged and Mrs. Marie Thompson, of Baltimore, secretary of Women's Work, has been invited to make an address. It is hoped a large crowd of women will attend. We need inspiration to go forward in our work.

MRS. WM. C. HAMMER,

Pres. N. C. Branch, Women's Work,
Asheboro, N. C.

WILL YOU HELP?

As the Thank-Offering season approaches our minds turn to the observance of this occasion. This year we are especially privileged. At the executive committee meeting in Weaverville it was decided to ask the Mission Board to permit the North Carolina Branch to retain the Thank-Offering collections for the support of Mr. and Mrs. Minnis, which was assumed by the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work. This was granted.

It behooves us more than ever to see to it that each church in the state observes Thank-Offering in October, at which time announcement is made that collection will go for support of Mr. and Mrs. Minnis. Many of our people know Mr. and Mrs. Minnis and will make liberal contributions for their work.

Do your best in your own church and help others in nearby churches. This is our opportunity. Let us not fail. If you can use any Thank-Offering boxes or envelopes, let me know how many.

Yours very truly,

MRS. J. W. BOYLES,
Secretary Thank Offering.

Thomasville, N. C.

Grace Church Business Girls' Circle

This Circle of Grace Church Auxiliary held their regular meeting on last Monday evening with Miss Annie Jobe, president of the Circle, in charge. This a very active "bunch" of business girls, who do things well worth while.

After the usual routine of business, tribute was paid one of their number who has passed on into the great beyond, just in the prime of splendid young womanhood. Mrs. Viola Medearis Holland was a member of Grace church from early childhood. She was an active member of the Circle of Business Girls, where she is sorely missed. At this last meeting they paused to honor her memory, at which time Viola was made Memorial member by two of her closest friends in the Circle, Mrs. Dewy Groome and Miss Lelia Lamb. This act of love of their departed member was greatly appreciated by the whole Auxiliary.

At this same meeting, one of their most faithful, Miss Charlie Hunter, was made a Life member.

ANNIVERSARY AT WEST END CHURCH

Sunday, September 20th, was the fourteenth anniversary of West End Methodist Protestant church, Greensboro. The day was observed in a fitting and impressive style. There were two services, one at 11 o'clock and another at 7:30 in the evening.

At the morning services Dr. G. I. Humphreys delivered the anniversary sermon and made a great impression with his power. His theme concerned the church, her foundations, her resting places, and her duties. All were inspired with the morning service.

At this service all charter members who could be present were honored by a special roll call. After this was done the pastor read to them his tribute of honor and his blessing. We are indeed fortunate in having so many of the charter members with us in the active work. Of course the number has dwindled somewhat, but a majority of the original thirty-two are still in the membership.

Then followed the memorial service. The roll of the honored dead was called while the audience stood in silent and reverent respect to the memory of those who have departed this life. As the audience continued to stand the male quartet sang "Sunset and Evening Star." The service was very impressive.

Then anniversary girls were brought. These were from two sources, from the church organizations and from individuals. The Sunday school presented about $120.00. The auxiliary gave $50.00. The Brotherhood gave a small amount which was included with that from the Sunday school.

Mr. George Penny, a good and liberal friend of the church, sent a nice check of twenty-five dollars to be given as his expression of interest on this the fourteenth anniversary of the church. His gift was greatly appreciated, especially so, since he is in no way connected with the West End church, and since we were in such need of help at the time. We thank Mr. Penny.

The pastor made a gift of $25.00 the same to deducted from his salary. Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Stockard gave fourteen dollars aside from their contribution through the other organizations. Others made contributions through the regular offering that went likewise to the anniversary fund.

At the evening service, Mr. Clifford Peace, president of the Ministerial association of High Point college, gave the address. He spoke on "Youth." A special musical program was rendered at both services.

The event was a big day for our church calendar and we are appreciative for every one who in any way contributed to the success of the services.

P. E. LINDLEY.

"THE NAME OF JESUS"

By MARGARET A. OVERCASH

Dedicated to J. B. Clower, who preached the sermon at the mid-week devotional of the church of the Covenant, Sept. 9, 1931.]

We often wonder what's in a name;
Is there one more beautiful, of more fame,
Than "The Name of Jesus!"

Since that lovely Christmas morn,
The day our precious Savior was born,
We've praised "The Name of Jesus!"

We sing His praises far and near,
His children of all nations love to hear
"The Name of Jesus."

What name do we love most of all,
One who hears us at our faintest call,
"The Name of Jesus!"

When we are in trouble, sorely distressed,
What brings us more peace and happiness,
"Than the Name of Jesus?"

Oftimes Satan leads us from our pathway,
Then an angel from heaven whispers, seems to say,
"The Name of Jesus!"

What brings more joy, when it seems that life
Is filled with nothing but struggles and strife?
"The Name of Jesus!"

We'll search this world over but never find
A name more precious, dear Savior, than thine—
"The Name of Jesus."

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Draper.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, is preaching some splendid sermons in our church in spite of the small attendance.

Our church seems to be increasing in a spiritual and financial way with our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery in charge. The Sunday school is also increasing in number.

We are having success in the mid-week and week-end prayer services despite also of a small attendance.

Just a short time until another conference begins and we are looking forward for a bigger and better year both in a spiritual and financial way. We ask all Christians to pray for the growth of our church and for God's Kingdom.

REPORTER.

North Davidson Charge.—To the Officials: The fourth and last quarterly conference will convene at Canaan on Saturday before the second Sunday in October. October 10, 1931. Preaching at 11 o'clock, lunch, business of quarterly conference. Important, Brethren: that every official be present. Take due notice hereof and govern yourselves accordingly.

H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

English Street.—Sunday evening our pastor brought to us a helpful sermon, using as his topic, "From Whence Come Wars and Fighting Among You?" He said in part: "This life is a continuous warfare. The author of all this strife, fighting, envy, hatred and malice is the Devil. His motive is to gain complete possession of our souls. Unless we arm ourselves and are equipped as soldiers of the Cross, the Devil will surely gain a victory. When we look around us and see how these people of America are keeping the Sabbath, we become alarmed, or at least, we should. When we learn from statistics that only five per cent of the young people of America belong to the church, those who are to carry on the church in the future; we wonder what kind of churches we will have 25 years from now. Yet, we know that the church will triumph in the end, and that God will reign supreme." We would all be benefited, I am sure, if we would think along these lines.

On last Saturday evening, September 19, Miss Jewell Bonkemeyer became the bride of Mr. Elmer McAdams, both active young people of this church. We wish to congratulate this couple and hope for them much happiness in the future. They will be at home with the bride's parents after September 26.

We are very sorry to report the illness of Mrs. J. A. Lee, superintendent of the Home department. She has been confined to her home for several days with blood poison. The C. E. society met at her home on last Friday night and held a short service. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

On Tuesday night, September 21, the C. E. union of High Point will meet at our church for the purpose of the mass meeting, held every three months. At this time the C. E. shield is awarded. Our society has won the shield for the last six months. Perhaps the readers of the Herald would be interested in knowing of the way the shield is won and the work of the C. E. societies. Our society's report for the past three months is as follows: Taken care of six Wednesday night prayer meetings. Held 13 meetings in homes of sick and invalids. Taken charge of one Sunday night service at our church. Taken charge of one Sunday night service at St. Paul's church. One meeting at Midway church. Four meetings of the Expert class. Organized a society at Shady Grove church. Sent 266 cards to hospitals. Given 59 articles to poor. Made 248 sick visits. Sent 48 bunches of flowers. Held three business meetings. Collected $17.55 in dues and other things. Gained two members of The Quiet Hour. Gained one member of the Tenth Legion. Held 10 regular meetings with 50 per cent or more of membership present.

REPORTER.

Vickery Church.—The Sunday school and church work here is doing fine. We are having a good attendance at Sunday school and church services.

Our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, is filling his appointments each month with very interesting and helpful sermons. We look forward to the preaching Sunday as we are always glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Peeler with us.

On the second Sunday in September the revival meeting began, with Rev. Mr. Anderson as the pulpit help. He delivered wonderful and inspiring sermons throughout the week. The church was greatly revived and much good accomplished, although there was only one member added to the church.

There will be one more preaching service here before conference. We realize there is much work to be done, but we hope that when our pastor goes to conference every claim will be paid.

The Jamestown township Sunday school institute will be held at this church on the first Sunday, October 4, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. We want to see a good number present. The institute is always inspiring to every one interested in Sunday school work. The speakers for the afternoon have been well-chosen and a good program arranged.

REPORTER.

Henderson. With vacation-time over, and the children back in school, our church life and activities are more settled and are now taking on much interest in our tasks for the closing of a good Conference year.

On Sunday night, September 13, President S. W. Taylor preached for us here. He took his theme from the sixth chapter of St. John. A splendid sermon was enjoyed from this miracle of the feeding of the five thousand. Mr. Taylor showed in the discourse how Jesus was sufficient for the needs of that multitude on such an occasion, and how likewise He is surely sufficient for every problem of our present day needs. A large congregation was present and expressed their pleasure of having Mr. Taylor with us.

According to the program of the church, Rally Day was observed in our Sunday school yesterday and a real Rally Day it was. A committee had been appointed to reach an attendance of 200 members present. This was done with the special efforts of the committee, teachers, pastor, superintendent and active members, and 218 were present to enjoy the attractive and appropriate program prepared for the day. Promotion Day was also observed and the election of the Sunday school officers will take place next Sunday. The church officers will be elected at the regular 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning, October 4th.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its regular Thank-Offering service at the church to-night, September 28th, with Mrs. H. A. Jordan, secretary of Thank Offering, in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pritchard passed through our city one day last week and were greeted by some of their friends.

Our young people are leaving for college, and others to assume their duties as teachers in other cities. We pray God's blessings upon them wherever they are.

Mrs. Geo. B. Harris is reported slightly improved since our last writing.

Mrs. C. F. Tankersley, Jr., and Mrs. Annie Mae McIntosh have lost their fathers, Mr. W. A. Matthews, and Mr. W. M. Ellis, respectively, during the past few days. They have the sympathy of many friends and the church in general.

There will be a District Rally of the Auxiliaries this Friday, October 2nd, at 11 o'clock in the church here. Mesdames W. C. Hammer, George R. Brown and C. W. Bates will be the speakers and a large attendance is desired. Dinner will be served in the basement of the church.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

West Forsyth.—We began our revival meeting at Harmony Grove church yesterday with splendid interest and attendance at all of the services during the day and last night. There were three services, 11 a. m., 2 p. m., and 7 p. m. The pastor preached at each service and the church was almost filled at the morning and afternoon services and was completely filled at the night service. We were pleased with the presence of a male quartet from Guilford College, composed of Messrs. L. E. Thomas, G. A. Grantham, J. M. Brown and Rev. John C. Trivette. These brethren sang a number of selections at each of the three services, and their singing was immensely enjoyed and highly appreciated, and added much to the services. The Sunday school was well attended, there being 58 persons present, including 15 visitors.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Harmony Grove church is a live, progressive organization, and meets every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The meeting last night was conducted by Fred Ketner, and participated in by other members of the society. There are about 25 members of the society.

Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of St. Paul church, Greensboro, will arrive today, (Monday) and preach each night during the revival meeting at Harmony Grove church which is in progress.

The pastor and wife and young son enjoyed a very pleasant visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Norman in the Union Hill church community on Friday of last week. The occasion was the celebration of the 75th birthday anniversary of Bro. Norman. Only members of the family and a few friends and relatives attended the occasion. A sumptuous dinner was served. Those present in addition to the immediate family were: Mr. and Mrs. Turner Norman and two sons, Miss Cora Lee Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pardue and children, Mr. and Mrs.

Turner Apperson, Mr. Peter Apperson, Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Way and son, and Mr. Neal Hargrove. Miss Cora Lee Norman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman, who is pastor of a group of Friends churches in Alamance county, was accompanied to the home by Mr. Hargrove, also of Alamance county. Mr. Norman, the honored member of the family, Mrs. Norman and a single daughter, Miss Lora Norman, who lives with them, are members of the Friends church but are faithful attendants at Union Hill church.

The pastor and family desire to express their appreciation for the gift coming from the home of Bro. Hinson Webb and sisters, members of the M. E. Church, South, who reside in the Union Hill community and attend our church there.

Miss Martha Louise Speas, one of the young women of Pleasant Hill church, and daughter of Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Speas, entered N. C. C. W., Greensboro, September 12, as a student in the music department of the college. Her absence from church work here will be felt, as she was a valuable worker among the young people of Pleasant Hill church.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Baltimore church at 11 a. m., and Stony Knoll church at 3 p. m. The second Sunday will mark the beginning of our last round of appointments before the meeting of the Annual Conference.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Tabernacle, West Forsyth Sharge.—The women of Tabernacle church recently organized a Woman's Auxiliary. The following officers were elected: Mrs. R. P. Petree, president; Mrs. J. W. Masencup, vice-president; Miss Opal Whitman, secretary; Miss Ethel George, treasurer. At the first meeting of the organization Mrs. T. L. Speas, of Maple Springs church, presided. After the devotionals, interesting papers on "Sabbath Observance" and "Peace" were presented by Miss Opal Whitman and Miss Ethel George. After the business session, the meeting was adjourned.

OPAL WHITMAN.

First Church, High Point.—Sunday, September 27, was a red letter day for First church people in High Point. At 10:30 o'clock an unusually large concourse of people, including the Sunday school and its different departments, the two branches of the Junior church, and the adult congregation, thronged the auditorium of the church, filling every available pew with a number who found seats in the gallery. After the rendition of a program of three beautiful numbers by Prof. Ernest B. Stimson on the pipe organ, which has just been overhauled and reconditioned, the choir sang the familiar and popular anthem, "Fear Not, O Israel." The minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, greeted the audience with happy smiles, and after acknowledging gratefully the special efforts made by the committees from the Brotherhood and the Woman's Auxiliary, who made more than 500 contacts to insure this large attendance, spoke enthusiastically and eloquently on "Participation and Progress." He said that Rally Day is a "binding-together-again," and on the Christian's calendar every day should be rally day. In his challenge to this flock he used the four words of Jesus, Come, Follow, Abide, Go, as the slogan for next year. This year of grace, 1931-32 will be no dilly-dallying time for the church. The problems are too great and strenuous. A reliable statistician says that the average church is less than 50 per cent efficient. How will ours rank on a basis of attendance at morning and evening services and the Wednesday evening prayer service? The tragedy is that if you do nothing in the church, nothing will happen to you. I want to say that sacrifice for the church means more and brings more satisfaction than anything else. I want this church to have the spirit of discontent, for it will make us work. The Christian must grow participation in the work of the church, and we will learn by practice. Participation and activity bring progress. May we all resolve to come, to concentrate, and consecrate. After adjournment to the several class rooms of the Sabbath school, it was found that the attendance was 475, of which number 94 were in the Baraca class, and 45 in the Aunt Lizzie Welsh class.

At the evening service at 7:30 o'clock the following children presented a Scripture Rally Call; Doris Koonce, Polly Younts, Garnet Hinshaw, Eloise Cecile, Mary Anne Coe, Martha Haworth, Russell Payne, and Glenn Payne. The playlet, "A Boy Finds the Kingdom," was given by five young people, Misses Ina McAdams and Martha Moffitt, Robert Russell, Reginald Hinshaw and Yancey Cecil. A pantomime, "Take My Life," was portrayed by ten girls of the Junior Department, Misses Jean Rankin, Mary Elizabeth Farmer, Edith Vance, Pauline Kennett, Vera May Ferree, Hazel Boyd, Celeste Payne, Marie Koonce, Muriel Hilton, and Sibyl Fogleman. The attendance at this service was 200, and the minister is much gratified that our goal of 1,500 present was reached, counting attendance at both services.

Preparatory to the approaching annual election of officials for the coming year, the following committee met in the pastor's study Monday evening: Messrs. V. W. Idol, chairman, A. M. Rankin, Sr., D. A. Neese, R. H. Shaw and Mesdames Geo. T. Penny, R. T. Pickens and C. W. Vance to make out a list of names to be presented for the vote of the congregation.

Next Friday afternoon and evening, October 2nd, a Silver Tea will be given at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Penny by members of Circles 4 and 6 of the Woman's Auxiliary. Seven hundred invitations have been issued, and a large attendance is expected.

Next Sunday morning, October 4, the annual Thank-offering service will be observed. The message on this occasion, which is sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary, will be given by the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer.

Miss Louise Jennings, who is a student in Library Science at the University, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jennings.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. McPherson had as their guest over the week-end their son, Garland McPherson, of Burlington.

Mr. C. C. Robbins is spending a few days at his cottage at Paradise Point.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. H. U. Oakes, who has been ill, is improving, and is able to sit up today.

Postmaster O. R. York and family are spending some time at the Call cottage near North Wilkesboro, in the interest of his health. He was in High Point one day recently, and his friends were gratified to see him looking so well.

Mr. Spencer Jackson has bought an interest in a funeral home in Lexington, and will assume charge there in a few days. His wife was Miss Johnnie Oakes, is the popular and efficient secretary to Prof. L. R. Johnston, principal High Point School, and is one of the most loyal workers in First church. We are much pleased to know that she will not leave High Point before January 1st, and possibly not until after school closes next June.

Mr. Lester B. Teague, who will move to Sumter, S. C., in a few days, spent the past week-end here, returning Sunday evening to his new field.

The topic, "The Kingdom and Patience," will be discussed by Rev. Mr. Farmer at the mid-week prayer service on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Sheppard Ballard was leader of the Senior C. E. Society meeting Monday evening, and talked about "What Our Society Plans to Do This Year."

Calvary, Greensboro.—As the editor has already told you, we had 16 accessions the closing Sunday of our special meeting. It was one of the best meetings since I have been pastor. Brother Troxler preached the Gospel in all its simplicity and power. Much personal work was done with fine results. There will be several more additions to the membership as a result of the meeting.

Our booth at the Fair was a great success, the women folks clearing about $220. It was delightful to see the fine spirit of co-operation with which the work was carried on, everybody doing what he or she was asked to do willingly and cheerfully. The receipts this year were larger than any of the preceding years.

We were delighted to have Brother H. F. Surratt preach for us last Sunday night. The pastor was present and had the pleasure and privilege of hearing a good sermon.

This coming Sunday night we are to observe Rally Day. The program is being put on by some of the classes in the Sunday school. At the Sunday school session Promotion Day will be observed, and certificates awarded those who are to be promoted from one department to another. At the morning service the quarterly communion will be held, and the doors of the church opened for the reception of members.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

South Lexington.—Work is progressing nicely. We are endeavoring to end the year in good shape and go to Conference with the greatest report this church has ever sent in.

Our Sunday school is holding up well and our preaching services are also being well attended. On last Sunday the matter of a fall revival was brought up and it was decided that we would not have a fall revival owing to the fact that we had a spring revival here, and the Ham campaign was in progress during the summer.

On last Sunday evening we had our Rally Day service, which was attended by a large crowd, and all present seemed to enjoy the service very much. We held our regular services today and these were well attended. At the morning service Mr. A. S. Everhardt was received into the church by profession of faith.

We are working hard to get our quota for the Herald. Bro. J. J. Mallard is leading this drive to secure these subscriptions.

On Saturday evening the Ladies' Aid Society gave a supper at the church which was well attended and the ladies sold out everything they had prepared.

REPORTER.

Greensville, Hobbs Chapel.—We will have an all-day service here the second Sunday in October: Children's Day in the morning at 11 o'clock, and Pastor Hetheox will preach at the afternoon service. He is a very, very good preacher, and I'm sure you would enjoy the messages he brings. Come, bring your lunch and enjoy the day with us.

We would not forget to mention our meeting. Rev. R. C. Stubbins came Monday evening and did the preaching. He preached mostly to the church. He said it is as important to keep folks saved as it is to get them saved. It is the business of the church. This can be done by giving them something to do. He also stated that persons saved through the Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, and other activities of the church were worth more and would "hold out" longer than those usually "blown in" by a revival. They are folks that please God—those who attended church the year around. The children enjoyed the special services Mr. Stubbins conducted for them. Come our way, again, Bro. Stubbins.

Mr. Walter Hetheox conducted our song service, which was a great help to the organist. His solos were commended and enjoyed by all present.

Winston.—A busy time? It surely is a busy time just now, with so many, many things to get done. The new officers and teachers were elected Sunday before last with the exception of Sunday school superintendent; this office was filled Sunday when Mr. R. N. Hauser was elected. Mr. Hauser is a splendid worker and a year of progress is anticipated under his splendid leadership. To the retiring superintendent, Mr. F. D. Voss, we extend "thank you" for his many efforts and hard work during the past year. Some teachers are going out and others are taking their places. To those going out we wish to say they will be missed by all who have been continuously thrown with them; to those coming in we offer heartiest co-operation and Godspeed for a prosperous year, teaching the things, to those who have been entrusted to them, that will help each soul on its upward journey.

Promotion Day was very nicely planned and carried out. A number of children were promoted from each department. The superintendent of each department had a certificate for each of those leaving that department. The names were called and remarks made by the superintendent, the certificates were awarded and the receivers of them were presented to the superintendent of the department to which they were promoted.

First church was beautifully decorated on September 16th, symbolizing a very special event. Miss Ruby Sapp, one of our outstanding young women, became the bride of Mr. J. Howard Barnes, also of this city. The altar was arranged with palms, ferns, and baskets of cut dahlias, with two tall candelabras filled with white cathedral candles. Each candelabra held seven candles. Miss Pearl Sapp, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Ellen Wakefield and Miss Blanche Hanes were bridesmaids. Messrs. Roy Sapp and Lewis Barnes ushered. Mr. A. L. Barnes, brother of the groom, was best man. Mrs. J. B. Winecoff, of Greensboro, played the piano for this delightful occasion, and Miss Jacque Gwyn sang two selections. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Sapp, parents of the bride, graciously entertained the wedding party at their home on North Liberty street. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Barnes left by motor for Western North Carolina. Congratulations are extended to these newly-weds and hopes for much happiness and success.

Rev. N. M. Harrison brought the morning message on Sunday. The message was extremely helpful, and was enjoyed by all who attended. Mrs. Harrison worshiped with us, also. We were mighty glad to have her. Some had not met her and were very glad to do so; others knew her and saw her again with delight.

The Boosters' class had a delightful outing at the Demolay Shack, near the Walkertown road, Tuesday night. A class meeting was held and officers for the year elected. Then the group went into the yard and roasted weiners, toasted marshmallows, had cold drinks and a jolly good time. Mr. S. E. Hauser and Mrs. J. E. Kirk chaperoned, and nearly 30 young people attended.

On next Sunday morning a service is to be held honoring Rev. J. F. McCulloch, the faithful editor of our Methodist Protestant Herald, that we enjoy reading so much. We understand that Mr. McCulloch has been editing this paper for 37 years. His coming to our church is being looked forward to with much enthusiasm. Several other noted people are to be present, the guests of First church.

PAULINE BRANSON, Reporter.

Concord.—Our Sunday school attendance was very good Sunday. The average attendance has been over 300 this month. The Beginners' Department was the only star class Sunday. Every member appreciates this department and the fine work the ladies are doing there. The Cradle Roll class is doing fine work, too.

Mr. Millaway preached as usual at the 11 o'clock service. The Scripture lesson was found in Proverbs, the text being "There is a way which seemeth good in the sight of men, but the end of this way is death." Many interesting points were brought out and the message was as manna from heaven. The kind of manna which feeds our souls throughout the week.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Fant was held at the church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Fant was before her marriage Miss Mary Searboro, the daughter of the late Mr. W. H. and Mrs. Searboro. She had been a member of this church for a number of years. She lived a sweet, consecrated, Christian life and made many friends. There was about this good woman the spirit of the Master. She was known for her smiles and cheerfulness. Her smiles have cheered many hearts and the memory of her will always be sweet to us. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor and Rev. T. F. Fogleman of the McGill Street Baptist church.

The Rev. Mr. Culp, from Asheville, was with us for the evening service and preached at this hour. We hope he will visit us again. Another enjoyable feature of the evening service was the selections from the quartet composed of Mr. L. M. Williams, Mr. Wensil, Mr. Cleaver and Mr. Clanton. We always enjoy hearing these men sing.

We ask the prayers for our church and the work here.

First Church, Albemarle.—Last Sunday was observed as Rally Day in our church. The Sunday school hour was taken up with classification, as we have not had our Sunday school graded and could not promote this year. However, if our plans work out successfully, next year we will have a regular promotion day.

At the 11 o'clock service Mr. Ray Ballard sang as a solo, "He Lifted Me." This number was very beautifully rendered. Mr. Curry used as his subject, "To every man his place." Text, Judge 7:21. "And they stood up every man in his place round about the camp." Mr. Curry pointed out many helpful thoughts. He proved to us that every man, regardless of the fact that he came from a home high and holy or one which was humble and lowly, has a definite place to fill in this world.

Sunday evening the children, under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Hatley and Mrs. A. A. Wagner, gave a Rally Day program, after which Rev. Mr. Curry gave several brief remarks concerning Rally Day.

REPORTER.

State Street, Lexington.—Our church work is going well in all branches and we are hoping to be able to finish the year's program in a creditable way. The pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, delivered a fine address Sunday morning. The subject was one of vast importance, that of living a safe example for those whom we influence to follow.

A flare-up of scarlet fever and subsequent quarantining has brought down our attendance somewhat and we have had some other sickness among our people, too, but considering these facts our congregations have held up well.

There was a meeting of the Workers' Council Sunday evening at which various plans and discussions for the betterment of the Sunday school and the work of the church in general were talked over and some definite measures decided upon that we hope will be very beneficial.

Last Sunday night brought to a close the union preaching services which have been held in the tabernacle since the close of the Ham revival campaign. The services have been great in every respect. All denominations have joined in attending these meetings and helped in any and every way possible and all have been helped by the fellowship and united effort. The entire town is grateful to Mr. J. T. Hedrick for his generosity in buying the tabernacle and giving it over to the ministers of the town for these union services for the past two months. When the building is disposed of the proceeds will go to the united charities of the town.

In a brief address Sunday night Mr. Hedrick urged all to go back to their respective church's next Sunday night 100 per cent strong.

Next Sunday our Rally Day program will be given and promotion of Sunday school pupils will also be observed. There will be interesting features of several kinds, one of which will be church roll call. A full attendance is urged and hoped for.

We are glad to note that Mrs. J. C. Myers, Miss Clara Tayloe and J. D. Leonard, all of whom have been ill, are recovering. J. D. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Leonard, one of our most faithful large families, and his case of scarlet fever and the inevitable quarantine made quite a vacancy at church services.

REPORTER.

St. Paul, Greensboro.—The first Sunday in September was Rally Day. A large attendance, both morning and evening. Everybody brought a well filled basket and dinner was put on the table and served in picnic style. Four different quartets furnished music for the day. Our pastor, Rev. D. I. Garner, preached a short sermon at the 11 o'clock service and had our church treasurer to call the roll of all the members and each one was to answer by going up and giving whatever amount of money they felt like giving. There was right much given and pledged which will help out at this time. In the afternoon Rev. C. W. Bates, of Calvary church, preached for us and in every way we feel that it was a good day and hope to make each day a better day.

Our pastor was away last Sunday night helping in a meeting and Mr. D. R. Morgan preached in his place. Next Sunday, the first Sunday in October, our pastor starts a revival at St. Paul which he is planning to carry on for two weeks.

As the Conference year is coming to a close we feel that there is a lot to do before we can say that we are ready as we are somewhat behind financially.

Jean, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Oaks, was able to be at Sunday school yesterday after being seriously sick two weeks ago with membranous croup.

Choir practice every Tuesday night with C. E. Wilson leader. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Our Ladies' Aid will elect new officers at our next meeting and have the yearly report of our society at this meeting.

MRS. J. S. WADE, Reporter.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—Our Sunday school seems to be growing in attendance. There were 137 on roll Sunday. The classes of young men and young women now have on a special drive to get new members in the Sunday school. Rev. H. L. Powell will preach at Spring Hill Sunday evening at 3 o'clock. We are always glad to have visitors.

Our C. E. Society met Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, with Miss Jessie Garner as leader. After the program was over the society went in a group to West End M. P. church in Thomasville to attend their C. E. meeting. They gave an interesting program and we feel as if our society was benefited in hearing their program.

One of our most faithful members, Miss Vina Cecil, has been sick for some time. We are hoping that she will soon be well again and back in the service.

The revival meeting at Spring Hill will begin the third Sunday in October. Rev. O. C.

Loy will be Bro. Powell's help. Pray that we may have a successful meeting.

The Ladies' Aid will meet at Mrs. H. F. Jones' home Saturday afternoon. The people of the community are invited of go and take supper. Mrs. Jones has been shut in for some time and is always glad to see visitors.

REPORTER.

Harmony, Yarbrough Charge.—The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the church Saturday, September 26, at 3 o'clock. A very interesting program was rendered on the subject, "Christian Citizenship." Two new members were added to our society, these being Misses Oree and Bernice Page.

Our pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome, filled his appointment with us Sunday. On Sunday evening he preached to the young people from the subject, "God's Plans for My Life." This was an inspiring message in which he stated that God had a plan for every life and urged each one to find his or her plan and follow it.

An ice cream supper was held at the church Saturday evening. This was mostly a community affair and was enjoyable as well as beneficial to the church. The proceeds amounted to about $16. This will be used to help pay for covering the church. We are hoping to have the work completed this week.

REPORTER.

Kernersville.—After having been on this charge for nearly 11 months we have gotten together some historical facts about this noted charge that has placed a question mark in the minds of most preachers in our Conference. First, it is composed of four churches, all well located. However, Ai and Sandy Ridge are being encroached upon by other denominations, not strong in numbers but, nevertheless, not conducive to our growth.

The membership of all churches is composed of good financial groups. The most menacing thing in the way of its success is the "it-thing ears" of many of its constituents, as evidenced by its short pastorates. I am told that within the last 14 years 11 men have served the charge, as follows: Powell, 1; Lindley, 3; Isley, H. L., 1; Edwards, 1; Spencer, 1; Morgan and Porter, both in one year; Suits, 1; Lowdermilk, 2; Cranford, 2; Reed, 1. You will notice this charge has had, during these years, some of our best men, the writer excepted. This fact, I am sure, does not represent the majority of the best element of the charge, but is the result, we think, of local domination. However, it is understood that the present incumbent will stay as long as he wants to. We have found some of the real salt of the earth on this charge and they would like to change the record that has been made if they could. Many of the good people of the charge have remembered us repeatedly in a substantial way, for which we are profoundly grateful.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held at Pine Grove church on Saturday before the third Sunday in October at 2 p. m. Let all churches take notice that regardless of whether your church is represented or not that what the conference does will be binding to all churches on the charge.

Pastors and S. S. Superintendents

Next Sunday is the first Sunday. Most of our Sunday school offerings are made on the first Sunday in each month. We have 100 children in school. School supplies and shoes have to be bought for each of them, and must be bought at once. Please see that each Sunday school sends us a good offering next Monday unless your school has set some other Sunday. We thank you.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Messrs. J. T. Richardson, C. R. Bevil, H. R. Troxler, Lacy Wagoner, and R. P. Stanfield, at Haw River Circuit, 10 bushels pears.

Mrs. H. J. McGowan, Tacoma Park, Md., 4 pair shoes, 7 dresses, 9 ties, 3 hats, 3 pieces of underwear and 3 coat-hangers.

Mrs. Moses Garvis, Pleasantville, N. J., 6 pair pants, 2 shirts, 4 pieces underwear, 6 pairs for little boys, 5 pair stockings, 4 dresses and 1 bureau scarf.

Miss Cleo Harrell, East Bend, N. C., 6 half-gallon jars pickles.

These are helpful offerings, and we thank those who sent them.

Other Donations Are on the Way

We are looking forward to the coming of many other donations of substance which have already been promised. Several circuits are collecting their donations. Again we say, please do not buy things to send us; but send us the money you would spend, however small. We need the money. Also, please do not send us high-heeled ladies' shoes. Our growing girls cannot wear them.

We fully appreciate any good clothing that may be sent either for boys or girls, but we cannot use baby clothing nor adult women's high-heeled shoes.

We thank you, and may God bless each of you.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

N. B.: Please, everybody, send us good offerings during October. And then get ready for Thanksgiving. Thank you. A. G. D.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Spoon

On a peaceful Sabbath morning, September 13, 1931, the immortal spirit of Mrs. M. C. Spoon, of Asheboro, N. C., took its flight from the cares and responsibilities of this world to enter into the joys of life celestial.

Mrs. Spoon was a valuable member of our auxiliary and we offer this tribute of love to her memory. We shall miss her from our meetings and other church services. She was of a cheerful disposition, courageous, industrious and faithful.

Her husband and one daughter awaited her beyond the Great Divide, and three daughters and four grandchildren survive.

May the memory of her life be an incentive to all who knew her to strive for a higher and nobler life in loyalty to the Christ she loved.

ESTHER ROSS,

Pres. Woman's Auxiliary.

Garrett

Arthur Albright Garrett passed from this life September 26, 1931, being 51 years, one month and one day old. He united with Tabernacle Methodist Protestant church on profession of faith September 10, 1916, and was a member of this church at the time of his death. His widow, Mrs. Ora Hackett Garrett, and seven children, four sons and three daughters, survive: C. R., G. O., J. F., W. F., and Misses Beulah, Kate and Alline. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Garrett, his parents, and three brothers also survive.

The funeral was held at Tabernacle church last Sunday afternoon, September 27, by Revs. W. F. Ashburn, T. E. McCulloch and the writer. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

May the Lord comfort the bereaved.

Gardner

Mrs. Vesti Gardner, widow of the late John Y. Gardner, died at her home in the Paint Fork section of Madison county, September 21, 1931, after a long illness of several months. Mrs. Gardner, who was nearing her 78th birthday, was born November 17, 1853. She was one of the most loyal and devoted members of the Methodist Protestant church, and one of the most outstanding examples of Christian motherhood that the community had ever known.

The deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs. Martha Gardner, of Paint Fork; three daughters: Mrs. Elberet Gillis (Lily), Paint Fork; Mrs. Tom Ray (Cora), Waverly; Mrs. Zeb Angel (Lizzie), Ivy; and five sons: Dr. Garrett D. Gardner, West Asheville; John W. Gardner, Mars Hill; Hubert B. Gardner, Hendersonville; Carl K. Gardner, Paint Fork, and Gay W. Gardner, Hendersonville. One son, Grover Cleveland Gardner and one daughter, Mrs. Sam W. Angel (Sue), died several years ago. She is survived by twenty-four grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, September 22. Officiating ministers were the Rev. Homer Casto, superintendent of the Bethel Home, Weaverville; the Rev. E. G. Cowan, pastor of First Methodist Protestant church, Weaverville, and the Rev. Robert Wyatt, Baptist minister of Paint Fork. Interment was in the family cemetery near the Gardner homestead.

Granddaughters of Mrs. Gardner were flower bearers. The following grandsons acted as pallbearers: Merel Gardner, Kenneth Gardner, Carl Lee Gardner, John Gillis, Grover L. Angel and Arnold Angel.

The large number of people who came to pay their last tribute of respect and the vast number of floral offerings attested the fact that Mrs. Gardner was well known and beloved by all who knew her.

The church and the community has lost a faithful and an honored member, the home and family a loving patient, and kind mother, who will be greatly missed. We feel very deeply our loss, but we bow in humble submission to His will, who is too wise to err, and too good to be unkind.

God led her home to live again

Beyond this vale of tears,

For through the toils and cares of life

She'd followed closely all her years.

And now her soul has found its rest;

A crown to her is given!

She left our love and went with Christ

To be at home in heaven.

—Grover L. Angel.

McIntyre

On August 12th, 1931, at 9:30 in the morning, God in His infinite love and wisdom called our faithful member, Mrs. F. R. McIntyre, to her reward. She was a sincere, zealous worker in our Master's service, always cheerful, hopeful and helpful in any and every phase of our work. May her life of loyalty to Christ be an incentive to higher and nobler living to all who knew her.

We, the members of the Auxiliary of the Methodist Protestant church of Asheville, N. C., hold her in loving remembrance. Therefore, Be it Resolved:

First, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband, sons, daughters, their families and all other relatives, and commend them to the Heavenly Father who was her stay and comfort through life.

Second, that we ever cherish the remembrance of her faithfulness and devotion and may we be inspired to follow the precepts of the Master who was ever her friend and guide.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, to the church paper, to the Missionary Record, also recorded in the minutes of our society.

MRS. G. O. YOUNGINER,

MRS. RALPH BEACHAM,

MRS. C. C. McNEIL.

Resolutions of Respect

On July 15th, after a brief illness, the soul of Henry Clay Mathews passed to its eternal reward. Since moving to Enfield, a number of years ago, he has been a devoted, consistent member of the Enfield Methodist Protestant church. He was one of the most regular attendants at all church services, and his bright, cheery presence was an inspiration to pastor and people. His home was noted for its spirit of friendliness and hospitality, and here many ministers and church workers were entertained.

His married life was an ideal, happy one.

Many years of congenial companionship and devotion were shown by him and his devoted companion, who preceded him to the grave several years ago.

In deploring the passing of this fine Christian gentleman, the members of the Methodist Protestant church do hereby resolve:

That the gentle spirit of this kindly Christian man and his genial presence will be greatly missed by the members of this congregation;

That the membership of this church has sustained a great loss, but we believe that after many fruitful years he has entered into his reward;

That we extend to the members of his family our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement;

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, to the Methodist Protestant Herald and to the Progress.

MARY COLLINS,

ELI I. BELLAMY,

J. R. POWERS,

R. C. RIVES,

Committee.

Carter

Griffith Jefferson Carter was born September 2, 1853, and passed to his reward September 4, 1931. In the absence of his pastor he was buried by Rev. E. G. Cowan, pastor of the Weaverville church.

Brother Carter is survived by four sons and four daughters, all of them being active members in the church.

He was a loyal member of Pleasant Gap M. P. church since 1875, and was delegate to the Annual Conference for many years and a great defender of what seemed to him to be right.

We who are left behind must strive to meet him in the great beyond.

J. ADRIAN THOMPSON.

THE BURDEN BEARER

Unknown to those who lie on beds of ease, Misunderstood by empty-minded fools, Forgotten 'mid the clash of human wills, She bears her burden through the thankless day.

The pangs of suffering that once were hers, Are now intensified by sorrow's heavy hand, The care-lined face a poignant story tells Of unrequited labor spent in vain.

No turning back, alas, it is too late.

The die is cast, and so relentless time,

With many golden dreams still unfulfilled, Drives ever on through drab and toilsome task,

Nor gives surcease from labor's leaden load, No respite from the strain and stress of life, But on one long-sought day of sweet release, The burden bearer lays her burden down.

—Graville Kleiser.

Mr. Herbert L. Coe, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coe, of Calvary church, was married September 15th to Miss Helen Carhart, of Wilkinsburg, Pa. On their wedding trip, which included quite a number of interesting and historical places in the South, they spent last week with Mr. Coe's parents, who live at 803 East Bragg street, this city. Mr. Coe is an electrical engineer and is employed by the Carnegie Steel Company, of Steubenville, Ohio, at which place they will make their home.

This report is for two weeks. Receipts have been so little and so few that I have been ashamed to publish them weekly. Annual conference is just around the corner and we have a long way to go if we do as well as we did last year. I know times are hard, but we should not forget that the Lord still lives and He is just as gracious and merciful as He has ever been. Imagine, if you can what our condition would be if the Lord were not alive. Such times as these test men's souls. How is your soul standing the test? In due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

GEO. R. BROWN, Treasurer.

—Bro. R. N. Barber, of Mt. Zion, is dead.

—Bro. Lucian Pugh, of Williams Dairy, had a rib broken by a goring bull. He is a strong man and saved himself from more serious injury.

—A mob gathered about Guilford county jail last night to lynch a negro for the murder of a nine-year-old white girl, Vera Leonard, but the criminal had been taken to Raleigh after confessing his guilt. It is to be hoped the course of the law will be followed.

My Good Shepherd

A wandering sheep, I went astray,
My Shepherd's voice would not obey:
With loving tones He followed me,
To make me all my danger see.

I wandered far in danger's ways
And came to want ere many days:
My Shepherd found me weak and sore,
In loving arms He gently bore.

He brought me to the fold again,
He saved me from the lion's den;
He led me out to pastures green—
By purling brooks to life serene.

He saved me from my wander-lust,
In Him I've learned to put my trust.
His presence fills with deep content,
To do His will I'm fully bent.

What Is An Individual?

The dictionary tells, but we do not all study the dictionary. We call ourselves individuals without knowing precisely what we mean. An individual is an indivisible, it cannot be resolved into two or more like itself. It is a primary unit of its kind. A human body is an individual; it cannot be divided into two human bodies. A human soul is also an individual. Individuals may be simple or complex to any degree of complexity. The human body is a very complex individual. We do not know so well about the human soul. The body is destructible, its existence is temporary. The soul has or may acquire immortality through the gift of God in Christ. So far as we know no two individuals are exactly alike. Each one seems to be given a peculiar character and no two individuals, unless it be among the very simple, are interchangeable. Each is made in relation to the whole, to fill a place and act a part in the whole. The universe is wonderfully made of innumerable individuals. You have an importance in the sight of God that you perhaps do not realize. Each individual man should be deeply concerned to fill his own place and do his own work.

—Rev. H. L. Isley assisted Rev. T. A. Williams in a very successful meeting at New Salem last week. The church had a good increase in membership.

—The Gray's Chapel people enjoyed the preaching of Rev. C. W. Bates in their revival meeting. A report of the meeting by the pastor is expected next week.

Vain to Defy Death

Dr. Hall lived in New York City and published a health journal. He taught that people may live a century and said that he expected to do so. He fell dead on a street of the city at about the age of sixty. Mr. Edison was recently quoted as saying that he would live ten years more. Now his physicians are saying that he can live only a short time. Most people have their minds set on long life, but nobody has strong assurance of it. Death will have its way with us. Instead of practically ignoring the danger of death we would better be in the habit of recognizing it and being constantly prepared for its coming. Death is not a dreadful event to those prepared for it, but to those not prepared for it it is inconceivably dreadful. "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

—Rev. J. E. Pritchard gave the 11 o'clock service last Sunday to a meeting designed to boost the religious press. He gave special recognition to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD and its editor for which we thank him. The speakers were Dr. S. W. Taylor, president of our Annual Conference, Dr. A. W. Plyler, editor of the N. C. Christian Advocate, Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the N. C. Branch, Women's Work, and Mr. Sanford Martin, editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel. All contributed worthily to the furtherance of Brother Pritchard's main purpose. Brother Pritchard has been uniformly successful in extending the circulation of the church paper and grows more and more successful as the years pass. His church this year has one subscriber to every 4 1-2 members. Two of his congregation (Brother and Sister Pegram) have been subscribers and readers of the HERALD from the beginning, 37 years ago. Winston people are to be commended for co-operating so well with their pastor in all the work of the church.

—The cry of "hard times" has not kept Tabernacle church from going forward. A year ago they decided to build a Sunday School building. They have it completed and paid for, a splendid building, and last Sunday they dedicated it with an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley. The Tabernacle people are to be especially commended for building in such a time as this. So-called hard times become easy times to those who have faith in God and devotion to His cause.

—Asheboro and Spencer bloom out into capitals this week in the table of subscription goals. They both look better, thanks to friends at both places.

—England is having trouble with some of her unemployed people. They feel aggrieved because their dole has been reduced from what it was last year.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AFTER

An Appraisal of the Laymen's Missionary Movement

By CORNELIUS H. PATTON, D.D.

Most timely is the suggestion that on Sunday, Nov. 15, or on some convenient adjacent date, the churches of the various denominations celebrate the 25th anniversary of the organization of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The time is ripe for a revival of lay activity and initiative in behalf of missions at home and abroad. No one feels this more than the pastors of our more enterprising and forward looking churches. The movement which invented the Every Member Canvass and the Church Budget, and which, under God, was instrumental in aligning tens of thousands of business men in missionary belief and activity, which in hundreds of churches re-inforced pastoral leadership by bringing to bear upon the problems of the church the brain-power and enthusiasm of practically minded business and professional men, the enterprise which, as we see it today, inaugurated a new era of missionary incentive and support, such a movement, we must hold, if once more given a prominent place in our counsels and programs may well prove the means of leading us out of the present wilderness of criticism, hesitation and receding devotion on the part of many in the church.

When those splendid laymen of 25 years ago met in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church of New York for conference and prayer over the missionary situation, it was under the pressure of the idea that the world had swung into a new position of missionary opportunity and demand. The inciting occasion was the celebration at Williamstown, Mass., of the centennial of the famous Haystack Prayer meeting, when a group of Williams College students, under the leadership of Samuel J. Mills, in the act of prayer pledged their lives to Christian service in foreign lands, thereby launching one of the great onward movements in the history of the church. It was felt that the time had come when the laymen of the church, as such, should stand by the cause of world evangelization in an organized and aggressive way; that if the church was to enter into the new opportunities in a large and hopeful manner, there would be needed the mobilization of the lay element in the church membership of every denomination.

I have been re-reading the minutes of that New York meeting, and I find that preceding the enacting resolutions were statements like these:

"Whereas, In the marvelous Providence of God the one-hundredth anniversary of the beginnings of the American Foreign Missionary Movement finds the doors of every nation open to the gospel message, and

"Whereas, The machinery of the Missionary Boards, Women's Boards, Student and Young People's Missionary Movements is highly and efficiently organized, and

"Whereas, The greatly increased participation of the present generation of responsible business and professional men is essential to the widest and most productive use of the existing missionary agencies, and is equally vital to the growth of the spiritual life at home, and

"Whereas, In the management of large business and political responsibilities such as men have been greatly used and honored,

"Therefore be it Resolved, etc."

These were not idle words,—“just one more set of resolutions.” They were drawn up and signed by men of weight and importance in the business and professional world. Here are some of the names: Wm. J. Schieffelin, Moraney Williams, Samuel B. Capen (who became the first chairman), John B. Sleman, Jr. (who was the original suggestor of the movement), S. W. Woodward, John R. Mott, J. Campbell White (who became the first secretary), Robert E. Speer, Eben Olcott. Moreover, these laymen did a great deal of praying on that occasion. When Mr. Capen returned to Boston and informed me of what had happened, he said in effect, “We listened to Campbell White as he told of the Mass Movements toward Christianity in India and the extraordinary progress of Christianity in that land, and were so profoundly moved that someone proposed we should give ourselves to prayer. As a matter of fact we didn't do much else but pray. I never have attended such a meeting in my life. It was the Haystack affair moved to New York. The next day, as soon as we assembled, we organized not a society but a movement, and it will bear the name THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT. It will be inter-denominational but will seek to place behind the various boards the loyal and intelligent support of the men of the churches.” Such was the spirit of the meeting and the temper of the men.

Moreover, the resolutions of November 15, 1906, hold the endorsement of more than a decade of fruitful service. The conventions of the L. M. M. were held in the leading cities of the United States and Canada and in multitudes of smaller places. It had the courage—shall I say the audacity?—to make those conventions self-supporting by charging a fee for admission. “What! expect men to pay for attending a missionary meeting! Preposterous!” Well, they did, and that in astonishing numbers. Then came a series of constructive measures. More courage; more audacity. When Campbell White proposed that the only way to support missions church-wise was to make a house-to-house canvass of the parish, and to have the canvass conducted by lawyers, bankers, judges, and business men of large affairs and wide reputation, some of us gasped. “It can't be done; they never will volunteer for service like that.” But the thing was done and in a few years the “E. M. C.” became the accepted method of finance in every progressive church. Attest the fact that, whereas in many churches the trustees at first opposed the plan as calculated to advance missions at the expense of parish support, they ended by asking to have their budget taken into the band-wagon of the missionary enterprise. And so we came to have the single budget and the unification of all giving in the church. As to whether or not this last step was a gain, opinions differ. But let us hand the palm to the laymen of 25 years ago for inventing a device which no minister would have dared suggest. When the World War came, and with it the great drives for the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and for Liberty Bonds, the E. M. C. idea was taken over bodily from the church and applied on a community scale. In those days the Y. M. M. was a living sermon from the text, “O ye of little faith.”

Why was all this given up? Alas! in 1919 it was decided, after long debate, to merge the L. M. M. in the Inter-church World Movement, with the result that the incentive of this great enterprise was lost in the wreck of the attempt to capitalize for beneficence the solidarity, the enthusiasm, the idealism of the war period, already on the wane.

When this action of the National Committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in New York was learned by the Central Division Committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement with headquarters in Chicago, a protracted debate ensued. Opposition to a merger with the Inter-Church World Movement was so pronounced that it required four continued sessions of the meeting at which this matter was given consideration. Finally a unanimous agreement was reached with the adoption of the following resolutions: "Resolved, that the Central Division Committee suspend activities and appoint a Committee on Resumption which will be in readiness to undertake its task as soon as the time may be propitious."

This Committee on Resumption met from time to time, and called a conference in May, 1922, which was attended by 80 laymen and 40 ministers and board secretaries, representing 19 denominations. The conference voted to resume activities, but the reorganized committee was hindered in getting under way until 1927.

During the past four years these enterprising laymen, with reinforcements from Boston to San Francisco, and New Orleans to Charlottetown, P. E. L., have entered the field, revived the old name, and sought to conserve the old spirit. This group of men felt deeply that such a passion, such an achievement, must not be allowed to pass from sight. They believed that ways must be found for conserving the best elements of the L. M. M. of 1906-1919.

We are living today in a new world of opportunity and peril. The war has drawn a sharp line through the history and program of every political and social institution. The cause of Christian Internationalism (which is the cause of Foreign Missions) has been affected in notable ways. A new generation has come upon the scene. New attitudes are being formed. New theories prevail. There is a new layman to be enlisted, and he has the chance of the ages. If a considerable number of influential churches should utilize the anniversary on November 15, aligning their laymen for mission study and mission support, there may, almost certainly there will, emerge a demand for organization on a national scale.

In the briefest possible form I will attempt to state what appears to me to be the conditions of success in any attempt to rally our Christian laymen to a new and effective support of missions.

1. By reading, study, discussion, they must be made intelligent upon world conditions as these affect the prospects of Christ. Where are we in the progress of the Kingdom? What are the new forces, favorable and unfavorable, with which we have to deal? What changes are demanded in missionary attitude, theory and procedure? What are the demands of stewardship in a day like this? Unless our laymen will contribute brains as well as money, their consecration will not avail. As Mr. J. H. Oldham, of the International Missionary Council, once remarked, "In the Church, as in the political realm, the future lies with the man who thinks."

2. The new movement, like the old, should be interdenominational, strictly so. It should not be split up into affiliated denominational movements for men. In my opinion, the old L. M. M. was seriously weakened by the denominations taking up the idea on their own account. The result was that in many cases our business men were allowed to visualize the work as denominational propaganda. Thus the larger incentive was lost. That our laymen should be loyal to the boards of their respective communions goes without saying. The existing boards should be recognized and utilized as the first charge upon their interest and generosity. But always with the Kingdom plans and the Kingdom interests in view. The laymen of today have it in their power to re-enforce immeasurably the conception of missions as the enterprise of a steadily unifying church, one direction, at least, in which we can dispose our forces for the success of Christianity as a whole.

Another consideration is the advantage of a strictly interdenominational movement in respect to freedom from the network of restrictions and relationships which characterize our purely denominational efforts. I am not objecting to these; for the most part they are necessary; within their sphere they are of great value; but there should be room for the free movement and initiative of unecclesiastical groups. If the laymen of the various denominations are allowed to do their own thinking and their own planning, every board should be the gainer. The genius of our business men has not been exhausted by the invention of the Budget and the Every-Member-Canvass.

3. There is a demand for more intensive work in the realm of adult missionary education than the old-time convention method makes possible. Big conventions may still have their value, but I think the emphasis should be placed upon the reaching of smaller and more influential groups. I have in mind particularly the drawing together of select groups of prominent business men, men who, by the nature of the case constitute a class by themselves, and whose opinions and example carry greater weight. Also the officers of our local churches. I have never understood why missionary agencies do not seek to deal with church officials by themselves. After all these men and women as our standard-bearers, are responsible for the policy of the church. Without them it is well-nigh impossible to carry the congregation; with them great improvement might be made. Why not a convention in each city of church officials, including, by all means, the trustees of the parish.

4. Our laymen must, and certainly will rise above the present timidity in respect to appealing for money. They are dealing with money all the time; they are not afraid to ask for it when a good cause comes along. They are not given to apologizing for budgets. They are not afraid of the word promotion. They know that quick results can be secured when quick work is to be done. They believe that money, as the expression of personality, is sacred. They realize that in the cause of Christ it can be made immortal. Our boards are suffering for lack of a courageous business attitude in respect to money.

5. Finally, in my opinion, our laymen will be free of the timidity of present-day theological speculation. They will want a motive and a message that ring with the faith and the optimism of Jesus. It is inconceivable that they will fall in with the idea that Christianity is but one among many religions of the world, or that the ultimate religion is to be a blend of existing faiths. The Christianity which is based upon the personality and message of Christ they will consider not only better but best. They will want to think of missions as the giving of the best—God's best—to a suffering world. A sympathetic approach to the peoples of other faiths, a glad and generous recognition of high and permanent values in other religions—yes, by all means. But your reality-loving Christian business man, if he is to back a world movement for Christ, is likely to do so because he believes the religion of Christ to be supreme and final. In recent scholarly work there is this statement of the philosophy of modern missions: "Today we think of the missionary process as the co-operative endeavor of idealists of all nations to produce, through the motive of a social religion, an ennobled and friendly human society of varied and mutually contributing cultures." While there is a good deal in these words to challenge interests and a measure of assent, I doubt if they will appeal to the average layman as an adequate statement of the case. Certainly there was a more compelling motive than this on November 15, 1906, when those laymen met and prayed and organized for Christ in the Fifth Avenue Church.

WASTED WORDS AND HOW THEY AFFECT YOU

By GOYA GILBRETH

Somebody has coined the expression, "strong silent men," but few of us have pondered its significance and glimpsed the unrevealed possibilities it offers. We admire the type described as strong and silent, but it never occurs to us that strength is the result of silence, an accumulation of dynamics that was not dissipated in useless speech. We might ridicule the monk who has taken the vow of silence, call him mad, but there is truly method in his madness. He is utilizing one of the greatest laws of the universe, and aspiring, even though in an unbalanced manner, to acquire added power and vision. The law might operate much more quickly and effectively if the monk took a vow only to speak when speech is necessary.

We have been taught since the dawn of historical times that the Word is creative. But during all these thousands of years we have misunderstood the teaching, and consequently have failed to glean an idea of the power which the gods could and would place at our disposal if we were wise enough to use it without injury to ourselves and our fellow man.

The Word might be called a spiritual form of dynamite. The wise use it creatively and constructively, the foolish destructively. We know as little on the whole about the deeper meaning of speech and silence as children know about the purifying and transforming power of fire as used by the scientist. If the world is ever to become aware of our individual existence here among men we have to become alchemists in the highest sense of the word, and transform our baser metals into gold, or power. The elimination of unnecessary words and conversations is the beginning of this process.

An example of the devitalizing effects of too much talking is observed on women's faces upon their return from tea parties. They sallied forth expectantly, enthusiastically, and returned fagged, irritable, out of harmony. And why? They have indulged in an orgy of talking. They have dissipated more energy and power than their bodies and souls are able to replenish on short notice. Like children they have played with forces about which they are totally ignorant. They toyed with vibration, sound, color, rhythm, the very laws of creation itself. They spent their energy and vitality in the same fashion as a Casanova, except that they lacked the excuse of a great passion or a great love.

The time may not be far off when useless speech will be as severely condemned as other riotous and wasteful dissipations of the powers which a wise providence bestowed upon us. Nobody hesitates to criticize the person who throws away good food when the world is full of hungry people, nor the man who stays out all night drinking and carousing, disabling himself for the task of wage-earning the next day. But we allow the tea-drinking, gossiping sweethearts, wives and mothers to pursue their course of destruction.

If we are to become a strong race and nation we must sooner or later cease emitting useless sounds. The ear drums of the universe must ache from the impact of cross vibrations and currents set up by chattering humanity. Not a word can be spoken without causing a disturbance of the ether, thereby necessitating constant readjustment of all space.

Strangely enough many of our greatest men come out of the silent places of the earth, from the peaceful village and the countryside. There, through their tranquil and reflective communing with space and time, they lay in a store of force and power which later enables them to conquer in battles, in politics, in finance, even to reconstruct the history of nations. And perhaps it is chance which makes many men great, the fate which allowed them to be born far from the discord and noise of men and cities. The solitudes made them into magicians, geniuses, by pouring down upon them day and night the undiluted cosmic vibrations which energized and vitalized them, made them into dynamic thinkers and forceful participants in life.

Those who dwell in cities cannot flee to the countryside in order to acquire these unique and magnificent gifts, but they may ponder at length upon the laws of rhythm and vibration, and cease indulging in the speech that upsets these laws and invisibly but surely destroys budding power and greatness. The expression of envy, gossip, slander, anger, as well as countless other things, is a drain upon our resources. Each useless and futile word is a tiny poisoned arrow which flies out into the unknown, looks about for a convenient something to destroy, finds nothing so worthy of destruction as the being who released it, and so wisely, according to law, returns home.

For the next hour listen to those about you. Now try to listen to yourself. Are your words merely space fillers? Do you repeat only what a thousand others have said a thousand times? For one day say only those things you know really express your thoughts and feelings. The result will be new stimulation.

It is sometimes an apparently trivial and insignificant detail which alters the course of our destinies, so details are important in the grand plan of the universe. And even though we imagine our thoughtless words negligible, perhaps they are not so. And perhaps there would be many more truly great and worthwhile people if there were more silent people. For silence brings power, and power brings greatness.

THE INSULT OF UNBELIEF

A faithful Christian neighbor was telling over again to a friend the truth of Christ's completed work, and the friend always replied, "Yes, but I've got to do my part." The latter had just delivered a gate that he had made to the order of the former. The Christian said: "Well, John, I will fix up the gate and make it all right. It needs some additional work that I shall have to do. Leave it. I'll work on it." But the gate-builder remonstrated. "I never heard the like! You never treated my work like that before. I finished the gate. I defy any man to prove that it's not finished." And then the believing took up the word and said: "Well, John, I was only trying to point out to you about the 'finished work of Christ.' You must now see how He feels because you do not believe Him that His work for you is 'done and forever done.' You can't add to it. It dishonors Him even to think of that." "Oh, I see it!" cried the other. "The Lord forgive me. I'll not disbelieve any more. I do not dare add a bit to what He has done. I am now happy."—From a Gospel Tract.

LOOKING BACKWARD

I have in my possession a copy of the proceedings of the Thirty-Ninth Session of the North Carolina Annual Conference held in Bess Chapel Church, November the 9th, 1864. It was printed by A. W. Ingold & Co., Greensboro, N. C.

There were twenty pastoral charges then, and many of them had from two to three delegates, or representatives. Among the lay members are found such familiar names as L. W. Bachelor, T. T. Thorne, J. B. Hicks, Dr. Hester, Berry Davidson, W. W. Amick, R. R. Hanner; both the last named became ministers, J. C. Roberts, who afterwards made the first and largest donations in money to found a college in our Conference, Geo. Hunt, who later became a minister.

Among the ministers whose names are familiar are found, T. H. Pegram, president, Alson Gray, W. H. Wills, C. F. Harris, A. W. Lineberry, A. C. Harris, Q. Hilston, the grandfather of Prof. Holton, of Duke university; J. L. and R. R. Michaux, J. W. Heath, J. R. Ball, W. C. Kennet, R. H. Wills, J. M. Kennet, who later went west, S. P. J. Harris, J. H. Gilbreath and J. H. Page.

Among the items of Conference is a report of Dr. Batchelor who was treasurer of the Superannuate Fund society, showing that there was $2,837.19 due the treasurer.

Then there was an adjournment of the conference to consider general interests of the church without confinement to strict rules of order. Which permitted the injection of a varied sort of subjects, no doubt.

Salaries ranged from $2,664.00 paid by Granville to $325.00 paid by Green River Circuit. But this was during the Civil War and what was not paid in kind was in Confederate notes which were considerably "depressed" that year.

Church property was valued at $53,975 and there were 8,800 members, 7,120 of whom were white.

An interesting resolution appears, "That we will strive for, not only higher attainments, but the full sanctification of the man; bringing into captivity every action, word, thought and affection, to the obedience of Christ." As means to the accomplishment of this objective, prayer and fasting were proposed.

It is likewise interesting to note that Rev. Q. Holton proposed the division of the N. C. District into Eastern and Western conferences, but it was laid on the table.

Altogether it is an interesting report of the conference year.

GIFT TO ICELAND

According to the Christian Science Monitor, a statue of Leif Ericsson will be formally erected on Johnson Museum Hill, in Reykjavig, Iceland, during the forthcoming winter. It will be a gift of the United States to that far northern country in commemoration of the 1000th anniversary of the Althing, Icelandic Parliament.

The presentation of this heroic 10-foot figure of Ericsson, half historic, half legendary, unites the two countries in a common heritage, for it was he who is accredited with having first set foot on the soil of the new world. A. Stirling Calder, the sculptor, consulted the old Norse sagas for the historic background. He found that Ericsson was regarded as a humane Norseman and a fearless leader who commanded both respect and a harsh affection. But, foremost, Ericsson was a man of the sea and the sculptor poses him as such on a Norse ship's prow, there "buffeting waves and wind, as if he were, himself, the vessel's figurehead."

Mr. Calder says of the design: "My problem has been to design a statue of a great leader and seaman. I wanted to carry the sea movement throughout, and so placed Ericsson upon the upward rake of a Viking prow, braced on seaman's legs, and clothed in Viking mail. In his left hand he grasps a cross which, in the superstition of his age, may have served as a seaman's mascot."

HELP FOR THE TEMPTED

Frank W. Boreham passes on a story told by Handley Page, the airman. When Page landed at Kobar, in Arabia, a large rat managed to get into his airplane. When Page was in mid-air he discovered the rat's presence by the sound of gnawing behind him. Alarmed at the thought of the damage which those pitiless teeth might do, the aviator remembered that a rat is unable to survive in high altitudes. He determined to soar, and rose until he found difficulty in breathing. At length he ventured to descend to a lower level and upon landing he discovered that the rat was dead.

There is help for the tempted here. When we feel ourselves endangered by the pests that molest our souls, we need only to rise to a loftier level of Christian living and of Christian attainment.—The Y. C. Companion.

Mrs. J. R. Ball Passes

The death of this good woman occurred at her home in Greensboro, Thursday, October 1, after an illness of only a few days. She was 87 years old. The funeral service was held in Grace Church, Saturday, at 2:30 P. M., and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. R. J. Tamblyn. Interment followed in Green Hill cemetery.

As the wife of Rev. J. R. Ball, Sister Ball had an extended acquaintance in the conference, and many friends will read of her death with interest and regret. We extend sympathy to relatives bereft of this loved one. An obituary committee has been appointed, and will appear in the list of conference committees published in the HERALD this week.

Greenville Charge

We visited two of the churches of this charge on Tuesday, September 22. In the morning at 11 o'clock we met a small group at Philadelphia church and held a service with them on the church grounds in the shade of the oaks. At night we preached to a large group at Matthews Chapel. We were much pleased at the improvements that have been made at this church since our visit there two years ago. A new floor has been laid, choir loft built, pews worked over, window curtains hung, and the church painted inside and out. The appearance of the building was neat and pleasing. The people here have our hearty congratulations. And just here we want to make mention of this noticeable thing about the eastern churches that we visited on this trip: Most of them are good buildings, and both the grounds and the buildings are well kept. We heartily commend these congregations and their pastors for the care that they take of their churches. We were sorry not to see Pastor Hethcox while on this charge. He was with Brother Johnson in a meeting. This appointment was made before he knew my plans, and I did not know his when the appointment was made, and of course, he did the right thing in keeping his engagement. This is Brother Hethcox's first year on this charge. The work is in good condition, and we bespeak earnest effort on the part of pastor and people for a gratifying closing. We are indebted to Brother and Sister Simeon Pearson and Brother J. C. Whitby and family for entertainment.

Chase City

Our appointment here was on Wednesday night, September 23. A rain just before the service no doubt reduced the attendance, though several were present. This church is located on the hard surface highway from Chase City, and 34 miles from Oxford. Most of the members are farmers, and many of them are originally North Carolinians. Rutherford and Cleveland counties are well represented here, also Halifax county. Being Methodist Protestants in the home State, and finding no church of their choice in this community, they proceeded to build one. The last conference Journal gives them 122 members. The church seems to be needed in this community, and it is well, we think, to give it all possible attention. Brother Saunders has served the charge this year at great disadvantage, owing to his remote distance from the church. Despite the much travel he has been faithful in meeting his appointments. The finances are very much in arrears, and the people in this community are greatly depressed over economic conditions. But they will see a better day; the darkest hour is just before dawn. We trust that they will hold on faithfully to their church, and do their best. No one can do more. And such faithfulness always brings its reward.

We are grateful to Brother and Sister Deviney (sorry not to be able to give initials) and Brother and Sister Lawrence Wilson for entertainment.

A Pleasant Visit With An Old Friend

On my way home from the Chase City church I stopped at Skipwith, Va., to see Mr. Will Forlines and his sister, Miss Rosa, (now Mrs. Burchet). Many years ago we were in school together at Yadkin College. Mr. Will Forlines and Mrs. Burchet are brother and sister of Dr. C. E. Forlines. I had a pleasant visit with Mr. Forlines and his wife, and Mr. Burchet, but was sorry to find Mrs. Burchet away from home.

Gleanings That Gladden

Brother Bates writes that a good closing, financially and otherwise, is in sight at Calvary.

Pastor Clay Madison expects all financial obligations to be met at Lebanon.

Pastor Glenn Madison says that General Conference Budget has been paid in full at First church, Thomasville, and he is confident of the A. C. B.

Brother Troxler reports that last week was "Tithe Week" at Shiloh church; $86 was brought in Sunday morning as the tithe for the week.

Brother C. G. Isley tells us today that the South Lexington church is working hard to pay A. C. B. in full. He is very hopeful of their success.

Ways and Means

We want to urge "PRODUCE DAY" further. This is a year of bounty from farms, orchards, and vineyards. This bountiful harvest is one of God's ways of providing for his church. If our rural people will pool the products of the farm, the dairy, the poultry yard, the orchard, and market these products, a great deal of money can be gotten for the church. A great many people could pay their church dues in this way, who, perhaps, would not be able to pay without this plan.

We want also to further emphasize Brother Troxler's "Tithe Week." He thought that this would work better on his charge than the tithe for a month. His people responded readily, and with results as stated above. We are confident that there is merit in both these plans, and that they can be worked with good results in many of our churches. TEST THEM, BRETHERN, AND LET US KNOW RESULTS.

Report Blanks for Fourth Quarter

These go out right away. We trust that pastors will give careful attention to each question. This report is our dependence for important facts that go into our conference message. It is highly important, therefore, that all questions be answered as fully and as accurately as possible. If pastors do not have information at hand on all matters inquired about in the report, this can most likely be gotten before the report is due. We are asking that the report be returned October 30

"According to Your Faith"

These words of our Lord have a meaning for us during these closing weeks. Whether or not we close the year well will be determined very largely by the measure of our faith. If we have faith to plan, faith to work, faith to pray, faith to give, we will realize results commensurate with such faith. The poor widow did not have much money, but she did have a big faith, and her faith that day has been turning streams of revenue into the church ever since. Let us go to our tasks, brethren, during these closing weeks, with faith in God, faith in ourselves, faith in the church. Not just the faith of a fine sentiment; but with the faith of the poor widow—a faith that does something, that trusts God with all that we have, even our living. That kind of faith will bring us to the end of this conference year in triumph. "According to your faith, be it unto you."

Appointments

- October 8.—Meeting of Boundary Committee.
- October 11.—At Albemarle in Anniversary service.

Conference Chorister—Rev. N. G. Bethea.

We are giving above the conference committee assignments. In each case the first person named is the chairman. The list is being published now in order to give these chairmen time to block out reports before the conference meets. It is our practice to have no conference session Thursday afternoon in order that committees may get their reports ready to submit to the conference. We trust that each chairman will have his report well blocked out and ready to have it passed on and completed by his committee Thursday afternoon. If this can be done, the conference business will be greatly expedited.

We express the confidence that each person will readily accept the assignment given to him, and that earnest, thoughtful and timely work will be done in carrying out the purposes of these committees.

In order to economize in every way, we are asking that each member of these various committees accept this HERALD announcement as notice of his assignment. Thank you.

S. W. TAYLOR.

OUR STORY PAGE

ONLY A LITTLE GIRL!

"Rain, rain, pattering on the window pane;" not a passing shower, but the steady downpour of a thoroughly wet day. "I don't think father will let me go to Sunday School today if it does not stop raining," little Jessie said to herself, as she watched the fast-falling drops.

She was only a very small girlie, six or seven years of age; but she had learned one very precious lesson, to love and trust the Lord Jesus, and to know Him as her own Saviour.

Jessie's mother was an earnest Christian, but her father, to the sorrow of his wife and little daughter, was not only unconverted, but he had "said in his heart, There is no God," and he tried to persuade himself that he was right.

"You won't be able to go to Sunday School today, Jessie," said her father; "we are in for a wet day, and I should have my little girl laid up with a heavy cold for I don't know how long."

"Oh, father, dear father, do please say I may go! I will wear my raincoat, and, please, will you lend me your large umbrella?"

"Why are you so anxious to go?"

"My dear teacher is sure to be there, she always goes, even if it is raining fast, but I don't think many of our class will be there; perhaps their mothers will say it is too wet, and teacher will look so sorry."

"No, Jessie, you cannot go today, it is really too wet."

Jessie said no more, but something in the sad face of his child touched her father in a way he himself did not understand. After a few moments' silence, he said, "Don't you think we might have Sunday School at home just for once, Jessie?"

"Oh, yes, father, that would be lovely. I'll run and get my own Bible and hymn book, and you can have mother's, and you must be superintendent."

"Now, we always open school with a hymn. You give it out, and we'll sing it."

"No, Jessie, I don't know your hymns or tunes either, and I can't sing."

"Well, father, then I'll have to sing all by myself." And in a sweet, childish voice Jessie sang one of her favorite hymns. Her father listened attentively, but only said, "Is that all, Jessie?"

"No, father, you must pray."

Jessie would take no denial, but knelt down, her father kneeling by her side, his heart too full for words. At last he prayed the prayer of the publican, "God be merciful to me a sinner." At that moment his wife entered the room. Could it be true that the answer of years of prayer had been so graciously given? Yes, it was true, quite true. Kneeling by his side, the husband and wife prayed together, and it was not long before the father, mother, and little Jessie were, as a Christian household, rejoicing together and giving thanks to the Lord who had done so much for them.

Have you, dear boy or girl, accepted salvation as the free gift of God? When the Lord Jesus laid down His life on Calvary, He bought it for you, He paid the price with His own precious Blood. All you are asked to do is to take the gift and thank the Giver. "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved" (Rom. 10:9).—Publisher Unknown.

LITTLE PHOEBE BORTLET

That a child can as truly receive and enjoy salvation as an older person is clearly proved in the following narrative:

Phoebe Bortlet was born in the month of March, 1731. When she was about four years old, her brother who was about eleven years of age and had been hopefully converted a little while before, talked to her about getting saved.

From this time on there was a marked change in the child and she would slip away to her secret closet five or six times a day to pray. She seemed to enjoy it so much that she would not allow anything whatsoever to divert her from her stated closet exercises.

One day she said that she could not find God; but a day or two later, while she was engaged in secret prayer, her mother heard her praying out loud in her childish manner the following prayer: "Pray, blessed Lord, give me salvation! I pray, beg, pardon all my sins!" After she had finished praying she came out of her closet and sat down beside her mother. Then she suddenly burst into tears and wreathed her body to and fro like one in anguish of spirit. It was with difficulty that her mother finally succeeded in getting her to stop crying; when the child said, "I am afraid I shall go to hell!" and again broke into a flood of tears. She continued crying for some time when all at once she stopped crying and began to smile, and said, with a face radiant with a new-found joy, "Mother, the Kingdom of Heaven is come to me!" Her mother was indeed surprised at the sudden change, and at the speech of one so young.

Soon it was noticed that the child had slipped away for another season of prayer. In a few minutes she reappeared saying, "I can find God now! I love God better than anything else."

She seemed to have a strong desire to see her sisters saved. When the children came home from school they were much affected by the remarkable change in their little sister. Her mother spoke to her sister Abigail about getting ready for Heaven, in which the child burst into tears, and cried out, "Poor Nabby!" When she had in a measure, stopped crying, her sister, Eunice, being beside her, she burst out again, and cried "Poor Eunice." And when she was almost done she went into another room and seeing her sister Naomi, burst out again crying, "Poor Amy!" Her mother was greatly affected at such behavior in the child, and didn't know what to say to her. Phoebe afterwards explained that she was afraid that they would go to hell.

From this time on she never lost her first love but continued to serve God with all her heart.—Publisher Unknown.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

STAND BY MR. MINNIS

It's not too late yet to hold a thank-offering service now in the lovely month of October. Rev. and Mrs. Minnis are giving their services for Him who said "Go ye into all the world." They are our messengers; we have assumed their support. Let's not fail them, but each church or Auxiliary hold a thank-offering service and receive an offering. Since the Mission Board has granted our request to retain the thank-offering collections to go to the support of Mr. Minnis, let's do our best. Mrs. Hammer tells me that it also applies on our budget. A complete program follows in this issue. If anyone desires extra copies I'll be glad to furnish them, also envelopes to be given out a week or few days before the service to every member of the church. I hope you will preserve the creed in this program and use it in future public services till all have realized its full meaning and beauty.

I shall try to have, from time to time, a reading or a story published that is suitable to use in your thank-offering services. Please reserve them, remembering that February is thank-offering month also. We are and should be thankful every day and express it in a substantial way when the call is given.

Yours for a big Thank-Offering,

MRS. J. W. BOYLES, Sec'y.

Thomasville, N. C.

DISTRICT MEETINGS

Wednesday morning, September 30, Mrs. W. C. Hammer and your chairman of Districts met Dr. and Mrs. George R. Brown in Burlington and proceeded from there to Whitakers. We were entertained in the home of Mrs. J. H. Cutchin, chairman of District No. 1. Mrs. Cutchin had planned for an all-day meeting of her district at the Eden church, Halifax circuit, the following day. Despite the fact that this is one of the largest districts in the Conference both in territory and number of churches, this was one of the most interesting and helpful meetings it has been my privilege to attend, 15 churches being represented.

Various phases of women's work were presented by the speakers at both morning and afternoon sessions, and a very interesting and well planned program was carried out. (At noon in addition to a splendid picnic dinner there were large pots of steaming Brunswick stew to satisfy the appetites of those who attended.) A large group of interested women and a few men were present to enjoy the program and the dinner.

It was voted to make the district meeting an annual affair, and we shall count it a privilege to have a part in the meeting when it is held.

Friday morning we drove to Henderson to be with the chairman of District No. 2, Miss Crystal Bobbitt, in a meeting in the Henderson church. This district is not so large either in territory or in the number of churches as District No. 1.

But the meeting was well attended—six churches being represented. The reports showed all auxiliaries in a healthy condition. We were glad to note the interest in the young people of this district.

A bountiful lunch was served in the basement of the church. We were glad to see Mrs. S. R. Harris in the meeting and to find her, despite her affliction, as cheerful and interested as ever.

We were glad to have the privilege of meeting with Districts No. 1 and 2. We met with District No. 9, Mrs. C. L. Koonts, chairman, in a meeting at Friendship church, Shiloh charge, in August. We hope we shall be able to meet with the 12 others before the year closes.

Conference Journal

Please see that your District Chairman has the following report from your church for our page in the Conference Journal: Amount raised by Woman's Auxiliary for: 1. New Century Service (General Conference Budget); 2. North Carolina Work; 3. Local Work. Total.

Pencils

Please send me the money to pay the cost of the pencils we have already distributed. The profit goes to the Branch Treasurer and is credited to your Auxiliary for High Point College apportionment. One shipment of pencils went astray, and so delayed distribution. We will be able to fill the orders soon. Send orders for pencils to me.

MRS. C. W. BATES,

Chairman of Districts.

Box 1501, Ashboro St., Greensboro.

SUGGESTED THANK-OFFERING PROGRAM

By Mrs. J. W. Boyles

Prelude.

Hymn—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Responsive Service If you cannot have copies made so that all may engage in it responsively, let one person give it as a Bible reading.

Sing unto the Lord, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of his wondrous works.

I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord, among the heathen, and I will sing praise unto thy name.

Declare his glory among the heathen; his marvelous works among the nations.

I will praise thee, O Lord, among the nations; I will sing unto thee among the people.

Give unto the Lord, O ye kindreds of the people; give unto the Lord glory and strength.

One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts.

What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?

I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord. Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men.

While I live, I will praise the Lord; I will sing unto the Lord while I have my being.

Blessed be the name of the Lord forevermore. Amen.

Hymn "Savior, Thy Dying Love."

"Praise Offering"—by three young women. Page 11, Missionary Record, October, 1930. (This may or may not be used; Auxiliaries will use as much or as little of this material as they care to.)

Solo: "Lord, Speak to Me That I May Speak," 389 M. P. Hymnal.

Reading—"A World of Gratitude," Page 11, "Missionary Record, November, 1929. (May be used as a story if preferred.) See also Methodist Protestant Herald, October 8th, 1931.)

The Call—by president of the Auxiliary.

"O, Women, waken to the need,
Of those across the sea,
Of bondag' souls that must be freed—
By aid from you and me.
There millions die that never heard
Of Jesus and his love,
Without a chance to read his word,
Nor learn of Heaven above.
In sin and agony of life,
In evil lust they go,
As struggling on in daily strife
For want of Christ to know:
O, women, waken to this call,
And help to save from eternal death,
These sisters for whom Christ died."

Procession of the Thank-Offering Heralds. Eight or ten girls from 10 to 12 may be used as heralds; they march down the aisle carrying lighted candles. After taking their places on the platform, they may sing "We Plough the Fields and Scatter," or some other hymn of thanksgiving. They repeat in unison the following creed:

Creed—(May be repeated just by heralds or by the congregation).

I believe that God is my Heavenly Father, and that I am His child.

I believe that to me His mercies are new every morning, and that He daily loadeth me with His ben'fits.

I believe that in return I should daily load Him with thanksgiving, and prove my gratitude with thank-offerings.

I believe that He has called me to be a co-worker with Him in bringing the world to a knowledge of Christ, the Savior.

I believe that He wants me to use my time, my talents, my prayers, my means to this end.

I believe that by His Holy Spirit He will enable me to consecrate my all to Him. Amen.

(Why not preserve this and use it frequently and especially in every thank-offering?)

Reading Primary Child.

In everything give thanks,
For air and sunshine pure and sweet,
For grass that grows beneath our feet,
For flowers that all around us bloom,
For birds that sing in joyful tune,
We thank our Heavenly Father.
For leafy trees with fruit and shade,
For things of beauty He has made,
For daily blessings full and free,
For all His cares o'er you and me,
We thank our Heavenly Father.

So here is the offering from the Primary Department. (Child lays on an improvised altar, on which candles are burning, the offering from the Primary children.)

Reading—Junior Child.

For the great love of parents near,
For Christian homes to us so dear,
For all the lessons from our youth,
For honor, gratitude and truth,
We thank our Heavenly Father.
For the sweet, joyful work and true
That even a little child can do,
For Jesus Christ, the children's friend,
For life in Him that knows no end,
We thank our Heavenly Father.

Here is the offering from the Junior Department. (Child lays down on the altar the offerings from the Juniors.)

Reading—by a Woman.

A great and pitiful throng,
Who have never heard Christ's story,
And never have learned His song,
The song the angels are singing,
As they bow at the Savior's feet:
'Tis for us who have heard it so often,
To send it wherever needed,
The wonderful story of Jesus Christ, our Lord.

The women of the church make their offering. (Here she lays down the offering from the women.)

Reading by Young Woman.

"From far across the deep blue sea,
And from my very door,
I hear a cry of deep distress,
I hear it o'er and o'er.

I'll go or stay, I'll give and pray,
I'll heed the Master's call:
I'll hasten to the secret place
And there I'll give my all.

(Kneeling)

Accept my offering, blessed Lord,
Unworthy though I be;
O, use me for thy service, Lord,
My all I give to thee."

(Lays down offering from young women.)

Reading (This may be used if there is another group to give an offering.)

"We will give to Him our hands;
They shall work out His commands.
We will give our feet—to go
On His errands to and fro.
We will give our eyes—to see Where His workers we may be.
We will give Him listening ears.
Happy is the child who hears.
We will give our lips—to sing
And to speak of Christ, our King."

Reading—President Woman's Auxiliary.
(While the heralds and gift-bearers are still on platform.)

"Hold high the torch:
You did not light its glow;
'Twas given you from other hands, you know,
'Tis only yours to keep burning bright,
Yours to pass on when you no more need light.

For there are little feet that you must guide
And little forms go marching by your side;
Their eyes are watching every tear and smile,
And efforts that you think are not worth while

May sometimes be the very help they need,
Actions to which their souls would give most heed.

So that in turn they'll lift it high and say,
I watched my mother carry it this way.

If brighter paths would be ken you to choose,
Would you small gain compare with all you'd lose?

Then, lift the torch. You did not light its glow;

'Twas given you from other hands you know,
I think it started down its pathway bright
The day the Maker said, 'Let there be light!'"

Benediction by Pastor, while all remain in position on platform.

A WORLD OF GRATITUDE

By Lucy White Palmer

"You have literally the whole world before you, Helen. What is this, anyway?" As Inez Gray spoke she took up from her friend's desk a miniature globe, fastened to a little square standard, which was gilded, and bore in dainty lettering the words, "God so loved the world."

"Why, it has a slit in the top," she continued, "and it jingles! What is it, Nell?"

"I call it my world of gratitude," answered Mrs. Mildmay, smiling. "In other words, it is my thank-offering box."

"Thanking offering for what?"

"For any special help or unexpected blessing for which I feel unusually grateful."

"And what do you do with it,—the money, I mean? And how often do you put it in? And where did you get the idea?"

"Why, Inez," exclaimed Mrs. Mildmay, laughing, "I didn't expect such a string of questions about such an everyday affair as a thank-offering box,—at least not from you. I thought you were interested in missions, and a staunch adherent of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society."

"So I am, my dear, generally speaking; but that does not include, in my case, any intimate acquaintance with the subject of thank-off rings. So tell me all about it."

"How do you conduct your giving?" asked Helen.

"Strictly on principle," answered Inez with a satisfied air. "We set aside a tenth of our income for that purpose, and apportion it as seems wisest. I give twenty dollars a year to our auxiliary. Then, of course, we have our annual gift to the General Missions, and incidental collections, and so forth. There are calls enough, I'm sure."

"Isn't it delightful?" asked Mrs. Mildmay.

"To give? Well, no, not always. It's duty; I am firmly convinced of that. But duty isn't always delightful, you know; and I must confess that sometimes that tenth looks pretty big, especially in the spring and fall; when I think of the clothes we all need. Now I suppose that shocks you."

"O, no," said Helen; "but I think I know a more excellent way, into which my little globe is helping to lead me."

"Why, don't you think that giving is a duty, and that we ought to do it on principle and from a certain proportion of our income?"

"Yes," to all those questions," answered Helen; but I also think that if we give only as a duty we are on a somewhat low plane, and are missing one of the luxuries of the Christian life. We ought to give on principle, surely, but it should be a double strand of principle of duty and love. And in setting aside a certain proportion of my income for giving, I do not want to bind myself never to go beyond that. Or, if I absolutely cannot go further than that amount, I want, in my apportionment of it, to lay myself a margin for spontaneous offerings, which shall be the expression of some special state of my heart."

"You make giving rather an individual and personal affair," remarked Inez, "I had always looked at it more in the abstract, as a general duty."

"Are not the love-offerings between parents and children personal affairs?" asked Helen.

"God is our Father, we His children. 'What shall I render unto my God for all His benefits unto me?' What can I render but a thank-offering? How can I help but love to render it! How can I help grieving that it is so small? I do not believe in balancing gifts,—God's gifts to us on one scale, ours to Him in the other. That is too often done, at least impliedly, generally unconsciously, I suppose. 'Freely ye have received from God, therefore freely give to God,' is common teaching, but not good exegesis or sound doctrine, to my mind. That command, 'Freely give,' you will find on studying it, has as its object man, not God. Give to your needy fellowman with the bounteousness which God has shown to you. To God you can give only a child's loving 'Thank you,' which may find its tangible expression in the free giving to man. Then I delight to give, Inez, for each fresh mercy, and so I keep this little box. You don't know, if you haven't tried it, how this conscious marking off and acknowledging God's special favors help to keep one near to Him. 'Gratitude is a means of grace,' it has been said; and, indeed, I have found it so. I never loved God so much as I have since I had this globe. This kind of giving is truly a luxury. I can understand the feeling of that good man, Spurgeon, was it? who said that first he set off a tenth of his income for giving, and that afforded him so much pleasure that soon he made it a fifth; and he found that so delightful that he thought he really must indulge himself by doubling it again."

"I don't think many of us Christians are given to that form of self-indulgence," remarked Inez, dryly.

"No; more is the pity," said Helen. "Too many of us gather our mites into 'self-denial bags,' instead of thank-offering boxes."

"What is the objection to self-denial bags?" asked Inez. "I have heard of those, and thought them rather praiseworthy arrangements, myself."

"My objection is only that they are down on the lower plane," answered Helen. "What father wants perpetual repressions and self-denials instead of a hearty, joyous 'Thank you.' We should so love God that nothing we do for Him is a self-denial, but it rather should be a self-denial not to do."

"That is a higher ideal than most of us reach," said Inez.

"Yes, I don't pretend to have reached it myself, but he aims too low who aims beneath the stars! Why not place before ourselves that ideal, and help ourselves toward it by constantly counting up God's mercies, and returning thanks for them? That I find more profitable and pleasant than to dwell down among my own self-denials."

There was a pause; then Mrs. Gray said: "You have done me good, Helen, and set me to thinking. Now one more thing: will you tell me what are the mercies which you acknowledge by your little globe here?"

Helen hesitated a moment; then she rose and took from her desk, beside the globe, a pretty little box. "I shouldn't feel like showing this to many, Inez," she said, "but we are such close friends, and I do so want to help you up into this happiness of giving, that I will show you. You will respect my confidence. I have taken up the habit of dropping into this box a little memorandum

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Spring Church Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference of this charge will convene at Spring church on Friday before the third Sunday in this month at 3:30 p. m. The closing of the work of this year, and the making of steps toward the beginning of another year, calls for the presence of all official members, so that each may have a hand in the good work.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Pastor.

Randolph Charge, Bethany.—Our revival meeting began the third Sunday in September, with Bro. Loy of Burlington as pulpit help. The sermons preached by Bro. Loy were helpful and inspiring. The church was revived, and many saved and brought into the kingdom. Seven united with the church.

Bro. Suits, our pastor, always brings us messages that do the soul good, and I'm sure much good has been accomplished through his preaching, that we have been lifted up, and my prayer is that we may go forward and do more for our Blessed Redeemer. Our wish is that Bro. Suits be returned to us another year.

The officers for the ensuing year will be elected at our next preaching day, the third Sunday in October.

Mrs. Mike Ward has been sick for some time. She is in the Clinic Hospital, Greensboro. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.
REPORTER.

Cleveland Circuit.—The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Pleasant Hill church, Friday, October 16. Dr. S. W. Taylor will preach at the 11 o'clock service and the afternoon service will be taken as the business session. All of the official members are requested to be present and all others who wish to attend.

Dr. Taylor will also preach at Oak Grove church on Friday night, October 16. We are hoping that a large crowd will attend to hear him.

Pine Hill church.—The Sing Band from the Union Holiness church of Thomasville will sing for us the second Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. Bro. Bingham will preach his last sermon for this year. He has served us well this year and we are hoping we will get him back the coming Conference year.

We are going to start up Sunday school the third Sunday. We hope our school will be a great success. Pray for us that we may do much good for the Lord.

MRS. F. L. SMITH, Reporter.

South Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Our Sunday school attendance was very good Sunday; we had 88 present.

Rev. C. G. Isley preached at the 11 o'clock service. His theme was "The Road to Happiness." Many interesting points were brought out. At this time we received into the church by letter Mrs. J. I. Tussy from the Reformed church and Miss Mary Lena Tussy from the Linwood M. E. church.

As the Conference year is coming to a close we feel that there is much to do before we can say that we are ready as we are somewhat behind financially.

The members of the church had a lunch stand at the Davidson Fair last week that proved successful. Something near $150.00 was cleared. This will be used for the benefit of the church.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Mt. Carmel church Tuesday night, October 13. This is a very important meeting and all officials and members of the church are urged to be present.

At the next appointment, which is the third Sunday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Thompson will preach for us.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Fairfield Church.—Even though the weather has been very hot and disagreeable, our Sunday school attendance as well as church attendance has been exceedingly good. Collections in our school have been good, and our school seems to be growing steadily if slowly.

Our Christian Endeavor society has been very active of late, giving a play at various schools and charging a small admission fee. The proceeds from these plays have been used to buy song books for the church; also a door mat, and they are planning to buy other things that the church needs.

The Women's Auxiliary had an ice cream supper at Rev. E. O. Peeler's house and with the proceeds from ice cream and cake sold have bought a piano scarf, a table runner, and book stand scarf. They have also had cement steps put to the church.

The revival meeting was held at Fairfield beginning September 20th and continuing to September 25th. Rev. Glenn Madison was the pulpit help and he delivered a series of excellent sermons which were enjoyed by all present. There were three converted during the week and five new members were taken into the church.

West Forsyth.—We had good attendance at the services at Baltimore and Stony Knoll churches last Sunday, and the people entered into the services heartily. Splendid attention was given the pastor in the delivery of his messages. After the service at Baltimore church the pastor was invited to the good home of Bro. George Nicholson, where we enjoyed a splendid dinner and spent a short while in pleasant conversation. A funeral service kept several away from the service at Stony Knoll in the afternoon. A relative of Bro. W. T. Hennings, superintendent of the Stony Knoll Sunday school, was buried at 3 o'clock, the same hour of our service.

The revival meeting at Harmony Grove church closed Saturday night. A total of 12 services were held during the week. Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of St. Paul church, Greensboro, came on Monday afternoon and did the preaching during the remainder of the meeting. His preaching consisted of plain, simple and effective gospel truths, and it was said by some of the people that the preaching was the best heard there in several years. Bro. Garner endeared himself to the people, who were greatly benefited by his interesting and helpful sermons. There were seven professions and three members were received into the church. These united with the church at the last service were Frank Pinnix, Hazel Luper and Marvin Easter. We were delighted to have had Bro. Jerry Brown, of Guilford College, with us during the first few days of the meeting. Bro. Brown conducted the song services and provided a number of special musical selections. He was a worker in Harmony Grove church about 30 years ago, having served as superintendent of the Sunday school. A piano was placed in the church on Monday and there seemed to be a great improvement in the singing. The church is considering the purchase of the piano, as all were apparently well pleased with its use during the meeting.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Tabernacle church at 11 a. m., and Union Hill church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be our last services at these two churches before the meeting of the Annual Conference, and we will observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at each church. Also it is expected that the election of officers and the revision of the church register will be attended to.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Graham.—But little has been heard from Graham for some time, but we are still on the map if we do only make a small dot.

Rally Day and Promotion Day was observed Sunday. A very fine program was rendered by the children and young folks under the direction of Misses Clara Hughes and Ruth Bain.

An impressive service for the aged people of the church was held the fourth Sunday in September.

The fall Thank-Offering service of the Woman's Auxiliary was given on the fourth Sunday evening. We were delighted to have Mrs. H. A. Garrett, the district chairman, speak for us.

A count of ballots at the third quarterly conference declared Mr. J. L. Amick delegate for the Annual Conference.

Revival services began Sunday evening with Rev. O. C. Loy as pulpit help. Everyone is urged to attend these services and bring someone.
REPORTER.

First Church, Burlington.—Our annual revival began Sunday, September 27th. Rev. J. D. Williams, of Liberty, N. C., arrived Monday, September 28th, to assist Dr. Paschall in the preaching. Bro. Williams is a great Christian man and a great preacher. He delivered some wonderful messages during last week and I believe he is touching the hearts of the people who are attending the revival. The slogan for the meeting is: "Remember the Cause We've Met For." Four have so far consecrated their lives to God. We have been having good attendance and splendid cooperation from our church people. The music has been unusually good. The choir with its faithful group is always at hand. Dr. Paschall and Miss Elizabeth Rogers have sung duets at two of the services; Mr. Heatwole, director of Front Street M. E. choir, kindly consented to come over and sing for us last week at one of our services; and also did Mrs. Herbert Wade, of Fountain, Place M. P. church.

There was a splendid attendance at the morning worship Sunday, October 4th. Bro. Williams was absent at this service, but Dr. Paschall filled his vacancy with an inspiring message. The new officers for the coming year were installed at this service. Mr. Williams was with us again at the night service Sunday.

Sunday afternoon, October 4th, 12 of the members of the C. E. Society motored over to Asheville and attended a meeting of the Northern District C. E. Union. Societies were represented from several counties in the state. There was such a crowd of young people present some of them were unable to get a seat. There were more present than the district officers anticipated. A wonderful meeting was held at which time new acquaintances were made and old friendships renewed.

TULA PAUL.

Orange Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference will meet at Chestnut Ridge church Saturday, October 24th, at 2 p. m. A full attendance, especially of the official members, is desired.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Oak Grove, Forsyth.—Our Sunday school is holding up very well. We had very good attendance at prayer meeting Sunday night. After Scripture reading several good talks were made. Some of our little folks read verses from the Bible. We are always glad to see our young people take a part. We had several visitors from other churches.

The writer had the pleasure of having her class of little folks with her at her home on last Friday evening on a watermelon feast.

The second Sunday in October is the set time for our revival meeting. Let us all pray for a good meeting and that many souls will be saved. Preaching will begin in the afternoon at the usual hour and at night at 7:30. Everybody is invited to come.

MRS. R. M. WARREN, Reporter.

Asheville.—With the moving to Charlotte of Mr. G. P. Younginer's family we lost from our midst not only one of the most active families in our church but also our reporter. We regret to lose them, but wish them happiness in their new home.

On Thursday, September 17th, the Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. W. E. Teague at 138 Michigan avenue in West Asheville. An interesting program was given. Mrs. H. O. Charnock gave a most interesting review of the September Missionary Record. The business was soon dispensed with and a social hour enjoyed.

Wednesday night, September 23rd, a supper was served at the church, by the Woman's Auxiliary with the help of the representatives of the Wesson Oil Company. More than 40 were served and enjoyed the delightful musical program presented by Miss Novella McIntire and some of her music pupils. Following this the regular prayer service was conducted by Mr. E. C. Faucett.

Friday night, October 2nd, was a pleasant one for the C. E. Society. They met at the home of Miss Josie McNeill and went from there to a lovely meadow for a wicker roast. Twenty-one members and friends were present to enjoy this outing.

Rally Day, October 4th, was a most happy and inspiring day for our church. The program presented at 11 o'clock was prepared by Miss Veda McIntire, superintendent of the Primary Department, and her helpers, and Mrs. Boliek, superintendent of the Cradle Roll. Several mothers were present with their babies. A large congregation was present and enjoyed the program.

Following the children's program, Mr. A. J. Buckner gave us a short talk, commending the children and workers and calling on us all to do our best for the church and Christ.

Our Auxiliary is to be the guest of the Weaverville Auxiliary Thursday afternoon, October 8th. The ladies are looking forward with pleasure to this occasion.

A MEMBER.

Glen Raven.—Our Sunday school is coming along very well considering the hot weather, protracted meetings and home-comings cut our attendance through the summer. But we hope to reach 200 before Christmas. Our Sunday school enjoyed a picnic at the home of our superintendent, Mr. P. T. Troxler. A large truck load of children enjoyed the ride as well as supper.

Our protracted meeting was held some time ago with the help of Rev. Robert Troxler. The preaching was excellent and we had some converts, but our pastor says he is not satisfied with the results, so we expect to have another ten-day meeting before this year is out.

Rev. Hubert Isley preached a very forceful sermon a few weeks ago that was enjoyed by our congregation.

Two of our girls, Miss Frances Pritchett and Myrtle Troxler, are in school at High Point College. They are missed very much in the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor.

REPORTER.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Sunday school officers and teachers were elected with some changes Sunday, October 4. We are sorry Miss Kate Poole's health has caused her to resign her post at the piano. Mrs. A. A. Foster was elected to take her place. We are sorry Mrs. Will Compton has had to go back to the hospital. She has our prayers for a rapid recovery. We miss Mrs. Ethel Smith and hope she will soon be able to be back with us in Sunday school and church services.

As Friday, October 16, is set for our picnic with the Fairview Sunday school; we are hoping all our members and friends of the church will feel welcome to come and bring a full basket. Church officers will be re-elected next Sunday.

We are training the children for the Rally Day service which is to be rendered the fourth Sunday night.

MRS. JEWELL HARRISON, Reporter.

Kernersville.—We are in the midst of a second revival at Sandy Ridge. This is our tenth day and it is going fine. Rev. H. W. Bell is doing the preaching and Prof. John Carter, of Charlotte, is directing the choir. Bro. Bell is delighting the audience with his earnest appeals. He is growing rapidly. I question if any man in our Conference is making more rapid progress than he.

Professor Carter, in addition to leading the singing, is making himself felt powerfully among the young people in leading them to Christ. Fathers and mothers, husbands, wives and children are being converted in the old-fashioned way and are coming into the church. Gray heads are being reclaimed and declaring their allegiance anew to Christ. We may talk all we may about not being able to reach the unsaved by the methods of other days, but I am fully convinced that when the church is made fully alive, this idea will disappear. The essentials to life never change. People are born into the world and the kingdom just like they were a thousand years ago.

W. D. REED.

Porter Church.—Evidently our reporter has fallen down on the job. However, silence doesn't always mean idleness. Our work has been moving along about as usual, we think. Our Children's Day service on the third Sunday night in June was fine.

Our revival meeting began the fourth Sunday in August, with two services each day up through Thursday evening. Rev. Geo. L. Curry was our pastor's help and he did some splendid preaching and while the visible results were not all we had hoped for, we feel that much and lasting good was accomplished. We all learned to love Bro. Curry and a hearty welcome awaits him at any time he sees fit to visit us.

Our good pastor has been very faithful to us this year, having filled every appointment and is always interested in every work of the church. On last Sunday night he brought the members of the C. E. society of Friendship down to our church to help us reorganize our society. This we appreciated of both pastor and young people. They gave a fine program, and we invite them again.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held next Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Every member that possibly can is urged to attend as much important business must come before the conference. Our finances are behind much more than they should be. So everyone come with well-filled pocketbooks.

Mr. Chester Fultz, one of our splendid young men, is our delegate to the Annual Conference this year, and we hope Conference will be kind to us by sending our pastor back again.

MRS. W. T. BRASWELL.

First Church, High Point.—On Sunday morning, September 27th, the Rally Day offering was $30.00, which will be credited to the General Conference Budget for this year, and the treasurer, Capt. A. M. Rankin will send this amount to the Board of Christian Education.

On last Sunday morning the Woman's Auxiliary observed its annual Thank-Offering service, in which unusual interest was shown on account of the decision of the executive Board at the Weaverville meeting in July to apply this offering to support our North Carolina missionaries in Dhulia, India, Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis, whom many of us know personally. The choir rendered the anthem, "Christ Jesus in the Garden" by Woyrsch. The minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, gave an eloquent sermon on "The Gospel and Anti-Christian Forces." He mentioned several anti-social evils prevalent today in our own city and throughout the nation, which tend to break down the Christian religion and its influence, and to poison the minds of our boys and girls as well as men and women; the excessive use of cigarettes is breaking down the strength of our children, men, and women. Lewd pictures and unclean literature are pernicious evils that should be removed from our city; the growing tendency to disregard prohibition and the Eighteenth Amendment is the greatest menace to our American civilization today. William Penn said, "The slower the drink, the clearer the head." Rum and the Bible are inconsistent and do not go together. When Americans allow these anti-social evils, they may know what to expect. There is cause for encouragement today in missionary work, and we have not lost interest in the command, "Go ye into all the world." This is a transitional period, and we need more patience in this crucial time. All nations need Jesus and His gospel. The gift of missions to the world is the home, the church, schools and education, hospitals, doctors, nurses, temperance, sobriety, patriotism, and loving service toward mankind.

The Sunday evening services through the month of October will be in charge of the men of the Brotherhood who have been divided into groups or circles. Last Sunday evening the minister spoke on "The Magnetism of the Cross," and a quartette composed of Mrs. J. H. Allred, Miss Elizabeth Welch, and Messrs. Gray and Mourane sang "No Shadows Yonder."

On Monday afternoon the Executive Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary held its monthly meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Paul S. Kennett, on West College Drive.

The Workers' Council of the Sabbath school will meet this (Tuesday) evening at the parsonage with Rev. and Mrs. R. I. Farmer.

The theme for discussion at the mid-week prayer service will be "Keeping the Faith by Keeping Going," and will be led by the minister.

A Silver Tea, which proved to be a delightful occasion, was given last Friday afternoon and evening at "Pennybryn," the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Penny, on the Greensboro road, by members of Circles No. 4 and No. 6 of the Woman's Auxiliary. Mrs. J. A. Gray and Mrs. W. W. Cecil are chairmen of these Circles. The spacious living room, dining room, sun parlor, and music room in this lovely home were artistically decorated with roses, dahlias. In the music room the High Point College orchestra, led by Prof. E. B. Stimson, and assisted by Miss Mildred Luce, violinist, Miss Alma Andrews, pianist, and Miss Margaret Sloan, charming and popular vocalist, rendered beautiful musical selections; Prof. Stimson and Miss Sloan sang some lovely solo numbers. In the dining room Mrs. J. C. Welch, Sr., and Mrs. A. A. Holton poured tea at the table, which was covered with an exquisite lace cover and centered with a bowl of pink roses, and tea, sandwiches and mints were served by a bevy of pretty girls and young matrons. Delicious orange ice was served in the sun parlor. The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 to 10 in the evening. The weather was ideal, a real "bright blue October" day, the drive from the city was pleasant, and all together it was the most delightful affair in the history of our Auxiliary. A large number of guests called and the silver offering amounted to $50.00.

The A. M. Idol Philathea Class held an enthusiastic class meeting Monday evening with Miss Ruth Welch on North Main street with an attendance of 34. After the business session a pleasant social hour was enjoyed, when delicious refreshments were served by Miss Welch, and a miscellaneous shower of gifts was presented to the faithful secretary of the class, Miss Gertrude Teague, who is leaving High Point this week to make her home in Sumter, S. C. Many pretty and useful gifts were given to Miss Gertrude, a life-long member of our Sabbath school and First church, by the friends who have long known and loved her. With the greatest reluctance the class parts with this loyal and greatly loved member.

Several representatives from the two C. E. Societies went to Asheboro Sunday afternoon to attend the Northern District Convention in the Methodist Protestant church there at 2:30 o'clock. An evening session was held when the main address was made by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College. Rev. W. R. Shaffer, pastor of First Reformed church, High Point, was elected president, and Miss Ida Guyer, of High Point, is secretary of this organization.

The minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, went to Winston-Salem Saturday to attend the meeting of the Executive Committee of the State Christian Endeavor Society in the Home Moravian church.

Mrs. P. S. Kennett has received news from the bedside of her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Guire, of Lenoir, that she has left the hospital and gone to the home of her son, Virgil D. Guire, where she is resting comfortably. She still retains great interest in First church, High Point, and her old friends here.

At the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association at Union Hill school, east of the city, on last Tuesday evening, Rev. R. I. Farmer made an interesting address, in which he placed special emphasis on the importance of home training as well as the teacher's for children. Miss Gladys Kivett, one of our loyal workers, is a teacher in this school, and is secretary of this Association.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Shuey, of Morganton, have been the guests for a few days of Mrs. Shuey's sisters, Mrs. C. H. Bass and Miss Blanche Burgess.

Mr. A. E. Alexander, his sisters, Misses Minnie and Mary, and Mrs. R. T. Pickens enjoyed a trip Sunday afternoon to Knollwood Gardens, near Winston-Salem, the beautiful Dahlia farm of Mr. Chalmers Glenn, at one time a resident of High Point. This garden is a four-acre plot filled with dahlias now in full flower, and range in color from the yellow of King Midas and shell pink of Jersey Beauty to the rich, dark crimson of Black Jack and Thomas A. Edison. Some of these gorgeous flowers are as large as a dinner plate, and the display is extremely rare and lovely.

Gibsonville Church.—Gibsonville has not had a report for quite a while, but silence does not mean idleness altogether. A thank-offering and program was given the fourth Sunday morning in September. Mrs. W. C. Hammer was the principal speaker. Mrs. Hammer spoke chiefly concerning our state work in missions. We thoroughly enjoyed Mrs. Hammer's talk. We extend to her a cordial welcome to come again.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary held its last meeting at the parsonage in Burlington with Rev. and Mrs. Bethea. We were glad to have Miss Pauline Pickard and Mrs. Wade to render special music for the program. After the meeting Mrs. Bethea, assisted by Miss Ruth Jones, served fruits, candies, and peanuts. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. K. T. Williams at Gibsonville.

The Young Ladies' Class will not meet on Friday of this week because of the Parent-Teachers Play which will be given in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Bethea reports a splendid visit at the Children's Home, also a good meeting which he conducted while there. He is giving a series of sermons on the seven churches of Asia at our church. They are very interesting, especially to us who are studying medieval history.

Mr. J. T. Roundtree has been elected delegate to the Annual Conference.

REPORTER.

Union Grove.—The Sunday school conditions are about the same as they were at our last report. Three of our juniors have received certificates for promotion to the Intermediate class. The class was glad to receive them. We are trusting that they will be willing workers, as they have been.

We have had two splendid sermons delivered by Rev. Mr. Powell since our last report. At the first sermon, which was delivered the first Sunday in September, we had our regular communion service. The majority of the congregation took part in this service.

Last Sunday Mr. Powell delivered his regular first Sunday sermon. The sermon was followed by Mr. D. T. Berrier, a member of this church, united in marriage to Mrs. Josephine Smith, of Winston-Salem.

Every Christian please remember us in your prayers. We will assure you the same.

REPORTER.

Moriah.—Sunday school and church services are moving along very nicely.

Sunday our pastor brought us a wonderful sermon, using the Prodigal Son as his subject. We were very glad to have several visitors with us; we were favored with special singing from some of them.

Several of the members attended the service at Asheboro Sunday afternoon which were of great benefit to all.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve a Brunswick stew and a regular supper Friday, October 9, at the church from 6 to 8 o'clock. Prices are 25 cents per plate for children; adults, 35 cents. Everyone is cordially invited.

Sunday, October 11th, at 7:30, the fourth quarterly conference will convene. All officials and every member of the church is urged to attend as this is the last conference before the Annual Conference.

REPORTER.

Fountain Place.—Our Sunday school continues to meet each Sunday but the number in attendance is not as large as we would like. Some changes have been made in the teaching force during the summer. Miss Ruth Jones is now teaching the junior girls and Mrs. Aubrey Amick the Philathea class. We hope that the attendance will be better now since vacations are over and the weather is turning cooler.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society is again meeting on Sunday. On the first and third Sundays the hour is 6:45 and on the second and fourth Sundays, 5:30. We have preaching on the first and third Sunday nights, hence the later hour. Some new members are giving hope and inspiration to the leaders.

Our pastor was on his vacation during the whole month of August. Except for the regular meetings of the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society there were no church services held during that time. Such a vacation makes the worship services dearer to the regular church attendant. Our pastor spent most of his vacation helping in revival meetings.

Three baby boys have come into our midst during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Newton Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gibbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Fogleman each have a new son.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Wright. An unusually large number attended and one of the best meetings of the year was held. The membership of the Auxiliary was divided into two sides—the cloudy day side and the clear day side. Each member of the cloudy day side pays a penny for each cloudy day during this month and the member on the opposite side pays her pennies for the clear days. Misses Paul Jones and Hilda Amick are the captains. At this meeting a chicken pie supper was planned for next Saturday night, October 10. This meal will be served in the church basement and the public is invited.

Next Sunday our fall revival begins. It's the plan of our pastor to have several of the downtown pastors bring the messages during the first week and he will carry it over into the second week himself if the interest seems to justify the continuing of the services. Christian people, pray that we may have a real revival.

MRS. A. V. AMICK, Reporter.

SPECIAL RATES TO ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE

In view of the large numbers who are expected to attend the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in Atlanta, Georgia, October 16 to 25, the railroads have agreed to offer an exceptionally low rate. From October 13 to October 24, tickets good until November 11 will be on sale which will carry delegates direct to Atlanta and will return them to their starting points by way of Savannah, thus providing for attendance upon the Wesley Celebration, which will be held at Savannah on October 26. Delegates and visitors, in securing their rates, should ask for tickets covering this route as thus the entire program of the Ecumenical, including both Atlanta and Savannah, may be covered without extra cost.

ARTIFICIAL GOLD UTENSILS

Sheffield, England, has long been famous as the city of steel and cutlery. Now it will become known as the city of artificial gold if the present new industry continues to boom. There they have succeeded in casting an alloy of aluminum and copper which has the appearance of gold. It can even be cast to imitate the various carats of gold in color. The alloy is stainless and can be washed with alkali solutions without injury. It is being made into various utensils which are sold at prices equivalent to those obtained for nickel silver.—Exchange.

WHEAT TO CHINA

Out in Missouri former Senator James A. Reed said, "The first great measure of relief is to dissolve the Farm Board." But while he was adding his condemnation to that of others, on both sides of the political fence, the board continued to do the best it could. It sold 15,000,000 bushels of wheat (half to go as flour) to China to feed the starving flood victims of the Yangtze river region. The sale was on credit, of course, interest at four per cent. The board has sold 75,000,000 bushels this year, but still has about 200,000,000 bushels. Further efforts were started in Germany to buy wheat from the board on long-term credit. The Wall Street Journal charged the board with "dumping" wheat in Liverpool, selling there at 51¼ cents a bushel to get under the Russian offerings at 52 cents. The Journal placed the board's losses through stabilization operations in wheat and cotton at $198,250,000. W. F. Schilling, member of the board, called the stabilization purchases a mistake. The latest member of the Farm Board is James B. Madison, of West Virginia, succeeding Floyd Harrison.—Exchange.

RICH KAOLIN BEDS FOUND

Kaolin is a pure white clay used in the manufacture of porcelain and china. The name, incidentally, is derived from the Chinese Kaoling, the name of the hills where it is extensively mined in China. But this important substance is also mined in England, France, Bohemia, South Africa and the United States. In this country North Carolina has long been one of the largest producers of the clay. Now new deposits have been discovered there, some of the beds said to be as much as 100 feet deep. Besides being used to make china and porcelain, kaolin finds its way into many grades of paper as a filler or coating and is sometimes used in finishing calico.—Exchange.

FENCE WITHOUT NAILS BUILT AT HOME

North Carolina farmers have another opportunity to economize and use home grown products in place of imported materials by building a fence without nails from wood found on the place or in the state.

"It will interest many North Carolinians to learn that Wright Shaw, of Bladenboro, has been building a fence entirely of wood without the use of nails," says R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State College. "During the past two years Mr. Shaw has cut and shipped 18 miles of this fence to Pennsylvania farmers. If these men have found the idea worth while, it looks as if our home people should also see some good in it. Mr. Shaw builds his fence with juniper posts that should last for at least 20 years and juniper rails that should last a lifetime."

In making this fence, explains Mr. Graeber, Mr. Shaw uses half-round juniper rails and mortised juniper posts. The fencing is built in three, four and five-rail heights. The five-rail fence is adapted for bull pens where heavy construction is necessary. When this type of fencing is put up, it is practically a permanent structure. It is easily set up with no nails, no stretching, or any special equipment needed in its erection.

Throughout North Carolina there are farmers who have juniper, cypress, chestnut or black locust growing on their places who could build the type of fence advocated by Mr. Shaw. Then those who contemplate purchasing fencing materials could help develop local industry by buying a North Carolina grown and manufactured fence, says Mr. Graeber.

Properly erected and cared for, the type of fence being built by Mr. Shaw will last a lifetime and is easily erected at low cost, Mr. Graeber says.

WEAPONS AGAINST ANEMIA

Two new weapons against the dreaded pernicious anemia have recently been discovered. And they happen to be two very enjoyable foods—brain and oysters. Dr. Charles C. Ungley, of Durham university, has discovered that brain contains a substance that regenerates the blood of sufferers of that disease. Ox brain, he says, contains about one-third the potency of ox liver. Dr. Treat B. Johnson, of Yale university, has found that a diet of green oysters (there are green bivalves and white bivalves) equals liver as a cure for anemia in rats. And usually what's good for rats is good for humans.—Exchange.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Sparger Apple Orchards, Mt. Airy, N. C., two loads of apples.

Mr. R. N. Hauser, 25 pounds sugar.

Gibsonville Auxiliary, 2 dozen table napkins.

Flat Rock Circuit donation: 103 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables, 2 bushels apples, 2 1/2 bushels sweet potatoes, 1 1/2 bushels Irish potatoes, 4 pumpkins and about 5 pounds dried fruit.

Orange Circuit donation: 7 bushels pears, 4 bushels sweet potatoes, 7 bushels Irish potatoes, 1 bundle of magazines, 11 pumpkins, 1 bushel corn, 3 bushels wheat, 1 bushel rye, 5 bushels oats, 4 bushels barley, 120 pounds flour, 1 bucket of honey, 310 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, 5 chickens, 15 pounds sugar, 1/2 bushel onions, 1 dozen tablets and 1 dozen pencils, 2 gallons beans, 1/2 gallon peas, 1 dress, 1 sweater, about 25 pounds dried fruit and a package of Octagon coupons.

Mr. W. F. Grabs, about 8 bushels pears.

We are thankful to all the dear friends who contributed in any way to help make this report possible. These contributions from the farms and the orchards are very helpful. We are storing up everything we can against the winter's need.

Our Own Farm

Our own farmer folks have stored away the largest crop of hay ever, and will also gather in more corn by far than any other season ever yielded here. They will be busy all this week making molasses. We are expecting to store away seven barrels of molasses. An abundance of hard work has been put in on the farm and the Lord abundantly blessed the labors. The May and June drought and the September and October drought have both cut our vegetables short, so the canned goods which is being sent in is very timely.

October

October is the last month of this Conference year for offerings to the Home. Our needs are great, and our financial report for the year is short. So please do your best during October, and please get all money for the Home in to our hands before October 30th if you wish us to get it into our report for this Conference year. Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

ASHEBORO S. S. OFFICERS

The following officers for the Asheboro Sunday school were elected October 4:

General superintendent, J. D. Ross.

Assistant General Superintendent, W. F. Redding, Jr.

Secretary and treasurer, D. D. Almond.

Assistant secretary and treasurer, George E. Ward.

Assistant secretary and treasurer, J. D. Ross, Jr.

Secretary to Workers' Council, Nan Lowdermilk.

Secretary New Members (Young People, Adult), Bertha Prossell.

Secretary New Member (Children's Departments), Leona Wood.

Cradle Roll Department: Superintendent, Mrs. R. D. Lowdermilk; assistant superintendent, Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr.

Beginners' Department: Superintendent, Mrs. Louise Lowdermilk; assistant superintendent, Helen Amick.

Primary Department: Superintendent, Mrs. R. F. Routh; assistant superintendent, Mrs. W. C. Hendricks; pianist, Elizabeth Phillips.

Junior Department: Superintendent, Thyra Wright; assistant superintendent and pianist, Enolia Presnell.

Intermediate Senior Department: Superintendent, Beatrice Lowdermilk; assistant superintendent, L. F. Ross; pianist, Golden Brower.

Young People's Adult Department: Superintendent, L. H. Morgan; pianist, Ultra Lowdermilk; assistant pianist, Mildred Milks.

Home Department: Superintendent, Mrs. S. L. Hayworth; assistants to be chosen by superintendent.

THE ABUNDANT FRUITS

Now while there is so very much fruit, apples from the mountains, the sweet pears could be eaten raw; at the Children's Home a bushel a day, or more. Some of the people do not know that pears in order to be made sweet should be kept in the fresh air—not in the cellar. Raw fruit is worth twice as much as the cooked. Health teachers urged that we eat something raw every day.

I lost my sight for reading on July 4th, but I try to write but am not able to read this writing.

Truly,

W. F. GRABS.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father. May the Heavenly Father bless you all.

MRS. A. A. GARRETT AND CHILDREN.

WESTERN PASTORS' FEDERATION MEETS AT ALBEMARLE

On September 28 at 10:30 a. m. the Western District Pastors' Federation met in the Albemarle M. P. Church, with Dr. R. M. Andrews, chairman, in the chair. A very impressive devotional service was conducted by Rev. R. S. Troxler. Then Rev. G. H. Hendry and Rev. C. E. Ridge discussed the query: "Resolved, That the need for doctrinal preaching no longer exists." Fine thoughts were given on both sides, but I think the general opinion reached was that there is still need of preaching the fundamental doctrines of the Bible, but not so much church creed.

Rev. O. B. Williams being absent, the brethren very ably discussed his subject, "What Can Be Done to Increase the Attendance Upon Public Worship?" Brother Hendry has been trying the plan of making the Sunday school and preaching service one service to some success. Others suggested that if the parents and teachers would use their influence to get the young people to stay for the preaching services it would help greatly.

Rev. J. M. Morgan and Rev. C. H. Hill debated the query: "Resolved, That the need for the M. P. Church as a protest against Episcopacy is past." Real information was given on both sides of the question.

Dr. S. W. Taylor, president, brought us a helpful message on the financial program of the church.

There were also some general discussions that were worth while. I think it was one of the best meetings we have had.

In the business session, Dr. R. M. Andrews was re-elected president or chairman, and E. A. Bingham, secretary for another year.

E. A. BINGHAM, Secretary.

of each mercy for which I give especial thanks. It fixes it in my mind, and the slips make profitable reading for me. You may look them over while I am out attending to the dinner."

"Thank you very much, dear Helen," said Inez. "Just one more question now. What do you do with the money you gather so?"

"Oh, there are a thousand things to do with it," exclaimed Helen, "so many that I ache because I cannot make it a thousand times more than it is. I open the globe once a year, on the anniversary of my Charlie's birthday into heaven, Inez"—her voice faltered a little—"and I divide the money. The dear Woman's Board always has its share, and then some goes for Home work; one year to a home for boys, another year to the Fresh-Air Fund; once it bought some crutches for a little lame girl. I ask the Lord to use it where He wants it, at home and abroad."

She left the room, and Inez turned to the box in her lap. It contained a multitude of little slips of paper, each recording some cause for gratitude. It was a curious and varied collection. Inez laughed over some, and over others her eyes moistened. "Because the children are safely over the measles." "Because I found the ring I lost last week." "Because my dear daughter, Alice, has this day publicly confessed Christ." "Because I had a good letter from mother." "Because my neuralgia is better." "Because in the fire our home was spared." "Because I have a pretty new dress." "Because my Charlie entered into glory on this day, five years ago." And so on, through many slips. Inez read, "Dear heart, how she sees the Lord's hand in everything, great and small," she mused; "and says 'thank you' for it all! She is right; this sort of giving must be not only a luxury, but a help toward God. I will try it."

And Inez tried it. Afterward she wrote to her friend: "As to the duty of giving, Helen, which did at one time seem hard and cold to me,—

"God placed a duty in my hand;

Before mine eyes could see

Its rightful form, that duty seemed

A bitter thing to me.

The Sun of Glory rose and shone;

Then duty I forgot.

And thought with what privilege

The Lord has blessed my lot."

God Came to Me

God came to me at break of day
And earnest words did kindly say:
"Into My vineyard go and work;
Be worker true and not a shirk!"

God came to me in heat of day
Lest I grow weary and swoon away:
"Faint not," said He, "in season due
The harvest time will come to you."

God came to me at end of day
And fit reward did fully pay.
God comes to me and comes to you—
To both of us is ever true.

Economy!

Dr. R. M. Andrews sounds this slogan this week and advocates its application in certain important affairs of our church. But the practice of it ought not to be confined to the church or to church affairs. It is a splendid virtue when employed in the matter of personal indulgence. Many who are now paupers might have become rich if they had saved instead of consuming. Money saved is money made; money squandered is money lost.

Drink has drained away great fortunes. Houses and lands have gone up in tobacco smoke. Extravagant salaries have dissipated great wealth. Many of us waste today what we will want tomorrow. If our whole nation would begin the practice of strict economy hard times would take their leave. Men are authors of their own undoing when they spend more than is meet. Few are the people who do not have some wasteful habits. The use of money or other means is a matter of morals. Before making an exchange we should carefully consider whether the proposed transaction can be justified. In the matter of spending trust money committed to our care as in the case of money belonging to the church we are bound by the most sacred obligation to spend the money strictly according to its true purpose. Economy is not miserliness, far from it. The one is a virtue, the other is a vice. Let us beware of miserliness, especially in contributing to the church and the cause of Christ.

—Calvary church quarterly conference instructed the delegate to urge the return of its pastor, Rev. C. W. Bates. Our impression is that this year has been the most fruitful year of the four.

Her Decision

A coy young maiden, ninety or more,
With two bold lovers banging the door,
Was surely in a desperate strait:
Why hadn't they both secured a date?

Impatient knocking louder grew,
And what indeed was maid to do?
She faced the music, down she went
To see on what the two were bent.

They seized her arms both left and right
And pointed out their cars in sight:
"Go ride with me!" "Go ride with me!"
They yelled as loud as loud could be.

"Hold on! Hold on!" the maiden said,
"I'll stay at home all day instead;
If you keep on I'll pull in two
And never ride with either of you."

Ingratitude

When I was a small boy I went one summer day to Hillsboro, N. C., on a railroad excursion train. While there I saw a crippled beggar go to the front door of a hotel and ask for food. The proprietor brought him out some stale biscuits. No sooner had the hotel man gone in than the beggar began to complain, finding fault with the food handed him. The next moment I saw the hotel keeper rush out, snatch the bread from the beggar's hands and take it back into the hotel, leaving the poor man to put on the best face he could with empty hands and empty stomach. What a predicament would we be in if God should snatch from us all the things He has given us for which we are ungrateful.

—Editors are frequently called on to provide fillers for small spaces. Without them the printed sheet would be marred by bald spots. In proportion to size these fillers often rank higher than the long articles in interest for the reader. In like manner small people often have a value entirely out of proportion to their physical size. Nature has her compensations.

—An unusual number of successful revival meetings are reported this week. Read them and be inspired.

—We regret to hear of the death of Brother Marshal Hatley, of Albemarle. He was a fine example of what a church member should be, we believe.

PROGRAM OF BOARD OF STRATEGY

An intensive political campaign covering every portion of the United States is being planned by the Board of Strategy of the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, which represents 33 of the 34 dry groups in the United States. Every community in the United States will be reached by the campaign now being outlined. In addition to going directly to the voters in every constituency, the Board of Strategy intends to address itself to the national conventions of the major political parties, especially to their platform committees, insisting that no platform plank shall be adopted which is unfriendly to the Eighteenth Amendment or which favors the return of legalized intoxicating beverages. Asserting that they represent the wishes of the overwhelming majority of the American people, the dry leaders represented through this Board will also insist upon the nomination for president and vice-president of candidates who are loyal to the Constitution, who will not give their consent to any measures intended to nullify it, and who will not countenance any movement for the repeal of the most important piece of social legislation which has ever been adopted in this country.

The campaign which is being outlined divides itself naturally into two phases, the rural effort and the urban campaign. While the rural districts, including the majority of the voters of the country, are already believers in the policy of national prohibition, energetic efforts will be put forth to thoroughly inform all the voters in these sections on the issues involved and on the need for complete organization in order that the full dry vote may be registered at the polls. Different methods will be pursued in the larger centers of population where it will be necessary to have a more elaborate campaign of education, publicity and organization on the reasons for the Eighteenth Amendment, its necessity, and the disastrous social, economic and political consequences which might follow any attempt to restore so anti-social, costly and destructive a traffic as that in intoxicating liquors.

While various state groups and local organizations will very largely care for those phases of the campaign which are concerned solely with the election of state officers, or United States Senators and members of Congress, the program for intensive effort being drawn up by the Board of Strategy will enable these state and local groups to avoid duplication of effort and to concentrate more effectively in such constituencies as may be endangered by the misleading propaganda of those who are suggesting that the nation solve its industrial problems by becoming tipsy.

The use of thousands of speakers on the platform, in public mass meetings, and in churches of various denominations, the development of a wider utilization of the radio, in addition to the distribution of tons of literature on the form of books, pamphlets, and circulars, as well as letters addressed to persons who might be considered in positions of leadership in various communities is an essential element of this nationwide campaign now being inaugurated.

The organizations which have created the Board of Strategy number many millions among their recorded membership, the twelve church temperance commissions alone representing a membership of twenty million in addition to an even larger constituency of whom the largest percentage are qualified voters. Many of these organizations already have subsidiary branches, some of which are organized in practically every hamlet and cross-road, as well as town and city throughout the nation. It is intended to make use of these local organizations through increasing their number and their influence with the intent of reaching as often as possible every potential voter in the country with the truth about the menace of legalized liquor and the danger to the health, prosperity and well being of the country if the political representatives of the brewers and distillers should once more gain that political domination which they held up to the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment.

While the activities of the Board of Strategy will largely consist of suggesting ways and means, policies and programs, the assured co-operation of the local units will make possible a practically uniform campaign, adjusted, naturally, to meet the varying problems of the rural or the urban communities.

The Board of Strategy is planning an extensive information and organization campaign among the farmers of every state. Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, has been elected as a member of the Board and it is hoped and believed that the state granges and other farm groups will most enthusiastically co-operate in the movement.

The dry members of the American Legion will be reached by a special campaign being organized. It is self-evident that the action taken by the delegates to the Legion convention was not representative of the whole body of Legionnaires, but was rather practically the expression of merely personal opinion on the part of a very small percentage of the men who were mustered into service for the late war. The great body of these ex-soldiers who have not found opportunity for expression through their organization will be reached by special endeavors to be made by those organizations which are fighting today's battles against alcoholism and against the liquor enemies of the Constitution.

Special campaigns will also be directed toward the hundreds of thousands of members of local labor unions whose support of this national policy is being ignored by professional labor leaders who assume the right to speak for the workers of the country without making any serious attempt to ascertain the will of the millions who constitute the local labor groups. Not alone organized labor, but the great body of unorganized workers will be reached by both local and state groups with the co-operation and counsel of the national dry organizations.

The lawyers of the country who support the Eighteenth Amendment will be especially appealed to under a practical plan which will enable those sworn officers of courts who regard seriously their oaths to support the Constitution, effectively to register their will. Since only a comparatively small number of the members of the legal profession have registered in any poll or canvass, it is expected that this new movement will afford the better element at the bar an opportunity for personal enlistment in behalf of respect for law and obedience to law.

Members of the medical fraternity will be given special attention in the plans for the 1932 campaign. The fact that the majority of the physicians of the country do not avail themselves of the government's permission to obtain permits for the medical use of liquor is one of the most significant indications of the attitude of the medical profession toward the question of intoxicating beverages. While large numbers of outstanding physicians have repeatedly expressed themselves as believers in, as well as observers of the prohibition laws and have been extremely outspoken on the evils of beverage alcohol, this will be the first major attempt in recent years that has been made to obtain the active support of members of this profession.

In each of these groups, the American Legion, the workers of the country, the attorneys, and the physicians, the members of the Board of Strategy believe that the majority is in favor of the maintenance of the Eighteenth Amendment and of its proper enforcement.

The Board of Strategy calls the attention of the public to the strong pronouncements in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment and its continued enforcement which have been adopted by the General Federation of Women's clubs, the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, National Education association, National Grange, the National Parent-Teachers association, and practically all church young peoples' societies and the general governing bodies of the great church denominations both North and South.

THE DRY BOARD OF STRATEGY

(A Statement by Ernest H. Cherrington, Chairman of the Board of Strategy of the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment)

One of the most significant events in connection with prohibition activities during the past ten years is the creation of a Board of Strategy, representing the organized temperance forces of the United States of America.

This Board of Strategy is not just another new organization. It is far more significant than that. It is the official agency created and empowered by the organized temperance movements of the nation for a specific task.

The National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment might well be called the official federation of national temperance organizations. It is a delegated body. Its membership is composed of official delegates selected by 33 national temperance organizations. Each such organization selects its own representatives on the control board.

Created in the beginning for joint legislative activities, this conference, at its last annual session, was enlarged and its powers extended until it has become in many ways the agency which speaks officially for the organized prohibition forces on many important phases of the prohibition question.

In December, 1930, the Constitution of this conference was reframed so as to give to the conference and to its committees and special agencies enlarged powers, the idea being that these 33 temperance groups could do far more effective work along many lines in a unified effort. At no time in the past have these nationally organized temperance groups unified and correlated their activities as they have done by this significant action and by the further action in creating a Board of Strategy for the oncoming campaign.

This federated group through its Board of Strategy and its correlated committee on education is now working on a comprehensive plan which includes 15,000 mass meetings in the interest of prohibition during the next 13 months. This plan moreover includes an extensive program or the use of posters among the churches and schools of religious education, national radio hookups, an extensive publicity program in the press, and the distribution of a veritable flood of the most authoritative literature on all phases of the alcohol problem during the oncoming national campaign. Much has already been accomplished along this line, the groups composing this federation have averaged more than 7,500 mass meetings a year during the past two years and it is now planned to increase this number by 100 per cent during the 13 months ahead. There are practically no limits to what can be effectively done along educational lines by the co-operative effort which has thus been started.

The National Conference moreover provided for a decided increase in the size of the body by changing the charter so as to admit to membership state federated groups representing the several state organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, it being the idea of the National Conference that the voices of such state federated groups are particularly needed at this time in national temperance councils.

Another new provision of the National Conference Constitution provides for the election of members at large in this national federated body, the thought in this being that the counsel and advice of outstanding men and women of the nation not officially connected with temperance organizations are now needed to help meet the demands of the new situation which has developed.

At the last meeting of the National Conference, action was also taken looking to the enlarged activities of all the several denominational temperance commissions, practically all of which are members composing this national body. The several church denominations are being urged to increase the financial support of these commissions and thus give to them the opportunity of expanding their important fields of usefulness.

The Board of Strategy was created by the National Conference that there might be a unified effort of the organized temperance forces and the friends of prohibition in connection with the presidential campaign in 1932. It is charged with the specific task of securing dry planks in national party platforms and the nomination of dry candidates and of conducting the campaign for the election in 1932 of a president of the United States acceptable to the friends of prohibition.

The Board of Strategy consists of Chairman Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism; honorary chairmen, former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma; United States Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; vice-chairmen, Hon. Grant M. Hudson of Michigan; Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League; Col. Patrick Henry Callahan, secretary of the association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition; Mrs. Ella A. Boole, National and World President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; recording secretary, Miss Izora Scott, Legislative Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. These also constitute the executive committee of the board with the addition of Dr. Arthur J. Barton of North Carolina, chairman of the Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist convention; National Superintendent F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League of America; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the M. E. church; and Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Commission on Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie has been selected as the executive secretary of the Board of Strategy.

The organizations included in the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment for whom this Board of Strategy will function are as follows:

- Alcohol Information Committee.
- Anti-Saloon League of America.
- Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition.
- Association in Support of National Prohibition.
- Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the M. E. church.
- Board of Temperance and Social Service of the M. E. church, South.
- Board of Temperance and Social Welfare of the Disciples of Christ.
- Catholic Clergy Prohibition League.
- Commission on Law Enforcement of the Congregational church.
- Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist convention.
- Committee on Promotion on Temperance Legislation in Congress.
- Department of Moral Welfare of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.
- Department of Social Service of the United Presbyterian church.
- Department of Social Service of the Universalist church.
- Flying Squadron Foundation.
- Friends' Board on Prohibition and Public Morals.
- Independent Order of Rechabites.
- International Order of Good Templars.
- International Reform Federation.
- International Society of Christian Endeavor.
- National Civic League.
- National Division of the Sons of Temperance of North America.
- National Reform Association.
- National Temperance Society.
- National United Committee for Law Enforcement.
- National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.
- Prohibition Facts Service.
- Prohibition National Committee.
- Scientific Temperance Federation.
- Social Service Division of the American Baptist Home Mission Society.
- Temperance Committee of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

Unitarian Temperance Society.

World League Against Alcoholism.

The official church temperance committees of twelve outstanding denominations are included in this federation. The church denominations represented by these commissions have a total membership of about 20,000,000 and a much larger constituency. At no time in the history of the prohibition movement has there been any united effort even remotely approaching that which has thus been created. Not only are the 33 dry organizations of the country, grouped together in this national association and represented by this Board of Strategy, intent upon the same aim, but they are so correlating their forces under a united effort that duplication may be avoided and the full effect given to their endeavors. Through the cooperation of the various state organizations with existing state headquarters and with the local units already existing and functioning in counties, towns and cities, it is believed that almost the entire voting strength of the American people can be reached with accurate information and stirred to organized effort through machinery whose effectiveness has already been demonstrated.

THE CONVENTION CALL

On behalf of the children of the world and in the interest of Christian Education, we issue this call to the Eleventh Convention of the World's Sunday School association, to assemble in the city of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from the 25th to the 31st day of July, in the year of our Lord 1932.

Conventions since 1889 in London, St. Louis, Jerusalem, Rome, Washington, Zurich, Tokyo, Glasgow, Los Angeles,—have led the way to a rich world fellowship in Christian Education.

This Eleventh Convention is the first to be held south of the Equator. It is, moreover, the first representative gathering of a Christian nature from around the world ever called to meet in South America. Coming as it does at a time of marked transition in the thought life of a hundred million Latin Americans, this Convention has a unique opportunity to make a vital contribution to the on-going of Evangelical Christianity.

The theme chosen for the Convention is O Christo Vivo—The Living Christ. It is stated in Portuguese, the language of Brazil. It challenges all Christians throughout the world.

Never has it been more needful than now to stress in every land the Christian Education of Childhood and Youth. Here is to be found the Christian answer to the secularism of our time. The quiet, simple processes of Christian Education are the most potent which the Church of Christ has at its disposal to insure a redeemed world.

Only inasmuch as we seek through the processes of Christian Education to lead young people to faith in The Living Christ can we ever hope to win the world for Christ and the Kingdom of God.

Harold Mackintosh, president; L. A. Weigle, Chairman, James Kelly, Gen'l Sec.; Robt. M. Hopkins, Gen'l Sec. London, July 22, 1931.

For information concerning this Convention, including routes and rates of travel, address the World's Sunday School association, 216 Metropolitan Tower, New York City.

EVANGELISM

"Thy Kingdom Come"

Dr. and Mrs. Brown have been called to Westminster, Md., on account of the illness of their daughter. They have our sympathy and prayers. We hope for the daughter a speedy recovery.

Charlotte

September 27.—The 11 o'clock hour on this Sunday we participated in the Rally Day program of First church, Charlotte. The attendance at both Sunday School and preaching service indicated a good response to the efforts on behalf of this occasion. Where as many people can be gotten together as were present here on this day there must be a field for service. Dr. Andrews has given a year of thoughtful and earnest work to the charge, and we trust that he may see in these closing weeks the fruits of his labors. Because of the economic depression and the parsonage debt, the church is somewhat burdened, and finances are in arrears. However, we bespeak for pastor and people zealous and persistent efforts to realize the maximum amount for all claims.

We enjoyed our visit here, and the hospitality of Dr. Andrews' home.

Roberta

Our night appointment of the above date was with Brother C. H. Hill and his people of the Roberta church. A congregation much larger in size than we usually find was present for this service. We enjoyed the worship with them, and their response to our effort to preach was pleasing and helpful. Our church here is doing splendid work and has a large community support. The pastor informs us that the services are always well attended. This is a very significant fact; church attendance is a sure sign of the spirituality of a community. The Sunday School is thriving and is well housed. The Roberta cotton mill is the financial dependence of many of the members of this church. For months during this year the mill did not run. This, of course, affected the finances of the church. But now the mill is running, and the outlook for salary and budgets is much better. Brother Hill is laboring faithfully to promote every interest of the church, and he and his people will work together for the best possible conference report. A collection was taken during our visit for A. C. B., which amounted to $17.01. For this, and for the kindness of Brother and Sister Hill, we are grateful.

Pastor's Federation Meeting

September 28.—This was the Western Pastor's Federation, and the meeting was held in our Albemarle church, at 10 a. m. on this date. Fifteen or twenty pastors were present, representing most of the charges in the western district. Besides the pastors a number of laymen and laywomen were in the meeting. The program dealt with matters vital to the church, and was heartily and interestingly participated in by a number of the brethren. The time given us on the program was used in stressing the financial needs and problems of the church, and urging that we keep this before our people as the main matter during these closing weeks. The meeting was pleasing in spirit and helpful in results. Dr. Andrews was elected to succeed himself as chairman, and Rev. E. A. Bingham was re-elected as secretary. The ladies of the church served dinner in the church basement. There was no afternoon session.

The Pastor's Federation was organized in 1929, and has been in active operation since. Our impression is that it is fully justifying its place in our conference scheme.

Winston

October 4.—On this Sunday we were with Bro. Pritchard in the morning service at First church. This service was held in honor of Dr. J. F. McCulloch, who has been the efficient editor of the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD for 37 years. The HERALD of last week gave an account of this occasion. We shall not, therefore, enlarge here upon details. The service was well-ordered and pleasing. Dr. McCulloch has done a great work for the conference, and recognition of his labors is well merited. Brother Pritchard has always been a great booster of the HERALD, and succeeds on the charges that he serves in building up a large subscription list. His quota of 25 for the Winston church has been more than doubled.

While on this visit we had the pleasure of being in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Milloway, and Brother and Sister Pritchard.

South Winston

The night service of the above date was with this church. The attendance was not large, though several were present, and we enjoyed the worship with them. A church building has been started during the year, but owing to lack of funds the work has been suspended. They expected to finance the enterprise through the Building and Loan, but have not been able to mature their plans. The building is damaging, and we trust that something can be done soon to inclose it. Our people here are faithful, but handicapped for lack of means. Brother Troxler has given good service to the church during the year. He announced a revival meeting to begin there soon.

Boundary Committee

October 8.—According to the call of Chairman Dixon, this committee met in First Church, High Point, on this date. A few boundary matters were before the committee, and careful consideration given to them. A further meeting will be held in the early part of the conference session, and final action taken on these changes at that time. It will most likely be necessary to combine some charges because of financial conditions; but in doing this, we must not lose sight of our pastors. They must be taken care of as well as charges. The hope and the desire of the committee is to work out such plans as will take care of both.

Friendship

October 10.—We had a Saturday night appointment with this church, and enjoyed the fellowship and the worship of the hour. This is Brother Williams' first year with this charge. He has been thoughtful and earnest in his desire to promote the interests of the church. We trust that the year's work may make possible gratifying conference reports. This church is well located, and is one of our strong rural charges. The parsonage, a splendid building, is on the church lot. We suggest to the pastor and our people there that they make this a highway beauty spot. The location on the hard surface highway and the attractive site occupied by the church and parsonage, makes this easily possible. The pastor and his people will be diligent in their efforts for a good closing of the year.

We are indebted to Brother Williams and his wife for entertainment in their home.

Albemarle

October 11.—This was the 22nd anniversary of the founding of this church, and it was our privilege and pleasure to spend the day with them and participate in the services, beginning with the Sunday School and continuing through the afternoon program. For the study of the Sunday School lesson we were in the men's class taught by Brother Curry. The Sunday School attendance for the day was 230. An interesting and appropriate feature of the 11 o'clock service was a recognition of the charter members of the church. The church began with 23 charter members. Seven of them were present and occupied chairs reserved for them. The roll of the deceased charter members was called, and flowers placed in the chairs reserved for them. There are 11 deceased charter members. Five of the surviving charter members were absent. It was our privilege to preach in the morning service. The attendance was good, and a spirit of earnestness, gladness and worship pervaded the place. After a bountiful dinner, served picnic style in the basement of the church, we reassembled for the afternoon service. Sister Moton, wife of Rev. J. H. Moton, a beloved pastor of this church, spoke in this service. Brother Curry had prepared an interesting and comprehensive historic sketch of the church, covering the 22 years of its existence, which he read during this service. This was followed by a timely and helpful sermon preached by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College. A full choir rendered pleasing music for the day. The entire program of the day was well planned and effectively carried out. The offering amounted to nearly $1,000.

Our congregation here is faithful, and their church is attractive, commodious, and well arranged for present work and future expansion. They have just sustained a loss by death of one of their most useful members, Brother Marshall Hatley. He was one of the 22 charter members. His bereaved wife and family, and the church, have our sympathy in this sorrow.

Brother Curry is giving his accustomed thoughtful attention and zealous efforts to the work. We hope for him and his people a happy closing of the year. We are indebted to Brother Curry and his family for the kind hospitality of their home.

The Local Church

We often speak of the "key man"; but I am not thinking about him now. It's the "key church" that I am thinking about—the LOCAL CHURCH. This is the "key church."

And this key will unlock the secret to our conference success or failure this year. As the local church goes, the conference will go. Our success or failure is right there. If 232 LOCAL CHURCHES will meet their financial obligations in full, the conference will have full financial reports, and can meet its obligations in full. If each LOCAL CHURCH on any charge will meet its financial obligations in full, the charge will be on the conference honor roll. This goes, of course, without saying; but we are saying it for the emphasis that it needs. The LOCAL CHURCH is the "key church," and right there is the secret of our success or failure. This is true along all lines, but just now the emphasis is to put on finances. This is "pay-up" time, and the local church is the key. We succeed or fail according to the LOCAL CHURCH. See to it, LOCAL CHURCH, that the "key" opens the way to our financial success.

Appointments

October 16.—Cleveland charge.

October 17.—Fallston charge.

October 24.—Why Not charge in quarterly conference.

October 25.—Belmont, 11 a. m.

November 4.—ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

"And they stood every man in his place round about the camp; and all the host ran, and cried, and fled."

Fraternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

BUYING PROSPERITY WITH BEER!

By GEORGIA ROBERTSON

In order for the brewers to pay into the Federal Treasury $400,000,000 in license fees, as August Busch said they would do with the return of beer, it would be wise for everyone to ask himself the following questions which concern him whether he is a manufacturer, owner of a mine producing raw material of any kind, an oil well, timber lands, dairy or stock farm, poultry farm, truck garden, cotton fields, fruit orchards, or a merchant, agent, salesman, or has or expects to have anything to sell—even his or her own labor.

1. How many million dollars in addition to those $400,000,000 promised the Treasury would the brewers have to take out of the pockets of our people before they would pay those $400,000,000 into the Treasury in license fees?

2. How much would spending all those vast sums of money for beer reduce the buying power of the people in purchasing the necessities and comforts of life?

3. Would the employment and wages paid for manufacture of beer and its allied industries, anywhere equal the employment and wages lost by those thrown out of other employments because the people would not be able to buy these other products being made by them, when spending this enormous amount of money on beer?

4. How much in time and wages would also be lost Mondays because of Sunday drinking orgies?

We have more food and manufactured goods now than the people who need them are able to buy when not wasting vast sums of money on beer. The grain used in making beer would "not make a dent" in the surplus stocks.

The coming of prohibition caused no financial depression, nor did it flood the market with grain, or the unemployed; then why hope that the return of beer would help remedy these conditions? Beer in abundance has not brought prosperity to England or Germany or saved them unemployment much worse than with us.

It is a weakness of human nature to want to get something for nothing, but the brewers would not give the Treasury the money. As in pre-prohibition times they would first take at least four or five times as much out of the pockets of the people—mostly working people—for beer, out of which they would pay over to the Government $400,000,000 for the privilege of taking more than a billion dollars first from the people. It would not be a gift from the brewers, neither would it be "easy money." Beware of snatching at such a deceptive prize!

Shall we relieve the enormously rich from sur-taxes and put that burden on the shoulders of the working people through the sale of beer?

Which shall it be, milk for the children or beer for the fathers?

LOOKING TO THE COMING ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Soon the annual session will be upon us and we shall be called upon to elect delegates or representatives to the General Conference. What is North Carolina going to say to this coming General Conference about the traveling president for the next four years? I think the salary now paid to a traveling president should be saved the church and that we return to the policy prior to the Greensboro conference.

Then, too, we ought to undo another bit of legislation of that conference; there was hoisted upon the Methodist Protestant Church at this same conference a big budget. There was set up a scale for large receipts and large expenditures. But never has an annual conference collected the amount allotted it. Instead it had for quite a while a most discouraging effect upon many churches in our conference. Now the amount in full is not really assessed the charge. So at the next session of the General Conference, this should be reduced to within a range of possibility for the various annual conferences, and then there will be some enthusiasm expressed by those whose duty it is to pay it.

And ALSO we ought to reduce our Promotional Secretaryship to a clerical office, who will not travel nor require more than a bookkeeper's salary, of $1,200.00 per annum.

The Secretary of the Board of Young People's Work and the Board of Christian Education should be merged into one office and thereby save the church another rather large item in salary and traveling expenses.

The time has come when all of us must return to pre-war living expenses and the sooner this feat is accomplished, better will it be for those who have to make the changes. There has already been a slashing of pastor's salaries, and it will doubtless be continued until every pastor will receive less than he did a few years ago.

Finally, what about Church union? Is the North Carolina Annual Conference committed to a union with the Northern M. E. Church separated from the Southern Church? Are we all here going to remain silent or quiescent on this subject until the General Conference meets and then allow that body, which has a majority of its membership in the northern area, to vote to consummate this union? If we are not willing that this thing should be done, it is high time that we awake to what is going on in other parts of this great church of ours. "Speak now, or else hereafter hold your peace," brother, sister.

R. M. ANDREWS.

DUTY OF THE HOUR

"Above all else, it is the priceless privilege and the duty of the Church in this hour to sustain the mood of courageous faith."

OUR STORY PAGE

SONNY JIM AT THE SEASIDE

Sonny Jim was a sturdy little fellow of seven summers. He had blue eyes and soft, fair curls. His mother was a widow and he was the only child. Their home was only one room, but it was always kept very clean by the mother's busy hands. Yes, she was very busy sewing all day long for she wanted him to grow up to be a big strong man like his father. All Sonny knew of his father was what his mother told him and the picture which he kissed every night.

One Saturday afternoon Sonny Jim sat on the step waiting for his mother to come home from taking some work, which she had just finished, to its owner. He was looking wistfully at the people who were passing by. He saw children going gaily down the street with their fathers or their mothers and they seemed to be having such a good time. He was not exactly unhappy, but he did wish that his mother had time to take a walk with him like those children whom he saw. But he knew that his mother was very busy and Saturday afternoon she had to spend in making their little home neat and clean. But a bright thought came to him. Why couldn't he do the tidying up this time? He jumped up and ran into the room. He soon moved the chairs out onto the landing as he had seen his mother do. The table and cupboard and bed were too heavy for him to move, but he would make up for all that by having the scrubbing done when mother came anyway.

He tied on mother's apron. It was too long and he dragged it in the pail of water, but wouldn't mother be pleased when she came and found the little home clean! At first he got along all right. Then he remembered that mother opened the window wide when she was going to clean. So he scrambled up on a chair, but he forgot the long apron. His foot caught in it and he tripped and sat down in the pail of water. The water, of course, overflowed and made little pools on the floor.

Just then a knock was heard at the door and a kind voice said, "May I come in?" When the door opened Sonny Jim saw a very kind-faced lady. "Excuse me, but—" and then she saw Sonny's trouble. "Oh, let me help you!" and she tucked up her blue skirt, and soon mopped up the little pools. She took off Sonny's wet clothes and wrapped him up in a quilt.

"Now," she said, "you sit on the bed while I finish this job for you." In a few minutes the room was spic and span, and Sonny's clothes were drying in front of the fire. The little boy already loved his visitor and was chatting gaily with her. When mother returned, she too, was glad to see the young missionary and promised that Sonny should attend the meetings to which the young lady had come to invite him.

Sonny was delighted with the meetings from the very first. He liked the happy singing and the sweet-faced people. After his first visit he whispered to his mother, "Mamma, I'm not going just to say my prayer any more; I'm going to pray!"

One summer morning a letter came, and to Sonny's surprise, mother suddenly knelt down and put her arms around him. "Oh, Sonny," she said, "it's a letter from your grandfather! He wants to see you and has sent the money to pay for your fare to your father's old home."

"Why haven't I seen my grandfather before?" asked Sonny.

"Because your father and I displeased him once and, though it was not our fault, he has not forgiven me—not even now that your father is gone."

"But I don't want to go without you," said the little fellow when it came to his mind that the invitation did not mean for mother too.

"Listen, darling," said his mother, "it will please me to have you go to the dear little cottage where your father lived when he was a boy. I want you to go to see the big boats, to play on the beach until you are as brown as a berry, and I want you to know your grandfather and to love him. I am sure he will love you."

Three days later Sonny was on the train—in care of the guard—and his mother waved good-by from the station platform. His grandfather met him at the end of his journey. He had been a fisherman for many years and his hair was white and his cheeks were brown from the ocean breezes.

Grandfather lived alone and on his cottage walls were pictures of ships, some out in the storms on the sea. But what Sonny liked best of all was the sea itself, the wonderful sea, never still—even on the calmest day there were ripples on its surface, and the tide came in and went out. Grandfather was pleased with the boy's love for the sea and taught him to swim, and to use the fish nets in the shallow pools along the rocks. Sonny also loved to watch the fishermen mend their nets and get ready to go out fishing.

One night as grandfather was going up the stairs he heard Sonny praying out loud. He was saying, "O God, do bless my darling grandfather, and make him love my mother again." Then a strang thing happened. The old man turned and went back to the kitchen, and for the first time in many years he kneeled down to pray. Two big tears rolled down his cheeks. For nearly an hour he stayed on his knees. The little boy had gone to sleep in the room upstairs. There was no sound except the ticking of the old clock and the splashing of the waves. But God's love and forgiveness entered and blessed the fisherman's cottage home.

"Sonny," said grandfather a few days later, "your mother is coming to keep house for me and look after us both. What do you say to that?" But Sonny's heart was so full of joy that he could not say anything. He just squeezed grandfather very tight, and grandfather understood. Sonny did not then know that because he had been faithful in his praying that this change had taken place, but he learned it later in his life, and he is still a "good soldier of Jesus Christ."—Publisher Unknown.

"In Christ there is no East or West,
In Him no South or North;
But one great fellowship of love
Throughout the whole wide earth."

"I WAS COMFORTED"

"If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies, fulfil ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind" (Phil. 2:1, 2).

Let one be filled with the Spirit and he comforts when he does not suspect. At one time, in the midst of a praise meeting, we were having a right hand of fellowship service. We came to a lady who was a stranger to us; she was clad in mourning, a woman of years and culture, as her whole being indicated. We felt deep sympathy for her because of the sorrowful countenance she wore. Taking her by the hand we said, "God bless you." We had forgotten the incident, when some weeks later we met this lady in a social gathering, were introduced to her, and learned that she was the leading member of the Baptist church of the city. Falling into conversation, she said, "I am so thankful to you for the help you have given me; your words brought to me the greatest blessing of my life."

I was surprised, and replied, "How is it?"

"Oh," she said, "when I was at your praise meeting not long since, in shaking hands, you said, 'God bless you,' and just then the cloud of grief which had rested over my heart for four years, lifted, and sweet resignation and submission came to my soul, and I was comforted as I never thought I could be."

Now, it was not our wisdom or power that discerned her grief, or brought balm to her heart, but, just filled with the Spirit by simple words, He enabled us to bind up a broken heart. This anointing will make our very presence, tones, and words a benediction to heal, to soothe, to cheer.—S. A. Keen in The Gift of the Holy Ghost.

"OF HIS FULNESS"

"Of His fulness we all have received, and grace upon grace" (John 1:16, N. T.).

What does this mean? It is the ocean rolling in upon the indented shore line, filling up the creeks and the bays, until every gap and crevice is filled with the ocean tide. Thou art one gap and I am another, we have nothing to show but our emptiness, and we need nothing more, just in that measure in which we hold to something of self, do we miss this fullness, but where there is need felt and confessed, there flows the fullness, grace upon grace.

O John, once so courageous, now languishing in prison, with disappointed hopes and failing faith, hear this—"The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, and lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the Gospel preached to them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in Me." The waters are flowing, the tide of grace is flowing—and every human need is being met, who can this be but the Christ, and if the Christ, then enough for thee!

What a shame it is to us that we should bemoan so much our dryness and the absence of spiritual power in our lives! Let us prepare a channel for the waters to flow into them. "In Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily. And ye are complete in Him." These words of Scripture are overwhelming in their greatness and truth. What shall we say about them? We can but turn to Him of whom they speak and say, O Thou Fountain of Living Water, fill up our tiny vessels, not only meet our needs, but make us overflow, make us to know in our experience, that just as every creek and crevice on the seashore becomes one with the ocean when the tide rolls in, so may we be filled with Thy fullness and know that we are one with Thee!—Scripture Truth.

NOT OURS TO KNOW

Not ours to know the reason

Why unanswered is our prayer,
But ours to wait for God's own time,
To lift the cross we bear.

Not ours to know the reason

Why from loved ones we must part,
But ours to live in faith and hope,
Though bleeding be the heart.

Not ours to know a crown of thorns—
Thy grace for us to gain.

A cross, a bleeding heart, a crown,
What greater gifts are given!

Be still, my heart, and murmur not;
These are the keys to Heaven.

'Tis ours to know, aye, learn it well—
It is the Master's way,

They serve Him best who ask not why,
Who live but to obey.

'Tis ours to know the better part

Whereby a crown is won,
Then loving God, I ask not why,
Thy will, not mine, be done.

Yet, Thy way, Lord, not mine, I pray,
I give to Thee my will,
And humbly seek Thy grace and aid,
This better part to fill.

It was not always thus with me—

I loved my way the best;
But that is past; Thy way is mine;
In it alone is rest.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR CHRISTIANITY

Christianity is not a voice in the wilderness, but a life in the world. It is not an idea in the air but feet on the ground, going God's way. It is not an exotic to be kept under glass, but a hardy plant to bear twelve manner of fruits in all kinds of weather. Fidelity to duty is its root and branch. Nothing we can say to the Lord, no calling Him by great or dear names, can take the place of the doing of His will. We may cry out about the beauty of eating bread with Him in His Kingdom, but it is wasted breath and a rootless hope, unless we plow and plant in His Kingdom here and now. To remember Him at His table and to forget Him at ours, is to have invested in bad securities. There is no substitute for plain, everyday goodness.—Selected.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Friendship, Shiloh Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler filled his appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, preaching a helpful titling sermon. His text was "God loveth a cheerful giver." A cheerful giver will give bountifully, willingly and joyfully. Sow sparingly and you will reap sparingly. God wants us to give willingly. Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, we have robbed thee in tithes and offerings. Give as God has prospered you. A cheerful giver has great influence. God loveth a cheerful giver.

Our Sunday school is getting along just fine in its feeble way without our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. W. M. Byerly, who is improving but not able to be with us in Sunday school yet. We hope he will soon be in Sunday school with us. We don't know how much to appreciate anyone like that until they are absent.

The C. E. Society gave a chicken pie supper Saturday night, October 10th, which proved to be very successful.

The last quarterly conference will be held at Friendship Saturday, October 17th, at 2:30 o'clock. All officers of the church are urged to be present.

The Workers' Council will meet Tuesday night. These meetings are very helpful to the Sunday school workers.

ADELE PHILLIPS, Reporter.

West Forsyth.—Services were well attended and a good interest shown at Tabernacle and Union Hill churches last Sunday. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor at each church. The election of church officers was held at each place. Substantial payments were made on the salary and only small amounts are due from these two churches.

The writer was delighted with the privilege of worshiping with the congregation of Union Ridge church on Forsyth charge last Sunday night and attempting to speak to the people of this church. The pastor, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, was engaged in a revival meeting at another church on the charge.

The fourth and last quarterly conference for the West Forsyth charge will convene at Harmony Grove church on Saturday, October 31. The usual program will be followed, with preaching at 11 a. m., dinner at the church and the business session in the afternoon.

Our appointment for next Sunday will be at Pleasant Hill church, and this will be the last service before the meeting of the Annual Conference. We will observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper and hold the election of church officers.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Roberta Station.—Promotion Day and Rally Day was observed at our church October 4. A short program was given by each class.

Officers and teachers for the coming year were elected Sunday. Most of the old teachers were re-elected with about two new ones. A nominating committee was also named.

The fourth and last quarterly conference will be held next Saturday night at 7 o'clock. All that can be asked to come.

There were 231 present in Sunday school Sunday with only $4.20 collection. We are hoping to increase our Sunday school, both in number and attendance in time to come.

Rev. Mr. Hill delivered another one of his inspiring sermons yesterday, using as his subject, "Believing, Yet Not Confessing." Scripture lesson was found in John 12:30-50.

Prizes were awarded yesterday, to the ones repeating the Ten Commandments last Sunday night.

It is only a few more weeks now until we hope we can get Mr. Hill another year.

ELMA MILLER, Reporter.

Pine Hill.—Bro. Bingham preached a wonderful sermon the second Sunday. The Mount Zion Singers came and sang. Their singing was wonderful. We hope they will come again.

We are hoping for Bro. Bingham to come back next year. We have all learned to love him and his family.

Our Sunday school will start the third Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. We pray that all will do their best to keep the work of the Lord moving this year. Pray for us.

MRS. F. J. SMITH, Reporter.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Sunday morning Pastor Bingham brought a very helpful message on using your talent. We missed Mrs. Bingham very much, as she was not with him.

Our fourth quarterly conference was held Saturday. Mr. Paul Hawkins will be the one to go to Annual Conference as delegate.

Please don't forget the first Sunday night will be the last appointment before Conference.

We have learned to love Mr. and Mrs. Bingham. If they are called elsewhere we want them to come back at any time to visit us.

Miss Bertha Woodruff entertained her Sunday school class in the home of Mrs. Berta Hawkins Saturday night before last.

The C. E. Society is going on pretty well. We feel proud of our president, Miss Bertha Woodruff.

We held our first Woman's Auxiliary meeting the first Sunday evening. Our next meeting will be held the 31st of this month in the home of Mrs. Paul Hawkins.

Miss Tula Pittard is visiting with her sister, Mrs. C. M. Hawkins.

Mr. Bingham was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pair Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson are the glad parents of a little son.

Mrs. Mamie Ray and little son, of Hopewell, are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Pepper.

Mrs. R. E. Greene was glad to have her 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Mollie Hawkins, of Rosemary, to visit her Sunday.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

First Church, High Point.—Last Sunday's program of Bible study and worship was carried out with the usual services, beginning with the assemblage of the Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. in the different departments. The two groups of the Junior church met in the assembly room at 11 o'clock with Mrs. L. R.

Johnston and Mrs. S. S. Coe, the faithful and efficient leaders. In the main auditorium the adult congregation worshiped, and after hearing a lovely violin solo by Miss Mildred Luce of the college faculty, and a well-rendered anthem, "Come Unto Me," by the choir, had the pleasure of listening to an eloquent and effective discourse by the pastor, Rev. R. I. Farmer, from the famous declaration of Paul in II Timothy 4:7: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." He stressed the fact that we can only keep the faith by keeping going, and that stability is the best form of ability. Shakespeare said, "Perseverance, dear my lord, keeps honor bright," and it is the greatest asset for success in any chosen field of work or activity. Isaiah said, "The Lord God will help me; therefore have I set my face like a flint." This was the watchword of Paul's whole life. Whether struggling with himself, in suffering, shipwrecks, loneliness, imprisonment, or on long, tedious journeys, he kept the faith by going on. Those who are faithful till death shall receive a crown of life as a reward.

At the evening service, which was sponsored by Groups No. 1 and No. 7 of the Brotherhood, with F. R. Auman and A. F. Ferree as leaders, an unusually large congregation assembled. The minister was assisted by Prof. L. R. Johnston and D. A. Neese, and delivered the first of a series of four messages of special interest to men, "Men Who Came Back." A beautiful quartet, "The End of the Road," was sung by Mrs. R. W. Riggins, Miss Ernestine Vancannon, C. L. Gray, Jr., and W. C. Ferree, Jr. Prior to the evening's program Prof. Ernest B. Stimson presented a lovely organ recital of three numbers.

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary motored to "Pennyburn," the beautiful estate of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Penny near Jamestown on Monday afternoon, and held a most interesting monthly meeting, with a large attendance. Mrs. J. A. Gray's Circle No. 6 acted as hostesses and served delicious ice cream and wafers.

Mr. J. H. Jennings has been elected superintendent of the Sabbath school, and has accepted this important and responsible post after the resignation of Prof. C. R. Hinshaw, who felt that he could not stand for re-election on account of press of other duties and his work in High Point College. He has been a loyal and efficient leader for three years, and the school accepted his resignation with much regret.

Mr. C. L. Gray, Jr., will be one of two representatives from High Point (Miss Dorothy Hoskins being the other), who will go to Raleigh October 19th to sing in the Atwater-Kent Radio Audition over Station WPTF. Singers from all parts of the state will participate; winners in this audition will go to the District audition, and those who win out will be entitled to compete in the National audition.

Mrs. C. C. Robbins was hostess to the Wayside Garden Club Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at her attractive home on Archdale Road.

Postmaster O. R. York returned Saturday evening from Washington, where he was in conference with postal officials. He reports that they are anxious to get the new post-office building under construction as soon as possible in order to relieve the unemployment situation here. The Federal building program calls for an outlay of several millions of dollars.

Local alumni of the State University celebrated its 138th birthday anniversary with a banquet at the Episcopal parish house on Monday evening, October 12th. Dean Dudley D. Carroll, of the University faculty, delivered the principal address. Prof. L. R. Johnston, principal of the local high school, was elected president of the High Point branch; Coke Cecil, druggist, was named vice-president, and Rupert T. Pickens, attorney-at-law, was chosen secretary-treasurer, all three of these young men being members of First church.

We are pleased to know that Rev. J. M. Hilliard, popular Baptist minister, who was taken seriously ill while on a visit in Durham, and was brought to High Point Hospital last Saturday, is improving rapidly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. E. Siceloff, on Parkway Avenue. Rev. Mr. Hilliard, now retired, has been closely connected with the religious life of the community, and especially with First church congregation for 40 years, and is universally loved and esteemed.

Friends of little Misses Becky Holt Johnston, who has been suffering from bronchial pneumonia, and Jean Blair Rankin, who has had tonsillitis, will be glad to learn that they are better.

It is a source of deep regret to a host of friends and the people of High Point generally to know that Rev. H. Norwood Browne has been compelled to resign the pastorate of St. Mary's Episcopal church on account of bad health, and plans to spend the winter in Florida. Rev. Mr. Browne is a splendid citizen whom the city can ill afford to lose.

English Street, High Point.—Another Conference year is about to close and our records for the year will soon be made. Each of us would do well to make a survey of what we have done, and if it is not satisfactory, we have a few days left and much can yet be done before our Annual Conference is in session.

Some pastors and charges are doubtless looking forward to some changes that will be made. We are sure all changes will be made for the better if we will let the Lord suggest them. But the great trouble is we rule the Lord out of it by injecting our own will into these changes. We, perhaps, pray, "Thy will be done," but go to Conference, if a layman, with instructions to bring Bro. ——— to the charge as pastor. We think we must follow instructions and therefore work to that end. The result may be the Lord is defeated in His purpose. If both laymen and pastors would let the stationing committee do their work guided by the Holy Spirit we would not have so many misfits in our Conference. A misfit almost invariably means a failure. Any God-called minister can succeed if he is where the Lord wants him. We have in mind now a man who entered the ministry in another denomination some 35 years ago. He has held pastorates in 11 different states and is now superannuated at approximately $100 per month for life. One of the secrets of his success was that they kept him on charges he was best suited to serve. The Bishops, to prevent a misfit, carried him into 11 different states. No one in our Conference knows the pastors and charges as well as our president; then why not let him have a free hand in doing this very important work. The most difficult task our stationing committee has is to please the folks, and to do this more often displeases the Lord.

Another practice into which we have fallen is that of grouping the strong churches to form a strong charge and the weak ones, which naturally make a weak charge. In the minutes of last Conference we find 15 charges that paid a salary of less than $500. Of course some of these churches were served by pastors of adjacent charges, but still they are listed as separate charges. Strong churches do not object to their pastors preaching at these weaker churches, yet they do not want these weaker points attached to them. Is that principle in keeping with the spirit of our Saviour? "For as many as are led by the spirit of God they are the sons of God." We also read: "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his."

Erysipelas and blood poison still keep Mrs. J. A. Lee confined to her bed. We are glad to know, however, that she is now rapidly recovering and hope soon that she may be entirely well. For more than four weeks she has been suffering as only those who have had blood poison can know, but has borne it all cheerfully and patiently. Mrs. Lee is one of our best Sunday school and church workers, and she has been greatly missed.

English Street has received 19 new members this year. Most of these are adult young people and are actively engaged in the work of the church. Our newest additions are Bro. Willie Waller, from Elbaville church in Davie County, and Bro. E. I. McAdams, from the Christian church. Some time ago Bro. McAdams decided he would take one of our English Street girls for his bride. To this no one objected, but in the events that followed, the church captured him, so we are all happy over both events.

Our C. E. Society has won the City Shield for the third time. This Shield is given by the C. E. Union of the city for the best work done during the quarter. The very fact that our young folks have won it three times is proof of their willingness to work. Miss Tressie Caudle is now our efficient president. Miss Kathleen Embler is recording secretary, and J. A. Bowers is corresponding secretary.

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

Charlotte, First Church.—The fourth Sunday in September we observed Rally Day and a promotion service at the Sunday school hour. The Sunday school officers were elected also. Dr. S. W. Taylor was present and brought us a splendid message at 11 o'clock. His text was based on "Paul's Letter to the Church at Ephesus." The attendance was good and we were glad to have Dr. Taylor with us.

The first Sunday in October the Sunday school officers were installed by the pastor, Dr. Andrews, in an impressive way.

A committee has been appointed to nominate church officers for next year and present the names next Sunday for election.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at the church on the evening of the 21st of October.

The fourth Sunday in this month will be known as membership day and the doors of the church will be open for the reception of members.

Last Sunday evening at 7:30 a Thank-Offering program was given under the direction of Mrs. R. M. Andrews. Those taking part in the program were Mrs. J. H. McCall, Misses Mary Shaw and Helen McCall, Mrs. J. C. Penny, Mrs. R. S. Garmon, Mrs. J. J. Atkins and the choir.

Tuesday afternoon of this week Circles No. 1 and 2 will meet with Mrs. J. H. McCall. Mrs. G. W. Stegall, chairman, will be in charge.

On next Tuesday afternoon October 20th at 3:30 o'clock Mrs. J. J. Atkins, key woman from our church to the Interdenominational Missionary Union of this city, will appear on the program of the Mission Study Class at First A. R. P. church, answering the following questions: "When and From Where My Church Came to America?" and "Why She Came and How Far She Has Gone in Home Missions?"

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Haigler, September 30th, a son, James King.

Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Surratt spent a few days the first of the week with Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Little. Dr. and Mrs. Andrews were at home at the parsonage Friday evening, October 2, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Surratt. About 50 members and friends called. Mr. Surratt served as pastor of the Charlotte church for five years.

Mrs. W. A. Neal had a tonsil operation at the Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital on October 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Penny have moved from Providence Road to their new home, "Penny Grove," off Park Road.

Spencer Mission.—I have preached at this point two Sunday afternoons each month. The membership is small, but faithful. It is a regret to me that I have been able to do so little for this struggling group.

They pay $25 per month on their building indebtedness and hope to pay all claims in full. They are a deserving group.

C. H. HENDRY.

Yadkin College.—This church is in much the same condition it was when I came here two years ago. The sort of "elect of God" that constitute this church are faithful to the services. Sickness and feebleness among them hinders somewhat.

The revival meeting was conducted jointly with the M. E. church, South, in our church. The writer did most of the preaching but was assisted by the M. E. pastor, Rev. J. Hornbuckle. The attendance was better than a year ago. It is a joy to preach to these saints.

I suppose all claims will be paid.

G. H. HENDRY.

State Street, Lexington.—This church is rounding out another busy year. We have not written the Herald the whole year. Our reporter, Mrs. Burkheart, has done the job well.

The Sunday school has grown steadily in interest and attendance. The largest attendance on record is 279. The average is about 200. The school is very well organized. Mr. C. L. Koontz has rendered good service as superintendent during the year. His brother, T. R. Koontz, is the newly-elected superintendent to serve for the incoming year.

The Woman's Auxiliary has been active in the promotion of the work. The active membership list has been greatly increased during the year. There are four circles, including the young people's circle and the Sunshine Mission Band. In addition to the ordinary work of other years they have been feeding the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs quite often. From this they have realized quite a sum which has been applied on the indebtedness of the church.

The Men's Brotherhood is our newest organization. It is vigorous in its plans and promises much for the future of the church.

The membership of the church has been greatly increased this year; about 75 have united with us since last Conference. The membership has been doubled during the past two years. Congregations are good.

We do not know just where we are financially, but a desperate struggle is on to pay up in full. I think we will.

My present view of this field is cheering. With church and Sunday school membership doubled there are still more unsaved and unchurched prospects among our school and congregation than there were two years ago. The prospect for growth is good.

It has been a delightful year for the pastor and his family. The church has been good to us in every way, and here's prayers and blessing upon them all. G. H. HENDRY.

Laurel Hill.—Last Sunday morning our faithful pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, delivered an inspiring sermon on the topic, "Remember Lot's Wife." A large crowd attended the service. Communion service was held at this time also. Church officials were elected for the coming year, as follows: Class leaders, Messrs. A. A. Sain and J. W. Allran. The old board of trustees was retained. Stewards, Messrs. B. H. Sain, Ernest Brackett, A. B. Willis, Capius Blanton, W. C. Hull, B. A. Sain. Church reporter, Miss Lois Willis.

On next Sunday morning the Sunday school officials for the coming year will be elected.

The fourth quarterly conference for Fallston charge will be held at Friendship church next Saturday, October 17th. This being the last quarterly conference it is very essential that each official be present.

Next Sunday evening, October 18th, at 2:30 o'clock Dr. Taylor will preach at Laurel Hill. It is hoped that no one will stay at home and miss the good message we are sure that he has in store for us.

We are very glad that Mrs. J. W. Allran, who has been very sick, is improving and was able to enjoy a birthday dinner spread in her honor at her home Sunday.

Our Sunday school is getting along fine. Most everyone seems to be taking a great interest in it.

We have been holding prayer service at different times, arranged and led by Mr. A. A. Sain. REPORTER.

Mitchell's Grove.—The fourth Sunday in September we had our special meeting at the 11 o'clock hour. Rev. Mr. Howard, from High Point College, preached a very helpful sermon. We enjoyed having him with us and hope he may come again. In the afternoon Mrs. A. G. Dixon and a group of her family from the Children's Home gave us the program, which they gave at Washington at that wonderful convention. We have heard many compliments about the fine program they gave us and feel we appreciate the work which is being done as we see and hear the children more and more.

Our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, had for his help in our revival Rev. J. D. Morris, and we enjoyed his messages from beginning to end. We feel he did us good and that his sermons will follow us on through life and that we feel more determined to be one of the wise virgins and have our lamps trimmed and burning and oil in our vessels to go out and meet the Bridegroom. We hope Mr. Morris will come this way again and that he may live many more years to preach this great Gospel that saves us from sin and may we the people of God ask ourselves how shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation.

MARTHA PARSONS.

Kernersville.—Just closed a 15 day meeting at Sandy Ridge. Bro. Bell of West End, Thomasville, did the preaching. The people learned to love and appreciate him greatly. John Carter, 1518 English street, High Point, led the choir to the delight of all. He also led many young men and girls to Christ. He has gifts peculiar to himself to win the youth. Between the services he was busy rounding up the young people, who were delighted to have him pray with them. Often he was found on the church grounds at the large hours of the night leading young men into the Kingdom. I've never known a better combination workers.

The results were about 50 conversions and reclamations and 30 additions to the church. These were not children, but fathers and mothers, young men and young women.

Old people of the community said it was the greatest revival that was ever experienced at Sandy Ridge. Others will join later.

Sandy Ridge is much alive. Much credit is due Mrs. Wood, the faithful superintendent of Sunday school for her untiring efforts to bind the youth of the community to the church.

Don't forget the fourth quarterly conference at Pine Grove on Saturday before the third Sunday in October at 2 p. m.

W. D. REED.

Cresswell Charge.—The revival season has come and gone, but the pastor has had some difficulty in finding time to report the results to the Herald. Preaching twice every Sunday and three every other, conducting Bible classes three nights out of the week, and making from 10 to 15 pastoral visits every week leaves little time for reportorial work. The writer believes that the Herald family will be glad to learn that we have had five very successful meetings. There were from one to five professions and additions in every church except one, where there were no additions but two professions. The most gratifying result of the meetings was the reviving of one of the smaller churches which seemed at the beginning of the year about ready to be declared extinct. Not only were the largest number of professions and additions recorded there, but the church was revived in the true sense of the word. The Sunday school, which had not functioned for two years was reorganized with 35 members enrolled, and the attendance has held up well during the intervening two months. While recognizing that the real factor in this, as in any true revival, was the work of the Holy Spirit, the writer is convinced that the principal human element was the pastoral work of the preaching nine months, rather than the character of the preacher. As the pastor did his own preaching, nothing of a sensational nature, but the simple exposition of the way of salvation without any oratorical thunder and lightning. It confirmed the lesson that we learn from the experience of Elijah in the cave: that it is not in the earthquake, nor in the great, strong wind, nor in the fire, but in the still, small voice of the Spirit speaking to the heart, that God often does His saving work.

We are indebted to Pastors C. G. Isley, and R. L. Hotheox for the preaching in three of the revivals. They were a blessing to our people and the community, an inspiration to the pastor.

We would appreciate the prayers of the Herald family for these whom God has given us this year, that they may grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ through the ministry of the Word, the only food for the saved soul.

J. C. RUSSELL, Pastor.

Sandy Ridge, Kernersville Charge.—We have just come to the close of a revival meeting that the Lord has wonderfully blessed us in, and we just want to tell you about it.

There were over 50 converts and reclamations, and about 25 of them were boys between 16 and 25 years of age, and the best part of it was when these boys took Jesus as their Savior they did not sit back and say nothing. They went right to work telling their friends about the wonderful Savior they had found. It was a glorious sight to see all those boys work for the Lord. We are proud of them. Thirty new members united with the church.

Brother Bell, from Thomasville, was the pulpit help. If you want a preacher that can wake up the people and show them that they do really need Jesus Christ as their Savior, send for Brother Bell and you will have the right one. We all learned to love him and hope we can get him to hold a revival meeting for us next year.

We also had with us Professor John Carter, from High Point, to lead the singing. It would be hard for us to express in words the good that Brother Carter did at Sandy Ridge. Somehow he had a way that he could show those boys and young men their great need of a loving Savior, Jesus Christ. We all sure do appreciate all he did for our church and community and we certainly hope he will come our way again.

Now we want to say a word for our beloved pastor, Brother Reed. He knows how to take care of his flock and keep them in good spirits. We were sorry that Mrs. Reed was not able to attend all the services.

We want to tell you what the revival meeting did for our Sunday school. On October 4 there were 108 present; collection, $1.15. On October 11 there were 172 present; collection, $4.38. Our superintendent, Mrs. L. G. Wood, was talking of resigning. I think she has taken more courage and will still hold her job. We might look far and near and we could not find one any better than she is for the job. We all just love her and I am sure it would not be Sunday school to the little folks if Mrs. Wood was not in her place.

We also wish to extend our thanks to Rev. R. O. Nuckles and his faithful band from Smith Grove Baptist church, who came and worked so faithfully in our revival. He will begin a revival at their church the fourth Sunday in October and then we will show them how much we appreciate their help at Sandy Ridge. Brother John Carter will lead the singing for them.

We thank God for all that has been done and give Him all the praise. Pray for us.

MRS. T. A. HOLT, Reporter.

Davidson Charge.—Our revival services are over on this charge for this year. The attendance as a rule has been fine. Many times at the night services the church would not hold the people. Some visible success has been seen, the churches greatly revived and much good done. Rev. J. W. Hulin did most of the preaching at Liberty. He is one of older men who preaches well yet. The people enjoyed his messages. Rev. J. R. Anderson was our pulpit help at Chapel Hill Camp-ground. Brother Anderson is a forceful Gospel preacher that does not hesitate to tell people of their sins. He preaches clean living. Several local preachers and visiting ministers have preached a few times for us. We thank all these brethren for their services and give them a cordial invitation to come again. The pastor did most of the preaching at the other four churches on the charge. The Chisholm Sisters, of Thomasville, sang for us at Pleasant Grove, three days at Linberry, and about two days at Chapel Hill. They sing well and sing suitable songs for a revival. The people heard them gladly. We want to thank all those who labored with us for Kingdom progress. I think we should sow more good seed during the year, be more faithful at the regular church and Sunday school services and labor in the Lord's vineyard all the year.

Mr. B. K. Taylor, from Linberry church, is our delegate to the Annual Conference. The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Chapel Hill church October 17 at 2 p. m. All members are urged to be present to transact important business.

We were glad to have Dr. S. W. Taylor with us at Linberry Sunday evening. He brought us a forceful, inspiring message. We were glad to see a few visitors from the other churches on the charge. We are always glad to have Dr. Taylor with us.

E. A. BINGHAM.

Asheboro.—An interesting Rally Day program was rendered at the morning hour Sunday, October 4th. The Girls' Chorus, under the leadership of Miss Louise Swaim, had charge of the music. Miss Catherine Presnell sang the offertory. The welcome was given by Edna Mae Winingham and response, "Like You," by Jack Pugh. The Junior ushers, Hal Hammer Walker, Frank Burkhead, Johnny Redding and Clifton Brown, served at this time.

Mr. J. D. Ross was re-elected general superintendent with W. F. Redding, Jr., assistant, and able secretaries and superintendents of the various departments throughout the school.

The following were baptized and received into the church on profession of faith: Helen Bulla, (daughter of Dorey Bulla), Annie Lee Hancock, Carrie Lee Cagle, Talmadge Cole, Walter H. Lyndon and L. D. Burkhead, Jr. Received by letter, Miss Enolia Presnell, of Charlotte, and Miss Florence Whitecomb, of Camilla, Ga., but now of Asheboro. The church extends welcome to all of these.

The Northern District C. E. Convention met in our church on the same day with an afternoon and evening session. Approximately 500 were present for the afternoon session. Rev. John Permar, pastor of Asheboro Friends church, led the singing. W. W. Blair, district president, presided over the sessions. Miss Catherine Presnell, Intermediate C. E. president of our church, gave the address of welcome and Mr. Blair responded. The state president, Rev. H. C. Kellermeyer, of Charlotte, gave echoes of the Golden Jubilee International C. E. Convention which met in San Francisco, California, July 11-16. After the conference and business sessions a picnic supper was enjoyed in the social room of the church. Rev. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, delivered an address at the evening hour, while the state president spoke briefly at this hour.

Officers were installed. Rev. W. R. Shaffer, of High Point, was elected president of this district, which is now the Central instead of the Northern district.

Our revival meeting started last Sunday. Rev. R. C. Stubbins, pastor, preached both sermons on Sunday. Dr. Fred W. Paschal, of Burlington, preached Monday evening and will speak at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. during the week.

The Woman's Auxiliary met in the church Monday afternoon for the monthly meeting.

The Thank-Offering service will be next Sunday, October 18th, at 7:30 p. m. The offering will go for the support of Rev. J. F. Minnis, India. An invitation is extended to all members of the church to be present.

LOLLIE JONES, Reporter.

Eden, Halifax.—Although there has been no report from Eden in a long time, we have been trying to go forward with the program of the church.

There was a union revival held at the Hardaway Schoolhouse the third week in August, consisting of Union, Ringwood and Eden churches. Rev. N. G. Ethea, of Burlington, a former beloved pastor of this charge, did the preaching. While the visible results were not what we had hoped for, yet we cannot measure the good that was accomplished.

Our Sunday school is doing very well at present, but lots of room for improvement is noted. We miss Nicholson Neville, teacher of one of the Primary classes. He entered High Point College in September. We wish for him a happy and successful year.

The Woman's Auxiliary meets each month with good attendance. They held a Thank-Offering service the third Sunday in September. The offering amounted to over $9.00.

The October meeting of the Auxiliary was held in the home of Mrs. J. W. Hardee Tuesday, the 6th, with 35 present. We were indeed fortunate to have with us in this meeting Rev. Mr. Olive, who is holding a series of meetings in the Enfield Baptist church. He is a recently returned missionary from China. He gave us an interesting talk on conditions there.

The district meeting or rally of the Women's Auxiliaries of the first district was held at Eden church October 1st. The attendance was splendid. I think all charges but one were represented.

We were fortunate to have with us on this occasion Mrs. C. W. Bates, state chairman; Mrs. George R. Brown, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of N. C. Branch.

I am sure that from the information and inspiration we received at this meeting we will take courage to attempt bigger things for missions.

The third quarterly conference met at Ringwood church Friday, September 25th, with a goodly number present. Finances were very much in arrears, but we hope to do much in the closing days and weeks of the Conference year.

Mrs. Horace Mitchell, from Bethesda church, was declared elected delegate to Annual Conference.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene at Bethesda church Friday, October 16. REPORTER.

Rehoboth, Granville Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. C. L. Spencer, brought to us on the first Sunday a very beautiful and inspiring sermon.

This being the time for election of new officers, the following were elected: Class leader, K. E. Parrott; steward, W. H. Greenway; trustees, W. T. Cozart, H. B. Hicks, H. L. Wright, T. V. Bobbitt, W. W. Grissom, R. W. Harris, W. R. Kittrell; Sunday school superintendent, R. W. Harris; reporter, Miss Lucy Rogers.

On the third Sunday there will be an installation service held. The new officers will be installed and we hope to have a very successful year, each officer serving faithfully and at his best. REPORTER.

Concord, First Church.—Our Sunday school attendance was very good today, much better than usual. We had 20 present in the Cradle Roll Department, 17 in the Beginners, 46 in the Primary, 33 in the Junior Department, 31 in the Intermediate and 380 in the entire school. Our school was off some during the summer months, but it seems to be improving now and we hope it will continue to grow all through the year.

Communion was served last Sunday at the morning service and a large number of people gathered around the altar to take part in this sacred service and we hope each one was drawn closer to the Master by having taken a part in this service.

Our pastor brought a very helpful message. We desire your prayers for the work here. REPORTER.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Circuit.—As I have been re-elected reporter I will try to fulfil my duties as best I can.

Sunday school is moving along very nicely; attendance was very good today.

Rev. B. M. Williams preached at his regular 11 o'clock appointment, and brought out many helpful points.

Rally Day was observed today. A fine and helpful program was rendered by the children and young folks. The program was prepared by Mrs. A. V. Jones and Miss Evelyn Hayes.

Church officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Class leaders, J. B. Faucette, S. E. Holmes, W. A. Pender, Mrs. C. A.

Sykes, W. S. Sykes, G. W. Sykes, J. B. Sykes; trustees, W. S. Dodson, S. N. Hayes, C. A. Sykes, D. M. Sykes, E. C. Sykes, P. F. Tapp, J. E. Thompson; stewards, J. C. Dodson, J. F. Holmes, C. H. Jones, O. F. Jones, J. M. Minnis, W. A. Moore, D. A. Pender, Mrs. L. E. Sykes; secretary and treasurer, C. H. Jones; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Fannie T. Sykes; Sunday school superintendent, J. T. Hobbs; reporter, the writer.

Best wishes to the Herald.

ANNIE SQUIRES.

Caroleen.—We all suppose that the pastors and people who have been to Caroleen think we are dead for not reporting in so long. But we are climbing higher and higher every Sunday.

Brother J. D. Morris, our pastor, and Brother Ridge, of Oak Grove, have just closed a revival meeting which we called an old-time religion meeting. We had 67 professions and 17 joined the church. All were young men and women between the ages of 15 and 25 with the exception of three or four. Since then our Sunday school has been on the average attendance between 150 and 165. Our Men's class Sunday before last had 45 present.

Our Christian Endeavor societies are getting along just fine. We had 30 Seniors present Sunday evening at 6 o'clock and that many or more Juniors. So you can imagine what our young people are doing.

The last night of our revival meeting the people pounded the two preachers. I suppose there was a good load of eats, for Bro. Morris said yesterday that they were still eating some of it and that has been two weeks or more. The pounding was not all we did; we raised somewhere in the neighborhood of $50.00.

We are proud of our Sunday school superintendent, who has been in about one month, Mrs. W. O. Williams. We sometimes think of her being the mother of our church. She is filling Mr. S. C. Tate's place for the rest of the year as he and his family have moved to Lincolnton, N. C.

We wish all Christian people to pray that we may stay on top once more.

REPORTER.

Union Grove, Mocksville Charge.—Are we happy? Yes, indeed! Rejoice with us, folks. During the seven days of meetings, September 27-October 3, at Union Grove 66 souls were saved for Christ. Forty-four new members were added to our church. On Sunday our own boys, Rev. Taft White and Rev. Clay Madison, spoke to us. It is known that we are proud of these "boys," but no one could have doubted it had they seen the joy beaming from our faces as we listened, during intermissions, to others praise their work. On Sunday evening and each following morning and evening through Thursday evening a former member of our community, Rev. John Rash, taught us in what his audiences termed the "most instructive" series of sermons to which they ever listened. The Friday and Saturday services were ably conducted by our pastor, Bro. Ferree, alone.

Up until Thursday not a penitent had gone to the altar and one might hear Christians conversing in worried tones. But Thursday morning 14 people professed and that many united with the church then. Each succeeding service was glorious, each day bringing new souls into the Kingdom, new members into the church. It was an inspiration, too—a great inspiration—to hear and to see these new-born members, many of them children, the youngest being six years of age, testify and work for their new Master. The youngest one sang us a solo, "Let the Little Ones Come Unto Me," Saturday evening.

Only one service closed with a penitent at the altar. We were sorry to leave so, but it was nearing 11 p. m. Saturday evening and we felt that we must. Another fact that saddens our hearts is that many who would have profited by attending the services remained away. However, there were always fairly large audiences for these days and certainly those who attended were interested.

Bro. Ferree said: "Bro. Rash and I are not responsible for these meetings, but you yourselves are." Nevertheless we are grateful for the advice they gave, the prayers they prayed, the sermons they preached, the influence they shed in our presence. We hope God's people will visit us oftener.

Now, Christian friends, won't you pray for us? These young Christians need guidance and help. May God strengthen us that we may direct them and teach them to learn more and more of Jesus.

For about two months before the meeting prayer meetings were held each Sunday to pray for the success of the revival.

FADA WEISNER.

Alleghany, Davidson Charge.—The second Sunday in October the church officers were elected and took the vow of the church. About all of the old ones were elected.

Brother E. A. Bingham preached a fine sermon on Temptation. This is Brother Bingham's last service before Conference, but we are expecting him back; if he does not come back we will be disappointed, for we like our pastor and family. They are so good and kind to all. We are behind on the salary but hope that all will do all that they can to get out. If times are hard, if we do our part the Lord will help us. When we are tempted we should try harder. After preaching the Lord's Supper was administered.

The fourth quarterly conference will be at Chapel Hill on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in October at 2 o'clock. Let us do all that we can. Pray for us.

ABIGAIL COGGIN.

Randolph Charge.—The special meeting for Bethany began the third Sunday in September and continued till Friday night. Bro. O. C. Loy came to us for the service Sunday night and did the preaching through the meeting. His preaching was enjoyed very much by all who heard him. The church was greatly revived. Many who were cold and backslidden at the beginning of the meeting were on higher ground at the close. Seven members were received into the church at the last service.

The fourth Sunday in September we began our meeting at Gray's Chapel. This meeting continued till Friday night. Bro. C. W. Bates came to us Sunday afternoon and did the preaching through the meeting. His preaching was excellent and enjoyed by all who heard him. The meeting was well attended and resulted in eleven conversions and a number of renewals. The church was revived and we feel sure that many are stronger today because of these services. On the first Sunday night in October it was the pastor's privilege to receive 10 into the church at this place.

During these meetings we have been pounded many times by the good people of these churches. Many thanks for all the tokens of kindness we have received.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Finch

Mrs. Nannie Finch, wife of J. H. Finch of Gillburg community, died in the Henderson Hospital on Tuesday morning, September 15, 1931, at 7:30 o'clock. Complication of diseases was the cause of death. She had been in failing health for some time. She was 56 years of age. Mrs. Finch was survived by her husband and the following children, Mrs. Lizzie Abbott, Mrs. Sadie Abbott, Bennie, Laura, and Hunter Finch, all of this county; also five grandchildren. She also leaves three brothers and one sister, as follows: William, Thomas, and Charlie Ivey, and Mrs. E. T. Harris.

Mrs. Finch professed faith in Christ while young and united with Poplar Creek Baptist church where she remained until the end. She having lived so far away she didn't attend her own church as she would have liked, but she took an interest in the Methodist church which was near her home and worshiped there regularly, both preaching and Sunday school services, as long as she was able to go. She taught a class there for 13 years. Funeral services were held at the Gillburg church on Thursday afternoon, September 17, at 3 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ellis from the Baptist church of Henderson, assisted by Rev. C. L. Spencer of the Granville charge. Interment followed in the family cemetery near Mount Carmel church.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in her home
Which never can be filled.

WRITTEN BY HER NIECE.

Fant

On the night of September 25, 1931, God in His infinite love and wisdom called to her eternal abode Mrs. Mary Scarborough Fant. She was born July 25, 1896. On March 3, 1920, she was married to Joe M. Fant, of Townsville, S. C., who preceded her in death nine years ago. Surviving are: a ten-year-old daughter, Josephine; her mother, Mrs. W. H. Scarboro; two brothers, T. H. Scarboro and P. H. Scarboro; two sisters, Mrs. L. M. Burris and Mrs. C. W. Widenhouse.

The funeral was held at the M. P. church, Concord, Sunday, September 27, at 3:30 p.m. where the deceased has been a member for a number of years. Rev. G. F. Millaway, the pastor, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. T. F. Fogleman, pastor of McGill Street Baptist church. Pallbearers included Willie Benfield, Wallace Wishon, Frank Yerton, Everett Beaver, Joe Honeycutt and Reece Boker, all deaf men of this vicinity. Beautiful music was rendered by the Midland quartet and by Miss Millicent Ward, soloist. One of the most impressive parts of the service was the song sung by three deaf ladies in the deaf sign language.

Since early childhood Mrs. Fant had been deaf. Among those who miss her will be her many deaf friends. By her loving and thoughtful ways she had endeared herself to all who came in contact with her. This was evidenced by the large number of floral tributes.

About four weeks before her death Mrs. Fant became suddenly ill while visiting her mother-in-law in Townville, S. C. After remaining there for about two weeks she was brought home and later sent to a hospital in Charlotte. Doctors there were unable to locate any serious trouble and the continuous aching of the head seemed to baffle them. They sent her home, hoping for improvement. All was done for her that kind hearts and loving hands could do, but the great God who doeth all things well needed her in His heavenly family. She bore all her suffering with that patience and humility that must have been characteristic of Jesus.

And now her soul has found its rest,

A crown to her is given!

She left our love and went with Christ
To be at home in heaven.

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

Johnson

Virginia Ann Webster was born May 26, 1870. She died September 21, 1931, being 61 years, two months and 25 days old. She was married to O. H. Johnson November 13, 1892. To this union were born four children: Mrs. Delcy Johnson, Mrs. Blanche Bryan, Mrs. Wade Perry and E. Lester Johnson.

She professed faith in Christ early in life and united with Brown's chapel church. When she married she removed her membership to Sapling Ridge M. P. church, of which she remained a faithful member to death. She was a faithful wife and a loving mother and a good neighbor. Only about two months back her husband went on before to the heavenly home.

The loss of these two good people is heavy to the church and community. They contributed much to the erection of the new church. Their influence will long be felt.

Giver of Subscriptions

W. G. White, Winston .....$20.00

We heartily thank Brother White for his liberal gift of ten yearly subscriptions to the Herald. These will be distributed each week by Bro. W. J. Spainhower in jails, convict camps, etc., thus accomplishing good in several ways. The editor sends kind greetings to these new readers.

—Burlington's fine quartet, composed of Margaret Hinshaw, first soprano; Gaynell Bennett, second soprano; Pauline Thomas, first alto, and Christine Thomas, second alto, delighted Calvary church people last Sunday in Sunday school and church service. They have been singing together for three years and have won a valued prize.

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS

It looks good to see a number of charges coming out in CAPITALS. It is an indication of interest and effort and pride. All of these things are necessary if we are to put the campaign over.

We are asking for a column in the HONOR ROLL for the charges that secure their quotas. Will your charge appear?

We are asking every pastor, Auxiliary Secretary of Literature, and any one else who is vitally interested in helping to reach this goal of 3,000 subscribers, to do their utmost between now and Conference to secure subscribers. Get renewals. But make an extra effort to get new subscribers.

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

A BRYAN STORY

Down South there was a debate in a colored club over the question:

Resolved, that when one hen lays an egg and another hen sits on the egg the hen that lays the egg is the mother of the chicken. Both sides were ably presented, and the presiding officer was leaning strongly toward the negative side. Finally a colored brother in the rear of the room injected a question:

"Suppose a case," he said, "suppose de egg am a duck egg, den who am de mother ob de duck, de duck what laid he egg or de hen what set on de egg?"

This argument caused consternation in the ranks of the speakers on the negative, but the presiding officer was equal to the occasion. He rapped for order, and after scratching his head answered:

"Ducks am not befo' de house; chickens am de question—therefo' Ah rule de ducks out." —Exchange.

—The mother of Bro. H. A. Garrett had the misfortune to fall and break a hip-bone recently—a serious mishap for one of advanced age.

—Bro. E. S. Jones, a leading member at Hickory Grove, was buried last Monday, Rev. E. O. Peeler conducting the funeral service.

—Jack Hyland skated from Wilson, N. C., to Detroit to attend the American Legion Convention. He was on the road 34 days and used up four pairs of skates.

Other Gifts

The Sparger Apple Orchards, Mount Airy, one load of apples.

We are glad to be able to make so good a report this week. We have no circuit donation to report this week, but there are others on the way. We are to get the one on Alamance Circuit at Bethel church next Saturday. And there are still others to come.

Just three more weeks will bring us to the Annual Conference. Please hurry along to us whatever money you can send our way before October 31st.

Mrs. J. A. Dixon is very sick at this writing. Your prayers are asked in her behalf. We hope she will soon be much better.

May the Lord bless and keep all His dear ones.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

Three Ways With Burdens

(Suggested in a sermon by Rev. C. W. Bates)

- (1) Bear your own burdens. Gal. 6:5.
- (2) Bear others' burdens. Gal. 6:2.
- (3) Cast your burdens on the Lord. Psal. 55:22.

Be a real man, gladly bear your load,
Not a lazy ox driven on with goad:
Shifting not to others what is yours to bear,
Put yourself in service, both to do and dare.

Be a fellowman, note your neighbor's need,
Lend a helping hand, give to all due heed:
Loving all you meet, live the golden rule,
You are here to learn—this is God's good school.

Be a man of God—trust in Him for aid,
He's a mighty Friend, thoughtful, kind and staid:
Cast your burden, too, on His mighty strength,
He will keep and help—try Him any length.

A Church Union Movement of Jesus' Day

In Matthew 23:15 Jesus described it as he saw it, and he doubtless saw it as it was: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves."

Edison Gone

America's most distinguished inventor, Thomas Alva Edison, has gone on to try the realities of another state of existence. He has been charged with denying the future state, but his statements made shortly before his death indicate that he contemplated another life. But if he did not, what matters it? His opinion on that subject is worth no more than that of the most ignorant man. His knowledge of electricity and other material forces did not reveal to him the facts of the spirit world. A day or two before he died it is reported that he started up and said, "It is beautiful over there!" Whether this was vision or fancy no one can tell. He died in the early morning of October 18, aged over 84 years.

He is distinguished for the number as well as for the usefulness of his inventions. Doubtless popular imagination magnified his works, but he was unquestionably a great inventor. He received more than a thousand patents on his inventions. He dealt with many subjects—telegraphy, lighting, sound-reproduction, electric motors, batteries, portland cement, photography, magnifying sound, magnetism, and others.

His recent years have in part been given to an effort to discover new sources of rubber. This work was not completed. He knew how to turn his inventions to good account commercially which many inventors do not know.

He attributed his success as an inventor to hard work and thorough study. Considering all he has done and what he has done, we must pronounce him one of our greatest men. He was born at Milan, Ohio, and is to be buried there.

His manufacturing business was organized and will probably go on much as it is now going.

Christians Rally to Elon College

The Southern Christian Convention had a special meeting in Burlington October 20th to decide what to do with Elon College. Its debts, contracted for the most part in building, had become very embarrassing, making operation of the college almost impossible. The total of debt is given as $487,921. This was an anxious meeting, attended by about twenty of the thirty-six trustees of the college. Dr. W. W. Staley, Dr. J. O. Atkinson and others spoke of the value of the college to the church and of the duty of the church to engage in the teaching business. The decision of the convention was to pledge all its resources to the college and go on with the operation of the institution. Dr. L. E. Smith, pastor of a Christian church in Norfolk, was unanimously elected president of the college. He gave himself until November 16 to decide whether he will accept the office. A committee was appointed to raise $50,000 by January 1.

The plant and present endowment of Elon College are estimated at $2,232,110. This gives quite an advantage over that in the first beginning 40 years ago. Then the benefit of the experience of these 40 years is no inconsiderable asset. Elon College now enters upon a new era. Our wish is that its success may be greater than ever before. Institutions that stand consistently and whole-heartedly for Christian character and Christian training are precious and should be highly prized by every denomination.

—The quarrel between China and Japan over rights in Manchuria has resulted in a number of hard-fought battles. It takes more than treaties of peace and leagues of nations to prevent war. It is still hoped, however, that peace between China and Japan will soon be brought about.

—Neighbors and friends of Thomas Leonard have united to rebuild his house which was burned to hide the crime of murdering his nine-year-old daughter. The case shows a striking moral contrast. The distinction between good and evil is a real one.

TO MEMBERS OF RELIGIOUS GROUPS IN AMERICA

Dear Friends:

The American Friends Service Committee, a national committee of the Society of Friends (Quakers), sends you greeting.

We are constrained to believe that the General Disarmament Conference to open in Geneva in February, 1932, can be made to mark a turning point in human affairs. Never before, in the history of mankind, have the devastating results of war been so clearly indicated and so generally recognized. Past generations, indifferent to the warnings of prophets, economists and statesmen, have consistently prepared for war, have regarded war as the natural arbiter of international affairs, and have proceeded from one conflict to another. It would now seem that the peoples of the world have reached the limit of their power to recuperate from the disaster of war. Hand in hand with a vast increase in man's powers of destruction has gone an equal increase in the effect of war upon a more complex social order. President Hoover in his recent speech to the convention of the American Legion voiced the growing conviction of millions of men, when he said that the present world-wide economic crisis is the result of the World War. In our present delicately adjusted, interdependent world, the destiny of every people, however strong or weak, is inextricably linked with the fears and fortunes of the world. The law of love, the teachings of Hebrew prophet and of Jesus, are being fulfilled in the sweep of world affairs. Men are beginning to realize that they must co-operate or perish, materially as well as spiritually.

We cannot contemplate, therefore, with indifference, the persistent preparation for war throughout most of the world. Least important is the fiscal question of how the nations should spend their public revenue,—whether to spend billions of dollars annually in subsidizing makers of war material and the military personnel or upon purposes more closely related to the needs of suffering humanity. It is the menace of future war with which we are chiefly concerned. Armaments are the expression of a philosophy of international conduct and their very existence tends to perpetuate this philosophy. War is not inevitable except as armaments tend to make it so. It is not rational or natural for a civilization to attempt to destroy itself, but this disaster is likely to happen if men continue irrationally to think about it and plan for it.

The Disarmament Conference of 1932 will meet under unique conditions. Never before have the peoples of the world so clearly recognized that their opportunity for normal living depends upon the constant maintenance of international peace. If the use of armaments may destroy the civilization that has prepared them, it is worse than folly to continue them. The issue is not now one of limitation; it is one of abolition. We believe that the time has come, in the evolution of public opinion, to free mankind from the fiscal burden, the political menace and the spiritual decay incident to military preparation. The Kellogg Pact, the world-wide economic crisis, the growth of public opinion as to the effects of war, constitute a setting in which such a program of abolition can reasonably be inaugurated.

Are the religious forces of the world content to wait until economic necessity has impelled the result foretold by prophetic vision? It is our hope that the day of freedom from the menace of war may be hastened through the dynamic of religious faith. The churches of America could devote this period to a great crusade on behalf of the abolition of war preparation. Such a crusade could definitely affect the results at Geneva and could thereby change the course of human affairs.

MINISTERS AND WAR

The Baltimore Southern Methodist says: "There is more talking through the middle of the ministerial hat on the subject of war and disarmament than upon any topic which is to the fore today. During the late world conflict, everyone, even ministers, had militaristic leanings, and many of the preachers now shouting loudly for peace at any price were then thundering death and destruction at the Germans, and were retailing tales of 'atrocities' which every college freshman knew were being manufactured in quantity lots by French, British and American propagandists. We were ashamed of the general attitude of the ministry during the World War, and often astonished by the extravagant statements on the part of those who were there to proclaim the gospel of the Prince of Peace. But since that time the pendulum has swung the other way. As if in revulsion against the mud and blood area, the present world movement calling for disarmament, which is quite wholesome, has been pushed to an extreme wherein men shout that 'all war is murder' and would tag such men as George Washington and the signers of the Declaration as guilty of their brothers' blood. Such are offensive and wars which are aggressive, and call all war an unmixed evil and per se wrong; and in this the church press and Christian ministry seem to be playing a large part . . .

"Armed intervention likewise depends on what the intervening is for. We know one religious publication, which is pacifistic to the last degree, and never loses an opportunity to swat the big navy or big army people. But when the Turks were massacring Armenians on the quays in Smyrna some few years ago, this same paper screamed louder for French intervention than any other. And yet no war is 'righteous!'

"War is a terrible thing and no one can defend it save on the ground that there are worse things than war—and there are. This must be kept in mind if common sense is to be applied to the world situation. We should be the last to feel that war is anything but dreadful, but we should be the last to say that war is not sometimes better than what otherwise might come. We recently heard a young steward of one of our churches in the Shenandoah Valley, himself a disabled veteran of the World War, declare that he would fight again before he would see the 'Russian system saddled on the United States.' The truth is, most of our ministers would agree with this, if they knew that the Russian system meant a hostile foreign government placed in position to use force in crushing all religious teaching, to make war upon the churches, and to extirpate by remorseless persecution every vestige of the Christian religion. In that event we more than suspect that many of the ministers who now see no difference between a defensive and an aggressive war, would change their attitude in short order. It may be their present purpose not to sanction any future war, but they would "not see it that way" if that type of conflict were to break. In our opinion the church ought to keep its head on this whole matter."—The Army Chaplain.

PINE RIDGE NOTES

I am sure our friends have been praying for us; we have had many evidences—we are grateful and we hope they will continue. With everybody else we are having our trying experiences. But Phil. 4:19 has been verified.

At the opening of school in August we found that quite a number of students with us last year as boarders could not return for this year because of their lack of funds and on account of our lack of funds, we could not allow any more to work their way. The next plan was to arrange for them to come each day on our bus. Soon we found our old truck overloaded and conditions seemed to require a new truck, so we ventured. Now we have a 1 1-2 ton truck with express body and top, which can be used satisfactorily for either passengers or freight and just about fifty students are brought to school from two routes each morning and returned in the afternoon. In this way it is possible for us to have just about as many students in school as we had a year ago—160.

The weather has recently turned chilly and we are having an increasing number of customers at our store looking for second-hand clothing. So far this fall we have received very much less clothing for our store than usual—not half as much as we received in the same time last year. Of course, we know there is a depression, but perhaps if our friends know of our embarrassment in not being able to meet the needs of our mountain folks, now more real than ever, a more diligent search will be made and soon a supply will be on the way to us. You understand that your contribution of clothing, etc., means not only a help to the mountain people, but also a help to Alvan Drew school. Last year the sale of these goods brought to us $3,300 which helped wonderfully in our endeavors to carry on the work. This year the sales are much less proportionately, but we do not think for one moment that our friends who have begun such a good work through us are going to forsake us and let it cease. We have a good lot of men's and women's overcoats. We need shoes for all ages and both sexes. Dresses for women and girls and suits for men and boys. Ship freight or express to Slade, Kentucky, and parcel post to Pine Ridge. We thank you.

Sincerely yours,

THOS. R. WOODFORD, *Supt.WHAT CHRIST WOULD SAY

A man once said to a servant of the Lord, "I am such a helpless miserable sinner, there is no hope for me. I have prayed, and resolved, and tried, and vowed, until I am sick of my unavailing efforts." "Do you believe that Christ died for our sins, and rose again?" was the reply. "Of course I do." "If He were here on the earth in bodily and visible form, what would you do?" "I would go to Him at once." "What would you say to Him?" "I would tell Him that I am a lost sinner." "What would you ask him?" The man was silent. "What would He answer?" The man silent. "What would He answer?" At last the light came into his eyes, and a smile of peace stole over his face as he whispered, "He would answer, 'I will'." And the man went away believing, rejoicing with joy unspeakable and full of glory; and since that time has been working faithfully for the Christ who saved him for nothing. The Truth.

WITH REFERENCE TO A CONTRIBUTION IN HERALD OF OCTOBER 15

1. I most heartily agree with Dr. Andrews that the salary we now pay to a traveling president should be saved to the church for the next four years.

2. I also most heartily agree with Dr. Andrews that the big budget should be dropped. It ought never to have been laid on the churches. The time to drop it is certainly much over due.

3. As to our Promotional Secretary I am in harmony with Dr. Andrews as far as he goes, but I do not think he goes far enough. I think the office should be discontinued altogether.

4. Now as to church union, I do not quite know where I stand. I need more light. On the other points I do not think I need any more light but on this one I would be very glad for some one to help me.

J. A. BURGESS.

PASTORS, PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

The report blanks are being mailed today (Tuesday). If you do not have yours by the time you see this notice, please let me know at once, and additional blanks will be sent. (I am not certain of addresses in some instances.)

Please let me have your Journal money before Conference if possible. We have paid very little on the Journal account. I am ashamed of it. But I cannot pay the printer until you pay me. DO IT NOW. Make your check payable to.

EVANGELISM

"Thy Kingdom Come"

Davidson Charge

Sunday, October 11.—On our way home from Albemarle we stopped over with Brother Bingham for a night appointment at Lineberry church. This is one of the strongest churches on this charge, and is doing good work. In addition to a good Sunday School, there is an active Aid Society here and a flourishing C. E. The attendance was good in this service, and some of the other churches of the charge were represented in the congregation. The pastor expects this church to make a good showing in the final reports. Brother Bingham is earnest in his efforts to promote all interests of the conference. We enjoyed the visit here, and wish to express our appreciation for entertainment in the homes of Pastor Bingham and Brother J. W. Frank.

Total Receipts

According to reports from Treasurer Brown, we have received to August 31 the following amounts: A. C. B. $1,709.59; New Century Service, $4,250.18; College, $2,059.82; Supernatant special, $168.76; Gratitude Gift Deficit, $39.55; Golden Rule Sunday, $7.27; GRAND TOTAL TO AUGUST 31, $8,235.17. This is a per capita membership payment of 27 cents, plus. It should be said that the amount raised by the women for which New Century Service get credit is not included for the months of May, June, July, and August. That would increase the total $1,000, we think, and the per capita membership payment to slightly over 30 cents.

The following facts are interesting, as reflecting the relation of the Methodist Protestant Church to other denominations in North Carolina in the matter of per capita payments to all purposes during 1930: Church "A" paid $14.85; church "B" $8.76; church "C" $30.00; church "D" $26.55; church "E" $7.11; the Methodist Protestant Church, $9.28. The churches included here represent both the larger and the smaller denominations in the state. The only merit in the comparison is in what it may suggest to us. Our per capita payment is not large, and indicates that we could give a more generous financial support to the church without any undue strain upon our resources.

We most earnestly hope that these closing days may be full of persistent effort by church officials and pastors on behalf of our finances, and a most generous response on the part of the people. PLEASE LET NO LOCAL CHURCH AND NO CHARGE FAIL IN THIS.

Meeting of the Commissions on Church Union

This was held in Atlanta, Friday, October 16, at 10 a. m., and is the third meeting of the Commissioners since the movement took form in July, 1930. At the request of Dr. Broomfield, President of the General Conference, I attended this meeting in Atlanta. An official statement of the meeting will be given to the press by the Secretaries, Dr. W. E. Woolver, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Dr. J. C. Williams, of the Methodist Protestant Church. I can not anticipate, of course, that report in what I say here.

This meeting marked another forward step in the movement. It was characterized by earnestness of purpose, to find, if possible, a basis of union for these two important bodies of Methodism. We are indebted to Rev. N. M. Harrison for a seat in his car for this trip, and for his good fellowship.

We attended three sessions of the Ecumenical Conference, and received something of the spirit and purpose of this great world-wide gathering of Methodism. Representatives were present from all parts of the world, and great throngs of people crowded the Wesley Memorial Church, to share in these meetings. Out of this conference will come a new impetus to Methodism for her God-given work of "scattering scriptural holiness over these lands." On Sunday morning we attended Centenary Methodist Protestant Church, and heard a helpful sermon by Dr. Haddaway.

"My Help Cometh From the Lord"

In these closing days we are taxed by labors abundant, and faced by problems that make great demands upon our strength. The year must be closed well; and this involves the local church, the charge, the pastor, the officials, the people. Increased work, increased courage, increased faith, increased co-operation must be brought to the task of these last days. And as we turn in our thought toward our conference sessions, problems meet us, but nevertheless, problems that must be solved, and that make wisdom, patience, and love necessary. But we shall not be deterred by our problems nor the magnitude of our tasks. Why should we? If God is for us, what can be against us? Like the psalmist, we may lift our faces toward the blue above us, and say with him, in comforting confidence, "My help cometh from the Lord." Let us seek that help, brethren, for the closing work of every church and every charge; let us seek it for local needs and local problems; let us seek it for the conference needs and conference problems. It is for us; let us avail ourselves of it to the full measure of our needs. Let us look to God,—every minister, every delegate, every member in all of our churches—let us look to Him for His peace and His power upon us in these closing days, and upon us in our coming conference.

Appointments

October 21.—Draper in quarterly conference, 7:30 p. m.

October 24.—Why Not Charge in quarterly conference.

October 25.—Belmont, Mt. Hermon charge, 11 a. m.

November 4.—ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

"The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

Fraternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE EMIGRANT BRIDE

A western bound train stood waiting at the depot in New York, with the engine puffing for start, when a simply clad Swedish girl hurried into the car with a bundle in her arms containing all her earthly possessions. She placed herself on the edge of the seat, as if aware that she had reached the last stage of her journey, holding her ticket conspicuously in one hand, and a letter in the other. She could neither speak nor understand English, but when the conductor came along, handed him her ticket, and showed him the word "Altoona" at the head of her letter, written in very large and distinct characters.

At frequent intervals, when the conductor entered the car to collect the tickets, she invariably grasped her bundle, and rose to greet him, saying the only word in her English vocabulary, "Altoona," with a strong foreign accent. The conductor shook his head good naturedly, and shouted "far-off," in his endeavor to make her understand the situation; but with a puzzled, anxious look, she would resume her seat, only to spring up again, at his reappearance, with the same eager query—"Altoona?"

After each disappointment, she would seat herself again sadly, open her letter and read it with the deepest interest, the tears often falling slowly down her cheeks. Her anxiety, and desire to reach her destination were so genuine, that her fellow-travelers began to watch her with sympathy, and speculate as to the reason of her impatience.

With mute lips and pale, tense face, she constantly referred to her letter, as if to gather courage and patience for her long waiting.

The sympathy of the passengers waxed greater, as her disappointment deepened with each delay, until at last, when the conductor beckoned to her, with a smiling countenance, as the train slackened its speed, there was an almost audible sigh of satisfaction throughout the car, when she caught up her bundle and hastened with beaming looks to the door, to be folded in a pair of strong young arms, as a tall, stalwart man entered the car before the train had fairly stopped.

Everybody was interested, and questioned the conductor about her. He inquired of the people at the depot, who told him that this poor young stranger had crossed the ocean, braving all its perils alone, to meet the man she loved, and had promised to marry in the old country.

The passengers crowded to the windows to watch the happy pair go, hand in hand, up the hill, to the little home he had provided for her, where the minister was waiting to unite them in marriage.

We, too, dear friends, are "strangers and pilgrims on the earth," traveling by unknown ways, to meet our Heavenly Bridegroom, who bids us, "Watch ye, therefore; for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cock-crowing, or in the morning; lest, coming suddenly, He find you sleeping." Are we watching and waiting for His coming as earnestly as this poor Swedish friend, in a foreign land?

Are we clasping our Bridegroom's blessed Letter of instructions, consulting His Word, His Guide to us, with the same loving fervor as this trusting girl regarded the letter of her lover?

Are we "looking for that Blessed Hope, and the glorious Appearing of the great God, and our Saviour Jesus Christ," with the same eager expectation? (Titus 2:13).—The Way of Faith.

THE BLOTting OUT OF SIN

A little boy ran in one day to his mother, after he had read that promise: "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions." He said, "Mother, what does God mean when He says He will blot out my sins? What is He going to do with them? I can't see how God can really blot them out and put them away. What does it mean—blot out?"

The mother said, "Didn't I see you yesterday writing on your slate?"

"Yes," he replied.

"Well, bring it to me."

He brought the slate. Holding it in front of him, the mother said, "Where is what you wrote?"

"Oh," he said, "I rubbed it out."

"Well, where is it?"

"Why, mother, I don't know."

"But how could you put it away if it were really there?"

"Oh, mother, I don't know! I know it was there and it is gone."

"Well," she said, "that is what God means when He says, I will blot out thy transgressions."—Apples of Gold.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

A new American Bible is to be issued in Chicago, written in so-called up-to-date style. Thus the Lord's Prayer will read:

"Our Father in Heaven, your name be revered. Your kingdom come! Your will be done on earth as it is done in heaven! Give us today bread for the day. And forgive us our debts as we have forgiven our debtors, and do not subject us to temptation, but deliver us from the evil ones."

Somehow we don't like this. The motive of the writer may be sincere, but we fail to see any improvement in the modern version. There are always men who are revising, modernizing, revolutionizing old ways of doing and saying things. But we are old-fashioned enough to believe that the recognized and familiar style of the Lord's Prayer is best. And so we shall continue to pray:

"Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen."

THE C. E. SOCIETY OF PINE GROVE

The Pine Grove Christian Endeavor society enjoyed its last social Wednesday night, October 7 at the home of Miss Doris Barrow.

A short business meeting was held with our new president Miss Estelle Norman, presiding. Afterwards many games were enjoyed on the lawn by a large group of young people. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Thursday night, October 8, the C. E. society presented a program at Sedge Garden M. E. church. The subject used for discussion was: "Our Share In Making Christ Known to the World." Many helpful points were brought out in the discussion and everyone seemed to enjoy the program immensely.

Miss Lucile Ingram is our new secretary, who took the place of Miss Bessie Cooke, who is now teaching in Fayetteville, N. C. Our former president, Miss Blanche Ingram, is working in Climax, N. C., this winter, and one of our members Miss Rachel Ingram, is in college at High Point.

—Calvin Johnson and wife of Greensboro, lost their lives in the overturning of his car last Tuesday. They were near Pittsboro on their way to a funeral service. There was a dangerous stretch in the road and it is supposed his speed was too high for the road. The car turned over two or three times. They had many friends in this city who were greatly shocked to hear of the results of the accident.

I have been urged to say something or do something to swell our receipts. If some one will be so kind as to tell me what to say that will swell our receipts, I shall be glad to say it in italics and in capitals. I would be willing to become rash and incorporate it in a letter and mail a copy of it to each pastor in the conference, at my own expense. I am embarrassed now, but unless conditions improve by conference I shall be humiliated.

CONFERENCE FACULTY MEETING

The Conference Faculty is hereby called to meet in First church, High Point, N. C., at 2 o'clock p. m., November 3, 1931.

The first hour will be devoted to an executive session after which examinations will be conducted. So both examiners and those who have business with them are expected to be present.

J. E. PRITCHARD, Chm.
N. G. BETHIEA, Sec.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

North Davidson Charge.—We are still moving forward. Finance, of course, is low at this time. We are hoping to make a much better showing by Conference.

We held our special meeting at Mount Pleasant commencing the fourth Sunday in September. Pastor preached twice on Sunday. Rev. A. D. Shelton came to us on Monday and did all the preaching from then on to close. Bro. Shelton was at his best and did the preaching to the edification and satisfaction of all. We were delighted to have him. Bro. Shelton had served this church as pastor early in his ministry. Good congregation. No conversions. The children and young people had been won to Christ last year and the hard sinners did not come. I am sure the good seed was sown that will bring a harvest later.

We held our fourth and last quarterly conference at Canaan last Saturday, October 10. A large representation from all five of the churches. Canaan did her best. Church was nearly full of people. Bro. N. M. Harrison was with us and preach at 11 o'clock. His sermon was good and was well received by the congregation. A fine dinner that satisfied the appetites of all, and some to take home.

Bro. Harrison presided over quarterly conference. Business was transacted in harmony. Reports good, all but finance. I am sure this people will make a much better showing before Conference. We were delighted to have Bro. Harrison with us.

Next Sunday we will commence our last meeting at Spring Hill. Rev. O. C. Loy will be my engaged help. We are praying for and looking forward for a great meeting.

We are closing a good year for our Master.
H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

Kernersville.—Misunderstood. Some time ago a good lady said to me: I didn't think you would stay with us another year until I saw what you said in the Herald; then I decided that you would. I said what, that, the present incumbent would stay as long as he wanted to. She said yes. The answer: Well, I've already done that, and so we have, and will follow the example of my good friends, Powell, Spencer, Suits, Isley and other good men who have served this charge.

This year, in the main, has been a good year for the charge. The largest number of confessions and additions of any year in the history of the charge; so far as we have been able to learn; but this is not what the people want. They want someone to please their fancy. The cure, in my opinion, can only be found in a deep spiritual awakening.

Sandy Ridge paid help in meeting $50.00. The usual amount has been $10 or $12. Hard times, tight money and closed purses disappear when people get full of the Holy Ghost. In my opinion, an old-time Holy Ghost revival will cure all of the church's financial ills. The salary for next year is fixed at $750 followed by a question mark.

Whoever comes to this charge next year will find some as loyal Methodist Protestants as can be found anywhere, and some of the other sort. Many of the people have remembered us continually in a substantial way. Mrs. Stanley, of the Baptist church, and Mrs. Dewey Musten, of the Moravian church, next door neighbors to us, have been an indispensable aid to us in their everyday expressions of love and kindness.

To all those who in any way have remembered us we are profoundly grateful.

W. D. REED.

Pinnacle and Mount Zion.—We observed our annual Home-Coming at Pinnacle church the fourth Sunday in September. The first thing on the program was singing by the home choir, after which Rev. A. G. Dixon gave us a fine and appropriate sermon at 11 a. m. which everyone seemed to enjoy.

Hon. J. R. Jones delivered a splendid address in the afternoon; this was also enjoyed very much.

The Twin City quartet rendered several selections to the delight of all present. I was indeed a good day.

Our special meeting began with the Home-Coming. Bro. Bethea came Monday and did all of the preaching until the close, and did it well to the joy of all who heard. We received eight into church membership.

We held our Home-Coming at Pilot church the first Sunday in October. Bro. Harrison came from the college and preached a splendid sermon at 11 a. m. and gave us another interesting talk in the afternoon.

The Ararat quartet rendered several pieces, which were enjoyed and appreciated.

We greatly appreciate the service of all these brethren at each place.

We have received 39 members this year. We are hoping for a successful finish of our year's work, and a glorious Conference which will soon be in session.
A. L. HUNTER.

Henderson.—The semi-annual thank-offering service was held Monday night, September 28th, in the church. Mrs. R. A. Hunter presided as the Auxiliary monthly meeting was combined with the thank-offering service. The general business routine was carried out and special attention called to the District Rally meeting which was held at the local church on Friday, October 2nd.

Following the business session Mrs. H. A. Jordan, secretary of the thank-offering, took charge of the program, which was as follows: Responsive reading, led by Mrs. Jordan, closed by prayer; "Necessity and Result of Missionary Education," by Mrs. J. M. Baity; duet, Mrs. Charlie M. Hight and Mrs. Clarence Finch; Miss Maxine Taylor gave a very interesting talk on "Missionary Education."

The thank-offering boxes were then collected and opened. A collection of $15 was taken from them and this amount will be sent as part payment on the Minnis salary, who are North Carolina's own missionaries in India.

After a song by the congregation prayer was offered by Rev. R. A. Hunter.

The District Rally was held at the church as arranged on Friday, October 2nd. It was an all-day session and was presided over by the district chairman, Mrs. Bobbitt. Members from all the various auxiliaries of the district were present and it was a most instructive, interesting and inspiring meeting. The speakers for the occasion were Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the North Carolina Branch; Mrs. George R. Brown, corresponding secretary of the N. C. Branch, and Mrs.

C. W. Bates. These ladies discussed our missionary activities from all angles and it is believed that through their talks and suggestions we as auxiliaries are better informed and fitted for each particular phase of the great missionary work we are engaged in. A splendid social hour was enjoyed during the recess for lunch, which was served in the basemen of the church. We, the ladies of the Henderson Auxiliary, wish to thank the members of the other Auxiliaries who so graciously assisted in making this part of the services a success. We also wish to thank Mesdames Hammer, Brown, and Bates, and also Rev. George R. Brown, for their visit with us and their services.

Officers for the coming year were elected by the congregation last Sunday morning, the regular church hour having been given over to that purpose. Reports were also read by the heads of various departments of the church work and were said to have been encouraging, showing that the church is in a healthy condition, and that the Conference year, which will come to a close at the end of this month, has been about normal.

Rev. R. A. Hunter is closing his sixth year as pastor of the church, having come here in the fall of 1925. During that time many new members have been added to the church roster, and all departments of the work have been active.

Jasper B. Hicks will be the lay delegate from this church to Annual Conference.

Officers elected last Sunday included the trustees, the stewards, ushers, class leaders, treasurer, reporter, organist, choir director and all officers of the Sunday school.

Tustees—George B. Harris, L. R. Gooch, T. J. Evans, S. R. Harris, Sr., S. R. Harris, Jr., J. B. Hicks, W. H. Grissom, F. R. Harris, I. W. Boyd, J. B. Fox, E. O. Kittrell, W. R. Vaughan.

Stewards—C. M. Hight, J. B. Satterwhite, J. B. Burchett, A. A. Hardee, S. C. Floyd, W. B. Hight, R. W. Dixon, C. L. Finch, J. M. Baity, W. R. Trogdon, C. F. Tankersley, Jr., George W. Wilson.

Ushers—T. J. Evans, W. R. Trogdon, J. B. Burchett, Maurice Allen, N. C. Greenway, C. F. Tankersley, Jr., A. A. Hardee, J. B. Fox.

Class leader—Mrs. J. B. Fox, Mrs. C. L. Finch, Mrs. L. R. Gooch.

Treasurer—Eugene Faulkner.

Reporter—Mrs. C. L. Finch.

Organist—Mrs. S. R. Watson.

Choir director—Miss Elizabeth Fox.

Sunday school officers named were as follows: Superintendent, C. F. Tankersley, Jr.; assistant superintendent, J. B. Burchett; secretary-treasurer, J. T. Evans; assistant secretary-treasurer, R. W. Dixon; music director, Miss Maxine Taylor; pianist, Miss Alice Faulkner; superintendent primary department, Mrs. R. W. Dixon; superintendent cradle roll department, Mrs. E. C. Kittrell.

REPORTER.

Gideon Grove, Flat Rock Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. J. P. Pegg, brought an excellent sermon Sunday, as he always does. He has been a great help to us this year. Our Sunday school is getting along fine under the leadership of Bro. G. A. Middleton and he is elected for another year for our superintendent. He is also our delegate to the coming Annual Conference at High Point. Our Sunday school is good, we think, for a rural school.

We had very good encouragement this year. We had a good meeting the first Sunday in July and we had a township Sunday school convention at our church which was well attended and also a county Sunday school convention met with us. We think that if we take the proper care of our Sunday school it will in a large measure take care of the church and the morals of the community in which we live.

Hope all our Christian friends will pray that we have more in our Sunday school.

F. J. L., Reporter.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference was held at this church Friday, October 16; also the picnic between the two churches, which was greatly enjoyed. Next Sunday is the last preaching Sunday for this Conference year, but, we hope, not the last time we are to have Mr. Henderson preach for us. Not only the members of the quarterly conference voted for his return, but the entire congregation stood.

The Sunday school is to render their Rally Day program Sunday night, October 25.

In electing church officers last Sunday Miss Lula Pearson, one of our new members, was chosen for the incoming year for reporter to the church paper.

MRS. JEWELL HARRISON.

Graham.—During the ten-day series of services we feel that much lasting good was accomplished through the inspiring messages brought by Rev. O. C. Loy, although only eight made public confessions. Six new members were added to the church roll Sunday.

The fourth quarterly conference will meet next Friday evening. Not only the official members are urged to be present, but all others interested in the work also.

Our Sunday school is steadily regaining normalcy after summer vacations. Interest is being stimulated by the use of an automobile contest in all classes of the school.

Next Sunday is to be Cradle Roll Day. All mothers are invited to bring the babies for this service—and let them cry, if they wish.

REPORTER.

Enfield-Whitakers.—The most interesting recent item on these fields is the special meetings—revivals. I have wondered sometimes whether some of the special meetings I have attended in recent years could appropriately be called revival meetings; that is, whether the churches were really revived.

The first of our meetings was in the Enfield church, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll doing the preaching. One interesting feature was the afternoon services, conducted especially for the young people, so timed that the school folks could go directly from the school to the church.

These services, as attendance goes now-a-days, were well attended, quite interesting and helpful. They were junior church services, giving the boys and girls their portion of the revival.

The preaching was of high order, the attendance was good, the people were impressed and helped. Two joined, one on profession of faith, one by certificate.

Whitakers came next, Rev. R. L. Hethcox doing the preaching. The preaching was helpful, the services the most impressive I have witnessed here during my three years' stay, I think.

The same junior church plan for the afternoon services proved a happy method for giving the boys and girls a due portion of the revival, without interfering with their preparation of school work for the next day.

Then came Whitaker's Chapel, Rev. R. L. Hethcox doing the preaching, starting the first Sunday in October and continuing through Wednesday night of the second week. The Spirit took such hold on the religious consciousness of the church-going part of the community that the people said the meeting ought to continue. It did, as no one dared take the responsibility to stop it.

Brother Hethcox must have been at his best, the people prayed, it was more of a real revival than any other I have attended in recent years. There were five conversions and some reclamations. Three joined, one will join another church, and another will probably join at the next appointment. A mother and her grown son stood side by side and joined the church.

T. M. JOHNSON.

North Davidson Charge.—We are now on our last round. We are in our last revival for this Conference year. We commenced at Spring Hill the third Sunday at 11 o'clock; sermon by pastor. Rev. M. P. Chambliss came to us and preached in the afternoon and will continue to preach during the week. We are hoping and praying for a good meeting.

We filled our appointment at Bethesda on the second Sunday at 11 o'clock. A good congregation greeted us. After preaching the entertainment committee informed us that we were to go to Bro. and Sister O. M. Craver's for dinner. After receiving hospitality in the home we baptized four of Bro. Craver's children; then we came to Bro. Gobble's and baptized four of theirs. It was indeed a busy day.

We will preach the fourth Sunday night at Bethesda for the last time in this Conference year. This will finish up my ninth year as pastor of this kind people. I have either held as pastor or as help in thirteen revival meetings.

Is the Methodist Protestant Church a church of equal rights? Surely these are the principles of the old church as founded by our fathers. This means an equal number of ministers and laymen in our Annual and General Conferences. But when we elect a lay representative by the popular vote of each church he should be the only representative from said church and the stationing committee should hear no other self-constituted, self-nominated and self-elected delegates from said charges. The delegate elected should know the wish and best interest of the church and act accordingly. If he doesn't know or should be a man governed by self-interest, he should never be put up as a candidate.

We want a change. Has your pastor been faithful? Yes. Has he failed as a preacher? No, he is a good preacher. Do the people come to hear him? Yes. Congregations are good. How about additions to the church? Well, our revivals have been good and we have had a large number of additions to our membership. Is there anything against your pastor's moral character? No, he is of the highest moral character, but we want a change. We want a young man that can loaf around with us, a good joker. We must do something for our young people. They don't like to follow older men. Well, we like that fellow who can get the girls to don overalls and stroll over the woods 'possum hunting, go in bathing and teach our girls how to swim; that's the kind of fellow we like. All right. Here is Bro. Slewfoot. How about him? Is he a good mixer? They say he is the funniest man in Conference. Put him down for my charge. I know the young people will be tickled to death. I remember once when I was a younger man, a delegate walked up to me and wanted me to go to his charge—said they wanted a vocal man. I judged that he wanted a man who could sing, so I told him I would not suit his people, to see Bro. —; perhaps he was the man he was looking for.

The time has come when the young need the brains under gray hair.

H. L. POWELL.

Randleman.—Our special meeting began at New Salem the third Sunday in September; all-day service. Rev. W. F. Ashburn was with us at that time and brought two good sermons. Rev. H. L. Isley came on Monday and remained until the close. He did a wonderful work here. All enjoyed his preaching. There were 27 converts, and 16 united with the church.

Our fourth quarterly meeting was held October 10; the usual business was transacted. The reports were far from what we had longed to see and tried to reach. Hope much more can be done before Conference.

Bro. A. R. Groce, one of Worthville's faithful members, was laid to rest October 18th. An obituary will appear later.

T. A. WILLIAMS.

Shiloh.—The Sunday school, the C. E. Society and the monthly prayer service are all bringing good reports to the Workers' Council. Never has the attendance been so good nor spiritual interest been more keen in the prayer meetings than has been the case this summer; and Bro. Troxler still brings the old-fashioned gospel messages twice a month. It is our sincere hope that he may be permitted to bring yet many more.

The Woman's Auxiliary also has been active and is now looking forward to a thank-offering service to be given by the three circles on the first Sunday night in November. Come.

Shiloh held a tithing service on the first Sunday in October after hearing an inspiring message from the text, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver," the audience reverently went forward and laid their week's tithe on the altar, while Brother Troxler sang "I Gave My Life for Thee." The offering was about $87.50. What would happen, if we should bring all the tithes into the storehouse all the year? No church would have to cheapen the cause of Christ by resorting to any method or money-raising plan to support the work of His kingdom. O, that we might catch the vision and obey!

On the third Sunday Bro. Troxler preached an inspiring sermon from Job 13:24, "Wherefore hidest thou thy face?" It's a sad day for any person when they can not see or feel God, or can not get in touch with Him. Job looked north, south, east and west, but he could not find God. Why does God hide His face at times? What comes between? There are several things that can cause it. First, sin separates from God and blocks the channel of prayer and faith as with King Saul and Samson. Saul could get no answer from God, so he called Samuel from the grave and asked his advice. Samuel replied, "If the Lord is departed from thee, wherefore dost thou ask of me?" Sin had separated him from God. He had not obeyed the voice of God as spoken by Samuel in days gone by and now it was too late. Then God sometimes hides His face from the very best to test faith and work patience. We cannot always abide on mountain tops, but must also walk in the valley of shadows. But even as we walk the rough ways and fail to see His face; it is a joy and comfort to know that "nothing can separate us from the love of Christ."

MRS. WILEY SHOAF, Reporter.

State Street, Lexington.—Many things have been happening since there was a report from the official reporter, all of importance to some department of the church work. On Wednesday night of week before last there was a joint meeting of both circles of the missionary societies, at which time business was transacted, followed by a social hour in the church dining room where sandwiches and coffee were served.

A week ago Sunday evening the Rally Day program was given by the children in a very interesting way. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Cox had charge of training of the children and did it in their usual efficient way of doing things. The children did splendidly their various parts, to the delight of a large audience.

Mrs. Annie Harkey met with her class of young ladies in the church dining room last Wednesday evening for a period of fun and refreshments. All had a fine time.

The ladies of the church served luncheon to the Kiwanis Club last Thursday at noon, realizing a creditable balance.

Circle No. 1 of the Missionary society will meet at the church next Thursday afternoon for the regular monthly session, led by the president, Mrs. H. C. Rodgers.

We regret to note quite a number of sick people among our congregation. Mrs. C. L. Koonts cut her finger two weeks ago and the cut is not healing as it should, causing her pain and inconvenience. She was unable to fill her office as pianist Sunday evening. Miss Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Leonard, filled Mrs. Koonts' place at the piano, for which we are quite grateful.

Mrs. Beggarly, of near Danville, Va., mother of Mrs. H. C. Rodgers, has been visiting in the city. We were glad to have her with us in the church services during her short visit.

REPORTER.

First Church, High Point.—A large congregation greeted the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, on Sunday morning when he delivered a practical and most helpful message, which he called "Life's Necessary Outlets," from the text in Phil 2:12: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." He said that life is a condition of impression and expression, and a man's mind is like a pool of water, which must have an outlet as well as an inlet, lest it become stagnant and stale. This letter of Paul to the Philippians is a message to those who have already become Christians to give out to others with whom they come in contact the fruits of the Spirit and a full measure of service. Salvation is the work of Jesus Christ. It is a common error that there is something we can do to complete our salvation. When Jesus cried "It is finished!" on the cross, the process of salvation for the world was completed, but salvation spells responsibility, and we must work out from ourselves to others what He has done for us. This is a challenge to those who are to be installed as officers of this church today. Christ has already saved us and entrusted us with His work, and salvation's message must come by contact. Christians must help the world to believe in Christ. It may take a longer time than we think. Lord Shaftesbury worked four years to secure the ten-hour day in England. Lady Astor, woman member of Parliament, and a native of our own Virginia, one of the famous Langhorne sisters, has preached and worked for prohibition in England for nearly 40 years. "Be not weary in well-doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

At the close of the sermon a very interesting and impressive service was held when officers for the coming year were formally installed—church trustees, stewards, ushers, music committee, house committee, church treasurer, reporter, treasurer building fund, superintendent of the Sabbath school, etc.

On Sunday evening the services were again sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood and the program was directed by Group Leaders J. H. Jennings and W. C. King. Mr. E. L. Douglas read the Scripture lesson and Mr. J. H. Everhart led the prayer. The second in the series of sermons of special interest to men was delivered by the minister on the subject, "What It Costs a Man Not to Be a Christian." The attendance at this service was large and attentive.

On Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Circles of the Woman's Auxiliary met as follows: No. 4 with Mrs. R. I. Farmer, 628 Colonial Drive; No. 5, with Mrs. J. C. Whitesell, Rotary Drive; No. 6 with Mrs. D. E. White, 804 Lindsay Street; No. 7 with Mrs. E. L. Douglas, 61 Montlieu Avenue; No. 8 with Mrs. F. R. Auman, 801 Montlieu Avenue; Circle No. 2, Mrs. Lucy Oakes Harper, chairman, will hold its meeting Tuesday evening with Miss Nellie Martin, 600 N. Main Street, and No. 3, Miss Mary Wall, chairman, with Miss Carmen Oakes, 221 Montlieu Avenue.

The Senior C. E. Society met Monday evening at 7:30 in their room at the church, and the topic, "How to Answer 'Wet' Arguments," was led by Miss Grace Koontz. Newly elected officers of this society are the following: President, Tyson T. Ferree; vice-president, Miss Annabelle Thompson; recording secretary, Miss Esther Pritchard; assistant recording secretary, Miss Dennyce McAdams; corresponding secretary, Miss Nellie Martin; treasurer, Mrs. L. R. Peacock; pianist, Miss Elizabeth Welch; press reporter, Miss Irene Reynolds.

A conference of welfare workers of the Northwestern District, embracing 15 counties, convened Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in First church and about 100 delegates were in attendance. A large number of out-of-town speakers and workers were present, and delivered interesting and timely addresses, notable among these being Mrs. W. T. Bost, of Raleigh; Dr. D. S. Craig, of Winston-Salem; Mrs. W. B. Waddill, of Henderson; Mrs.

Blanche Carr Sterne, of Greensboro; Prof. Albert Coates, of the Law School of the State University, and John S. Broadway, of Duke University. Local speakers appearing on the program were Dr. H. B. Hiatt, Judge Lewis E. Teague, T. Wingate Andrews, Mayor C. S. Grayson, Mrs. Ben Moore and others. Members of Circles No. 4 and 6 served a delicious luncheon at 12:30 to the delegates at 75 cents per plate.

Friends of Mr. J. S. Pickett here and throughout the state will be pleased to learn that he is improving from a serious injury received when he fell on a wire while chasing thieves Saturday night. He is walking on crutches and taking treatment at the hospital. His host of friends are hoping that he will soon be entirely recovered.

Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Surratt worshipped with us Sunday morning to the delight of their numerous friends and the former led the invocation at the morning service.

Mr. Fletcher Cox, who has been ill with influenza at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. P. Pickett, is much better, and is able to resume work.

Mrs. J. S. Pickett returned Sunday evening from a visit to relatives in Asheville.

Many friends of Dr. A. A. York, popular and well loved physician, will regret to learn that he is in High Point Hospital for treatment again.

Mrs. R. M. Andrews, of Charlotte, spent a few hours here last Thursday, and attended a meeting of Tea and Topics Club, of which she was a member when residing here. Her numerous friends were sorry that she did not give them an opportunity even to wave or say a brief word of greeting.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor brought us a very good message Sunday night, as usual. These messages get better every time.

Sunday school is still moving along, but not as rapidly as it should.

Mr. P. E. Hawkins is our delegate to Annual Conference. We are deeply conscious of the fact that the end of the Conference year is not far away and that there is much to be done yet.

We are pleased to know that G. D. Insko, one of our stewards, who underwent an operation at Roanoke Rapids hospital two weeks ago, is recovering nicely at his home. Mrs. Sol Insko is at Roanoke Rapids hospital for an operation. This will be two operations for Mrs. Insko inside of a month. Please pray for her a speedy recovery.

There will be one more preaching service at this church before Conference, the first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Communion will be served at this time.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

Friendship, Mount Hermon Charge.—In the absence of our pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, who is now a student at Yale University, Dr. Paul S. Kennett, of High Point College, preached for us Sunday morning. He brought us a most inspiring and helpful message, a message of deep and abiding spiritual truth. We were glad to have Dr. and Mrs. Kennett with us and we hope they will come again.

We had splendid attendance at Sunday school Sunday. We hope every member will be as regular and prompt in attendance as possible.

The Woman's Missionary Society met last Saturday afternoon with Mrs. W. A. Johnson. Several important items of business were discussed. It was decided to have a community Halloween party and oyster supper at the Sunday school auditorium next week. Watch for further announcement of the date.

There will be a missionary thank-offering service at Friendship next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, of Graham, will be the speakers. We hope a large congregation will be present for this service.

We are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mr. T. E. Sharpe, one of the trustees of our church, who is in Duke Hospital. We hope he will soon be better.

Mrs. G. W. Garrett had the misfortune to fall about two weeks ago, sustaining a fracture of the hip. We are glad to report that she is convalescing nicely.

We note several new faces in our church congregations. We are glad to welcome everyone to our church services and invite you to come again and again.

MAE PATERSON, Reporter.

Oak Grove, Forsyth.—Our revival meeting began Sunday, October 11, at 3 o'clock, closing last Friday night. Our pastor, Brother Gerringer, did the preaching, and he brought to us a wonderful message every sermon. The attendance was good and everybody seemed to enjoy the services. There were six conversions and reclamations. One new member united with the church and one gave name to be sent to Hickory Ridge church. We also had the pleasure of having some good singers from Bethel M. E. church with us on Tuesday night.

The writer had the pleasure of having Bro. Gerringer with us for supper one evening. We have all learned to love Brother Gerringer and family and hope they can be with us the coming year.

Our Sunday school is still very good. Our prayer services still hold up well.

The writer asks the prayers of all Christian people for the recovery of her little granddaughter, Sylvia Ray Warren, of Winston-Salem, who has been sick practically all her life.

Good wishes to all Herald readers.

MRS. R. M. WARREN, Reporter.

Why Not.—The Ladies' Aid Society met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Auman in Asheboro, October 10, at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Auman and Miss Ronie Boone as joint hostesses. After the society was called to order, Mrs. E. W. Auman sang very impressively, "Nobody Like Jesus." Miss Ronie Boone then read the Scripture lesson. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Auman. Nine active and six honorary members answered to roll call and in the Junior society five were present. We were glad to have three visitors. Mrs. L. E. Cagle gave a reading, "Does God Care?" One little item of business that brought joy to the heart of every member was a receipt that the treasurer presented to the society showing that the final payment on the piano had been made. Plans were discussed and adopted by which the society hopes to make some and at the same time enjoy some fun at an early date.

At this time officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. L. E.

Cagle; vice-president, Mrs. C. E. Stuart; secretary, Mrs. V. E. Stuart; assistant secretary, Mrs. R. L. Macon; treasurer, Mrs. J. E. King; corresponding secretary and reporter, Mrs. William N. Neese. The closing prayer was offered by Rev. W. H. Neese.

Mrs. Auman, assisted by her husband and Misses Boone and Whitehurst, served delicious refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, pie, hot chocolate and apples. During the social hour Mrs. Auman, dressed in Halloween attire, gave a humorous reading "I Ain't Gonna Cry No More."

MRS. WILLIAM H. NEESE.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—We had a splendid and well carried out Rally Day program at Weaver's Chapel Sunday, October 18; also at the close of the program Mrs. Bingham and I received a great and glad surprise, for which we wish to say, thank you, one and all.

The children did just fine that day;
Each one gave well it's part;
And the beauty of their speeches
Was felt by every heart.

Before it all had come to a close
The clouds began to rise,
And let me tell you something,
We had a wonderful surprise.

They placed us up before the crowd
To see what we would do,
But the object of it all
We never guessed—would you?

Our curiosity was soon settled,
As the showers began to fall,
And if they'd lasted much longer
You couldn't have seen us at all.

As I crawled from among the packages,
I tried to make a speech,
But the shock caused words to fail me
And my tongue stuck like a leech.

Now listen to my secret:
We are proud of each little gift,
But the thing that makes us happy
Is the giver of the gift.

We have always loved you;
We love you now more still;
Let us all work together
To do our Master's will.

P. E. BINGHAM, Pastor.

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—We are moving on as well as we could—just a few in number, but, as our pastor often says, if there are only a few he's willing to serve, for God has promised to be with the few gathered in His name.

Holy communion was commemorated the second Sunday in September. Bro. V. L. Everett and wife from Norfolk were with us; also Mrs. Chesson's son, who came into our church that day.

We've had Alma and Flossie Woodley with us recently. They are trained nurses in Raleigh and Rocky Mount hospitals. We have had many of our members that were raised up in Rehoboth Sunday school with us this summer. Settle Swain, who is now filling a position in New York, was home. They have all gone now. How much we miss Jennie Swain, who is now working in Norfolk. Last, but not least, is Prof. Herbert Swain. He taught in Creswell; this year he is teaching in Effland. We will always miss him from Rehoboth church.

We have a very interesting, instructive Bible class at Rehoboth every Wednesday night. Pray for our success. It's one of the best opportunities to study the Bible we've ever had here.

Conference is near at hand. I hope our present pastor will be returned.

Dulin's, Mocksville Charge.—As Conference year is fast closing our hearts are sad because we realize that we have fallen short on our financial dues and are liable to lose our faithful pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree. Brother Ferree has preached two impressive sermons since our last report. We feel like he has sown good seeds, whether they ever bring forth any fruit or not.

Sunday school attendance has held up well throughout the summer.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene at Bethel the four Saturday in this month. Official members are requested to be there. The votes have been taken for delegate to Annual Conference.

Pray for us during the closing weeks of this Conference year.

Best wishes to everyone.

LEONA HENDRIX, Reporter.

Mt. Zion, Pinnacle Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. A. L. Hunter, filled his appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. We enjoyed his sermon very much. This was his last sermon before Conference. We have learned to love our pastor and his family very much. They have been with us so many years. We are expecting them back.

The fourth and last quarterly conference will be held at Mount Zion church Sunday evening at 2 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Our Sunday school is getting along fine. Most everyone seems to be taking a great interest in it. We are hoping our superintendent, Bro. O. P. Jones, will be re-elected as he has been so faithful.

Mrs. R. F. Fulk is very sick; hope she will soon recover.

We thank God for all that has been done, and give Him all the praise. Pray for us.

REPORTER.

Shiloh Charge.—We have some good reporters on this work, so we have left it up to them to do it, so you have not heard much from me; but I am still here and the work is still on the map. Even though it has been a hard year in some respects our people have done fine, and are still working hard to bring just as good a report to Conference as possible, and I truly hope we can bring a fair report. Financially we are a bit behind; but hope to have in better shape by November 4.

We have had good revivals on this work this year in spite of the depression. We have had about 50 conversions and 35 accessions. We wish we could have had more. We have three good live Sunday schools, with a good average attendance, doing good work. We have three C. E. Societies, with about 40 in average attendance each. Our young people are doing good work and we are proud of them, for they are the hope of our church.

Spiritually our churches are in good condition. We have a few tithers. I wish we had more, and we are trying to enlist more. Then we would have no financial trouble.

During these hard times some of our people have not forgotten the preacher and family. Bro. W. J. Berrier gave us a big ham and a middling, and the middling was not "split" either, Bro. Bethea. Bros. Jesse Evans and York, Bro. W. M. Byerly, Bro. Jim Byerly, various articles. The ladies of Shiloh church took our empty cans and filled them with fruit: Miss Ethel Fitzgerald, Miss Emma Berrier, Mrs. W. J. Berrier. Miss Bertha DeLapp gave us a check for $22.50; also to Lyman to help pay his expenses in college a nice check for $37.50; also two shirts and six yards of cloth. A few weeks ago she moved her membership from Good Hope M. E. church to Friendship. We are glad to have her some back to her old home church; Miss Lelia Byerly, $5.00 to Mrs. Troxler. You should have seen the smile on her face when she received it; and Mrs. R. E. Smith, of Greer's Chapel, to help dress her preacher up for Conference, gave him a nice pair of shoes and a new overcoat, and I have been wishing for it to turn cold ever since.

My! how we do appreciate these nice gifts at this time. We pray God's blessings upon all those who gave.

Just a word about our sick. Bro. W. M. Byerly, who has been superintendent of Friendship Sunday school for 40 some years and is still superintendent, has been confined to his bed most of the time for about two months, is better. We hope and pray that he may soon be well and back at his post. Bro. Henry Hartly, who had his leg broken in a wreck about two months ago, has had a hard time of it. We don't know just what the outcome will be. Let us pray that God may return these two brothers to normal health.

R. S. TROXLER, Pastor.

First Church, Albemarle.—On Sunday, October 11th, our church celebrated its 22nd anniversary. Our people had looked forward to this day with great anticipation. We planned to lay upon the altar $100 for each year the church was old. We can truly say we did not fail; however, we did not reach our goal. We placed almost half that amount upon the altar.

The program committee had worked out a very interesting program for the entire day. Beginning at 9:45 we had our regular Sunday school, with a large attendance present. At the 11 o'clock hour, prior to the sermon, was the presentation of the charter members. Twenty-two chairs were placed to the left of the altar. As the names were called those living were ushered to their chairs, those who were deceased had a bouquet of flowers placed in the chair by a relative or close friend. The charter members who were present were: Mrs. M. Hatley, C. L. Hatley, C. W. Hatley, D. V. Hatley, Mrs. Addie Bell Hatley Gaddy, all children of Mrs. M. Hatley and the late M. Hatley; J. E. Gantt and W. M. Lowder were also present. Those living who were absent were Mrs. William Snotherly and Mrs. D. T. Curlee. Mrs. Curlee is also a daughter of Mrs. M. Hatley.

At 11:30 we placed our birthday gift upon the altar, after which Mrs. R. E. Ballard sang, "My Heavenly Father Watches Over Me." Dr. Taylor, president of the North Carolina Conference, delivered the sermon for the morning hour, using as his subject "Love, Consecration, and the Perfect Church." After the sermon the choir sang "The Temple Eternal." At noon a very bountiful picnic lunch was served in the dining hall of the church. Mrs. J. H. Moton, wife of Rev. J. H. Moton, a former pastor of this church, spoke in the afternoon service. Rev. George Curry read the history of the church, also the greetings sent by former pastors. Just before the address for the afternoon Mrs. A. A. Wagner and Mr. R. E. Ballard sang "The Nearer the Sweetest." Dr. Humphreys, president of High Point College, delivered the address for the afternoon, using as his text "This Is That." Many inspiring thoughts were received from his message. After the address the choir sang "More Love to Thee."

Bro. Curry and the program committee thought it would be very appropriate to invite the pastor and the congregation of our mother church to be with us for our evening program. Rev. O. B. Williams and his congregation from Friendship gladly and willingly accepted our invitation. Rev. Williams delivered the address for the evening service, using as his subject, "What Is Truth?" Regardless of the fact that our people had had a full day of worship, we enjoyed Bro. Williams' address, which was very helpful and beneficial. The Holt brothers quartet rendered the music for the evening service.

Thomasville.—Our church is progressing very rapidly. We are happy of the fact that we continue to have a large attendance at the services, although it was smaller than usual last Sunday. Next Sunday week, which is the last Sunday in this Conference year, we are planning to try to have all the members present. At this time we hope to have a special program for the old and new members.

New church officers who were nominated by a committee were brought before the people and elected Sunday, October 11th. Each officer took his vow, and is planning another successful year.

The C. E. Society is also improving. We are gaining a few new members as we go along and hope that many more will join. The Thomasville C. E. Union will meet next Thursday, October 29th, at this church.

As this month is titling month, a short program entitled "Not Exempt," will be given at this church next Sunday evening.

REPORTER.

English Street Church.—Last Monday night the Workers' Council met at the church to nominate officers and teachers for the coming year. They are as follows: Superintendent, R. T. Holcombe; assistant superintendent, A. L. McBride; secretary, Mrs. Dallas Payne; assistant secretary, E. I. McAdams; treasurer, J. A. Lee; Primary superintendent, Miss Kathleen Embler; teachers: Miss Bernice Livengood, Mrs. J. P. Hulin, Miss Tressie Candle, Miss Annie Bonkeymeyer, Mrs. A. L. McBride, Frank Ring, Mrs. Jewel McAdams, E. T. Mocklin, J. A. Bowers, Mrs. A. N. Lineback and Mrs. J. A. Bowers. (Two more to be elected.) These officers were accepted by the Sunday school last Sunday and will be installed next Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. Lee was elected as delegate to the Annual Conference for English Street charge.

Last Friday night the C. E. society met at the home of the president for the purpose of holding their monthly executive meeting. The society had planned a Halloween party on October 23, but has been postponed until a later date.

We are very glad to report that Mrs. J. A. Lee is very much improved after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. P. M. Caudle has been in Wilson, N. C., for the past week with her husband, who underwent a serious operation last Monday. We hope for him a speedy recovery. REPORTER.

Denton Church.—The old adage, "No news is good news," seems to be the theme of our church reporter, but we wish to tell you a little of the progress of our church here.

We have just closed a glorious revival, the church being spiritually strengthened, and many lost souls brought into the Kingdom. Rev. J. M. Morgan, of Fallston, came to us filled with the spirit of God, and delivered such spiritual messages that reached the hearts of the hearers, and we feel found a lasting abode there. Many who had been negligent and careless in interest came back with their hearts rededicated to the service of God. We are so glad to have these, and the new ones in our church services again. There were about 30 or 35 conversions during the meeting. We thank Bro. Morgan for the great good he has done for our church.

Last Sunday the doors of the church were opened for the reception of new members, and we had the pleasure of accepting nine new members as follows: Mr. C. C. Cook, by letter; Mrs. Lin Nance, Margie Cranford, Oda Beck, Alma Lee Sikes, Billy Cranford, Billy Shaw, Ruth Morris, and Wilma Shaw. We are happy to have these additions to our church, and now it is our duty as church members to encourage them in the forward step they have taken.

On next Saturday night at 7:30 the Baraca and Philathea classes of our church will present a very entertaining play, "Mary's Castle in the Air," by Lillian Mortimer. The proceeds of the play will go to the classes to furnish their Sunday school rooms more attractively. Let us support them by our presence.

The Men's Baraca class had a very encouraging attendance last Sunday morning of 30 members. This is very encouraging, and we are hoping to have still more each Sunday. We need at least 50 members, and if we work we can have this number within the coming weeks.

We are glad to welcome to our church several of the school faculty who make our church their church home while here, as follows: Miss Oris Thompson, Graymont, Ga.; Miss Bettie Fiequett, Lenoire, S. C.; Miss Elizabeth Hanner, Julian; Miss Michael, Pleasant Garden, and Edgar O. Lane, Pinnacle.

Two of our faithful members have been on the sick list, Mrs. M. C. Cranford and Mrs. C. C. Chandler. Mrs. Cranford has suffered a stroke of paralysis, but is able to be with us again. We are glad Mrs. Cranford improved so rapidly, and can be with us. Mrs. Chandler's condition does not seem to improve, but we trust that she will soon be well.

We were glad to have Rev. C. E. Ridge with us three nights during our revival. He has many friends here who always welcome him to be with them. Rev. Mr. Ridge was the popular pastor of Davidson circuit for many years, and has numerous friends in this section.

Our church finances at this time are in arrears, but we are expecting to come up with a fair record before the Conference meets in November.

Our pastor, Mr. Short, is always on the alert to all interests of the church. We know of no minister who puts more life and enthusiasm into his work than our own pastor. He and his fine family have made many friends this, their first year of this work, and we are trusting that they may return to us for another year.

We are greatly indebted to Dr. McCulloch for the continued interest he has shown this year in presenting to us, each week our Methodist Protestant Herald. Through his untiring interest, and his associates we have enjoyed the inspiration of what other churches were doing.

We are hoping that our church will come up to our expectations by November 4th, and that this year's Conference will be one of the most inspiring sessions we have ever had.

"Let us still be faithful, for we shall reap if we faint not by the way."

W. M. SEXTON.

Winston, First.—A few items culled from the pastor's report which will be made to the fourth quarterly conference Tuesday of this week are: Average attendance in Sunday school for the year, 149; average morning church congregation, 91; evening congregation, 60.13; highest number in Sunday school any Sunday, 278; lowest, 92. Highest number in morning church service, 155; lowest, 46; highest number in evening church service, 157; lowest, 28.

Brother R. N. Hauser is the new general superintendent of the Sunday school and Brother F. D. Voss, who served very acceptably as general superintendent the past year is the new superintendent of the Adult Department.

The annual congregational meeting for the election of church officers will be held immediately after the morning service next Sunday.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Winston, First.—It was mighty cold in Winston-Salem Sunday, and there might have been a few people who were afraid it wouldn't be as warm at church as it was at home, but still there was a larger attendance than the year before. Cold weather reminds us of the approaching seasons of the year that all of us enjoy—Thanksgiving and Christmas. Even those who have the least of luxuries have much to be thankful for at both of these times; not at these particular times alone, however, but many of us count our bad happenings instead of the blessings and therefore fail to be thankful in the right spirit for our many blessings.

On Sunday afternoon a group went up to the Forsyth County Home, where the aged who have no home, live. Songs were sung and Mr. Pritchard made a marvelous talk. Those words of comfort and cheer will remain with those souls an unlimited time, some will possibly never forget them, and never forget those who came along with Bro. Pritchard to help them feel better.

The Woman's Auxiliary gave a splendid dinner at the Belk-Stevens Tea Room last Thursday. A goodly sum was realized from this, but of course a great deal of work was invested.

Halloween will soon be here and the Business Women's Circle is going to sponsor a "Halloween Fete" at the church on Tuesday evening before Halloween. A good time is anticipated and it is hoped a substantial amount of money will be raised to apply on the budget of the immediate circle.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at the church Tuesday evening, October 20th. It seems as though this Conference year has passed away at an enormous speed; it hardly is to be realized that this is the last Conference quarter and that Annual Conference is nearly here.

PAULINE BRANSON, Reporter.

Fairview, Anderson Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference was held Friday afternoon, October 16 in the Liberty Hill church with near 200 present, this being the largest number attending in years. The reports of the various officers were interesting. There were three more reports this year, because Ladies' Aid Societies have been organized in both churches and a Christian Endeavor Society at Fairview; and these organizations are doing good work. Trustees of the Greenville property were elected. They are: Mr. J. W. Smith, chairman, Mr. D. T. Foster, of Fairview, and Messrs. Compton and Davis, of Liberty Hill. After other business was attended to Rev. M. C. Henderson left the chair and the conference discussed the pastor for the coming year. It was unanimously voted to ask for Mr. Henderson again. When the conference closed the ladies of Liberty Hill spread a bountiful supper on tables under the oak trees. This was greatly enjoyed and it is hoped that another get-together of this kind can be arranged.

Even though this has been a hard year, the financial condition of the church is good. The A. C. B. has been paid in full and the remainder of the pastor's salary will be raised before Annual Conference.

On Sunday night a most interesting meeting of the C. E. Society was held, the topic being Prohibition. After the members rendered their part of the program Mr. Joe Black, of Easley, talked. He has lived in both the days before and during prohibition, and from his own experience he proved that the law prohibiting whiskey is doing good.

Fountain Place.—Our revival at Fountain Place began on Sunday, October 11. Mr. Bethea, our pastor, preached that day and during the week pastors from local churches of other denominations brought us the messages. Rev. L. D. Hayman, of Front Street M. E. Church, South, warned us against "Neglect" of both spiritual and earthly things on Monday night. Tuesday Dr. W. R. Potter, of the First Presbyterian church, spoke on "The Church." Wednesday evening Dr. Edward Fullenwider, of the Lutheran church, exhorted the people to "Turn to God" as a remedy for the present day needs. Rev. H. A. Welker of the Reform church brought us a message on "Religious Enthusiasm" Thursday night. Rev. W. K. McGhee, the last visitor in the series, pastor of Hocutt Memorial Baptist church, spoke on "The Great Salvation." Our pastor preached at the closing service last Sunday night. This series of services was more helpful and inspirational than it is possible to tell. Even though there were not as many saved as we hoped to be we are thankful for the one that was and know that the Christians were helped by these contacts with other denominations.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting last night (Monday) with Mrs. Euliss with a good number attending. One honorary member who was attending for the first time said: "I am glad I went. I had a good time. It was an inspiration to see the ladies dig into their purses with such enthusiasm." When the meeting was nearly over and the money was all counted it was found that we have just closed our best month in a financial way for the year, $45.07 being the amount added to the treasury. A chicken-pie supper held about two weeks ago added much to this sum.

The last quarterly conference of the year meets tonight. Sunday morning the doors of the church will be opened to receive new members and also the installation of church officers will take place.

MRS. A. V. AMICK, Reporter.

West Forsyth.—The service at Pleasant Hill last Sunday morning was well attended and the interest very good. The election of church officers was held, and the same persons who composed the board of stewards and board of trustees the past year were re-elected. The class leader for the past year was also re-elected. The only change made was the office of church treasurer, Bro. A. R. Long being elected to succeed Bro. C. G. Hunter, the latter having served in that office for several years. Following the sermon the Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor and a large number of people, young and old, participated in the observance of the ordinance.

After the service at Pleasant Hill last Sunday the pastor and family were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Long, whose daughter, Miss Myrtle Long, is a member of Pleasant Hill church. We enjoyed a splendid dinner with these good people. Additional guests in the home for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. John Hutchens and son, Fred, of Union Hill church.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Pleasant Hill church will serve a fried chicken dinner at Belk's Tea Room in Winston-Salem next Tuesday, October 27. The proceeds of the dinner will be applied on the indebtedness of the new carpet which was purchased and placed in the church last August.

The pastor and family have received a number of gifts from the people of the charge, which were highly appreciated. We wish to mention the following givers of different articles of food and cash: Mrs. Lou Long, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Long, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Long, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Long, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sprinkle, all of Pleasant Hill community; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Todd, of Harmony Grove church; Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Whitman, of Pleasant Hill community, $5.00 in cash; Mrs. Annie Shore, of the Moravian church, Winston-Salem, $5.00 in cash.

The continual turning of the wheel of time brings us nearer and nearer the Annual Conference, which is almost upon us. We presume that there are only a few charges that have all their finances paid and have their pastor ready for Conference. Finances on West Forsyth charge are up about as well as in former years, with the prospects good for the payment of the salary in full and some more payments on the budget claims.

Our appointment for next Sunday will be with Harmony Grove church at 7 o'clock at night. The hour for the service is changed from 11 a. m. on account of the annual birthday dinner occasion to be staged at the home of David Todd, member of Harmony Grove church, who will be 90 years old October 27. A preaching service will be held at the home at 11 o'clock and the dinner will be served about 1 o'clock. C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Reidsville.—Since our last report we have not been idle. Three of our Sunday school rooms have been repainted, and through the kindness of the Woman's Bible Class two of them have been furnished with beautiful congo-loom rugs.

It is unusual for a pastor to be pounded at this season of the year; but we were pounded, and pounded good, the other night. We received a bountiful supply of good things to eat for which we are grateful; but we appreciate the spirit that prompted our members to pound us more than we do the material things left in our kitchen. We do not have a multitude of members, but we have some of the salt of the earth among the few we have, and they merit all the good things we can say of them.

We are glad to report that our sick members are now well on the way to recovery, and we hope to see them at church again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Smith are now at home in their new bungalow recently completed on Maple Avenue.

Our Rally Day service was held last Sunday. While the attendance was not as large as we expected, the service was enjoyed by the entire school. Four of the Cradle Roll children were present, and behaved fully as well as the grown-ups.

If we do not receive the full amount of our budgets, it will not be the fault of our organizations. They are working diligently, day and night, in an endeavor to "clean the slate" by Conference.

GEORGE R. BROWN.

Burlington, First Church.—Our revival closed Wednesday night, October 7th, with a fairly good success. Rev. J. D. Williams preached during the revival and he did some wonderful preaching. He stirred the hearts and minds of his listeners. The attendance and co-operation of the church people throughout the meeting was splendid. We were glad to welcome into our church four new members: Mrs. Prince Snipes, Mrs. Currie Conklin, Mr. A. L. Pickard and Mr. Walter Williamson.

The Girl Scouts of this church have re-organized again for the winter under the leadership of Tula Paul. We have 16 scouts on roll. We have great plans for the future and hope to do more work in scouting than we have in the past. The girls are very much thrilled and enthused about it.

The Business Girls' Circle of this church met with Mrs. Currie Hargrove on October 14 with 10 members and two visitors present. The meeting opened with the song, "I Need Thee Every Hour." Scripture, 108th Psalm, was read by the president, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The president read a poem, "Let Us Ever Be Courteous and Easy to Be Entreated." Reading, "Christian Freedom," was also given by the president. The regular business was disposed of after which 23 visits to the sick, flowers sent to three, cards to seven, and trays to one were reported for September. We were glad to welcome into our society a new member, Miss Swannie Cobble. A number of new plans were brought up and decided upon, after which the meeting adjourned. A game of "spoof" was enjoyed by all. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Luney and Mrs. Woodrow Cox, served refreshments. Miss Mary Miller invited us for the next meeting.

We are back again with our regular church services with Dr. Paschall at the pulpit. Our attendance seems to stay at the top and of course we are proud of that. Sunday was communion day and a large number communed.

We have a Christian Endeavor Society, too, at our church. We meet every Sunday at 6:30. A large number of young people take part at this meeting and our programs are interesting and helpful. We have an active group who co-operate with each other. We have organized an Alamance County C. E. Union and are holding our second real meeting Friday night, October 23rd, at Cane Creek church. A banner is to be awarded to the society having the most number of points.

Other Gifts

There are no other gifts to report this week, except to say—we were invited by Rev. J. A. Burgess to go, on last Saturday to Bethel church on Alamance circuit to speak of the Children's Home to the officials of that great old circuit gathered there for a quarterly conference.

Mrs. Dixon and I both had joy in speaking to them of the children and of the work at the Home. They then served a bountiful dinner on the grounds which we enjoyed with them. The people then loaded our International bus to its capacity, and informed us that there was more for us at the Home of Brother R. Z. Hornaday. Not having room for it we agreed to send for it today, Monday. Our truck has gone for that together with another donation at Julian. All of which will be more definitely reported next week. We thank these dear people, and we also thank all those who made the above financial report possible.

Our Needs

Our needs at this season of the year are always great. The people are responding so beautifully and so bountifully to our needs for food that we will not go hungry here for a long time.

Right now we must buy shoes for boys and girls, and clothing especially for boys, and school supplies for both, and bills are pressing, so our great needs are:

1. Money to pay bills and money to buy actual necessities.

2. Money to make some badly needed repairs to buildings.

3. Money to buy a good two-horse wagon. The wagon we had has given completely out, so we must have a wagon.

May the Dear Lord bless and direct in all the work of kingdom service on earth.

You will be glad to know that Mrs. J. A. Dixon is much better, and is again about her work.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

HE SLEEPS

Thomas Alva Edison

He sleeps.

The mind is still

That worked with God

And did His will.

He sleeps.

The hand at rest

That toiled for truth

And sought the best.

He sleeps.

The eyes are sealed

That shone with love

And hatred healed.

He sleeps.

The life on earth

Has given place

To greater birth.

—Grenville Kleiser.

A SUMPTUOUS DINNER

On Wednesday, October 14, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Long and granddaughter, Miss Helen Long, entertained at a sumptuous dinner at their home at Dosier, on West Forsyth charge in honor of the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Long, the Mesdames Shore, of Winston-Salem. Additional guests were Mrs. Lewis Flynn, and sister, Miss Laura Poindexter, of Winston-Salem, and Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Way and son, C. B., Jr., of Dosier. Prominent among the many dishes of food on the table was a delicious chicken pie.

A GUEST.

The sixteenth annual meeting and good will Congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches will be held in Chicago, Ill., November 10, 11, 12, 1931.

WASHINGTON RECEIVED COMMISSION IN 1775

The following is a copy of the official document making George Washington Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army, according to the Division of Information of the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission.

"To George Washington Esquire—

"We reposing especial trust and confidence in your patriotism, conduct and fidelity Do by these presents constitute and appoint you to be GENERAL AND COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the Army of the United Colonies and of all the forces raised or to be raised by them and of all others who shall voluntarily offer their service and join the said Army for the defense of American Liberty and for repelling every hostile invasion thereof. AND YOU ARE hereby vested with full power and authority to act as you shall think for the good and welfare of the service.

"AND we do hereby strictly charge and require all officers and soldiers under your command to be obedient to your orders and diligent in the exercise of their several duties.

"AND we do also enjoin and require you to be careful in executing the great trust reposed in you, by causing strict discipline and order to be observed in the Army and that the soldiers are duly exercised and provided with all convenient necessities.

"AND you are to regulate your conduct in every respect by the rules and discipline of war (as herewith given you) and punctually to observe and follow such orders and directions from time to time as you shall receive from this or a future Congress of the said United Colonies, or a committee of Congress for that purpose appointed.

"THIS COMMISSION to continue in force until revoked by this or a future Congress.

"By order of the Congress.

"Dated Philadelphia, June 19, 1775.

"JOHN HANCOCK, President.

"Attest: Chas. Thomson, Secr."

SPELLING LESSON

Audience, not audiance.

Cemetery, not cemetary.

Receive, not recieve.

Also, not allso.

Attendance, not attenance.

Consistent, not consistant.

—Owners of pecan trees or groves are reporting that twigs are being cut from their trees in alarming numbers and in some instances small branches with nuts upon them are falling to the ground. About the only way to control the pest is to pick up the cut branches in the fall and winter and burn them. Mr. Brannon says the owner should get those out of the trees as well as the ones on the ground. This will prevent the grubs from maturing to attack the trees next season. No other effective control method is known.

ALBEMARLE ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

The 22nd anniversary of the organization of the First Methodist Protestant church of Albemarle, N. C., was a great and ever to be remembered success. It was a great day for our church. All the services from the Sunday school to the night service were well attended. President Taylor was with us and preached a most powerful sermon at the 11 o'clock hour. Dr. Humphreys brought the message in the afternoon and of course it was one of the best. The Friendship church, which is thought of as the mother of Albemarle church, was our special guest for the night service. Brother Williams, the pastor, brought the message which was of high order and inspiring. We certainly do thank these brethren for their presence and helpful messages.

Dinner was served in the dining room of the church to the great satisfaction of all present. Enough was carried away to have supplied many more. The "Birth Day Gift" amounted to a little over $1,000.00. This was not what we had hoped for, yet it was a good offering and we are highly pleased. The music rendered by the choir was edifying and well rendered. Mr. C. B. Ebird, one of our members, who is a band master, with a number of the members of his band rendered beautiful sacred music on the lawn during the dinner hour. This is to be appreciated. The presentation of the charter members was a very impressive part of the morning service. Twenty-three chairs, one for each charter member, were placed in the front of the church. As the roll of charter members was called those present were ushered to their respective chairs. When a deceased member's name was called a floral contribution was placed upon the chair. Greetings from former pastors were read as a part of the afternoon service. These greetings were greatly appreciated. A history of the church covering the 22 years the church has served the community was read as a part of the afternoon service.

GEO. L. CURRY, Pastor.

—John W. Moore, of Moriah church, died last night after months of illness.

Two Chances

A chance to do wrong, a chance to do right—
To sneak in the dark or walk in the light,
To lose self-respect or save your own soul,
To go down to hell or reach the true goal.

This life's a grand game and we are players all;
Quite sure to win out or have a great fall:
It's not a game of chance but a game of real skill,
But most of all a game of true, honest will.

With chance comes a choice to do or not to do,
And choices men make clearly show who is who.
When testing time comes to do or refuse,
Be sure to reflect before you dare choose.

Longing for Funerals

We know a man whom we have repeatedly heard express the view that the great thing needed to correct the wrongs of the time is simply more funerals. He would not be cruel and hardy enough to hasten their coming by physical means, but what is the matter with turning the job over to the Lord? He has many apparently easy ways of bringing on funerals and is in no danger of getting into trouble with human authorities. Why not pray daily in secret that the Lord would graciously hasten the coming of the needed funerals? What else could the brother pray for more earnestly?

History Repeats Itself

The following statement might easily be taken as a picture of the present time, but it was written 74 years ago and printed in Harper's Weekly:

It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the life time of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment and without the prospect of it.

In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference (which, happily, no man pretends to feel) in the issue of events.

Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are, fortunately as yet mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously to despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity.

Good Friends—Let our conduct prove that the call comes to men who have large hearts, however narrowed their homes may be; who have open hands, however empty their purses. In time of peril we have nothing but manhood, strong in its faith in God, to rely upon; and whoever shows himself truly a God-fearing man now, by helping wherever and however he can, will be as blessed and beloved as a great light in darkness.

Praying for the Annual Conference

Some of our readers report that they are praying for our coming conference. That is well. All of our people should be interested sufficiently to join in the prayer. A great responsibility bears down on the members of the Conference, both ministers and laymen. Some problems require for their right solution superhuman wisdom. Members who realize their responsibility will of course join in the prayer. The church belongs to God, Jesus Christ is Head of the Church, and He should direct the Church. The man who does not recognize the headship of Christ has no business trying to determine the course the church shall take. If you cannot pray for God's guidance in the conference you are not yet qualified to act as a member of it. Let us pray most earnestly that the Spirit of the Lord shall possess the minds and hearts of all the members and that in all things the will of the Lord may prevail. If we follow the mind of the Lord carefully and fully we will never be ashamed of the part we took. And as we pray to the Lord, let us remember that "we be brethren." We want to keep on singing, "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

—We would ask the attention of pastors to the request of Brother E. L. Douglas found in another column. Brother Douglas has some definite plans which he wishes to try out and pastors in a very short time can give him indispensable information. He will see you at conference in High Point.

A BOOK RIDES IN AN ARMORED CAR

By REV. LUTHER K. LONG

The new Folger Shakespeare Library, which occupies half of the block just east of the Congressional Library, has been just recently completed. The almost priceless collection of Shakespeariana, gathered by the late Henry C. Folger during forty years at a cost to him of $4,265,000, is now being installed in this its permanent home.

There is one volume that money could not buy. It is the Vincent first folio of 1623, presented by the printer to Vincent, the Royald Herald, and called by Mr. Folger "the most precious book in the world."

To bring this book, and 350 more of the collection, from New York to Washington, an armored car with five armed guards left New York at 10 o'clock Monday morning, October 19, and arrived at the library in Washington at 10 o'clock that night. Chief among the other volumes in this group of 350 were the collection of poems including "Venus and Adonis" (1599) valued at $75,000; the "Titus Andronicus" of 1594, the first work of Shakespeare and the only known copy, valued at $45,000; and the Gwynn collection of Quarto Plays, bound by Pavier in London, the first collected edition of Shakespeare's plays and valued at $75,000. The entire collection includes 75,000 books, of which the volumes in this truck load which came under guard are the most valuable.

Mr. Folger was formerly president and chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company, of New York. From his student days in Amherst College he was an ardent collector of Shakespeare's works. His will provided for the erection of a library building in Washington, the building and land being vested in Amherst College and the book collection was bequeathed to the college with provisions for its administration and maintenance.

CHURCH UNION

This day of coldness on the part of church members is a sad time to be thinking, much less to agitate union with any other bodies. We sorely need to be about our Father's business in our own church. Our Annual Conference is large enough now for churches to think they are unable to entertain it, but they are. Our fathers endured for Christ's cause and we have lived and grown for 100 years, and have gotten so grown-up we want to unite with some larger body to do, I do not know what. We think it is described in Jer. 5:30-31. We think if each each body will work for bringing souls to Christ Jesus go on in their own way as they have, build churches where are no churches, not were are enough to look after people. We know places now over-churched. If any of our people like M. E. government better than M. P., go to that church and let the rest of the church alone.

We trust our preachers and delegates to Annual Conference will spend more time in communion with God, and our people at home need to spend our time in the same way. We need, like Israel of old, "To your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house." May we have a great out-pouring of God's spirit on the conference and people is our prayer.

A METHODIST PROTESTANT.

HOW MUCH SELF-CONTROL HAVE YOU?

Many of the stories are told about the amount of pain which an Indian brave could endure without a change of expression. Often a captive would allow himself to be tortured to death and not gratify his enemies by a single hint of his agony.

Not many "palefaces" have so much self-control, but we all try to restrain our emotions. Even a little toddler learns to choke back his tears after a tumble, because "only babies cry when they get hurt!"

Yet many a big boy, who would not cry when he is hurt, shows a lack of restraint in other ways which is an equal proof of weakness; but no doubt he could conceal mere discomfort as well as he does pain, if he would only think about it.

Can you control the temptation to cough? Many a sermon or concert has been ruined by continuous barking of people who were old enough to restrain themselves. A cough is simply nature's method of scratching an itchy throat-lining. Often, however, this only increases the tickle and causes more coughing. A baby coughs, as he cries, whenever he feels like it; but the person who has his body under intelligent discipline restrains the cough. Only very rarely is it necessary for a boy to cough in public—just as it is very rarely necessary for him to weep in public.

Check up on yourself, and see if your self-control extends to all childish habits, or if it applies only to tears.—M. P. Pressly in The Motor.

GIVE

Give, give, be always giving,
Who gives not is not living,
The more you give,
The more you live,
Give strength, give thought, give deeds, give pelf,
Give love, give tears and give thyself,
Give, give, be always giving
Who gives not is not living.

—The Call of the World.

WE ARE RICH

By GRENVILLE KLEISER

Wall Street fluctuations cannot really impoverish us. The passing of dividends, the closing of banks, the blatant bleating of ubiquitous pessimists cannot rob us of our true possessions.

We would not exchange our good health for a million dollars. All the gold in the world would not buy our reliable heart. We have our appreciation of beauty, the love of family and friends, the companionship of books, a spirit of reverence, the desire for labor and service, and a love for God. These are not for sale or exchange at any price. The present times are not a catastrophe but a challenge. We are being tested to prove where our real treasures are. Our permanent investments are spiritual and are impregnable against the assaults of fear, panic, or discouragement. We are in partnership with God.

Draper

October 21, Wednesday.—The fourth quarterly conference of this charge was held on this date at night, with the pastor, seven officials and other members of the church present. Reports indicated that the church is in a growing condition. Attendance upon the preaching services is increasing, and the church is growing spiritually. The year has likewise been one of growth in the Sunday School. The enrollment is 82, and the average attendance 50. The allotment for Young People's Work has been paid. Easter and Children's Day offerings were taken, though no program was rendered. Salary has been paid in full, and some amounts paid on budgets. The A. C. B., apportionment for College and also for superannuates will be paid in full. The church debt has been reduced during the year by $90; the indebtedness now is only $187. This is the first pastorate of Brother Vickery. He has worked hard and tactfully, and has won the esteem and confidence of his people. The prospects for our church here seem brighter now. The real estate around the church has recently been sold, and some building has already been started. Our people feel encouraged over this fact. We hope to see the church grow.

Why Not Charge

October 24, Saturday.—The occasion of our visit to this charge on this date was the meeting of the fourth quarterly conference. This was held at Fair Grove church, with 18 officials present. All of the eight churches were represented but two. The pastor's report was written, and dealt in detail with the problems and the progress of each church. Reports from various organizations indicated that the charge is very well organized, and that good work and steady progress is being made through these organizations. Fair Grove church has an active C. E. society, with 25 members, and has paid the allotment to Young People's Work. The charge has eight women's organizations that are combined for Aid Society and Missionary work. This phase of the organizational work of the charge is due in no small measure to the missionary zeal of Mrs. Neese, assisted, of course, by the pastor and the women of the various churches. The women at Fair Grove church have raised during the year, $89; the Seagrove circle, $34, and paid the New Century Service budget in full. The circle at Flag Springs has not been active, and no reports were available from the other churches. Seagrove and Fair Grove had held Thank offering services, and Fair Grove announced another Thank offering service for last Sunday night. Sunday Schools are maintained at all of the eight churches, with average attendance ranging from 30 to 100. New Hope and Love Joy have by far the largest schools, the average attendance in one being 80 and the other 100. Fair Grove school has observed all special days, paid allotment to Young People's Work, made a contribution to Minnis' salary, and contributes monthly to the Children's Home. New Hope observed Easter and Children's Day, has paid to Y. P. W., and contributes monthly to Children's Home. Seagrove has paid to Y. P. W. Love Joy observed Easter and Children's Day, and has paid to Y. P. W.

Finances are much in arrears, especially the budgets. New Hope has paid salary in full, and will pay A. C. B. Seagrove has paid all claims in full. Fair Grove has over paid New Century Service by $11.50. The salary is considerably behind, but we trust that this may be brought up by the closing efforts of these last days. This charge is entirely too large for one pastor, having, as it does eight churches. But the work is not quite strong enough to be divided. Probably time, patience, and tact, will work out this problem.

Brother Neese has given faithful service to the charge—a characteristic of his ministry—and we are sure that a harvest of good has come, and will continue to come from his ministry here.

Brother J. W. Hulin, one of our honored superannuates, is a member of this charge; also Brother C. W. Saunders, a licentiate of this work, and the pastor of Chase City and Bethesda churches,—one in Virginia and the other in South Carolina. Brother J. L. Moore is also a licentiate of the charge. Each of these brethren reported to the conference. They have been actively and steadily engaged in religious work during the year. The license of Brother Moore was renewed.

We enjoyed our visit with Brother Neese and family, and also with the charge. It was a pleasure to us also to be accompanied on this trip by Brother H. P. Surratt. He is both a good traveling companion and a good chauffeur.

Belmont

Sunday, October 25.—We enjoyed very much a visit with this church on this date, and the privilege of being in the Sunday School, and preaching at the 11 o'clock hour. This church is honored in the fact that it is the home church of one of our most beloved and distinguished ministers, Dr. C. E. Forlines. I am sure that it is gratifying to him to know that the church of his boyhood days is still active in its work, and stronger than it was then. We were pleased with the orderly management of the Sunday School, and the large attendance and evident interest. A congregation that filled well the house was present at the preaching service. We were glad to see in the congregation friends that we learned to esteem in other days. The church building here is well kept, and we were pleased to observe that an improved road had been built from the highway to the church. This church is on Mt. Hermon charge; we were glad to see in the congregation representatives from other churches on the work. The pastor, Brother J. Elwood Carroll has just entered Yale Divinity School as a student. However, he is to return for the closing Sunday of the conference year, and will preach on the charge on that day. He will attend the annual conference also. This is his fifth year on this charge. He has done much good during this long pastorate, and has made many friends on the work, whose benedictions will follow him as he continues his preparation for the ministry.

We enjoyed a dinner visit with Dr. J. A. Pickett and his family, and had a pleasing stay overnight in the home of Brother H. L. Isley.

Correction

By oversight, the conference program, as published last week, was in error as to election of General Conference Representatives on Thursday at 1:30 p. m. The church law fixes the time at 2 p. m., Friday.

That Black Mark

It still climbs. And on its upward march it has given capital distinction to ten charges, as follows: ASHEBORO, GIBSONVILLE, FOUNTAIN PLACE, CALVARY, HIGH POINT, FIRST, PLEASANT GROVE, SPENCER, TABERNACLE, THOMASVILLE, FIRST, WINSTON, FIRST.

These closing days are harvest days for subscriptions. Put in the sickle, brethren, with renewed fervor, and let's send that black line bounding to the TOP. Up, black line, up!

Post Card Telegram

"Pastor paid; claims paid; stage all set for another year"—T. S. Coble, of the Haw River Church. This is cheering. Let us hope that many other churches will follow this good lead of this live and progressive congregation.

And perhaps we may say here what we would have said otherwise under another heading: PLEASE PRESS THE FINANCES DURING THESE CLOSING DAYS. I do not know of any way by which we can serve God better now than by doing that. He is depending upon us as his stewards to return to Him a generous portion of that which He has entrusted to us. And we are now in the time when that return is to be made. What God receives from us for the needs of this conference year will have to be given to Him within the next few days, or not at all. We urge, therefore, that all diligence be shown by pastor and people during these last days, that there may be no shortage in the amount of our finances because of a lack of faithfulness. "I beseech you by the mercies of God"—pastors, officials, members—that each one stand in his place, and do his best during these closing days for every possible dollar on salary and on budgets. One pastor told me Sunday that his charge would start a house-to-house canvas during this week to raise the finances for this year. That is earnest business. May God's blessings be upon it, and upon every effort on every charge in behalf of this important matter.

Finally

Pray much for the coming conference. Matters incident to every session will be before us this year, and none of us are wise enough and strong enough for these things. But there is One who is, and he assures us that he will not turn us away empty, if we go to Him. "Let us therefore come boldly unto a throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time to need." Nothing could be more helpful for us than a spiritual, happy, progressive conference. And surely this would be pleasing unto Him whose we are and whom we delight to serve. Let us pray fervently that it may be even so.

THE STORMS STILLED

"Christ has stilled all my storms."

It was a comment made by a Bengali woman while a Christian lady was reading of our Lord quieting the storm on the Galilean Sea.

She was asked how she had learned of Christ, and she exclaimed, "Don't you remember a long time ago you gave me this?" As she said the words she drew out and held up a well-worn copy of the New Testament. It had been given her some eight years before.

She had then been on a long pilgrimage. Going from shrine to shrine she had sought peace for her conscience by the cleansing away of her sins. She had won the title "holy woman" from those around her. But it availed not to hush the tempest in her soul. She had no rest or peace, in anything she had done. Then it was, the copy of the Scriptures had been put into her hands, and as she read of Jesus, the Son of God, and of His mighty atoning sacrifice, and of how His precious Blood cleanseth from all sin, peace in believing flowed into her soul. Christ stilled all her storms and gladdened her life with the knowledge of Himself.

"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Rom. 5:1.)—Sunlight for the Young.

WHO ARE THE HEATHEN?

The following story tells the truth in plain language:

A Chinaman applied for a position as cook in a western family. The lady of the house and several other members of her family were members of a fashionable church, and the Chinaman was questioned closely.

"Do you drink whisky?"

"No, I Christian man."

"Do you play cards?"

"No, I Christian man."

He was employed and gave great satisfaction. He did his work well, was honest, upright and respectful. After some weeks the lady gave a euchre party and wine was served. John Chinaman was called in to serve refreshments, which he did without much comment. But the next morning he waited on the lady and told her he wanted to quit work.

"Why, what is the matter?" she inquired.

John replied, "I Christian man. I tell you so. I no work for heathen American."—Publisher Unknown.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE BOY WHO WAS BRAVE

In the country where David lived, there were two high mountains with a valley between them. On one mountain was King Saul and all his army; on the other stood a great giant, Goliath, and behind him was an army of men who hated King Saul and wanted to kill him and all his soldiers.

Goliath was so tall that you wouldn't have come as high as his knees. Upon his head was a helmet of brass, and his body was covered with brazen armour. On his legs were heavy brass leggings. He held a long staff with a sharp spear point at the end; by his side hung a sword, and a man went before him carrying a shield.

He stood on the mountain top and shouted to Saul's army, "Why have you come out to fight, you servants of Saul? Choose a man and let him come down to me; if he fights me and kills me then will we be your servants, but if I kill him you shall be our servants. I defy you this day!"

When Saul and his soldiers heard these words and looked at the terrible giant they trembled with fear. No one dared to go out and fight him.

David was feeding his father's sheep on the hillside. One day his father called him and told him to take some corn and loaves of bread to his brothers who were soldiers in Saul's army.

Just as he reached there, whom do you suppose he saw? The giant, and he called again the same words, daring any man to come down and fight him. David saw Saul's men running away to their tents in fear. He wondered how any giant dared to come out against "the army of the Living God," as David called Saul's army.

David spoke to King Saul, and told him that he would go out and fight this giant.

The king said, "But you are only a boy and this man is a warlike giant. You are not able to fight him."

Why do you suppose David dared to fight the giant when all those strong men were afraid to? Because they only trusted in themselves, and knew the giant was stronger than they were, but David trusted in some One stronger than the giant. All he carried was his shepherd's staff and his sling, with five stones to use in it.

Down the mountain toward the giant he went. Down the mountain on the other side came Goliath. When Goliath saw who had come to fight him he was angry.

He cried, "Am I a dog that you come to me with a stick? Come, and I will give thy flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field."

Do you suppose that frightened David? He answered, "Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the Name of the Lord of Hosts, the God of the armies of Israel."

David ran to meet the giant. He put his hand in his bag and taking a stone, placed it in his sling, aimed it straight at the giant's forehead. It went deep into the giant's head and he fell to the earth upon his face.

The giant wasn't dead, so David ran and stood upon him, and taking the giant's sword, he cut off his head.

When the army of the giant saw that, they turned and ran away, but Saul's army soon overtook them and made them prisoners.

So the shepherd boy, with a sling, and a stone, and the help of God, won a great battle.—The Pilot.

HOW GRACE SPELLED LOVE

A class of very little girls were learning to spell. "Etta," said the teacher, "spell pig and tell us what kind of a noise the pig makes." "P-i-g, pig," answered Etta, "and the pig say 'Que, que.'"

"You may spell dog, Rosy," said the teacher to the next girl. "D-o-g, dog, and our doggie says, 'Bow-wow!'"

"Now, cat, Mary," and the next little girl said, "C-a-t, cat, and my kitty says, 'Mew, mew.'"

"Grace, you may spell love," were the teacher's next words. Grace didn't stop to give the letters, but ran and threw her arms around the teacher's neck, giving her a kiss on the cheek. "We spell love that way at our house," she said.

How the girls laughed at this queer way of spelling!

"That is a beautiful way," said the teacher, "but do you know another way?"

"Oh, yes," said little Grace. "I spell love this way," and she began putting the books in order on the teacher's desk. "I spell love by helping everybody when they need me."

"That is the best way of all to spell love, but now let us have it as the book spells it." Then the class said together, "L-o-v-e, love."—Publisher Unknown.

A BOY'S TRAINING

"Charles" said a mother in England many years ago to her son some ten or twelve years old, "Charles, I have trained you in righteousness. Your father and I have set you right examples. We have taught you the Gospel. We have shown you the way of peace. My son, if you do not live a Godly life I will stand before God in the day of judgment and bear witness against you!"

Is it any wonder that Charles Spurgeon became the foremost preacher of the nineteenth century, if not of all the centuries since the days of the Apostles? A home where parents can say such things to their children makes a good home for boys and girls.—The Friend.

THE WORST CALAMITY

The very worst calamity, I should say, which could befall any human being would be this—to have his own way from his cradle to his grave; to have everything he liked for the asking, or even for the buying; never forced to say: "I would like that, but I can't afford it; I should like this, but I must not do it." Never to deny himself, never to exert himself, never to work, and never to want. That man's soul would be in as great danger as if he were committing great crimes.—Charles Kingsley.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

TO ALL SECRETARIES OF THE SPIRITUAL LIFE DEPARTMENT

Will you avail yourselves of the great opportunity to be given us on Thursday, November 5th, during Conference, to hear Mrs. Marie Thompson at an inspirational service? Each one of us needs to catch new inspiration in order to grow spiritually. Mrs. Thompson will help us so we can be of greater service. Please attend conference on November 5, and especially be at the afternoon service at 2 o'clock.

The new devotional book for the year is, "With God." Price is 15c. Hope you will get it.

May I quote here from a recent article by Mrs. J. W. Shell? "Let us, as a Woman's Auxiliary, get this opportunity of serving the Master upon our hearts as a real spiritual force. We have made it a Martha matter—a responsibility. Let us now make it a Mary matter—a fine, high spiritual privilege."

Do please plan to go to High Point to hear Mrs. Thompson.

MRS. J. M. STONE,
Sec. of the Spiritual Life Dept.,
N. C. Branch.

CORRECTION

We regret that in publishing the names of auxiliaries with their payments on G. C. B. in last week's issue of the Herald Pleasant Hill, West Forsyth, did not appear. This auxiliary has not only paid $55.91 on G. C. B., but has sent in monthly remittances and is keeping all its budgets paid up to date.

VELNA McCULLOCH,
Treas. N. C. Branch.

TO MEMBERS OF THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

First Church, with the aid of the other High Point churches and friends, is attempting to perfect plans for the best possible entertainment of the Conference. This is not easy when so many have roomers or boarders. All who plan to accept this hospitality will help our committees very much by sending to me AT ONCE, if not already sent, an indication of their desire. Returnable stamped form cards have been sent to all whose addresses we had. Have YOU returned yours? If not, do it NOW. As I write, only about half of them have come to me. If any delegate or minister did not receive the card, please use your own and send it once.

Sincerely yours, for further reference,
R. I. FARMER,
628 Colonial Drive,
High Point, N. C.
Minister First Church,

WANTED: A GOOD LAUGH!

What this country most needs is not a new national anthem, or a Wall Street boom, but men with the ability to laugh spontaneously.

A rippling, silvery, melodious laugh is rarely heard. Sounds are emitted, supposed to represent a laugh, but usually are merely a tittering cachinnation or a loud guffaw.

The art of laughing should be assiduously cultivated. A simple way to do this is as follows:

First, with closed lips sound the letter "m" in staccato style, slowly at first, then more rapidly. Thus: "M-m-m-m-m."

Second, purse the lips and say "Hoo" several times. Thus: "Hoo! hoo! hoo! hoo! hoo!"

Third, Sound "Ho" several times. Thus: "Ho! ho! ho! ho! ho!"

Fourth, Sound "Ha" several times. Thus: "Ha! ha! ha! ha! ha!"

Finally run the four elements together. Thus: "M m m m hoo hoo hoo hoo hoo ho ho ho ho ha ha ha ha ha ha!" Gradually increase in speed.

When you finish reading the foregoing aloud you will have already produced a fairly satisfactory laugh.

—Grenville Kleiser.

GIVE ME WORDS

Give me words of simple length,
Words to scatter error's mist,
Words of beauty, words of strength,
Words of gold and amethyst.

Give me words well-fit for song,
Words that smooth the rugged road,
Words with which to combat wrong,
Words that lighten labor's load.

Give me words to suit the hour,
Words that radiate new light,
Words of wisdom, words of power,
Words to lift men to the heights.

Give me words for daily need,
Words to bless and freely give,
Words a hungry soul to feed,
Words to help some one to live.

Give me words that glow with life,
Words that whisper purest love,
Words to vanquish human strife,
Words endowed by God above.

—Grenville Kleiser.

HOPES FOR THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

One thing—that we may launch a campaign for a Superannuate Endowment Fund—not to be loaned for any purpose. Another thing—that we cut overhead expenses by "locating" the president on a charge, allowing, of course, a certain amount for stamps, travel, and other incidentals necessary to the office. We believe this would be "a noble experiment" for a few years.

Again, that we petition the General Conference to practice the same principle and also to cut down the tremendous expense of too many office-holders and too high salaries and too much unnecessary traveling expense.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Weaver's Chapel.—On the third Sunday, October 18, the Rally Day program was carried out very nicely and was enjoyed by all there. We are very proud of our Sunday school teachers and children. A song was sung by the choir, "He Whispered His Love to Me," and while they were singing Rev. P. E. Bingham and wife were showered with many gifts.

The closing of 1931 is almost here. And we hope the churches will be paid up in full and that they can go to conference with a pleasing smile.

Wishing much success to the coming year.
REPORTER.

First Church, High Point.—The service on Sunday morning was unique and interesting. After a vocal solo by Mrs. John C. Whitesell, the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, delivered an eloquent and timely sermon on "The Chest of Joash." He said in part: Ingersoll, the famous infidel, once declared: "The course of Christianity is about run," but from Bishop McCabe flashed this telling message: "We are building a Methodist church a day!" The first message over telegraph was forceful and prophetic, "What hath God wrought!" Just as a growing boys and his needs draw on his parents, so the church must be nurtured and fed by its members. I was in a local hospital last night, and saw a two-months-old baby boy, who had been abandoned by its parents and left to an uncertain fate on the porch of a Steele street citizen—is this more tragic than when members of the church cease to support it? True liberality is the willing sacrifice of every member. The church should be as well kept and supported as the best home of its membership. Your obligation to the church is as sacred as a note in the bank. Giving is worship, and neglect of the church in a financial way is indifference to Christ. The congregation then united in reading the lines from the Bulletin:

"We open here our treasures and our gifts;
And some of it is gold, for Christ, our King,
And some is frankincense and some is myrrh;
For some has come from plenty, and some from joy,

And some from deepest sorrow of the soul.
For Thou, O God, dost know the gift is love,
Our pledge of peace, our promise of good will;

Accept the gift, and all the life we bring."

Led by members of the Philathea class, who acted as pew hostesses, the congregation formed a procession, which filed by the cedar chest on the table in front of the pulpit, and deposited there in their gifts of cash, checks, and pledges, while a hymn was sung. We are much pleased to learn that the "Joash Chest," something novel in our church, yielded the gratifying sum of $485.00.

The newly-organized Young People's C. E. Society, of which Miss Frances Taylor is president, held its weekly meeting at 6:30 o'clock. The evening service was again led by the Brotherhood, and Messrs. Gorrell Payne and Dr. L. M. Zimmerman served as leaders of the program. After an organ recital by Prof.

Ernest B. Thompson, the service was opened by the reading of the Scripture lesson by Mr. E. L. Douglas and prayer. Messrs C. L. Gray, Jr., E. B. Stimson, J. H. Mourane, and John Taylor sang a quartet, "Day Is Dying," by Sherwin. The minister, Rev. Mr. Farmer, delivered a splendid message on "The Christian's Battlements." An unusually large congregation joined in this worship hour.

The Senior C. E. Society, of which Tyson T. Ferree is the efficient president, enjoyed a Halloween social after the devotional period on Monday evening. A large number of Endeavorers and their friends joined in games, the witches' house, and other forms of Halloween merriment. Delicious refreshments of ice cream, chocolate cake, and candy corn were served.

The Workers' Council of the Sabbath school will meet this (Tuesday) evening, and after the regular prayer and praise service on Wednesday evening the board of stewards will meet. Mr. Richard H. Shaw is the new chairman of this important board.

Felicitations and innumerable good wishes are extended to our faithful minister, Rev. Roy I. Farmer, on his birthday anniversary which he celebrated Sunday in the harness. (Perhaps he would not be pleased for us to tell which one it was, but we all know that he is young in years as well as spirit.) We are hoping for him numberless glorious returns of the day and many happy and fruitful years of service, and may his shadow never grow less. Sunday, October 25th, happened to be little "Tommy" Foister's birthday, too, and it was his sixth. Now, Tommy is the bright and lovable son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Foister, and beloved nephew of Mrs. George T. Penny, who complimented her pastor and small nephew with a party at 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at "Pennybyrn," her lovely home on the Greensboro road. There were joyous games and contests suggestive of the Halloween season, rides on the pony, and refreshments which brought gladness to the hearts of the 35 happy and fortunate boys and girls, who had been bidden to this delightful occasion—and there was a birthday cake for the pastor, too, but we did not hear how many candles it held! Mrs. Penny is never so happy as when surrounded by a large group of guests to whom she can dispense lavish hospitality, and on Saturday afternoon was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. C. Welch, Sr., her sister, Mrs. J. T. Foister, and Misses Ruth and Elizabeth Welch, and Mrs. R. I. Farmer.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed next Sunday morning, November 1, and the fourth quarterly conference will convene Monday evening, November 2, at 8 o'clock.

Of the 91 students of High Point High School whose names appeared on the honor roll for the past six weeks, the following boys and girls of our church and Sabbath school are noted: Senior class, James Montgomery; Junior, Helen Davis and Leonard Koonce; Sophomore, Also Gray; Freshman, Ruth Lee, Elizabeth Kivitt, Virginia Dixon, Dorothy Davis, Truman Hilton, and Virginia Horney. On the Junior High School honor roll appear the following: Reginald Hinchaw, Raymond York, Mildred Ferree, Joe Gray, Burke Koontz, Katherine Peace, Marie Koonce, and Jack Lee. We are quite proud of these 18 girls and boys, who are evenly divided, nine of each, we are pleased to see. Usually the boys let the girls outdistance them in school work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Vance, of Yanceyville, N. C., spent the past week-end with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Reynolds and Mrs. C. W. Vance.

The numerous friends of Dr. A. A. York, who has been taking treatment at High Point Hospital, will be pleased to learn that he is improving, and was seeing patients in his office yesterday.

We are much gratified to know that Mrs. B. F. Montgomery, 1123 South Main street, who has been in failing health for the past few years, is much improved, and we hope to see her at church soon.

Plans for the entertainment of the N. C. Conference are being rapidly formulated, and committees for securing homes and assigning the delegates are working busily. The Woman's Auxiliary has decided to serve two meals at the church, lunch and supper, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at a reasonable price. Lodging and breakfast will be given in the various homes, and also Sunday dinner.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Bro. Trollinger finished his year's work at this place last Sunday with a wonderful sermon. His text was Genesis 40:23: "Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but forgot him." He showed us how we in our pleasure and selfishness forget God's love and watchful care over us. After the sermon the officers for the new year were installed and the Lord's Supper was administered; the majority of the congregation partook of this. We feel that this was one of the most beautiful services we have had this year, though they have all been good. We hope if it can be the Lord's will that Bro. Trollinger and family be returned.

Christian Endeavor was conducted Sunday night by Miss Alice May Butler. Next Sunday just after Sunday school the C. E. society will be reorganized.

Pray for us that we may go into the new year's work with more zeal and try to do more for the Lord.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Clark's Chapel, Weaverville.—Eager eyes will be watching for our last report of the Conference year.

In the outset I wish to say that past happenings have rendered it quite difficult for both pastor and people this year. But let us strive to forget the things of the past and press forward toward the mark of the high calling. In spite of difficulties, and handicaps, Bro. Cowan has done a splendid work, and we highly appreciate his untiring efforts and his orderly walk. We as a church are proud of his ability in conducting all services, and the earnestness with which he so faithfully delivers his sermons to the small congregations. We can readily see he could have accomplished a great deal more good with the co-operation of a larger per cent of the membership. Some have been faithful in the discharge of their duties.

The preaching hour yesterday was taken in the election of officers for the ensuing year as follows: Superintendent, Mr. W. G. Silvers; assistant superintendent, Mr. A. F. Roberts; secretary, James Cheek; Sunday school and church organist, Miss Mary Lou Head; class leader, Miss Stella Cheek; stewards, Mrs. Sallie Cole, Mr. Joe Roberts, Mrs. Itaska Kirk, Mr. W. H. Stroup, Mr. Walter Cheek, Mrs. Veronia Brittain, Mrs. Jennie Mackey; trustees, Mr. A. F. Roberts, Mr. L. F. Eller, Mr. J. W. Roberts, Mr. Bob Cole, Mrs. Janie Roberts; church clerk, Mrs. Verlin Roberts.

The average attendance of our Sunday school is 35; offerings are fine.

We will be glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Cowan come to us again.

LOUISE CHEEK, Reporter.

Union Grove, Mocksville Charge.—We continue to have a large attendance at our Sunday school and preaching services.

We have organized a Christian Endeavor Society; also a Junior Christian Endeavor. Both are real live wires and we are expecting them to accomplish much among the young people of this community. Also we are still having our prayer meetings every Sunday evening.

Bro. Ferree filled his last appointment for this Conference year Sunday. He preached two very inspiring sermons which we enjoyed very much. The members of this church are very anxious to have Bro. Ferree and family remain with us, not only this coming year, but indefinitely. We are greatly pleased with the work he has done for us, and with progress our church has made in the past year.

We were glad to welcome another new member Sunday, making a total of 45 additions to the church this year. REPORTER.

Mocksville Charge.—Our Sunday school is doing fine, attendance is good. We have 91 on roll and an average of 80 since last Conference. Sunday school rooms have been built and are almost paid for. They are being painted inside and will be furnished as soon as possible.

We held our fourth quarterly conference Saturday, October 23rd, with large attendance. The business was transacted in a fine spirit. All churches were represented except Dulins. The delegate was instructed to bring Bro. G. B. Ferree back to Mocksville; it was made unanimous.

We had as pulpit help this year at our special meeting Bro. Stubbins. We all like him very much and wish him to come again. The children enjoyed having him talk to them, and all feel his visit was helpful to us. Bro. Ferree has held all his meetings. The result was 127 conversions with 68 accessions, with others to follow.

We are behind financially; hope to raise more yet.

Mrs. James Sain, one of our oldest and most saintly members, passed away Sunday. We extend sympathy to the grief-stricken family.

(Reporter should name church as well as charge.—Editor.)

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—The fourth quarterly conference convened at Creswell church Sunday afternoon, October 25th. The churches were well represented; the session was very harmonious, all asking a return of the pastor. He, in turn, appreciated the fact, and desired to remain another year. His report of the year's work was very encouraging.

I am glad Bro. C. V. White and family were able to attend the conference. Bro.

Joe White will not be able to attend the Annual Conference, so Mrs. Bettie Davenport was elected in his place. Bro. Norman Davenport brought up the subject of electric lights for the parsonage; he said Creswell was all lighted up and we in darkness; it was not right, so he kindly offered to have the lights attached soon. We are to pay him; so let me urge all who have subscribed to this, pay up right away.

I received a most beautiful letter this morning from Miss Lee A. Norman, who was born and raised in this community. For many years she has been away from Rehoboth church, yet she never fails to send her yearly contribution to the church, where she still holds her membership.

Our weekly Bible class is growing more interesting all the time. We missed Bro. Wm. Wiley from his seat in the quarterly conference; he is very feeble, owing to recent illness; those who know him and his faithful work in our church, pray for his recovery.

REPORTER.

Sandy Ridge, Kernersville Charge.—Sunday was a good day with us. Our Sunday school is getting better all the time. Sunday there were 152 present; collection, $3.05. We are glad to see more of the older folks taking interest in the Sunday school; hope they will continue to come.

Brother Reed was with us Sunday for the usual 11 o'clock service and brought us a real good message. This was his last sermon with us for the year, as we are not expecting him back for the coming year. Our hearts are sad for we have learned to love Bro. and Sister Reed and we are sorry to part with them.

Brother Reed and Brother Bell took 24 members into the church Sunday, 12 by sprinkling and 12 by immersion.

Sunday, November 1, the C. E. Society from West End, Thomasville, will be with us at Sandy Ridge at 2 p. m. for the purpose of getting a C. E. Society under way at this place. Hope all the young folks will be present; also the old folks.

MRS. L. A. HOLT, Reporter.

State Street, Lexington.—At the morning service Sunday we were happy to receive eight into church membership. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris and their son, Selby, Mrs. Charles Lamb and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gardner. All except Mr. Selby Harris were received by letter. We were sorry Mrs. Gardner could not be present, being kept at home on account of sickness. Mrs. Gardner has been ill for some time. We are hoping for her early recovery.

We are expecting to have our president, Dr. S. W. Taylor, with us on Wednesday night of this week. The fourth quarterly conference will be held at this time, after which an auction sale will be conducted in the church basement. Articles of fancy-work or anything useful contributed by the congregation and friends will be sold to the highest bidder. The proceeds will be applied on the deficit still remaining on finances.

The Women's Bible Class and Mrs. Harkey's Class combined Sunday morning to hear Dr. Brannock teach the lesson. Mrs. Harkey had asked Dr. Brannock several weeks ago to teach her class the first Sunday he was not engaged and last Sunday morning he came to fill his appointment with Mrs. Harkey and her class and the Bible class asked permission to join them. All members of both classes were helped and instructed by Dr. Brannock's fine address. Being a kind of "circulating" Sunday school teacher and one of rare consecration and helpfulness, the doctor is always engaged several Sundays ahead by various schools of all denominations. We are always glad to have him in our Sunday school or worship services.

Miss Lilabell McCrary, student of Duke University, spent the past week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCrary. Miss McCrary was accompanied on her visit by two of her classmates, Miss Ina Futrell and Miss Rich Square, and also her cousin, Miss Frances McCrary, of High Point. We were pleased to have all the young ladies with us in the morning service.

We have many visitors at nearly all the Sunday services and are always glad to have them with us. Maybe we are sometimes slow to express to them how pleased we are to have them come, but if so it is a mistake of the head and not the heart, for having our friends from other churches worship with us is a joy to us all. REPORTER.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, filled his last appointment Sunday afternoon. He used as his text Luke 10:2: "The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few." The ones that missed this sermon missed a good one.

The last quarterly conference was held at Chestnut Ridge October 24, said to be one of the best conferences held on this charge in many years. The conference unanimously voted for the return of our present pastor. We are going to expect our delegate to bring him back to us if possible, for he has served us faithfully for seven years and we would be very sorry to give him up.

The young people of this church gave a splendid missionary play, "The Remedy," with a short program Sunday night, October 25, which every one present seemed to enjoy very much. Everyone enjoyed the short, but interesting, talk made by our pastor and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, also the reading on China, India, and Japan by Miss Mabel Sykes. A duet was sung by Misses Eledice and Priscilla James. The credit goes to Mrs. A. V. Jones and Miss Elevean Hayes for training the children.

Our next appointment for preaching will be the fourth Sunday in November.

Best wishes to the Conference and the Herald readers.

ANNIE SQUIRES, Reporter.

Seagrove.—Our pastor, Rev. W. H. Neese, filled his last regular appointment for this Conference year Sunday night, October 25. He delivered an interesting message to an attentive congregation. At the close of the preaching service communion service was held, a goodly number partaking. The following church officers were elected: C. E. Stuart, Sunday school superintendent; Noah Williams, steward; Mrs. Carl E. King, II, D. Smith and James Walker, trustees; Mrs. J. D. Johnson, Mrs. Nettie Allen and Mrs. James Walker, class leaders.

We recently lost one of our faithful members, Mrs. W. D. Lemonds, by death. We miss her so much, for she was always present when her health would permit.

We are having a splendid Sunday school and hoping for better attendance as the protracted meeting season is over and not so many other places to attend.

We are glad to have two of the High School teachers with us almost every Sunday—Miss Evelyn Pollard, from Virgilina, Va., and Mr. G. A. York, from Staley. Miss Pollard has charge of the young people's class.

Sunday, October 18, we had as visitors in our Sunday school Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lemonds and children, of Greensboro, and Mrs. Clarence Blythe, of Reidsville. Mr. Lemonds and Mrs. Blythe are the oldest son and daughter of Mr. W. D. Lemonds' family of twelve children. These children were all present at our Sunday school the Sunday following their mother's funeral. Mrs. Lemonds wanted her family to attend Sunday school and we hope they will continue to do so.

Pray for us that much good may be done here, although we are few in number.

MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS.

Effland, Orange Charge.—Our last quarterly conference was held at Chestnut Ridge church October 24. It was unanimously voted for our present pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, to be returned to us. We hope the Annual Conference will be kind enough to grant us this request.

The business meeting of the church was held Sunday, October 18. Most of the old officers were re-elected. One steward was added to the list of stewards, namely, Mr. Frank Pratt.

Our Sunday school is somewhat below what it should be for such good weather. The attendance does not come up to our expectations. Let everyone, young and old, come out to Sunday school. It will do you good and your presence will help stimulate more interest. Every one can have a part in making a Sunday school or anything (for that matter) a success. Just attend regularly.

MRS. E. S. TAYLOR, Reporter.

South Lexington.—We are endeavoring to end up the year in the best way possible. We held our fourth quarterly conference at Mt. Carmel church. A good number of our official members were present and our reports were very encouraging considering the fact that we have had a rather hard year. With some of our members out of work, it has kept our finances low, but we are hoping that we may come out on all our claims. We have received the largest number of members into the church this year that we have ever received in one year, as far as is known by this writer. At the close of the business of the conference the delegate was to be instructed as to whom we wanted for our pastor for another year. Bro. Isley, who has been with us for three years, was the choice of everyone in the conference. The vote for his return for another year was unanimous.

Our Sunday school is holding up well; there were 264 present today. Our preaching services are also being well attended. Bro. J. J. Mallard had good success in his drive for subscriptions for the Herald, he having got a good number. We are glad to have new members come into the church and take such an active part in the work as Bro. Mallard and lots of our other new members have.

In our morning service we elected our officers for the en-uing year. The officers elected were as follows: Superintendent of Sunday school, H. C. Koonts. Bro. Koonts has served in this capacity for the past ten years and he has filled the office as well as anyone could, we believe. He has given his all to build up the Sunday school, which he has been successful in doing. We have the largest school now in the history of the church. For church treasurer, J. J. Mallard; trustees, J. A. Easter, J. H. Yates, W. C. Gibson, C. A. Auman, and Roy Wallace; class leader, W. A. Snider; stewards, B. F. Everidge, G. A. Barber, Arvil Walser, Willie Kimball, Glenn Brown, A. F. Honeycutt, T. D. Westmoreland, Glenn Younts, Oscar Koonts, and Phonse Bean. These officers will be installed next Sunday night so they will be ready to begin the new year.

REPORTER.

Saint Paul Charge.—The reporter has kept the readers of the Herald pretty well informed, but the pastor wishes to say a few things about the work here. I have enjoyed the work and feel that we have accomplished some good.

We held our fall revival October 4th to 16th. Brother Madison, of First Church, Thomasville, came on Monday and did the preaching throughout the meeting. Brother Madison did good preaching, which the people enjoyed and profited by, we believe. The church was revived; two conversions and one reclamation.

We held our fourth quarterly conference last night. Report were very good. Treasurer showed that pastor's salary would be paid in full and that the Annual Conference budget would in all probability be paid in full and some on all other claims when the work of stewards was finished. The business of the conference was carried out in a harmonious spirit from start to finish. The quarterly conference voted for the return of the present pastor. Our desire is that the Lord's will be done in all the deliberations of our Annual Conference.

D. I. GARNER, Pastor.

Rehoboth, Granville Circuit.—The Women's Missionary Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. R. W. Harris for the October meeting. The attendance was very good and a splendid program was given. Each member was urged to make her offering as large as she could since this was our last meeting before conference and we wanted to get as much of our budget as possible, that we might have a favorable report.

We held a public thank-offering service Sunday morning, October 25. It consisted of a short program by the ladies of the Auxiliary and a sermon by Rev. C. K. Procter, superintendent of the Oxford orphanage. Mr. Procter took his text from Psalm 30:5: "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." This was a very appropriate sermon, both for this occasion and these days of depression. He stated that though we are often in despair, the darkest hour is just before dawning, and all the trials and hardships we are made to bear are but to bring us into closer relationship with God, and make of us better men and women. He emphasized the fact that sorrow at its worst is brief. What is a few years of suffering here compared with the joy of eternity? With this thought in mind we should not allow sorrow to make us sour; just remember, light follows darkness. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

We were pleased with the thank-offering, although it was not as large as we would like to have had it. For we realize that Mr. and Mrs. Minnis, to whom this offering goes, are looking to us for support, both with our prayers and means.

The Bright Jewels and Sunshine Band of Circle No. 1 met at the home of Pauline Hunt on October 26th. Circle No. 2 will meet on the 29th at the home of Mrs. H. L. Wright.

The next appointment of this church will be the first Sunday morning in November. Then our pastor, Rev. C. L. Spencer, will bring to us his last sermon of this Conference year. We are hoping that he will bring as many more splendid sermons in the coming year.

We find that the attendance in the children's department of our Sunday school has increased in the last few months, and we are glad to report that they are doing good work.

Best wishes to the Herald and for the ensuing conference.

LUCY ROGERS, Reporter.

English Street Church.—Sunday morning our pastor brought to us his last 11 o'clock service. His subject was taken from Psalm 116:12: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits towards me?" He said in part: "We have as much to be thankful for as David had. Our responsibilities are greater because of the many benefits bestowed upon us; but the Lord, who giveth us all these things, will enable us to give a proper response. How are we going to respond to all these gifts that are ours? If we use the same methods that David did, we will truly have given a proper response. The first is found in the 13th verse, 'I will take the cup of salvation.' Second, what did God create men for? To glorify Him, live upright and pure lives. The third is found in the 14th verse of the Psalm: 'I will pay my vows unto the Lord.' By these three ways, David chose to render gratitude unto the Lord for His benefits toward him."

Speaking for the church, we as reporters wish to express our gratitude to our pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, and his wife for the many things that they have done for English Street church in the past three years. No one has ever co-operated with the Christian Endeavor Society or done more than has our pastor. He is always ready to help the young people in any project that they undertake. He is continually working out plans for the betterment of the church. Our Sunday school is the best organized that it has ever been, largely due to the efforts of Mr. Reynolds, and then Mrs. Reynolds has taken an active part with the children and in the Ladies' Aid Society. They are not planning to be with us next year, and we feel sure that there will be two large, empty spaces, which no one else can fill, but as English Street loses some other church gains.

At the last part of the 11 o'clock service the installation of the officers of the church and Sunday school were held. Following this service a short business session was held.

During the services Sunday we were delighted to see several faces that we had not seen in a long time. Mrs. J. A. Lee was able to be present for the first time since August, due to illness. Mrs. P. M. Caudle was also present after being away several weeks with her husband in Wilson. Mr. Caudle has been very ill but is reported to be recovering nicely.

It seems as if all the best people of our church are being taken from us. Last Saturday, Miss Ruth Bonkemeyer, one of the finest young ladies of our church, became the bride of Mr. Francis Gibbs, of Greensboro. After returning from a trip to Georgia, they will be at home in Greensboro. We wish for them all the joy that the future can hold for them. Our only regret is that they could not have made their home in High Point and remained with us.

The Herald of last week stated that our delegate to Conference was Mrs. J. A. Lee. It should have been Mr. J. A. Lee.

REPORTERS.

Orange Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference meet at Chestnut Ridge Saturday, October 24th. The usual business was transacted. Finances are badly behind. We are still hoping to do our best.

Pastor's salary was fixed for next year at $1,800.00. W. A. Davies was elected alternate delegate. The conference instructed the delegate to ask for the return of the present pastor. We appreciate this vote of confidence. May God's leadership be followed in all the acts of our approaching Annual Conference.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Spring Church, Spring Church Charge.—Bro. Lowdermilk preached for us Sunday his last sermon for this Conference year. I have enjoyed all his sermons, for they were certainly from the Bible, but his greatest one has been the life he has lived before us. I feel indeed that we have been fortunate in having one so Christ-like among us.

Our quarterly conference met at Spring Church on Friday before the third Sunday in this month. We are right much behind in finances, but hope to pay up in full at our call meeting, which will be held at Pleasant Hill next Friday night.

Mr. W. W. Grant, who was elected to go to Conference, could not go, so Mr. R. M. Robinson was appointed to go in his place.

We sincerely hope our delegate and stationing committee will be guided by our Heavenly Father, for we realize that He alone knows who is best fitted for our work.

REPORTER.

Salem, Saxapahaw Charge.—As our minds run back over the past year's work we wonder if we have done the best possible for our Lord and Master. Nevertheless, we feel sure we have accomplished a few things.

We have reorganized our Missionary Society and hope to do great work in the year 1932, and on in future years. The society has been divided into two circles, and we feel sure that each circle will make progress. The men have also organized a Brotherhood class. Each circle has its meeting on every fourth Sunday afternoon.

All our members are hoping and trusting that we will see our same pastor, Mr. Whitehead, in our pulpit for another year. Mr. Whitehead is a man who likes to see his churches as well as all others go forward. So come on, members, and let's back him up, or whoever is our pastor; let's stand firmly by his side. May we all be inspired to do something and not sit idle.

We have elected our officers for 1932 and feel sure that we have chosen wisely. May God help each officer to do his best.

On Sunday night, October 18th, the Bethlehem C. E. Society visited our church and gave a splendid program consisting of songs, readings and a pageant entitled, "In Search of Happiness." We appreciate their coming and pray God's blessings upon their society. Hope they can be with us again sometime.

Our Sunday school work is progressing nicely, but we still see room for improvements and are striving to make them. Plans are being made to reorganize and we feel sure better work can be done.

The C. E. gave a lawn party on the church lawn October 3. This proved to be very successful. The proceeds amounted to $17.80. This will go toward heating the church.

We welcome you to our church at any time.

MRS. T. R. CRAWFORD, Reporter.

Shiloh, Randolph Charge.—Again a Conference year draws to a close and we realize that there is yet much to be done. Balances on bills must be paid and all claims must be settled before we are ready to begin work on a clean page in a new year.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected some time ago. A new plan of voting was used, resembling the secret ballot. This proved satisfactory and gave us a fairly good staff of officers. They were officially installed at the last appointment.

The last quarterly conference was held at Gray's Chapel in Saturday, October 11. Books were closed for this year and reports regarding the work of each church were given. The conference voted unanimously for the return of Bro. Suits, who has given us many helpful and inspiring sermons during the past year. The church welcomed this phase of the report and hopes that the Annual Conference finds it fit to comply with this wish.

Best wishes to the Herald.

CLARICE WHITAKER, Reporter.

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—Our church has had a good year. Brother Pegg gave us good, earnest sermons. Several new members have been added, most of them the bright young people of our own Sunday school. We are hoping that each member of our church will strive with all their heart to so live before these young members that they will have no other desire except to press humbly onward trying to serve our Lord and His cause as best they can.

Our pastor filled his last appointment on the third Sunday, and our people are looking for our next third Sunday appointment to be filled by our new pastor, Rev. J. P. Pegg.

Our Sunday school has moved along very well during the summer. The attendance has not been so large as usual, yet the interest has been fine and superintendent, teachers and pupils have enjoyed the Sunday school.

Our last quarterly meeting met at Palestine Saturday before the past third Sunday with 20 members and some 15 visitors present. The business was transacted in love and harmony. The finances of our churches were not up as near as we would like. Our people would like to see all our churches on the Annual Conference honor roll, having all claims paid in full for this year.

Our pastor's salary was lowered for next year, which many of our people regret having to do and hope it will only have to be temporary. The official members instructed their delegate, Brother G. A. Middleton, for the return of our present pastor for another year. Pastor and Mrs. Pegg have endeared themselves to our people and it would be with sad hearts indeed to have them moved from our churches. May the prayer of our people be that we will love and co-operate with our pastor during the year, whether he be a new man or the one we now have. He's God's messenger and without His people helping him he can make little progress on any work.

Best wishes.

GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

Oak Grove, Cleveland Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference for Cleveland charge was held at Pleasant Hill Friday, October 16. The conference voted unanimously for the return of our pastor, Bro. C. E. Ridge. We are indeed glad to know that we will have Bro. Ridge as our pastor for the coming year. Bro. Ridge filled his appointment at Oak Grove Sunday and gave us a wonderful message as usual, his subject being Isaiah's vision of God. Would to God that Cleveland charge would catch that vision! We would not have any trouble in meeting the finances of the church if each one would say as Isaiah did: "Here am I, Lord, send me."

Our Sunday school is going about as usual. Bro. R. A. White was elected superintendent. We feel that Bro. White will make us a splendid superintendent, as did Bro. W. M. Stamey.

We are sorry to know that two of our members are in the hospital; the sick are Mrs. R. L. Canipe and Bro. J. J. Powell. We hope they will both be home again soon and be with us at church.

As the time is drawing near for our Annual Conference we pray that this may be the best meeting ever held for the M. P. denomination.

MRS. F. H. GRIGG, Reporter.

Kernersville.—We had a good day at Sandy Ridge yesterday—174 in Sunday school and about 30 baptized, half by immersion. We had the largest congregation of the year. The Sunday school is made up of the most enthusiastic group we ever saw. Mrs. L. G. Wood was continued at the helm. They have outgrown their church and are talking of building additional rooms in the near future. And they are just ambitious enough to do that very thing. It was inspiring to see the new converts teaching classes and taking an active part in church work. Surely a great change has come over that community.

The good people of the charge are giving us increased evidences of their love and appreciation in a substantial way. Three sisters, Mesdames G. W. Gray, T. A. Holt and B. H. Farington, from Sandy Ridge, clubbed us with canned fruit, honey, vegetables and dairy products that would have been creditable to a whole church. Mrs. Sykes and others gave us butter until we are overstocked with it, and we are big consumers. Mrs. Jack Hester keeps on pounding us. Bro. Gray and a Bro. Fraier, who is not a member of our church, have filled our gas tank repeatedly with gas free of charge. We see other clouds gathering and hear the rumbling sound of a pour ing thunder. To all those who have remembered us in any way we are profoundly grateful and pray God's richest blessings upon them.

Thirty-five additions have been made to this charge this year. W. D. REED.

Friendship, Stanley.—Friendship is much alive. Our Sunday school is good; and what good preaching we have to help us all! We had with us on the 10th our president, Rev. S. W. Taylor, who delivered a wonderful sermon which we all enjoyed.

We held our last quarterly meeting on the 16th with loving spirit. After the meeting was over we instructed our delegate to bring our same preacher, Rev. O. B. Williams, back with us. If you get a good man, stick to him. Some wonder how the church can succeed if the preacher's heart is cold. This is most certainly true. If there is one thing the church needs it is a preacher with a warm heart, and we have just that. We wonder if it has occurred to some folks that the people have a great deal to do with keeping the preacher's heart warm.

We are having a good Ladies' Aid. We have the parsonage furnished with the help of our good work. We are praying to do more next year. We all enjoy our Aid Society. We know what we do in the name of the Lord is success to all.

We are looking for a good Conference this year, and ask that our present pastor be returned to us. REPORTER.

Gray's Chapel, Randolph Charge.—Our revival meeting was held beginning the fourth Sunday in September. Rev. C. W. Bates did the preaching. Ten joined the church. Think much good was accomplished, and I am sure we enjoyed having Mr. Bates with us.

The fourth quarterly conference was held here Saturday evening, October 17. All the church were well represented.

Our Sunday school is improving in interest and attendance.

Yesterday our pastor brought us another of his good messages, his last for this Conference year, after which he installed the new officers. We hope the Conference sees fit to send him back for another year.

EDITH LINEBERRY, Reporter.

Tabernacle Charge.—Rally day was observed at Tabernacle church last Sunday with a large congregation present. The offering will be applied to Christian education, of course, and the church will take credit on the budget for the amount.

Senior and Junior C. E. meetings are held at Julian every first Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Annie Hardin has charge of the Juniors. The Seniors have a new leader appointed for each meeting. We trust these meetings will prove helpful to the young people of the community. The C. E. at Tabernacle meets every Sunday.

One of the most helpful organizations on this charge is the Woman's Auxiliary. These good women are doing splendid work at both churches. They are working hard to raise all of the budget.

The following have our thanks for donations: ("Pete") Neese, little son of Mrs. Purvis Neese, Mrs. John Greeson, Mrs. C. R. Fields, Mrs. Emaline Whitley, Mrs. Claud Reynolds,

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hanner, Mr. Will Shaw, and Mr. W. M. Smith.

Last Sunday Mr. L. D. Garner joined Tabernacle church by certificate, coming to us from Randolph M. E. church, South. He has recently purchased a farm near Tabernacle and we were pleased to have him affiliate with our church.

We are doing our best to bring up a good report to Conference. H. L. ISLEY.

Lexington, Mount Carmel.—Rev. C. G. Isley delivered a very worthy and thought-inspiring sermon at our 3 o'clock service Sunday afternoon. Bro. Isley has brought us many noble messages during his three years with us. The people at Mount Carmel have learned to love him very much and are looking forward to his return.

The Auxiliary has done a splendid year's work. More than $400 has been raised for the benefit of the church.

Our fourth quarterly conference was held on Tuesday night, October 13, at Mount Carmel church with a good attendance. Business was transacted in a harmonious atmosphere. The delegate, Mr. J. H. Yates, from South Lexington church, was instructed to bring back Rev. Mr. Isley for his fourth year's work on the charge. We hope that Conference will see fit to return Bro. Isley, who has so faithfully served us. Reports were good. Mount Carmel has best record of Sunday school attendance in the history of the church.

Plans are now being made to paint the church at an early date.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Asheboro.—Our fourth quarterly conference has been held. Some good things reported. The Woman's Auxiliary report showed they had raised for the year $1,020 with the thank-offering yet to be added. A Mission Band and two Sunshine Circles have been organized and carried on this year. This has been one of the needs of our church here, and we hope will mean much in training the young people up to know something of our Methodist Protestant church in its various fields of operation. The Auxiliary also showed much good work done in social and spiritual activities.

The pastor's report among other things showed that 17 new members have been received, seven infants christened, all special days observed, $6,500 in building and loan secured $700 in cash and pledges, parsonage lot bought and paid for, plans and specifications on hand ready to proceed at once to build a new seven-room brick veneer parsonage.

The Philathea class lately supplied the pastor with a very beautiful lamp for the pulpit at a cost of $10.50, which is much appreciated and will no doubt facilitate in making the pastor's sermons clearer and a bit shorter.

Among the greatest of our losses of the year was the passing of Mrs. M. C. Spoon. She was a faithful and loyal member of our church. She was a most lovable character and always ready to do her part in everything that her health permitted. She is deeply missed in our congregation and community. Her influence will remain with us and we will not forget this noble woman and faithful child of God.

We were glad to see Mr. R. R. Ross at his accustomed pew Sunday morning. He looks forward all the week, planning and hoping to be able to attend Sunday morning church services.

The Conference year on this charge is closing with a big deficit at present, but I am told they hope to pay out in full. They will if each one will try a little harder and all will do a part.

Many other things we would like to report but space limits us. R. C. STUBBINS.

Fairgrove Church.—The Rally Day exercise was given Sunday afternoon, October 25th. The program was sponsored by Mrs. I. W. Troxler and was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The exercise was followed by a very interesting sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Trolinger, on the Biblical character, Naaman.

The installation service for the church officers for the ensuing year was also held Sunday afternoon. MARY OAKLEY, Reporter.

Granville Charge.—We held our quarterly conference on last Saturday, October 24. All of the churches were well represented. The business was transacted in a spirit of love and harmony. The finance is coming up about as well as we expected, because we have learned to depend on the people on this charge, and we were expecting them to do their best. We may fall a little short of what we did last year on the budgets, but I don't think it will be very far short. They voted to make the salary the same for another year. Mr. Willis Kittrell is the delegate. Miss Lucy Rogers was elected alternate. They voted unanimously to instruct the delegate to ask for the return of the present pastor.

C. L. SPENCER.

West Forsyth.—We had one of the largest congregations of the year at our service at Harmony Grove church last Sunday night, and splendid attention was given to the message of the pastor. The election of church officers was held, which resulted in the re-election of the boards of stewards and trustees. Miss Lessie Todd was elected class leader and Miss Mittie Todd was elected reporter for the Methodist Protestant Herald. We attended a birthday dinner at the home of Bro. David Todd, 90 years old, Sunday morning.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of Harmony Grove church last Sunday night at 6 o'clock. An interesting program was rendered by the young people, who are entering into the work of the organization with zeal and enthusiasm. There are 35 members of the society, which was organized last May.

The fourth quarterly conference for the West Forsyth charge will be held at Harmony Grove church on Saturday of this week. The usual program will be followed, with three features, namely, a preaching service at 11 a. m., dinner at the church, and the business session in the afternoon. Some important business items will come up for discussion and transaction. Indications are that there will be a large attendance from the six churches on the charge.

As this will be the last report of the writer before the meeting of the Annual Conference in High Point next week, this pastor wishes to state that the past year has been a very good one on West Forsyth charge. While our membership gain was not as large as last year, our financial report will show more money raised for all purposes than for either of the two previous years. We are closing our third year on this charge and the relation of pastor and people has been one of the most pleasant in all of our ministry. We appreciate very deeply the splendid spirit of co-operation and brotherly kindness that has existed during our pastorate on this charge, and if we are permitted to serve another year we shall look for another good year's work. We appreciate the many tokens of love and remembrance which have been presented to the pastor and family, and desire to thank every one who has contributed anything to add to our material and spiritual welfare.

Our last appointments for this Conference year will be with Baltimore and Stony Knoll churches next Sunday. We will be at Baltimore church at 11 a. m. and at Stony Knoll at 2:30 p. m. We expect to observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at each church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Calvary, Greensboro.—This is a sort of final message. Not because I am expecting to leave, although a preacher never knows what's going to happen to him at Conference. But because I am expecting that our new reporter, Mrs. E. D. Overcash, will be so active that it will not be necessary for me to write much, if anything, to the Herald hereafter. But I did want to say this last word.

Looking back over the year that is closing, the pastor and membership at Calvary have great cause for rejoicing. We have had an exceptionally good year: 32 accessions, and in spite of losses, a fine net gain. A little over $2,000 has been paid on church debt and interest. We expect to go to Conference with all claims paid. (We are already out on G. C. B.)

The church is in good condition spiritually, and the fine spirit of harmony and co-operation which has characterized the church membership still continues. The prospects for the new year are very encouraging. It ought to be the best yet.

Now for a few items. The quarterly conference two weeks ago gave this preacher a hearty and unanimous vote to return. At the suggestion of one of the members, the membership was given an opportunity to express itself on the following Sunday, and another unanimous vote was given. All of which is very gratefully acknowledged by this scribe.

One night last week Brother T. F. McCulloch's class had a weiner roast at the home of Brother J. Frank Coble on the Tabernacle Road. The boys were out in full force, and had a big time.

Last Sunday morning the officers for the new year were installed, after listening to a sermon for their special and particular benefit. In the afternoon we had a baptismal service for infants. The daughter Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fugh, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Waugh were baptized.

Sunday night the service was in charge of the Woman's Auxiliary. They held a thank-offering service. It was one of the best we have had, and was enjoyed by one of the best congregations we have had. The offering amounted to $50.00, which also is the best we have had. This offering goes toward Mr. Minnis' salary, which perhaps, explains why it was larger than usual. In addition to this amount on Mr. Minnis' salary, $15.00 in pennies has been turned in this month for the same cause. (Brother Minnis, we want you to know that Calvary church is behind you.)

We have made some rearrangement of the church hut that is adding a good deal to the effectiveness of our use of it for Sunday school purposes. We have a committee at work to devise plans either for a rearrangement of the space in the auditorium, under the auditorium, or outside the auditorium, for more Sunday school rooms. Sunday school space is our greatest problem. More than enough room for the folks who come to church; but not nearly enough room for those who attend Sunday school.

Last Sunday was "Empty Box Day." The folks were asked to bring their empty offering envelop boxes and lay them on the communion table. There was a big stack of them.

This coming Sunday will be the last Sunday in this Conference year. It will be observed as "Loyalty Day." Pledges will be taken on the church budget for next year. We are hoping that the whole amount will be underwritten on this one day.

C. W. BATES, pastor.

NOTES BY THE WAY

By LUTHER K. LONG

I have just returned to Washington after a seven-weeks' trip including many places in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan.

This is the first considerable bit of railway travel that I have done in the last ten years. And, let me assure you, railway travel is not what it used to be. Trains have improved, and the roadbed is such as to relieve the traveler of much of the old time jolt and jar. But the number of passengers has been greatly reduced. No crowds at the station welcome the incoming and speed the outgoing trains, and there are few trains encountered, either passenger or freight, in the course of a day's ride.

Autos, buses and trucks are doing most of the work formerly done by the railroads. True, many buses and trucks are owned and operated by the railroads; but the railroad companies were slow to recognize the changes that were coming over transportation methods and to adapt themselves to changing conditions. A tremendous amount of capital is invested in the railroads, and they have rendered important service in years gone by. Let us hope that there is sufficient wisdom and energy to pull them out of the present depression and to so adapt themselves to the necessities and possibilities of present conditions as to regain their lost prosperity and to render increased service.

My first stop was in Pittsburgh, to visit a niece and a nephew. This was the first sight of the "Smoky City" I had been privileged to enjoy since 1919. Considerable building and some transformation has taken place since that year. The Carnegie Library and the other institutions about Schenley Park appear much as in former years, though with a somewhat thicker coat of black and grime. I was glad to get a look at the outside of the skyscraping structure being erected and approaching completion, to house the University of Pittsburgh. This will surely furnish the students a wide outlook over that great industrial center. Let us hope that there will be developed also a fine insight into the necessities and possibilities of service in these times of great need.

One of the delights of this entire trip was the opportunity to see again many people known and enjoyed years ago. In Pittsburgh I was glad to renew acquaintance with the interesting household of a son of the editor of the "Herald." It was twelve years ago that one of my sons and myself, together with the good wife of the editor, had dinner with this happy household. This consisted at that time of Mrs. Lamont and her three daughters, one being the wife of Leon McCulloch, and little Marjorie Lee McCulloch. All were at home on this latter occasion and, in addition, a charming daughter-in-law who was a temporary guest, and two more young McCullochs—a son and a daughter.

I could not discover any special resemblance between Marjorie Lee and the baby of 12 years ago, but could see quite a resemblance between the tall, slender junior high girl and her grandfather McCulloch. This was even more manifest in her mental operations during the conversation at dinner in which she was properly allowed to have some part. Race relations and prejudices came up for a little discussion, and it became quite evident that Marjorie Lee is a real modernist, in the best sense. She is free from undue prejudices and is dominated by a fine spirit of fairness. I feel that this, and many other issues, will be safe in the hands of the rising generations; because Marjorie Lee and her younger brother and sister, together with the great majority of the boys and girls in our homes and schools, have fair and generous minds and their faces are set toward a better future for all sorts and conditions of mankind. I cherish the hope of accepting the urgent invitation to be in this home again before too long an interval passes.

I attended church services twice in Pittsburgh, once on the way West, and once on the way back. Christ Methodist church is a large and splendid structure in a good location. The minister, Dr. Albert E. Day, one of whose recent books I have examined with interest, is a fine thinker and preacher. It was Labor Sunday, the sermon was on "Soft Hearts and Hard Times," dealing with the compassion of the Good Samaritan, the compassion of the Father for the Prodigal Son, and the compassion of Jesus for the multitudes who were as sheep having no shepherd. It was an appropriate and able sermon, but the congregation was small for the size of the edifice.

The other Sunday I attended the new and very fine East End Christian church, where Dr. John R. Ewers is the able minister. He spoke on "Weights or Wings," making it clear that religion is not intended to be an additional burden to an already heavily laden individual, but that it is to serve as wings, lifting the soul and life to higher planes of enjoyment and rich fellowship. The sermon was in excellent spirit, was listened to with evident interest and appreciation, and was calculated to do good to many people—but the church was not half full. These two churches are typical of many. Organized religion is having hard sledding. More about that later.

—Prohibition enforcement officers on Tuesday night drew in their net spread over Guilford county and found they had caught 40 alleged bootleggers. They were housed in Greensboro jail.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Ladies' Aid Society, Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, Harvest Home Donation: 161 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables.

24 Sycamore Avenue, Tocoma Park, Md., 1 raincoat, 2 coats and 2 pair pants for boys, 2 dresses, 1 apron, 1 coat, 1 sweater, 1 pair bloomers and 1 pair shoes.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Lebanon, High Point, a bunch of coat hangers.

Mrs. J. S. Matthias, Greenbush, Va., 3 barrels sweet potatoes.

Orange Circuit, additional Harvest Home Donation: 24 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables, and a bundle of flower bulbs.

Harvest Home Donations, Julian on Tabernacle: 2 bushels pears, 2 bushels sweet potatoes, 32 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, 96 lbs. flour, 1 bucket of molasses, small bag of hickory nuts, 3 gallons peas, 15 lbs. sugar, 1 coat, 10 tablets and 6 pencils.

Harvest Home Donation from Alamance Circuit: Bethel church, 11 bushels wheat, 3 bushels corn, 2 bushels oats, 2 bushels rye, 3 packages of clothing, 2 blankets and several small cans of fruit and jelly. Center church: 71 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, 8 gallons molasses, 16 pumpkins, 1 box grapes, 24 lbs. flour, 5 bushels sweet potatoes, 3 bushels Irish potatoes, 2 lbs. honey, 4 glasses of jelly, 1 bushel pears, 6 bushels wheat, 20 lbs. bacon, 1 1/2 bushels oats, 1-2 bushel peanuts, 1 dress, 1 pair shoes, 1 pint grape juice and cash, $1.00 reported last week. Sapling Ridge Church also made a good donation but somehow did not furnish us the list as did the other churches, and we did not know this until it was all unloaded and stored away. We regret this, but it cannot be helped. We thank the good people just the same. Rock Creek Church: 3 1-2 bushels pears, 2 1-2 bushels sweet potatoes, 2 bushels Irish potatoes, 1 pumpkin, 4 1-2 bushels wheat, 96 lbs. flour, 1-2 bushel popcorn, 1 gal peas, 44 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, 4 gallons molasses, 1 pair shoes and 3 dresses.

Harvest Home Donation, Pinnacle Circuit: 3 chickens, 3 citrons, 5 gallons molasses, 10 pumpkins, 6 bushels sweet potatoes, 1 bushel pears, 2 bushels wheat and 1 box peas.

Harvest Home Donation, Guilford Circuit: 3 bushels pears, 5 bundles dried fruit, 4 glasses jelly, 1 package of onions, 9 boxes of spices, 2 boxes of thread, 21 pumpkins, 2 citrons, 4 bushels corn on the ear, 1 bushel popcorn, 4 bushels Irish potatoes, 9 bushels sweet potatoes, 3 1-2 gallons beans, 5 bushels wheat, 1-2 gallon molasses, 1 dress and 3 aprons.

Mr. J. T. Richardson, Benaja, 7 bushels pears.

Miss Alva Troxler, Brown Summit, 1 1-2 bushels pears.

We are able to report only a small amount of cash this time, but the Harvest Home Donations are exceptionally fine this time. We thoroughly appreciate the thoughtfulness on the part of our people, which prompts such helpful donations.

Trustee Meeting

Tomorrow, Tuesday, is the day set for the meeting of our Board of Trustees. We are hoping for a good meeting with a splendid planning for another year of service for His little ones. And the next week comes Conference. We are praying for, and hoping for a great Conference led by His Spirit.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

THE ORIGIN OF A TEAR

Did you know, dear, when you
Left me that my eye became a tear,
That my heart became a stone
Upon which some moss has grown;
That my soul has ceased to be only for eternity?

I am lost out on the desert
And the ships have gone to sea,
I am groping in the darkness
For the night has covered me.
I am rowing for the landing
Toward the crossing of the sea;
And the skylights beekon
Onward to the great eternity.

I am walking in the garden
Where Gethsemane was born
And I see another tear drop
Grief and agony adorn.
But I'm slipping through
The garden, being good as I can be,
Trusting I may find you somewhere
Over in Eternity.

Lucile Oakes Sparger.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. J. A. Burgess, $4.00; Rev. D. R. Williams, $2.00; Rev. C. L. Spencer, $7.00; Rev. T. J. Whitehead, $4.50; Rev. B. M. Williams, $14.00; Rev. J. D. Morris, $2.00; Rev. J. D. Cranford, $4.00; Rev. H. F. Surratt, $2.00; Rev. P. E. Bingham, $2.00; Rev. F. R. Love, $6.00; Rev. H. W. Bell, $2.00; Rev. J. C. Madison, $2.00; Mrs. J. M. Baity, $5.00; J. W. Hopkins, $2.00.

AN IMPORTANT OFFICE

Pastors please come to Conference prepared to recommend a Herald Subscription Chairman for each church you have served this year. If the Herald is to continue, the circulation must be more than doubled in the next six months. We need a chairman at each church, who has initiative, leadership and an automobile and who is willing to use all three for the Herald. Pastors who have raised their quotas this year may continue such plans as they have found to be successful.

E. L. DOUGLAS,

Chairman Conference Committee on
The Methodist Protestant Herald.

A SUGGESTION

We shall soon be gathered in High Point for our Annual Conference, and as usual the most important matter, the one of special interest to most of our people, will be stationing the pastors for another year.

If the pastors will refuse to advise delegates which pastors will suit their particular fields, and which will not and delegates trust the wisdom of the stationing committee more, that most important work would be greatly helped.

Brethren, let us not interfere with the stationing committee's work by saying derogatory things about any pastor or charge.

Yours truly,

SILAS.

GOD'S WORLD AND OURS

Fair this world which God made,
Unto us freely given,
With its sunshine and shade,
And its star-sprinkled heaven.
Mountain peaks capped with white,
Sparkling rivulets dashing,
Meadows flooded with light,
Or with dew diamonds flashing.

In the cool woodland bowers,
Sweet voiced songsters fitting,
And the many-hued flowers,
Are their fragrance emitting.
There's the sunlight by day,
With its radiant splendor,
And with night comes the sway
Of the moon light so tender.

Lord, the works of thy hand,
Sky, and wide-spreading ocean,
Our thanksgiving demand,
And the heart's true devotion.
These thy goodness declare,
Whether forests or daisies,
For all speak of Thy care,
And call forth our praises.

By James L. Elderdice.

-Services were well attended at Tabernacle church (Methodist Protestant) on last Sunday, this being the last time the pastor, Rev. C. B. Way will preach here this conference year. However, it is understood that he will serve another year on this charge.—From Tobaccoville Items, "Twin-City Sentinel."

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Groce

Our community was shocked on the morning of October 17, 1931, to hear of the death of one of her leading citizens, Mr. Arthur Groce.

Mr. Groce was carried to the Clinic hospital of Greensboro, N. C., on Sunday, October 4th to undergo a minor operation. On Monday the 5th the operation was performed and he apparently recovering nicely when he died suddenly, supposedly from heart failure, Saturday morning, October 17th.

He had been a resident of Worthville since boyhood. In early manhood he married Miss Mattie Evans who went to her reward in 1920. To this union were born six children, three boys and three girls, three of whom, one boy, Robert, and two girls are married. Their names in order of their ages are as follows: Robert, Ralph, Fern, Mrs. Jewel McElhannon, Mrs. Elwood York and Ernest. Three grandchildren also survive.

In September 1921 he was again married to Miss Queenie Shaw with whom he lived happily until death. Mrs. Groce has the sympathy of the community in the loss she has sustained.

The funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, October 18, 1931, at the Worthville Methodist Protestant church of which he was a member. Officiating were his pastor, Rev. T. A. Williams, Rev. R. C. Stubbins, pastor of Asheboro M. P. Church, and Rev. William Garner of the Baptist church of Randleman. The beautiful floral tributes evidenced the esteem in which he was held. Interment in the local cemetery.

Brother Groce was for several years superintendent of our Sunday school and a splendid leader. He believed in observing the Sabbath and never hesitated to express his disapproval of conduct to the contrary. The family has lost a kind and loving husband and father, the church a loyal supporter and the community one of its leading citizens. But may the memory of his life among us be an incentive, prompting us to strive for higher and nobler things in life and be an honor to the Christ he loved.

MRS. LEONARD WARD.

Cranford

Harris C. Cranford at the ripe age of 82 years, fell asleep early Sunday morning, October 18. The deceased had been in frail health for many months. For many years he was an active member of Love Joy church. He was also a strong financial supporter of the church's obligations. He was one of the men who gave one thousand dollars for the erection of the splendid brick church at Love Joy. His descendants may justly point with pride to the splendid memorial he helped to erect to confirm his faith in the church of Jesus Christ.

The wife and five children survive. Each one of these we would commit to our Heavenly Father's care and keeping, so that in His good time they may be as ready for the final call as was Brother Cranford.

The last rites were held from Love Joy church Monday morning, October 19. An overcrowded house assembled to pay their respects, and to prove their love to one who had lived well and departed trusting in a Saviour's love.

"Servant of God, well done,

Thy glorious warfare's past;

The battle fought, the victory won,

And thou art crowned at last."

The writer conducted the service, assisted by Rev. J. W. Hulin.

Allred

Nettie May Allred was born August 18, 1913, and departed this life October 3, 1931. She is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Allred, two brothers, Ray and Lee, three sisters Ruth, Cora, and Alpha Allred, all of Jamestown, N. C., Route 1.

She was converted at ten years of age and joined Mitchell Grove Methodist Protestant church and remained a devoted member until death. She was a loving and obedient daughter.

Funeral services were conducted from the Mitchell Grove Methodist Protestant church by the writer assisted by Rev. E. W. Jones, pastor of Hickory Chapel Wesleyan Methodist church. Then her body was laid to rest beneath many beautiful flowers in Hickory Chapel cemetery.

Hatley

At a moment when, seemingly, death was little expected Marshall Hatley was very suddenly called from the affairs of this life to take up life anew in the home of the redeemed, where there are no sorrows and where death never comes.

Marshall Hatley, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hatley, was born in Stanly county September 21, 1861, and died October 3, 1931, being 70 years and 13 days old at his death.

On August 17, 1882, he married Miss Lucy Sides. Mr. and Mrs. Hatley became the happy parents of 11 children, six of whom are living. Two of the children died in infancy and three daughters, Mrs. L. H. Efrd, Mrs. D. A. Doby, and Mrs. J. E. Gantt, died some years ago. The living daughters are Mrs. J. C. Gaddy, Mrs. Ira Smart of Albemarle, N. C., and Mrs. D. T. Curlee of Birmingham, Ala. C. W., D. L. and C. L. Hatley, business men of Albemarle, are the living sons.

As a young man Brother Hatley accepted Christ as his Savior and became a Christian. He at first joined Salem Methodist Episcopal church, South, but after a few years he with his wife joined Friendship Methodist Protestant church where he remained a loyal member until he became a charter member of Albemarle Methodist Protestant church. From the very beginning of the Albemarle church Bro. Hatley became one of its strongest pillars. In the building of the first church, Brother Hatley doubtless gave more time and perhaps more money than did any one else. He was unsparing with whatever he could do, or whatever he had. In all the activities of the Albemarle church he proved to be loyal and true. He loved his church and stood by it. He loved his pastors and stood by them. His home was the pastor's home. It was his custom to have the new pastor to be first entertained in his home and that splendid hospitality continued throughout the pastorate. He was always on the official board and for a number of times he was a member of the Annual Conference, being duly elected as delegate to represent his local church.

Brother Hatley was a loving and true husband, a faithful and patient father, a good neighbor and a consistent Christian. He loved his home, his family, his neighbors, his church and his God. He was a quiet non-assuming man with few words but his life spoke for what he was. One of his neighbors who had known him and lived by him for a great number of years fitly said, "Marshall's life is an open book."

Marshall Hatley is dead and yet he still lives. His body is cold and lifeless but in the loving memories of those who knew him he lives and will continue to live. And his soul is gloriously alive in the mansion prepared by his Lord and Savior.

"Servant of God, well done!

Thy glorious warfare's past;

The battle's fought, the race is won,

And thou art crowned at last."

The funeral was conducted October 5, in the Albemarle church, by his pastor, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, who was assisted by former pastors Rev. J. L. Trollinger and Rev. Jno. R. Anderson. Neighboring pastors, Rev. O. B. Williams and Rev. F. J. Stough were present and had parts in service. The attendance was the largest ever assembled in the Albemarle church. The floral contribution was most beautiful and profuse. The body was laid to rest in the city cemetery to await the glorious resurrection of those who "die in the Lord."

Pettitt

Noah Thomas Pettitt was born March 1, 1862, and departed this life September 8, 1931. He was married to Rilla Savage February 21, 1889. To this union were born nine children four of which survive him: Robert Pettitt of Summerfield, Hubert and Cauley Pettitt of Pinnacle, and Mrs. Florence Bottoms of High Point. He also leaves 22 grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

He will be greatly missed in his home and in the community where he lived as he was a good neighbor and a friend to all who went to him for aid or advice.

He professed religion several years ago and joined Mt. Zion church and remained a member until his death.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer after which the remains were laid to rest in Mt. Zion cemetery. The Jr. O. U. A. M. took charge of the services at the grave. The bereaved have our sympathy.

A. L. HUNTER.

Lemons

One of the most loved and lovable women of Seagrove went to her home above early last Tuesday morning. Mrs. Artie Mitia Lemonds was the wife of William Lawson Lemonds, who survives. Twelve children were born to this union, all of whom survive to mourn their loss. Mrs. Lemonds was a charter member of Seagrove M. P. church. She was an active worker in all the activities of the church. She was a faithful companion, a loving and devoted mother, and a benediction to her community. "None knew her but to love her; none named her but to praise."

The deceased was 44 years old, but her life was spent in loving service in her home and in her community.

The high esteem in which she was held was proved by the many who stood by desiring to help her, numbers, no doubt, praying in silence that her life might be spared in her home and community. This writer had never before observed so many loyal and sympathetic friends.

On Wednesday, October 14, in the afternoon, a great concourse of people gathered at Christian union church, to witness the climax of the last and only sad chapter in the career of a noble woman.

The husband may justly praise God for the many years of companionship with such a gracious soul. The eight sons and the four daughters will not soon forget the warmth of her heart, the melody of her voice and the touch of her hand. Neither will they soon forget the yearnings of her soul for their eternal welfare.

The service was conducted by the writer assisted by Rev. J. W. Hulin.

Jones

E. S. Jones was born August 22, 1852, and departed this life October 11, 1931. He was 79 years of age. He was married to Nannie Couch December 20, 1871; to this union were born eight children. He is survived by his wife and four children. A. L. Jones of Jamestown, N. C., Mrs. J. B. Hassell of High Point, N. C., Miss Nora Jones of Jamestown, N. C. and C. E. Jones of High Point, N. C.; also 12 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one brother, W. M. Jones of De Ridder, Louisiana.

He professed faith in Jesus Christ in early boyhood and joined Hickory Grove Methodist Protestant church of which he remained an active and loyal member until death. He served in an official capacity as class leader, Sunday school superintendent, and other offices of the church.

The funeral services were conducted from Hickory Grove Methodist Protestant church by the writer and assisted by Rev. T. F. McCulloch, of Greensboro, former pastor of the deceased, and Rev. G. L. Reynolds of High Point, also a former pastor of the deceased. Then his body was laid to rest beneath many beautiful flowers in the church cemetery.

Barber

Our hearts have again been made sad by the passing of one of our oldest and most loyal members of Mt. Zion church.

Robert Samuel Barber was born in Pittsylvania county, Va., November 18, 1850, and died near Pinnacle, N. C. September 30, 1931.

On February 5, 1974, he was happily united in marriage to Julia D. Spainhower, who passed to her reward in 1922. To this union were born nine children. Five sons of whom survive, I. W. and T. C. Barber of Mount Airy, O. W. and J. W. Barber of Pinnacle, and T. G. Barber of Winston-Salem.

For 56 years he was a faithful member of Mt. Zion M. P. church, and for the past 52 years he didn't miss attending a part or all of every protracted meeting held at this place, and at each time seemed willing and indeed anxious to assist in any way he could, and never failed to respond when called on to stand up and testify for Christ. This seemed to be one of his greatest pleasures.

He was also superintendent of the Sunday school for many years during this time and was always active and faithful in Sunday school work.

His home was known as the preacher's home until he broke up housekeeping a few years ago. He always gave them a hearty reception and tried to make them feel at home in every sense of the word. I have served Bro. Barber as pastor for nearly 22 years and always found him willing to lend his aid in any way he could, by his prayers and sympathy or giving his time or earthly means to help advance the Kingdom.

He will be greatly missed in his church and community where he lived and by his many friends who are left behind.

"When those we love in Jesus sleep,
How sweet the strains their spirits pour;
Oh! Why should we in anguish weep
They are not lost, but gone before."

Burial services were conducted by the writer assisted by Brothers W. F. Ashburn, N. G. Bethea, and L. W. Gerringer.

The profuse floral offering testified to the high esteem in which Brother Barber was held.

Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved.

A. L. HUNTER.

YOUR MENTAL ATTITUDE

Your mental attitude is a great determining influence in your daily life. Begin the day with an expectant and energetic mental attitude towards your work, plans, and purposes, and it will elevate and enhance all your activities. The spirit in which you regard your fellowmen and the world about you will be reflected back to you. When you are in the right mental attitude, many things will seem to conspire and co-operate to advance your work and interests. Primarily it is your mental attitude which makes the day happy and productive, or the contrary. You can demonstrate the truth of this today by resolving to look only for the best, to be intelligently optimistic, and to have confidence in the eternal supremacy of good.

In your consciousness you conduct the great commerce of daily thought. Every thought you think and cultivate contributes something to the sum total of your life. Your mind has a certain capacity for thought. To clear your mind of erroneous, useless, destructive thoughts, substitute and diligently cultivate right thoughts. Take one wrong thought at a time and patiently substitute for it the opposite right thought. The divine counsel is to overcome evil with good. This is the supreme command. If the offense comes in the form of injustice, envy, suspicion, selfishness, dishonesty, or revenge, instantly apply the remedy of thinking only good and the seeming miracle will take place. You can demonstrate this truth for yourself.

The significance of your good thoughts may not now be wholly apparent to you, but as such thoughts are multiplied day by day there will come to you a realization of their value in producing greatness of character.

Every good thought you think is contributing its share to the ultimate result of your life. Constantly guard your mind, therefore, against destructive ideas, and store it with helpful, progressive, constructive thoughts. The good thought you think is its own reward, since every such thought has an uplifting influence upon your life. Obviously the only remedy for wrong thoughts is the substitution of right thoughts. As your thought becomes spiritualized, you will wish to give more love, loyalty, and service to God.

To cultivate a beautiful garden you must uproot all weeds and other unlovely things. This is best done not by sitting down and studying the origin of such weeds and ascertaining their names and number, but by patient and diligent work in pulling them up by the roots and ridding your garden of them forever. Likewise to cultivate a beautiful mind you must uproot and cast from you all mental weeds and other unlovely thoughts, such as pride, envy, impatience, fear, resentment, and selfishness. Then you must plant and carefully cultivate in your mental garden seeds of kindness, goodness, love, purity, humility, reverence, and righteousness. As you persevere in this work, your mind will gradually unfold into beauty and fragrance, and your life will be blessed.

GRENVILLE KLEISER.

MY ATTITUDE TOWARD CHURCH UNION

Because I have been misunderstood and seemingly misrepresented with respect to my attitude toward church union, I am taking this means of attempting to make my attitude known to the readers of the HERALD, at least.

FIRST. For at least 25 years when I have thought about church union my attitude has been favorable to Methodist Union. During all these years I have thought that a union of at least the three larger Methodist bodies would better serve Kingdom interests.

SECOND. As to the wisdom and the advantage in a separate union of the M. P. Church with either of the other two I am not so thoroughly convinced. I need more light and more mature thought on this. As to my attitude toward the proposed union of the Methodist Protestant church with the Methodist Episcopal church (northern) I have not taken a definite stand or expressed a definite opinion. I have stated, however, that I do not at present see any great advantage for our North Carolina territory in such a union. I have stated further, however, and that repeatedly, that I have an open mind on the subject. I claim the privilege of getting all the facts I can on both sides of the question and then forming my opinion. And there is, it seems to me, plenty of time for that.

THIRD. As to my attitude toward the movement to unite the North Carolina Methodist Protestant Conference with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, I think my attitude can be determined from the following statements: I have never stated to any one, either those who favor or those who are against such a move, that I favor it, nor did I mean to leave any such impression. Now doubtless my friends who have discussed the matter in my presence have misunderstood me. I have listened respectfully to the discussions, and, doubtless because I have not felt called upon to argue in favor of union with the M. E. Church (Northern) or against the North Carolina Conference joining the Methodist Episcopal, South, they have taken it for granted that I was against the first and for the latter, and perhaps they have so represented me. I did not mean for them to so conclude. I have had nothing to do with promoting any meeting that had for its object the taking of the M. P. Conference into the M. E. Church, South. When the meeting assembled in Greensboro last Friday I was elected secretary of the meeting, but I was elected, I suppose by both the "pros" and the "cons," and not because I had had anything to do with the promoting the meeting, for I had not. I attended the meeting on invitation as many others did.

Now, out of this unintentional, misunderstanding and misrepresentation of my attitude toward union, either on the part of those with whom I have discussed it or those who have heard what I was supposed to have said, there has come the accusation that Gerringer is among those who are trying to take the North Carolina Conference into the M. E. Church, South. I deny the charge.

This further I want to say. I have said that if we can not have union of the M. E. Church (Northern) the M. E. Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, then, if possible, I thought it might be a good thing for the northern section of our church to unite with the M. E. Church (Northern) and the southern section of our church to unite with the M. E. Church, South.

I trust that what I have here said will set all who read this right as to my attitude toward church union.

May God give us all the needed wisdom for these matters and may the Spirit of Christ be in our hearts and influence all our discussions of the subject.

L. W. GERRINGER.

The Church of My Choice

The church of my choice—I would have you know—
The church where I'm found when able to go—
The church that brings cheer to my deepest soul,
Is just my own church with Christ to make whole.

He's present in song, in the words and tune;
He leads in all prayer and helps you commune:
In reading the word He makes plain the thought,
The sermon thrills you as by Him you're taught.

With Christ in the lead you may well be sure
No folderol comes for you to endure.
Your soul speaks to God and God speaks to you:
You see a clear way, you know what to do.

An hour with the Lord in my little space
Is far more to me than the grandest place!
Where I meet the Lord and the Lord meets me—
The very best place in the world to be.

Importance of the Methodist Protestant Church

The importance of the Methodist Protestant Church is becoming increasingly apparent. The ground of this increasing importance is not any great increase in numbers or wealth or material advantages. The world is coming more and more to see that the Methodist Protestant Church is vitalized by moral ideas of great importance. It is the church of liberty, fraternity, and equality. The French and American revolutions were fought through for these ideas in the political world. The reformers that built the Methodist Protestant Church sought to incorporate all these ideas in the religious structure they were erecting. They succeeded in a remarkable degree. Their structure has stood for over a hundred years and shows no sign of decay. Other church forms have been a constant source of irritation to some of their subjects. I never heard of a Methodist Protestant finding serious fault with our form or principles of church government. We not only have peace among ourselves but we have freedom to do what our consciences demand of us. We have a sense of brotherhood which adds greatly to the value of life. We can worship God under our own vine and figtree. We are free from busy bodies in other men's matters. We regard Christ as the Head of the church and we are happy to feel that we have His approval. We would not abandon our church for the largest and richest church if that church does not truly honor Jesus Christ and respect the manifest rights of men.

First Day At Conference

This was a full day. The devotional service led by President Taylor, the Conference Sermon by Rev. R. A. Hunter, the communion service conducted by Dr. T. M. Johnson, filled the forenoon. In the afternoon came the President's Annual Report, the election of officers, and an address by Dr. J. C. Broomfield, President of the General Conference. President Taylor's report showed progress in many lines of church endeavor. His slogan, "Evangelism—Optimism," has seemed to inspire faith and lead to stronger effort. Dr. Broomfield also sounded a note of optimism as he reviewed the recent work of the denomination. Other churches have had to recall some of their missionaries: we have recalled none.

The Board of Education of our Annual Conference held its annual meeting after the afternoon adjournment of the conference session. Brother J. Norman Wills tendered his resignation as secretary of the board, having served for 34 years and feeling that he should now be relieved. The resignation was accepted with regret and a resolution of appreciation of his long-continued and faithful service was passed. Professor Hinshaw of High Point College was elected as Brother Wills' successor in office.

In the night service a program of music by students of High Point College was rendered; also a solo was sung by a great grandson of Rev. Alson Gray. This was followed by a sermon by Bishop Pfohl of the Moravian Church. His sermon, like that of Brother Hunter, set forth the superiority of the Christian outlook, the Christian spirit, and the Christian way of life.

NEW ANNUAL CONFERENCE OFFICERS

President—Dr. S. W. Taylor.
Secretary—Rev. C. W. Bates.
Treasurer—Dr. Geo. R. Brown.
Statistical Secretary—Rev. C. B. Way.
Reporter—Rev. J. L. Trollinger.
Lay Member of Stationing Committee—H. A. Garrett.
All these officers were elected on the first ballot.

—When the tail wags the dog, it must be a very large tail or a very small dog.

—Some men have not learned the danger of giving unsolicited advice and the peril of taking unofficial action as the basis of negotiation.

—The work of Christianizing the world is too important to be interfered with by disputes as to the best way of doing it.

THE FIRST REQUISITE FOR A BETTER WORLD

By RUFUS M. JONES

The supreme interests of this period through which we are passing have been turned upon the things that belong to the physical, the natural, sphere, and there has been slight attention given to the reality of the spiritual, or to the business of achieving it as a fact of life. The world of things in space and time has crowded in upon us until it almost holds the entire field. Dean Inge was quite right when he said that, if a person spends sixteen hours a day dealing with "things" and five minutes a day trying to find God, it will not be strange if "things" seem to be two hundred times as real as God is. Little by little the five minutes' search for God, for spiritual realities, drops out altogether and "things" hold the stage.

For multitudes of persons the scientific method has come to be thought of as the only way to reality worthy of respect. Not to prove and demonstrate seems to many minds complete failure to know. All other approaches to reality are discounted or banned. As a result of this attitude, a severe "naturalism" has emerged which brings with it a tragic narrowing of the range and scope of life. The horizon draws in at every point and shuts out the faith of the ages.

Another type of secularism has enmeshed the busy man of affairs. The physical energies which have been discovered in the scientific laboratory have been harnessed by skilful inventions, and the whole world of life and industry has been thereby transformed. This secularism in the world of activity and business has colored all life and thought for the practical man, somewhat as "naturalism" has for the academic mind. They both put the emphasis on things that are seen and handled. The ponderable realities quietly fall out of consideration. No resources of a spiritual order are expected. The universe clanks on as a vast mechanism.

The obvious effect of this excessive "naturalism" and "secularism" has been and is a state of depression, confusion and loss of nerve. Speed becomes a substitute for direction. Frantic immediacy, the expectancy of quick and tangible results, is a wide spread state of mind. But with it has come impatience and disillusionment, and a sense of futility. We seem to have come from nowhere and to be going nowhere. The moral breakdown of lives, the weakening of family ties, the paganizing of many areas of life, and a threatened collapse of the social structure of civilization are the natural fruit of such contracted views. A pyramid standing on its apex is hardly more unstable than a civilization that has lost the poise and balance of well-grounded faith in spiritual realities.

A university professor was talking recently with a group of his students. He called on them to be men and play the game of life. "But how are we going to play the game of life," one of the students asked, "when we don't know where the goal posts are?" That is the trouble; how are you going to make a great life when you have no assurance that life itself has any meaning, or purpose, or significance? If there are no goal posts, there can be no game. Our first business is to rediscover the foundations on which a great spiritual civilization can be built and great lives fashioned.

Our difficulty today is within ourselves. We must build our own souls before we can rebuild our world. All victories are won within, in the soul, before they are achieved in the world outside.—Federal Council Bulletin.

THE CHRISTIAN PARTY

By REV. W. A. LEDFORD

Paul points out four distinct parties existing in the church at Corinth; while Luke names only one in the church at Antioch, thereby entitling it to be called, "The mother city of Gentile Christianity." was a distinction that any city might well covet. Doubtless, Luke the physician was proud of the distinction and honor coming to his native city. The title conferred on the adherents of Christ at Antioch was so natural, logical, and appropriate that it speedily supplanted all former titles. The late D. L. Moody would not agree that the name came by chance, but was bestowed by an over-ruling Providence.

The hybrid word "Christian," being a mixture of three languages; Hebrew, Greek and Latin, was symbolic and prophetic of the universality of the Christian party. The same three languages were drawn upon in writing the inscription over the Cross of our Lord. The essential facts in the Gospel are the common heritage of mankind. No sect, or race, or land, can lay any special claim to the name Christian, or the Bible, or the Cross of Christ. True Christians through the ages, have had the uttermost parts of the earth for their goal in space, and eternity before them in time. "The world is my parish," was the gripping motto of the founder of Methodism. The word "called," in the original, is a technical word, denoting one's business. The business of the Christian is to live the Christ-like life among the men of the world.

People of Antioch witnessed something new under the sun. They knew Judaism, and were familiar with the party of Nazarenes; but this new party springing up under the ministry of Paul and Barnabas, was unlike either. This new type of discipleship had a breadth of vision, a depth of sympathy, and a warmth of love, and a zeal according to knowledge, not possessed by any former party. The quality of their character, and the substance of their preaching, was so Christ-like that the disciples were called Christians. Just as Adam gave names to other things back in the early days of the world, men named this new type of discipleship.

There seems to have been three new qualities manifested in the lives of these Christians. The word Christian is found three times in our Bibles, and each place denotes a different quality. The Christians at Antioch were noted for their character and conduct. Their days were full of deeds of love and mercy, and they kept themselves unspotted from the world. The testimony of Paul before Agrippa almost persuaded him to become a Christian. "Would the testimonies of those naming the name of Christ today make unsaved people want to become Christians," is pertinent for us all. Peter speaks of suffering as a Christian, as if their suffering was different from the sufferings of others. There should be a quality of character, a joyous testimony and a patience in suffering among Christians not possessed by the world.

NATIONAL BROADCAST—AMERICAN LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES

November 14, 1931, 9:00 to 9:30 P. M. (E. S. T.)

Through the co-operation of the National Broadcasting Company and a group of educators interested in the future of the liberal arts college as a vital unit in our American educational system, a national radio program on the general theme of "The Liberal Arts College" has been arranged for Saturday, November 14, 1931.

This national broadcast is a concerted effort to interpret the needs, the aims, and the achievements of the American liberal arts college, to strengthen the appreciation of the public for the contributions the liberal arts college has made and is making to American civilization, and to enlist the sympathetic co-operation and support of the people in the enhancement of the services that colleges are rendering.

The national directors who have general charge of the program are:

Mrs. Cleveland E. Dodge, trustee of Wells college; Albert C. Fox, dean, John Carroll university; Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American colleges and of the Council of Church Boards of Education; Charles R. Mann, director of the American Council on Education; A. N. Ward, president of Western Maryland college and chairman of the Liberal Arts College movement; Albert St. Peter, of 393 7th Avenue, New York, executive secretary.

In addition to the principal address by President Hoover, there will be talks by Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times; Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American colleges and of the Council of Church Boards of Education; Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., (formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland) and Dr. A. N. Ward, President of Western Maryland college and chairman of the Liberal Arts College movement.

Local programs, immediately preceding or following the national half-hour, will present the local institutions to their immediate public.

The colleges and universities participating in this program are doing so under the auspices of the Liberal Arts College movement, the Association of American Colleges and the American Council on Education.

All present and former students and all friends of the colleges connected with the Methodist Protestant church are cordially invited to listen in on this program. In the various communities where any considerable number of former students are located it is asked that local arrangements provide for the coming together of our friends in whatever way is most convenient or desirable. The initiative of our friends will be able to make arrangements to hear the broadcast so as to give the greatest possible publicity to our colleges.

The broadcast will be a national affair, involving the largest hook-up ever arranged for any national interest. It will be given over the Red network of the National Broadcasting Company, originating at Station WEAJ, New York. Consult your local papers for the station carrying this program in your vicinity.

In addition to the National Broadcast Saturday evening, a special program for Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia will be broadcast from Station WRC, Washington, Sunday evening, November 15, 7 to 7:30 o'clock, President J. H. Apple of Hood college announcing. Addresses by Archbishop Curley, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Chancellor Lucius C. Clark of the American university, and President A. N. Ward, Western Maryland College. Musical numbers by the Glee clubs of Hood college and Western Maryland college.

Sunday morning, November 15, ministers of all denominations are invited to preach on Christian Education, and the place and importance of the Liberal Arts college in higher education.

WHEN FATHER PRAYS

When father prays he doesn't use
The words the preacher does;
There's different things for different days,—
But mostly it's for us.

When father prays the house is still,
His voice is slow and deep.
We shut our eyes, the clock ticks loud,
So quiet we must keep.

He prays that we may be good boys,
And later on good men;
And then we squirm, and think we won't
Have any quarrels again.

You'd never think, to look at Dad,
He once had tempers, too.
I guess if father needs to pray,
We youngsters surely do.

Sometimes the prayer gets very long
And hard to understand,
And then I wiggle up quite close,
And let him hold my hand.

I can't remember all of it,—
I'm little yet you see;
But one thing I can't forget,—
'My father prays for me!

—R. W. T., in Herald of Light.

MINISTER, SOCIALIST, LAYMAN

After twenty-five years as a Presbyterian minister, Norman Thomas, Socialist leader and candidate for President in 1928, has become a layman again. At his own request and with "deep regret," the New York Presbytery struck his name from its roll at its last meeting. Mr. Thomas at one time served as assistant pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York. When his Socialistic convictions grew, however, he asked to be transferred to a poorer church, and was sent to take charge of the American parish on upper East Side. While there he decided to take up the cause of Socialism. He is one of its most earnest and highly respected champions.—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

JEWISH WOMEN FOR DISARMAMENT

Many thousands of Jewish women are attaching their signatures to a petition favoring the budgetary limitation of armaments. The petition is being circulated under the auspices of the National Council of Jewish Women. Among the other women's organizations which are preparing similar petitions are the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the American Association of University Women, the National League of Women Voters, the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, the National W. C. T. U., and the National Women's Trade Union League. The movement against the paganism of war continues to grow, and peace shall reign over the earth when Christian principles are adopted for savagery in the hearts of professed Christians. Hasten the day when war shall perish from the earth!—Christian Sun.

KAGAWA IN GLADDEN'S PULPIT

At this time, Columbus, Ohio, is awaiting a visit from Toyohiko Kagawa, the Japanese Christian leader and social reformer, who speaks there Sunday afternoon. It is quite appropriate that the great oriental exponent of the social gospel should speak from the pulpit of First Congregational Church, made famous by Washington Gladden. Incidentally, this will be one of the last public gatherings in this historic building, Columbus' most centrally located church, scene of many downtown religious meetings. The beautiful new First Congregational edifice on East Broad Street, adjoining the new art gallery, just outside the business district, is almost ready for occupancy.—Christian Sun.

OPTIMISM

The President's Letter

EVANGELISM

"Thy Kingdom Come"

State Street

October 28.—The occasion of our visit to this church at this time was the meeting of the fourth quarterly conference. Eight officials were present, and a number of other interested church members. Yadkin College, which is a part of this charge, was not represented. The report of Brother Hendry and others indicated that the church is in good condition. The pastor has had a busy year with his churches, and besides, has found time to serve as secretary of the Lexington Ministerial association, and also secretary of the Associated Charities of the city. The newest organization of the church is a Brotherhood. The men of the church are much interested, and realize pleasure and satisfaction in the work. The Brotherhood provides insurance, sick benefit and a church debt fund. The men reported that they had applications in hand for membership from eleven persons. These will be received at their next regular meeting. The church has a C. E. society of 25 members, a live Auxiliary of 35 members, and a thriving Sunday School, with an average attendance of 150. The pastor reported that 63 members had been received into the church during the past six months. All special days have been observed, and the Sunday School makes monthly contributions to the Children's Home. Salary will be paid in full, and N. C. B. is paid, or nearly so. The A. C. B. will be paid if at all possible. This church is heavily burdened with a church debt, and can not, for that reason, do for the general programs of the church what is in the hearts of the people to do. The church at Yadkin College is weak in numbers, but faithful. They will do all possible on salary and budgets. After the quarterly conference the State Street church conducted a Harvest Home auction sale. We trust that results were good. We were glad to be with this church again, and Mrs. Taylor shared with me the pleasure of being supper guests of Brother and Sister Hendry.

More Gleanings That Gladden

Fairfield church, Guilford charge, will pay A. C. B. in full. So will Pleasant Grove church. Calvary will maintain her good honor roll record by paying all claims in full. Bethel church, on Randolph charge has paid all claims in full, and raised $800 for Sunday School rooms. Lebanon church has a 100 per cent record on all claims. So does First Church, High Point. Welch Memorial will pay salary in full, also English Street. This is last minute news, and it gladdens. Final conference reports will swell this list, and due recognition will be given in the Journal.

Pastors and Pastorates

This is the one thing that is upon our minds and our hearts at every annual conference. When this reaches our people, we will be in our annual session, and pastors and delegates alike will be giving this matter very marked attention. So will the Stationing Committee. It is a very serious matter, and no worthy pastor or worthy delegate will approach it in any other attitude. Neither will the Stationing Committee. All the sympathy and wisdom that this committee can command will be summoned for this task. But let no one be unduly burdened by it. Have we not been taught that if we lack wisdom, we have access to the Source of all Wisdom? Pastors belong to God; delegates belong to God; charges belong to God; the Stationing Committee belongs to God; and we are all workers together with Him. Surely he will not leave us to ourselves in a matter so important as this. And if we will trust Him, probably the things that sometimes seem to necessitate a change will vanish; and likewise, the reasons that do justify changes will become more apparent to us. Change, or no change, will be much more easily determined, if we will only let God lead. In a multitude of Stationing Committees there is confusion. Let there be but one; and let us all pray that God will so guide that one, that every pastor may get the charge that he needs, and every charge the pastor that it needs.

Moving Pastors

So far as our information goes, "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary" when there was a conference and no pastor moved. It is most likely that this conference will not be an exception, though his hardly seems a good year to move. This is a time when all of us must consider cost. However, there will, in all probability, be some changes. Now this is what we want to say: Where these changes are necessary, let charges provide the moving expense. The cost of this would not mean much when shared by a charge; it may mean a great deal when it has to be borne by the pastor. We trust that this may seem reasonable to our people; we know that it will be gratefully received by the pastor.

Last Word for 1931

An annual conference is an exceedingly important occasion. It is a time when we take stock of the year through which we have come, and then set goals for the year that lies ahead. But it is more than that. In an annual conference session, a spirit is generated that goes far toward determining the attitude with which we face our tasks as we leave the conference and go back home to take up the work that we have been given to do. A conference of wisdom, of purpose, of unity, of enthusiasm, creates hope and generates power for all the tasks that lie ahead. Let us see to it that each one makes that sort of a contribution to this, the 104th Session of the oldest conference in the Denomination that we love, and in whose communion we delight to serve.

And to pastors, people and everywhere throughout the conference, let me express my grateful appreciation for courtesy, co-operation, kindness, and fellowship. Your interest and your good works have made possible, under God, all that has been accomplished this year.

"Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant,

"Make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well-pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen."

Faternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

THE NEGLECTED BIBLE

A remarkable story about an exceedingly costly jewel that for many years was considered of no more value than a mere pebble was related in The Youth's Companion.

Gustaf Gillman, a Chicago lapidary, was at work in his shop, according to the narrative, when John Mihok, of Omaha, entered. Mihok, who was a laborer, drew out of his pocket a rough, red stone and handed it to Gillman, "I want you to cut and polish this," said Mihok. "Where did you get it?" gasped Gillman, as his eyes almost popped out of his head. "My father picked it up in Hungary fifty years ago," was the reply of Mihok. "He thought it was a pretty pebble. When I landed in this country I found it in my valise. It has been lying around the house ever since. The children played with it. My last baby cut his teeth on it.

"One night I dreamed it was a diamond and worth a lot of money; but it's not a diamond. It's red." "No, it's a pigeon's blood ruby," said Gillman. "What might it be worth?" was the question of Mihok. "I'd say anywhere from one hundred thousand to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars," answered Gillman; and Mihok leaned against the door.

The big rough stone, we are told, cut to a flawless ruby of twenty-three and nine-tenths carats. It is believed to be the largest ruby in this country and possibly the largest in the world.

How sad it is that in many homes the Book that is worth more than many jewels is neglected and considered of little value!—The Christian Visitor.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE MOODY BIBLE INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO

FOUNDER'S WEEK CONFERENCE

The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, announces that its Founder's Week Conference will be held during the first week of February, 1932. Only twice in thirty years has this date been allowed to pass without the holding of this notable gathering of ministers, Bible teachers and interested laymen—once during the World War, and last year when the expected disturbing of Institute properties, because of the widening of LaSalle Street, made the event seem impracticable.

Friday, February 5, will be the great day of the week, a memorial to the birth of D. L. Moody, the founder of the Institute. Details of the program will be announced in due time.

BESIDE THE PLOW

Beside the plow He walks with me,
And if my step be slow,
He pauses, waiting so that He May lead me where I go.
I feel His Presence at my side,
His hand upon my hair,
His love sweeps boundless like the tide,
About me everywhere.

Beside the plow He walks with me,
I cut the furrows deep,
I know His gentle eyes will see
The harvest that I reap.
His guiding touch is on my arm,
And well I know the care
That keeps me safe from sin and harm
Is with me everywhere.

Beside the plow He walks with me,
And all my troubles sweep
Away, I know that there will be
No time to pine or weep
My very oxen seem to feel
The rapture in the air;
The love that lives to bless and heal
Surrounds us everywhere.

Beside the plow He walks with me,
And lo, the sun shines down;
The same that smiled on Galilee,
And on a thorny crown.
God grant that when the shadows creep
Across the mountain fair
His love may still be wide and deep
About me everywhere.

WHEN DORIS SANG

"I felt so sorry for Miss Trask this afternoon," said Doris' mother as they walked home from Sunday School together.

"Why, mother?" Doris opened her eyes wide.

"She seemed so mortified when she had to sing that piece alone," said Mrs. Webster.

"Oh, you mean the piece the primary department sang?" said Doris.

"I didn't see any primary department singing. It was just Miss Trask," said her mother. "She was the only one who sang, and her face got so red, and she looked so ashamed!"

"Well, you see," explained Doris, "all the good singers have been promoted. I heard Miss Henderson, say so. There don't seem to be any good singers left."

"I know one little girl who can sing the Sunday School pieces very nicely," said her mother meaningly.

Doris blushed. "But I'm only one, mother," she answered, "and you don't know how queer it sounds to hear your own voice when none of the others are singing. I just feel ashamed, and so I stop, too."

"That's the way all feel, I think," answered mother, "but I know there are plenty of good singers in the primary department. Why, the children can sing and shout loud enough at other times. Why is it they have such weak voices, or no voices at all, when it comes to singing in Sunday School?"

Doris shook her head.

"Don't you want to help Miss Trask?" asked her mother.

"Yes, indeed," Doris answered quickly. "Of all the people she loved, Miss Trask was one of the dearest. I'd do anything for her."

"Then why don't you help her with the singing? If you sang out bravely, you may be sure some other children would hear you and take courage, and sing too; and before you knew it the whole department would be singing."

"But I'm only one," persisted Doris.

"Don't you remember the story of the one little raindrop? It was only one, and the others said it wouldn't amount to much if it dropped down on the thirsty earth; but it was brave and did what it could; then the others followed, and all the people were so glad."

Doris looked very thoughtful, and she thought a good deal about it during the week.

The next Sunday, when it came time for the primary department to sing their piece, Doris noticed that Miss Trask looked very anxious. She hated to see her teacher look troubled. She would—yes, like the one little raindrop in the story, she would do what she could. So with the first notes of the hymn Doris' voice rang out strong and clear. For a moment the sound frightened her, and her voice dropped; but the little girl next to her had heard her start and had been emboldened to sing out, too. She took it up with a will, and the little boy next to her, and the children just beyond. Before Doris realized it the whole department was singing just as loud as ever "the good singers who had been promoted" had ever sung.

Miss Trask flushed with pleasure, and her eyes shone with joy, especially when the superintendent said: "That's the best the little folks have ever done. We didn't know what good singers we had there. I am sure their teacher is glad."

When they were all together in their own classroom, how happy they all felt when Miss Trask told them how pleased she was, and that she knew all along that there were good voices, but they had never sung out before, and she hoped that they would always sing out as they had done that day.

"It was like the little raindrop, mother," said Doris afterwards. "Just as soon as I sang out all the children around me began singing out too, and the whole class sang out loud."

"You see it was just as I told you," said her mother. "They only needed some one to start out brave and strong, then they had the courage to sing, too, and because one little girl tried to do what she could it made the whole class sing, and made Miss Trask and everyone else happy."—Annie Gulbert Mahon in Presbyterian Banner.

BRAY'S GOT TO BE KILLED

"Please, Mr. Joynes, there's a little boy at the back gate to see you."

"At the back gate? Bring him in, Peter."

"He won't come in, sir; says he's awful busy, hasn't got time."

"How big is he?"

"About as big as my fist, sir," said Peter.

The good natured gentleman went out to the back gate. "Well, countryman," he said pleasantly, "what can I do for you?"

The small boy—he was a very small boy—took off a soft, dirty hat and held it behind him. "I've come to tell you, sir, that Bray's got to be killed."

"Bray, my Newfoundland dog? And who sent you here with that information?" asked the gentleman, losing all his pleasant looks.

"Nobody sent me," answered the boy, stoutly; "I've come here by myself. Bray has runned my sheep for free days. He's got to be killed."

"Where did you get any sheep?" asked Mr. Joynes.

"My sheep are Mr. Ransom's. He gives me fifteen cents a week for watching 'em."

"Did you tell Mr. Ransom that Bray had been running them?"

"No, sir; I telled you."

"Ah, that is well. I don't want to kill Bray. Suppose I give you fifteen cents a week for not telling Mr. Ransom when Bray runs his sheep. How would that do?"

As soon as the little shepherd got the idea into his head, he scornfully rejected it. "That 'ud be paying me for a lie," he said indignantly. "I wouldn't tell lies for all the money in the world."

When he said this, Mr. Joynes took off his own hat, and reached down and took his small, dirty hand in his. "Hurrah, herdsman! I beg your pardon for offering you a bribe. Now I know that the keeper of Mr. Ransom's sheep is not afraid of a man four times his size, but that he is afraid of a lie. Hurrah for you! I am going to tell Mr. Ransom that if he doesn't raise your wages, I shall offer you twice fifteen cents and take you into my service. Meantime, Bray shall be shut up while your sheep are on my side of the hill. Will that do? All right, then. Good morning countryman."—English Magazine.

WHY HETTIE WAS HAPPY

Most girls would have thought that Hettie Bowers had not much to make her happy. She had few friends, and had passed through many trials in her brief life. But the truth of the whole matter was that Hettie was a Christian. There was a song on her lips, and Mrs. Adams was wont to say, "The kitchen is the brightest room in the house."

"What a sunshiny disposition your little kitchen girl has!" guests would sometimes say to Mrs. Adams. And the mistress, who knew well the secret of Hettie's happiness, always answered, "Yes, it is the sunshine of God's love in her heart."

"Hettie," Mrs. Adams asked one day, "why are you always happy?" "Why, ma'am," she answered, "Jesus loves me, and isn't that enough to make any one happy?" "But how do you know He loves you, Hettie?" continued Mrs. Adams. "He said so, ma'am, and I could not doubt His Word." "Then you think He never forgets, Hettie?"

Her face lit up with a smile. "Oh, that is the beauty of such love; we forget sometimes, but He never does." "But, Hettie, don't you ever feel lonely?" "Not while He is with me, ma'am; but sometimes when I forget His great love I repine."

"Well," said Mrs. Adams to herself as she stepped out of the kitchen, "What grace He has bestowed upon this girl?" While Hettie may be a poor kitchen girl, as we view things, yet hereafter a great reward awaits her.—Sunlight for the Young.

THE SECRET ANSWER

A somewhat whimsical rich man once called to him a servant who was noted for his contented disposition and genial humor. "John," he said, "you have been working for me a long time and never have received more than your board and clothes. Now, how would you like to trade places with me?"

"I don't think I should like it," was the unexpected reply. "You have all the work and worry of your great property, yet you don't get anything more than your board and clothes out of it, either."

John was right. No one realizes so keenly the limitations of merely material things to broaden and enlarge one's life as he who gives his entire life to them. The saddest slaves are those who are bound to the revolving wheels of golden chariots, the wheels of which are forever turning but never going anywhere.—Publisher Unknown.

A PRAYER MEETING

There were only two or three of us

Who came to the place of prayer;
Came in the teeth of a driving storm,
But for that we did not care.
Since after our hymns of praise had risen
And our earnest prayers were said,
The Master Himself was present there,
And gave the Living Bread.

We knew His look on our leader's face,
So rapt and glad and free;
We felt the touch when our heads were bowed,
We heard His "Come to Me."
Nobody saw Him lift the latch,
And none unbarred the door.
But "peace" was His token to every heart,
And how could we ask for more?

Each of us felt the load of sin
From the weary shoulder fall;
Each of us dropped the load of care,
And the grief that was like a pall;
And over our spirits a blessed calm
Swept in from the jasper sea,
And strength was ours for toil or strife
In the days that were thence to be.

It was only a handful gathered in
To the little place of prayer;
Outside were struggling and pain and sin,
But the Lord Himself was there.
He came to redeem the pledge He gave—
Wherever His loved ones be,
To stand Himself in the midst of them,
Though they count but "two or three."

And forth we fared in the bitter rain
But our hearts had grown so warm,
It seemed like the pelting of summer flowers,
And not the crash of the storm.
'Twas a time of the dearest privilege
Of the Lord's right hand, we said,
As we thought of how Jesus Himself had come To feed us the Living Bread.

—British Weekly.

—An unofficial meeting should also be unofficial.

—The Methodist Protestant Church should somehow make it clear that it will not allow itself to be made a bone of contention between any other churches.

—The HERALD begins its 38th volume this week. Again we thank the faithful friends who have stood by it all these years. And above all we thank the kind Father above for His good providence in making an open way all the time.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Woman's Auxiliary, Gibsonville, 21 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, and 5 glasses of jelly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Wills, 21 good books for our library and one game for children.

Tabernacle church, Harvest Home donation, 117 quarts canned fruits and vegetables, 1/2 bushel peas, 1 1/2 bushels barley and 3 coats for girls.

We sincerely thank all our friends for standing by us so nobly during the year now closing, even amidst the depression. Your gifts in money and in substance have shown a deep and abiding interest in the Home. We appreciate it very deeply and our fine lot of children appreciate it. Conference will be in session when you read this. We make our report to Conference at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and it is our purpose now to have all our children appear on the platform for about five minutes at that time. Come to Conference and see them.

We thank you and may God bless you every one.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

LARGEST CHRIST

To see unveiled the world's largest Christ, 250,000 pilgrims and nearly all the 1,447,000 inhabitants of Rio de Janeiro, toiled up last week to Corcovado Mountain, nearly half a mile above the city and its great harbor. Rain dribbled dankly. In Rome, 5,000 miles away, Senator Guglielmo Mareoni flashed three short-wave wireless signals, contacting a switch which turned on a battery of floodlights. Revealed was Jesus Christ the Redeemer 130 feet high, 92 feet from fingertip to fingertip, arms outstretched. Visible 20 miles away, sculptured by Frenchman Paul-Maximilien Landowski, the mammoth statue represents 10 years of planning and construction at a cost of $250,000 donated in small amounts by the Brazilian faithful. His Holiness the Pope sent blessings, appointed Sebastian Cardinal Leme da Silveira Cintra, Archbishop of Sao Sebastiao do Rio de Janeiro, to be Papal Legate at the dedication ceremonies.—Time.

FAILURE

He lived for self
And selfish ease,
His only thought
Himself to please.

He labored hard
For money gain,
A daily life
Of stint and strait.

For sick and poor
He had no time,
His hands besmeared
With money grime.

And so he died,
A failure drear,
With not one friend
To shed a tear.

—Grenville Kleiser.

TIMES ARE BETTER

Times are better!
Pass the word along.
Don't criticize or worry,
But tune in on a song.

Times are better!
Foolish to feel blue.
Do not stop to grumble,
There's useful work to do.

Times are better!
Better every day.
Results are very certain,
If you will plug away.

Times are better!
Show a smiling face.
But man you've got to hustle
To win a foremost place!

—Grenville Kleiser.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Belemont Church, Mt. Hermon Circuit.—Bellemont church comes to the close of this Conference year feeling very grateful to God for the things that have been done during the year. This has had good attendance in the services of the church. Our pastor, who is leaving us this year, has been on this work for the last five years. May the Lord bless him in his undertaking.

Officers for the coming year have been elected; these are: Stewards, Miss Marie Hargis, Mrs. Clyde Sharpe, and Mr. Paul Lowder; trustees, Messrs. L. H. Coble, V. B. Webster, W. A. J. Sharpe, Dr. J. A. Pickett, and G. A. Nicholson; superintendent of Sunday school, Mr. Rayzelle Coble; assistant superintendent, Mr. Lee Moser; church pianist, Mrs. Paul Lowder; church reporter, Miss Ramah Shoffner. Officers for Christian Endeavor are as follows: President, Lee Moser; vice-president, Homer Hargis; corresponding secretary, Lucile Sharpe.

Rev. Kenneth Holt brought us a good message the second Sunday of October, a large congregation being present.

President S. W. Taylor was with us the fourth Sunday in October. He brought a great message to a filled house.

Plans are being made for one of the biggest and best song services of this season. This service will be in this church next Sunday, November 8th, beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Wayne Curtis, who is directing this service, makes the announcement that a great ingathering of singers will be present and take part in this program. Among those expected are: Mount Pleasant choir, Pleasant Hill choir, The Little Four Quartette, Central Quartette, Burlington Tri-Church Quartette, Swepsonville Junior Girls Quartette; Graham Mixed Quartette, Tabernacle Quartette, the Friends Quartette, Liberty Mixed Quartette, Glenwood Quartette of Glenwood, Guilford Four Quartette, Wayne Curtis and Miss Lula Riddle, duet. Others will likely be present to take part in this service. The public is cordially invited.

Mr. Henry Easley and Miss Flossie Beaver, blind musicians, rendered a sacred program in this church the fourth Sunday night of October. This service was well attended and was inspirational.

Our Sunday school is good. May the Lord continue to bless us.

MRS. WAYNE CURTIS, Reporter.

Lebanon, High Point.—We had two very impressive services yesterday. At the 11 o'clock service the recently-elected officers were installed. The following are the officers for the next Conference year: Sunday school superintendent, Mr. J. W. Montgomery; assistant Sunday school superintendent, Mr. C. B. Welch; class leaders, F. F. Briggs, J. A. Jones; pianist, Mrs. Stokes Gallimore; church treasurer, J. B. Huff; church reporter, Mrs. C. B. Welch; trustees, W. C. Montgomery, Percy Payne, H. E. Pitts, A. J. Payne, C. B. Welch, W. L. Lee, V. L. Cook; stewards, E. C. Blair; Dale Montgomery, R. E. L. Hayworth, S. E. Montgomery, Orest Hedge-cock, J. C. Daniels, V. I. Williard, C. M. Brown, D. S. Hedgecock, Mrs. Margaret Deaton, Miss Lula Thacker, Mrs. V. L. Cook, Mrs. Percy Payne; ushers, Manly Craven, Herman Yokley, Stokes Gallimore, Orest Hedgecock; assistant ushers, Wayne Montgomery, Clayton Lee.

The installation was followed by an impressive sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Madison. At the evening service every member who had united with the church this year was presented with a church discipline and a certificate of membership. The sermon at this time was on the subject of "Growth." It was quite a challenge to this church for the coming year.

Bro. Madison has done a great work at our church this year. He has endeared himself to the hearts of this people, and we are hoping that the Conference will see fit to send him back to us next year. We feel that he can do a still greater work next year.

The pastor's salary has been paid monthly and we are confident that every claim will be met.

REPORTER.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Our pastor, Rev. C. W. Bates goes to Conference this week. We feel sure that he is coming back to us for another year. We hope the Lord will see fit to send him back.

During the four years he has been with us he has given spiritual guidance to many.

Mrs. Bates is one of the most willing workers in the service of the Lord.

We of Calvary are one big family. Should the Bates family be sent elsewhere our family would be very sad. May the Lord see fit to keep our family together.

MRS. E. D. OVERCASH, Reporter.

Burlington.—Our pastor, Dr. F. W. Paschall, is all ready to go to Conference with the budget of $4,500.00 in full and a good report to make for the year. A report from the chairman of the board of stewards was heard yesterday at which time he thanked the members of the church for co-operating so wholeheartedly in making this good report possible. The board of stewards promised that during last year that the problem of finances would not be brought before the church and Sunday school and they kept their promise. The members are very much pleased with the results of this Conference year, owing to the business depression.

We had a new feature on our program at Sunday school yesterday. Mr. W. T. Way directed a seven-piece orchestra which rendered splendid music and was thoroughly enjoyed. We are hoping to have them every Sunday. Music certainly puts pep and enthusiasm into any program. Another feature was the presiding of our new Sunday school superintendent, Mr. C. C. Linley, who responded wonderfully to his duty Sunday morning. We are very fortunate in having such a capable man in this office. The Sunday school was very much delighted with his results.

Last night the Woman's Auxiliary sponsored a pageant, "The Temple of Praise," given by 15 of our young people (girls) in this church. The pageant was very interesting and helpful and everyone enjoyed it greatly. This service was a thank-offering service and the proceeds go to Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis, our missionaries in India, and the same amount also to be applied on our budget.

There will be Sunday school next Sunday at 9:45, but no preaching services, either morning or night, owing to the fact that our preacher will be at Conference. We are hoping to begin the new Conference year Sunday, November 15th, with our newly-elected officers right in their respective places and our same pastor, Dr. F. W. Paschall, at the pulpit. We appreciate his good work. Say!! Don't you other churches ask for him, because we want him back. You bet!!

Our C. E. Society had a very interesting program last night. Mrs. F. W. Paschall was the leader. The program was so much different from our other meetings. The program was called a triple program. The society was divided into three groups and each group had their own program. The members were 100 per cent active, every one present taking some part in the meeting aside from singing. The meeting was inspiring.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the Hut Monday evening, October 19th, with about 70 members present with the Business Girls' Circle in charge. The hut was decorated so as to carry out the Halloween season. The call to worship was indicated by a piano selection played softly by Miss Elizabeth Rogers; following this, Miss Swannie Coble led the group in prayer. Arthula Cheek, leader of the Business Girls' Circle, read for the Scripture the 25th Psalm, followed with prayer by Mrs. M. A. Coble. Readings given by Misses Hallie McPherson and Betty Thompson were as follows: "China's Problems" and "Progress of Christianity in China." At the close of the program Mrs. Z. V. Coble led in prayer and Miss Susie Stafford closed. Mrs. M. A. Coble, president of the Auxiliary, then presided over the business part of the program. The secretary of temperance, Miss Susie Stafford, and secretary of scholarship funds, Mrs. A. M. Wagoner, gave reports on their work. The reports of the different circles and of the home and foreign treasurers were heard at this time. The president asked that each circle get a report on how many were reading their Bibles every day. The Auxiliary voted to buy lunch for some child for the remainder of the school term at the city school, who was not able to buy it himself. The president set a goal for the Auxiliary, toward which to work, which was "Everybody studying, praying, working and giving her share to carry on the work of the church."

After adjournment the members of Circle No. 2, Business Girls' Circle, served refreshments.

TULA PAUL, Reporter.

Gibsonville-Fountain Place.—Two years of hard, yet pleasant, work here has just closed and on our way to Conference.

These churches have held their own notwithstanding the cry of hard times and the heavy debt that has beset Fountain Place. At this church we are hoping for relief next year by a refinancing plan. No more faithful souls than the membership that compose this church.

The salary was fixed same as last year with the same pastor asked for at both charges. We appreciate this confidence and should the present pastor be returned he will come gladly.

Gibsonville has offered to furnish the parsonage for next year and I suppose that whoever serves these two charges will be expected to live there. This will enable Fountain Place to turn the rent toward liquidating their debt.

We have been treated with uniform kindness by both charges and so far as we know there are no strained relationships. The following persons have remembered us with gifts aside from paying salary: Mrs. H. W. Wade, Mrs. W. A. Shoffner, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Amick, Mrs. H. P. Lucas, Mrs. J. W. Wright, Miss Dorothy Scott, Mrs. S. C. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Amick, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Apple, Mrs. Rascoe, Mrs. Fred Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Troxler, Mrs. G. C. Fogleman, J. W. Paylor, Mrs. C. C. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Truitt, Mrs. George Petty, Mrs. D. D. Glenn, Mrs. Nathan Coble, Mr. and Mrs. Williams Summers, Miss Ruth Jones, J. G. Meachum, H. E. Gibbs, Mrs. C. L. Jones, Mrs. R. G. Hornaday, Mrs. J. O. Glenn, and the best word we know to say is a great big THANK YOU!

All the organizations of the church are working well, and we do not see why there should not be a great year's work in 1932, for the plans are all set for that.

There are many things that might be mentioned, but the reporters for the two charges have done their work well. We thank them.

May the Spirit of Him who has promised to guide us be in all our deliberations in our Annual Conference. N. G. BETHEA.

Bethel, Alamance.—The Woman's Auxiliary of Bethel will hold a thanksgiving service the third Sunday in November at 11 o'clock. The speaker will be Prof. E. P. Dixon, principal of Eli Whitney high school. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

The Young People's Mission Band will meet next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. Lon McPherson to hold their monthly meeting. This mission band has recently been organized with Opal Cook as chairman; Rosalie Lindley, as secretary, and Lottie Lea Foust as treasurer.

A number of young children have been enrolled as Precious Jewels.

MARCIA FOUST.

Spring Valley, Vance Circuit.—Another Conference year has passed, and it seems that we have done but little, yet we have been busy.

Our Sunday school is getting along very nicely. Our attendance has increased a lot since vacation time and the extreme hot weather. Goodly number present yesterday and last Sunday also.

Bro. Braxton filled his last appointment for this year last night, and we sincerely hope that he will return to us for another year. He gave us a splendid sermon, as he always does, and we feel very grateful in having such a wide-awake pastor. Mrs. Fred Hight from Henderson rendered us a very beautiful and impressive musical program just before the worship program. This was enjoyed by all.

Our Missionary Society is doing good work. We hold all of our meetings regularly with good attendance and much interest. We had an oyster supper on Friday night and cleared about $14.50, which will be used to a good advantage in our work.

The Christian Endeavor Society is still at work. Good program last night, and the interest very good.

We have several sick people on the list. We wish for each one a speedy recovery.

On October 18 we elected officers for the coming year, and Brother Braxton held an installation service immediately after. We hope that each officer will feel it his or her duty to do the very best they can to carry on the work for the master.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

First Church, High Point.—After completion of all plans for the entertainment of the 104th Annual Session of the N. C. Conference, High Point stands in readiness to welcome the ministers, lay delegates, and visitors, who will convene in First church tomorrow (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock. The conference faculty, of which Rev. J. E. Pritchard, of Winston-Salem, is chairman and Rev. N. G. Betha, of Burlington, is secretary, is meeting with the students in the course for examinations this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. The committee on securing homes, of which Mrs. J. G. Snipes is chairman, reports today that enough homes have been secured for all delegates. The visitors will be furnished lodging and breakfast in the homes to which they have been assigned, and the other meals will be served at the church by the Woman's Auxiliary at a nominal charge. The Lebanon church in Mechanicsville, Rev. J. G. Madison, pastor; English Street church, Rev. Geo. L. Reynolds, pastor; the Welch Memorial, Rev. J. R. Anderson, pastor, and Pleasant Grove, Rev. D. R. Williams, pastor, are co-operating with Rev. R. I. Farmer and the First church in entertaining the Conference. High Point, being centrally located, about 21 ministers and 18 laymen of nearby towns and charges have written that they do not expect entertainment, but will drive back and forth from their own homes. Dr. S. W. Taylor, president, will call the Conference to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. R. A. Hunter, of Henderson. The president's annual message will be given, followed by the election of officers. Dr. T. M. Johnson will preside at the observance of the Lord's Supper. Dr. J. C. Broomfield, president of the General Conference, will deliver his official message Wednesday afternoon at 3:20 o'clock, and at 8 in the evening Bishop J. Kenneth Pfuhl, of the Moravian church, Winston-Salem, who is successor to the late lamented Bishop Edward Rondthaler, will deliver a sermon.

The congregation on Sunday morning united in an impressive celebration of the Lord's Supper. In the evening the final service of the series sponsored by the Brotherhood was held. Arnold J. Koonce read the Scripture lesson, and prayer was led by A. A. Hill. Groups 4 and 5, Ross Davis and J. H. Everhart, leaders, were in charge of the program. Rev. R. I. Farmer chose the text in John 1:22: "What sayest thou of thyself?" as the basis of a sermon which he called "What Is Your Trademark?" He said in part: Christ was criticized by the religious thinkers of His day, and John bore testimony to Him publicly. The priests and Levites asked Him the question of the text, taking Him to task in regard to His character and reputation. It is characteristic of the world today to magnify the faults and minimize the virtues of the living. A trademark is a form, symbol, name, or device which distinguishes a certain product from others and happy is the man whose life will stand the test of his own claims. Character follows reputation. Napoleon said: "I make good soldiers by telling them that they are good soldiers." Finally, the only true trademark for life is Jesus Christ. The very name, Christian, demands reality. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his." John Wesley said "If I had three hundred men who feared nothing but God, hated nothing but sin, and determined to know nothing but Jesus Christ and Him crucified, I could set the world afire." "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." Then will you bear the right trademark.

Prof. L. R. Johnston, principal of High Point high school, will teach the child study class of Central Parent-Teacher Association in Greensboro this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Central Junior High School. His subject will be "Guiding the Development of the Child's Personality." He is considered one of the outstanding school men of the state.

The friends of Mrs. James H. Ferguson will be pleased to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from an operation a few days ago in City Memorial Hospital, Thomasville.

Miss Ina McAdams and Charles C. Robbins, Jr., took parts in the "College Flapper," a play presented by local talent last Thursday and Friday evenings in the high school auditorium. This play was a great success, and was sponsored by the High Point Woman's Club, of which Mrs. L. R. Johnston is president.

Misses Irene Reynolds, Alene Vance and Gladys Kivett spent last Saturday and Sunday in Danville, Va., and Yanceyville, N. C. At the latter place they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Vance, both of whom are teachers in Yancey High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Rankin, Jr., and two children left Sunday for Miami, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

We are gratified to learn that Mrs. J. C. Welch, Sr., who has been ill, is improving.

Mrs. Rupert Piekens, Jr., has resumed her work in Ray Street School after an operation for appendicitis.

Winston, First.—At the morning service yesterday we had the great privilege of having as the speaker, Rev. F. L. Gibbs, the associate secretary of the Board of Christian Education. Brother Gibbs always has a message that is worth hearing and yesterday was no exception to the rule. The congregation at the morning service was off somewhat from the previous Sunday, but the evening congregation was one of the best regular congregations of the year, there being 65 present.

We are now finishing our first year here. While the year has not been what we wanted to see, yet in some respects it has been fairly good. Pastor's salary has been paid in full and fixed for next year the same as this year. By the aid of the Woman's Auxiliary and the special days, the General Conference budget has been almost paid and from the church treasury a substantial payment has been made on the Annual Conference budget, though the entire amount will not be raised.

What seemed to be a calamity was turned into a blessing when the city took away our front yard and put down an eleven-foot sidewalk touching the vestibule of the church. The entrance was adjusted to fit the new conditions and practically everybody says it looks better and more stately now than it ever did before.

Our fourth quarterly conference has been held and this pastor received a unanimous vote to return for the coming year, and this will we do if the Conference will permit. While great obstacles have had to be encountered, such as finding our membership in this large place, together with physical handicaps, etc., yet in the midst of it all it has been a harmonious and pleasant year. And it seems that the church is now ready to undertake another year with even better prospects. While we have received only six new members during the past year we believe we can receive more next year.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Friendship, Mount Hermon Charge.—We come to the close of another Conference year with a sense of gratitude for the advancement of our church during the past year. Much has been accomplished and there is still much to be done.

Our new Sunday school building has been erected this year at an approximate cost of $3,000, all of which has been paid except $1,300. This building is equipped with a hot air heating system and adequately houses our Sunday school.

A daily vacation Bible school was held the latter part of July in co-operation with Belmont church at that place. Our building was not complete at that time. We wish to express our thanks to Belmont for co-operating so splendidly with our church in this enterprise. It was a pleasure to work with them.

On the fourth Sunday afternoon in October Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman were with us in a thank-offering service. They gave some interesting experiences which occurred to them during their stay in Japan. We were glad to have them with us and hope they will come again. The offering will be applied to the Minnis fund.

The Halloween party given last Friday evening by the Woman's Auxiliary was enjoyed by the people of the community. A nice sum was realized for the annual budget. We hope to improve our equipment for serving refreshments in the building from time to time.

We were glad to welcome our pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, who is now a student at Yale University, back for our Sunday services. He brought us a very helpful message at the 11 o'clock hour. He reserved his farewell remarks for a union service of the four churches held at Mount Hermon church Sunday evening at 7:30. A report of this service will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Carroll, has been serving us for five years. We feel that he has done a splendid work while serving our church. Progress has been made along many lines during his pastorate. We regret to lose Rev. Carroll, but we are glad, since he has chosen to leave us that he can further prepare himself for the Christian ministry. The goodwill of this church will follow him into other fields of service. May the Holy Spirit so lead and direct him that he may grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ that his life may be abundantly blessed in His service.

Mr. T. E. Sharpe, who has been quite ill for a week or more in Duke hospital, returned to his home the latter part of the week. We regret to learn that his condition seems little improved.

We are sorry to report that the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Isley is seriously ill with typhoid fever in St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro. We hope she will soon be better.

Mr. G. W. Garrett, who is a patient in Rainey hospital, is getting along very nicely. Mrs. Garrett, who had the misfortune to fracture her hip recently, is convalescing nicely at her home.

Mrs. W. Dailey Mansfield spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Garrett, and with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Garrett, who are ill.

We had several people from a distance, both those who are members and those who are not, at our Sunday service. We are always glad to have the members who are too far away to attend regularly come as often as possible. We want to welcome everyone to our services and hope they will come again.

Our delegate, Mr. H. A. Garrett, will attend the Annual Conference, which meets in High Point this week. We hope that this will be the best Conference ever held in our church.

MAE PATTERSON, Reporter.

Mount Pleasant Church—Rev. J. R. Hutton preached his closing sermon at our church Sunday, November 1, choosing for his text Acts 6:8. His topic, "The Indispensable Qualifications of Church Officials," was a very fitting one, as it immediately followed the election of Sunday school and church officers for the coming year.

In a brief discourse he referred to the essentials required in successful church officials; these were to be honest men, full of the Holy Spirit, and wise. The results of the election of this type of officers was presented in a brief reference to the evangelism of Phillip and Stephen; "the Word of God increased and many hardened sinners were converted into faithful workers in the church of Christ."

Rev. Mr. Hutton has been with us for two years, and during this time he has brought to his listeners many messages that were pregnant with the ethereal fires of truth. Many a conscience has been quickened to a new life by his unadulterated gospel, and in years to come many more will discover that seeds thought to have fallen upon barren ground were but more slowly germinating.

The writer is wishing for him many years of successful preaching and, in the future, all of the rewards promised in the Book of Life which he so faithfully prescribes and advocates.

The ladies of our church report $75.35 raised for Foreign Mission work; $44.00 for Home Mission work, and $15.50 for Ladies' Aid.

Mr. Norris Ferguson was in from Florida recently, visiting his parents. While here he and his sister, Mrs. Nathaniel Grady Amick, visited friends and relatives in this and surrounding communities.

Misses Edith Smith and Rebecca Mae Causey, students of the North Carolina College for Women, were week-end guests of their parents and visitors at our church for the third Sunday services.

NILA GARNETTE AMICK.

Tabernacle, West Forsyth Charge.—The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of this church held its regular meeting in the church Sunday. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. W. B. Spears, president of the Pleasant Hill Auxiliary. Accompanying Mrs. Spears were her two daughters, and Misses Lola and Ruth Long of the young people's work at Pleasant Hill. The meeting was a most interesting one, and a cordial invitation is given to come again. We feel sure much good was gained, with renewed interest to press on in the missionary work here at this particular church. We are few in number, but we have the assurance that where two or three are gathered together in God's name He will be with them, and so with this thought in mind we are willing to press on, led by His hand, and upheld by His strong arm. We love the word "Missionary," for our dear Lord Jesus was our first missionary, and we are thankful first, and above all else, for His coming to save us, to save the world.

Our next meeting will be held in the home of the president, Mrs. Robert P. Petree, on Saturday night, December 19, at 7 o'clock. We are in our infancy in this part of church work having had only two meetings since organizing. We feel the need of your prayers and advice and visits to our meetings. Will you pray for us? "Prayer is the Christian's vital breath, his watchword at the gates of death."

Again, may I extend a cordial invitation to our visitors of Sunday, and to as many others as may wish to come again.

I cannot close without saying that I am aware that before this reaches the Herald readers our Annual Conference will be in session. But it will not be too late to say that we are expecting our present beloved pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, and his dear family to remain with us another year; to lose them would mean a painful loss. God grant a good and harmonious conference this year.

MRS. ROBERT P. PETREE.

Tobaccoville, N. C.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Rev. P. E. Bingham preached his last sermon Sunday night before Conference. There was very much business to come up. All the officers were re-elected but two or three. Mr. Leo Pittard will be our superintendent for the coming year.

On the second Sunday afternoon the C. E. society met. The topic was "What Is Our Country Doing to Help and Hinder the Spiritual Growth of Other Countries." This was a very interesting program; it showed a great improvement.

We were very glad indeed to have with us many visitors; among these visitors were two who took a part in the program. Mr. V. I. Matthews made an interesting talk and made a number of suggestions which the society will take to heart and prosper by. Mr. Sympton also took a part. We appreciated their being with us very much. We need visitors and encouragement. We had four new members.

The Woman's Auxiliary met Saturday night in the home of Mrs. Paul Hawkins; everyone seemed to enjoy the program. We had several visitors. We are glad Mrs. Bingham is one of our members; also Mrs. B. F. Morris and Miss Vera Morris, of Corinth. After we dismissed the crowd we had Mr. and Mrs. Bingham to go into the dining room, where they found gifts from several members of the church.

Our Sunday school is getting along as well as usual. The class leader wasn't present Sunday, so Mr. E. B. Pair made a very helpful speech, as he always does.

We are very sorry to note Mr. Squire Culum is paralyzed in his left side and has been in the house about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. M. J. Morris took supper with Mrs. Berta Hawkins Sunday night.

I was very glad to have Miss Beatrice Hawkins to spend from Wednesday afternoon to Saturday night with us.

Mr. Bennett Morgan spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. G. W. Morgan; also Mr. Edward Greene with his mother, Mrs. R. E. Greene.

Mr. Raymond Hawkins has left for a business course in Richmond, Va.

I forgot our next Woman's Auxiliary meeting will be the first Saturday night in December in the home of Mrs. Bingham if they are called back.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Dulins, Macksville Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree, closed the Conference year Sunday with us. He has rendered splendid service during this year.

We are sorry he had to go to Conference with so little pay.

The officers were installed for the ensuing year with some changes; we hope they will enter on the work with vim and zeal.

We are glad to have Brother Ferree's family worship with us.

We were indeed glad to have with us at the closing of the Conference year Mr. Henry, Mr. Ferree's father-in-law.

We sincerely hope Conference will see fit to send Brother Ferree back to us.

Best wishes. REPORTER.

NEW ENGLAND TOUR TO BE REPRODUCED

George Washington's tour of the Eastern States in October and November, 1789, will be reproduced next year as part of the New England celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the First President's Birth, according to plans now being formed by the Bicentennial Committee of Hartford, Connecticut.

The Hartford Committee, according to advice received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, is planning to co-operate with the Boston Bicentennial Committee in the reproduction of his historically interesting event.

The celebration in Connecticut's capital city will be, so far as possible, based on Washington's associations at Hartford, with Jonathan Trumbull and other Revolutionary patriots of that state. All civic, patriotic, fraternal, social and religious groups are expected to co-operate.

A CHURCH-BUILDING PASTOR

Start your first year doing a great work. Remodeling, getting new members, building up your church, whether you get any salary or not work hard, do your best for your church. Just smoke, chew or play with all the members and make everybody happy—do your best!

Start your second year with good preaching, but go to the conference delegate and complain because your salary has not been paid every week, hawl him out because he hasn't got every cent of your salary up to date. Then get on the chairman of the board of stewards, hawl him out, make him mad, sore, get him confused, go to other stewards, try to get them to take the chairmanship without asking the chairman to resign; tell the stewards how sorry the chairman is, how unfit he is for chairman; talk rough to the chairman until you have to return and apologize to him for your rough and insulting talk; talk to all the stewards, tell them to go out and get your salary at once regardless of a depression. Call a meeting of the stewards on a moment's notice, get sore because one has to be absent, on a trip to a hospital, being a neighbor to his neighborhood. Always be late for Sunday school if you come at all. If you live in fifty feet of the church take no part in Sunday school work, take no, or little, part in singing; don't try to teach a Sunday school class at all, but keep up your howl for your salary. Nag the official board, keep them all disturbed, hammer them hard. Tell the stewards the members promised to pay and go out and get the money whether the people have it or not. Just make them pay regardless, but be sure to stay at the parsonage all day; be at home all the time so in case any one wants you they will find you at home without any trouble.

Don't come out on Sunday morning until time for the 11 o'clock service; keep away from the members as much as possible but keep after the church for your pay.

Finish the year by bawling the whole works out. Tell them they don't need to expect him back next year. Then call for a vote to see whether they want you next year or not. Tell them that you will be governed by the spirit of the Lord whether you come back or not.

POPULATION OF INDIA

Census figures just published at Simla show that India now has a total population of 250,253,000. The Hindus increased 10 per cent in the last 10 years and now number 238,330,000, while the Moslems increased 13.1 per cent during the same period, now numbering 77,743,000. Sikhs increased 33 per cent; Jaines two, Buddhists eight and Parsees two. Pathfinder.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Resolutions of Respect

It is with sincere sympathy that we, the members of Seagrove Methodist Protestant Ladies' Aid Society are called upon to record the death of one of our members, Mrs. W. D. Lemonds. This is the first member lost by death.

God in His wisdom has called from us our dear friend. We know that her life was spent in His service and in service to all mankind who needed her ministrations, and her reward is great. To us she has left a wonderful example. Therefore, Be it Resolved:

That we as a society cherish her memory and her helpfulness in many ways and that her presence will be missed not only in this society but in all activities of the church;

That we hold her in loving remembrance and that we extend to her bereaved husband and children our deepest sympathy, love and respect, and that a copy of these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of our society, the Methodist Protestant Herald and the county papers and that a copy be sent to the family.

MRS. D. J. JOHNSON,
MRS. W. C. AUMAN,
MRS. Wm. H. NEESE,

Committee.

Resolution

Whereas, the Great and Supreme Ruler of the universe has in His infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy and esteemed fellow-men, Arthur Groce; and whereas, the long and intimate relation held with him in the faithful discharge of his duties in this Sunday school and Baraca class makes it eminently befitting that we record our appreciation of him; therefore,

Resolved, that the wisdom and ability which he has exercised in our school and class by service, contributions and counsel will be held in grateful remembrance;

That the sudden removal of such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this church, and will prove a serious loss to the community;

That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well;

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy spread upon the records of this class, a copy to the Methodist Protestant Herald and the local county papers.

FOLLOWING THE CHILD

"And a little child shall lead them."—Isa. 11:6.

Of all the prophecies in the Book this seems in the light of its setting to have had the least chance for fulfilment.

Seven centuries stood between the prophet and the Messiah, in whose name this radical promise was uttered. All that man had ever known was force—it was his answer to every problem. To expect a revolution in the world accustomed to the marching pageant, the blowing trumpets, and the ringing bells, was to invert the whole order of society.

Yet, that is exactly what has happened. The Child was born into a kingdom in which the strongest ruled by virtue of the power to destroy. Think of the Roman empire, whose iron-heeled Caesars shook the earth as they roll over it with their engines of war. Yet all that remains of the kingdom into which Christ was born is the religious institution which was dedicated to the leadership of the Child.

A New World

And so we have set the child in the midst of us and undertaken to destroy the world of force. That destruction is far from complete; we still cling with fanatical conservatism to the rod of iron. But the most thorough-going pessimist will burst into a psalm of praise if he will go back to the social, political and industrial conditions of Christ's time and observe the appalling disparity between the world in which He was born and the world which He has transformed. To be sure, we have far to go to establish the Kingdom of Heaven on earth, but we have gone far enough to change the whole moral landscape of life.

And the little child has led us. Every year the power of the child gains on the rule of force and every year there will be gains on the rule of greed. There will be many conflicts yet, but love and greed will be better matched than ever before and the fighting will be in the open. It may be another two thousand years before the Kingdom of Love overthrows the kingdom of greed. But come that day, as it will, "and a little child shall lead them."

Here at Home

North Carolina has nearly 4,000 of these children, such as Christ blessed, in the Orphan Homes of the State. Religious and fraternal organizations house and mother them, but hundreds stand in line and wait for admission into these homes. There are many tests which a great people must meet to survive. But of nothing are we quite so certain as we are that financial curse and spiritual death await us if we neglect these children.

Then and Now

We know now why the poet and the prophet sang centuries in advance of the Child's coming and promised that a little child should lead us. We know now why Jesus reserved His greatest wrath for those who would offend the least of men. Every child is God's recurring hope of redeeming the world; every birth puts a new rainbow in the sky; every cradle rocks a son of God.

If then, every birth is a miracle, every cradle a holy place, every child a son of the Most High, and every occupation is an education for immortality; if the child is to be the mightiest force known among men; if every common duty of men is to be an opportunity for heavenly revelation; if a celestial radiance is to shine on every birth and a child of God is to sleep and wake in every crib, consider these orphans and suffer them to come unto us all "and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Thanksgiving

This is one of the "special days" which, during recent years, comes to North Carolinians freighted with the spirit of good will, of cheerfulness, of happy greetings fragrant with friendship that means service where service may be needed. A generous spirit has been manifested toward the various orphan homes of the State and the North Carolina Orphan Association once again renews its appeal for liberal offerings for these beneficent institutions during the approaching Thanksgiving period.

On or before Thursday, November 26, the day set apart by the president of the United States and the governor of North Carolina for prayer and thanksgiving, every high-hearted citizen of the State is requested to contribute the income of a DAY to the orphanage of his or her choice.

Help for the Destitute

Positively, the need has never been so urgent as it is today. Surely the contributions will be more liberal than for any previous year. Let everyone rise to the dignity of the hour by each doing his, or her, level best to aid these homes in the training and education of orphaned children who might otherwise become a menace to society and a care upon the public. Conditions invite and duty demands the co-operation of every North Carolinian in aiding a class of children who should receive the protection of every man's arm and the affection of every woman's heart.

Respectfully,

M. L. SHIPMAN, Chairman,
JOHN D. BERRY,

GURNEY P. HOOD,

REV. A. S. BARNES.

MISS FANNIE H. YOUNG,

MRS. W. T. BOST,

MRS. JOSEPHUS DANIELS,

Publicity Committee.

Contribute the income of a DAY to the orphanage of your choice on or near Thanksgiving Day, November 26.

MORNING PRAYER FOR THE DAY

The morning sun is heralding a new-born day.

I watch as high and higher mounts its hectic hues and fire.

A new-born prayer is kindled by its burning ray,

And higher yet, my earth-bound hopes aspire.

I cannot hope to walk a perfect path today:
The mantle of mortality makes sinners of us all.

But may the distance gained in upward climb,
I pray,

Surmount the distance lost by downward fall.

—Nila Garnette Amick.

THANKS

I wish to express my appreciation to the many friends for their kindness and sympathy during the sickness and death of my dear husband; also to the ones who sent flowers.

MRS. J. W. MOORE.

OPEN DOOR CLOSED

Scattered fighting between the Japanese and Chinese in Manchuria continued to menace the peace of the world. The special meeting of the Council of the League of Nations invited the United States to participate in attempts to settle the Manchurian dispute, but the Japanese delegate objected to the invitation and asked Tokyo for instructions. His government instructed him to sit tight and when a vote was taken after a long and tense secret session the Council voted 13 to 1 to send the invitation to the United States, the Japanese delegate voting in the negative to the end. He said that Japan objected to the invitation on judicial grounds and pointed out that it was a question of "substance" and therefore would require a unanimous vote. The other delegates took the view that it was a question of procedure only. Japan rejects all outside intervention in the affair and insists that it is only a local dispute which she can settle with China by direct negotiation. She insists that China must stop all anti-Japanese agitation and guarantee protection of Japanese in China before the Japanese troops will be withdrawn. Meanwhile China instructed her minister at Tokyo to drop conversations with the Japanese foreign minister on the ground that the talks might create the impression that China had consented to negotiate before Japanese troops are withdrawn.—Pathfinder.

STATE RELIGION REJECTED

Church and state in Spain were separated when the constituent assembly adopted by a vote of 287 to 41 a clause in the new constitution providing that "no state religion exists." Another provision drastically restricts the activities of the Catholic church and subjects the Jesuits to expulsion. President Niceto Alcala Zamora, who is a Catholic, objected to the latter provision and when it was adopted over his protest he resigned as provisional president and premier of the Spanish republic. Zamora was perfectly willing that church and state should be separated and that the close association between the two should be ended, but he wanted the Catholic church to have the same guarantees of protection that any other Spanish institution has. He desired to see Spain have a republic such as that of the United States or France, where all religions are on an equal footing. But the radicals had the upper hand and defeated the revolutionary leader. His minister of war, Manuel Azana, was chosen to succeed him as provisional president.—Pathfinder.

DESIGNS RECEIVED FOR WASHINGTON QUARTER

In response to the invitation issued some time ago, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has received designs for the new George Washington quarter dollar to be issued next year as part of the Bicentennial observance of Washington's birth, from about 90 artists.

The design for the new quarter, which is to be the first coin of regular issue ever to bear the image of George Washington, will be selected by the Secretary of the Treasury. It will then be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts at its meeting, October 30. As soon thereafter as possible the choice will be announced.

A NEW BIBLE

The Bible brought up to date is the idea of a new translation and edition of the holy Book prepared by University of Chicago scholars. Making use of some 8,000 manuscripts discovered since the King James translation, together with the light thrown on the subject by scholarly research in the last 300 years, the translators put the text into English words of today's current speech. It has been discovered, it was said, that the Greek in which the New Testament was written was not classical but colloquial. The New Testament translation was under the direction of Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, while Dr. J. M. Powis Smith had charge of the Old Testament version. Some errors discovered in the old translations were corrected. For instance, the passage from Isaiah which in the King James version reads, "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow," was changed to read "If your sins be like scarlet, can they become white as snow?" A further modern touch is the abandonment of the two-column page, the lines going all the way across as in ordinary books. The following is an example of the new text from the second chapter of St. Luke:

"There were some shepherds in that neighborhood keeping watch through the night over their flocks in the open fields, and the angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terribly frightened. The angel said to them:

"Do not be frightened, for I bring you good news of great joy that is to be felt by all the people, for today, in the town of David, a Savior for you has been born, who is your Messiah and Lord. And this will prove it to you; you will find a baby wrapped up and lying in a manger."—Pathfinder.

FALL BEST TIME TO APPLY LIME

While crop rotations will modify to some extent the time of applying limestone to soils, usually best results are secured when this material is applied in the fall or early winter on plowed land.

"Farm roads are in better condition in the fall and the operator can get out over his fields easier than he can when the land is wet and muddy in the spring," says C. B. Williams, head of the department of agronomy at State college. "Much of the rush of farm work will also be over after the crops are harvested. Lime applied at this season on plowed land will be thoroughly mixed with the soil by the action of rains, snow and freezes and being thus incorporated into the soil, the lime will satisfy the needs of the soil before another crop is seeded in the spring."

Mr. Williams says the crops that usually will respond to liming and receive the greatest benefits are red, crimson and alsike clovers, alfalfa, lespedeza, cowpeas, soybeans and hairy vetch. The yields of cotton, corn and small grains will also be materially increased by the use of lime when these crops are grown in rotations where suitable legumes are included. If part of these legumes are plowed under the use of limestone will be more profitable.

Mr. Williams finds that one to one and one-half tons of ground limestone or its equivalent per acre applied broadcast will usually be sufficient. The use of such small amounts applied more frequently is more desirable than making extremely heavy applications at long intervals, according to field demonstrations reported by county agents of the extension service.

MILLION DIMES CAMPAIGN

Every state in the Union is now giving enthusiastic response to the campaign of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, Washington, D. C., to raise $100,000 in one day by 1,000,000 persons giving Ten Cents each.

The plan is to distribute coin cards, with self-addressed envelopes, in which the dimes will be sent to the Board, the national mailing date being November 30.

Pastors by the hundreds already have asked for the coin cards to distribute in their congregations. These requests range in quantities up to 1,000 coin cards for a single church.

Churches in rural sections and small towns are asking as well as those in large cities. Ministerial Associations are endorsing the campaign. It is designed to be such a small individual gift that no one will be burdened, yet the total of a million or more dimes will finance the fight to safeguard prohibition in Congress and in the 1932 campaign.

Indorsements of the campaign have come from prominent men and women of the denominations and of all political parties.

The coin cards are not sent direct to individuals from the Board. Instead they are sent in lots of from 10 to 1,000, or any larger or intermediate number, to pastors, Sunday school superintendents, Ault Bible classes, Missionary or Young People's Societies, or any other group, for distribution to individuals. Any person who will undertake to distribute 10 or more can get the coin cards by writing to National Prohibition Board of Strategy, 1140 National Press Building, Washington, D. C.

CLERGYMEN PREPARE SERMONS ON WASHINGTON

Sermons totalling nearly 75 have been received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission from eminent ministers, priests, and rabbis from all parts of the nation. It is expected that this number will be swelled to 200 by the time the celebration of George Washington's birth begins next year.

These sermons have all been written at the invitation of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission for national distribution and use during 1932. Many clergymen, especially in rural districts, who wish to deliver sermons on George Washington find themselves handicapped by the lack of library facilities. It is expected that the discourses distributed by the Commission will admirably meet this need. However, the sermons are available to all who wish them, whether laymen or clergymen, and to date the demand for them has not been confined to the latter.

In connection with this feature of the Bicentennial celebration, it is also pointed out that 6,000 churches throughout the United States have appointed George Washington Bicentennial committees. This number is constantly being increased, so that by 1932 it is expected the religious bodies in every community will be solidly behind the Bicentennial observance.—George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

—Fleming H. Reveil, founder and chairman of the board of the publishing house that bears his name, died recently in Yonkers, N. Y., in his 82nd year. ### OLD TIMERS

It is always amusing to look at photographs taken some 40 or 50 years ago, more or less. It is simply human nature for us to think the old styles and the manners thus portrayed funny and much inferior to what we have and the way we do today. But the revival of this little dinky "Empress Eugenie" hat shows that what is quaint or ludicrous today may be the latest wrinkle of fashion tomorrow. Styles and customs move in cycles, and nobody knows this better than women. But there is an innate vanity in unphilosophic man making him prone to consider past ages a period of growth and preparation for the present, and all the race's achievements for the benefit of those who are living today. Yet it is perfectly plain to the most circumscribed intelligence that in the course of a few years—say 100—our period, too, will have become a link in the out-moded and all but forgotten chain of the past, while future generations will think of us as we do now of our "odd and old-fashioned" ancestors. "Old timers" are merely those who arrived first—Pathfinder.

A Backslider

Once he preached the sacred word,
Bringing hope to all who heard;
Flaming eyes and earnest voice
Told to all his sincere choice.

Man of God, he warned of sin,
Sin without and sin within,
Pointing all to Christ the Lord,
Strong to save from Satan's horde.

Now, alas, he's fallen low;
Vice and sin do keep him so:
Willing slave of Evil One,
Going on, he'll be undone.

Now the church he passes by,
Place of prayer he goes not nigh,
Gives to sin the right of way,
Lives in peril every day.

Lost and wand'ring sheep he goes
Downward to life's deepest woes:
Snatch him from the jaws of death
Ere he breathes his latest breath!

High Points in High Point Conference

A number of features and factors of our Annual Conference reached their culmination in the recent session in High Point. The place—First Church—is pre-eminent in its accommodations for a conference session. This is so well recognized that the Annual Conference gladly lent its sanction to the proposal to hold the 1936 session of the General Conference in this church. The accommodations include not only the large church with its numerous rooms all fashioned in architectural beauty, but also the hospitality of the membership and the readiness to provide everything needed for the comfort of guests and members of the conference. An unusually hearty vote of thanks was given by this annual conference for personal kindnesses received.

Then the weather was most propitious. How could it have been better? The sun shone brightly, the winds were tempered.

And the people came perhaps as never before. There was room for them and they had a mind to come. They came not only for the public addresses but also for the business of the conference. The presence of spectators is a great factor in quickening interest in the proceedings of the session.

And the flood of General Conference officials reached high tide this year. All added interest to the program and all were welcomed. President Broomfield spoke several times and others once. They were Straughn, Haddaway, Mrs. Thompson, Johnson, Stephenson, Little, Gibbs, Reiner, Forlines. Price was expected but could not come. One lady declared that Dr. Haddaway's speech was the grandest missionary address she ever heard.

It was surely a high moment when the children of the Children's Home were brought to the platform by Dr. and Mrs. Dixon to sing some songs. A little five-year-old girl sang a solo which captured the heart of Dr. Straughn. He caught her up in his arms, held her affectionately, and said he wanted her picture to adorn the New Century Service.

Friends of High Point College found themselves on higher ground through the response made to President Humphreys' appeal. Bonds to the amount of $10,000 were taken, giving assurance that the aggregate of $75,000 may be realized in the canvass to be made. A notable contribution was that of Rev. A. L. Hunter, $1,500, including $1,000 in memory of his daughter, a graduate of the college who lost her life in an automobile accident. The brightening prospects of the college will cheer its friends everywhere. They have no more thought of abandoning their college than they have of abandoning their church.

It was a time of extraordinary interest when fraternal addresses were heard from messengers from the two Methodist Episcopal churches. These addresses were in fine spirit. President Taylor responded fittingly and then all joined hands and sang heartily "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." It was an exemplification of Christian unity in differing denominations. Whether their differences are ever eliminated or not, they can live and work together in Christian harmony.

It was as always a time of supreme interest when the Stationing Committee appeared to make its report. President Taylor had previously requested the Conference to engage in prayer for divine guidance for the Committee. He reported that after that prayer the work was greatly facilitated as new light came to their minds. No appeal was taken from the report and we trust that it will be found satisfactory everywhere on fair trial. At any rate it is only for one year and is not to be compared with being sent to the penitentiary for life.

An organization of laymen was effected in the hope that thereby the usefulness of laymen in the church may be greatly increased as that of the women has been through their organization in auxiliaries. This is an important move and we hope for it complete success. Officers were elected with a view to

THE 104th SESSION OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

By J. L. TROLLINGER, Conference Reporter

I know no better way to introduce the subject in hand, than to give Dr. Broomfield's words, as he gave them to me, as we sat together in the lobby of the Elwood hotel in High Point, on Sunday night, just after he had preached the evening sermon in the conference, and before he left for his home in Pittsburgh:

"It has been my privilege to visit each session of the North Carolina Conference during the present Quadrennium. In point of seriousness of purpose, dedication to tasks involved in that purpose, in unity of spirit in the diversity of opinion, and high moments of moral and spiritual experiences, this, the 104th session of the conference, has surpassed any I have attended.

"This has been a forward-looking conference, and its influence will be far-reaching.

"I am of the opinion, that if our people in North Carolina will adequately respond to the impulses awakened and emotions released in this conference, a new day is in the dawning."

In the 42 years of membership in the conference Rev. A. L. Hunter said he had never seen a session that was so permeated with the spirit of brotherly love, and sympathetic co-operation. And out of the minds and hearts of many, many others the same idea has been expressed, perhaps in different words, but yet the feeling is the same.

The Conference Sermon and the Communion Service

Dr. Taylor, the much loved president, rapped for order, promptly at 10 o'clock on Wednesday, the opening day. Brother N. G. Bethea was musical director, and Mrs. Fred W. Paschal presided at the piano. The devotional service was as always full of the best inspiration to worship. Following the worship, Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor of the First church, Henderson brought the conference sermon, the subject, "The Compensations of Christian Discipleship," was based on the text in St. Matt. 29:19. Brother Hunter said that in every phase of life the man was thinking in terms of compensation, and the Christian, was likewise thinking of the rewards that will come here, and hereafter. The first compensation is that of Christ-likeness in the life of the individual, which gives place for the satisfaction of effectual Christian service. The preacher would have us know that the shadow of the cross in daily experience is also a compensation to be expected, and welcomed; the presence of Christ's joy in the heart and life of the individual is an outstanding compensation, without which everything good promised will not come, and the ultimate reward of eternal life will not be reached.

Dr. T. M. Johnson, assisted by Dr. R. M. Andrews, Rev. W. F. Ashburn, Rev. G. L. Curry and Rev. T. F. McCulloch conducted one of the most impressive communion services it has been our pleasure to attend during our ten years in the conference.

President's Message

In the face of depression and apparent discouragement, this official message of Dr. Taylor contained the note of happy optimism and new courage for the future. Nearly 1,900 professions were reported to the executive, 1,000 net short, and a small number decreased for the next year. Sixteen charges repaired parsonages at a cost of $1,200, while $5,100 was spent repairing 25 churches. Two new churches were built, two Sunday School buildings erected, rooms added to four others, and two church huts were built with a total building cost for the year of $25,000. Twenty-one new Missionary societies are noted, three Ladies' aid groups, one Boy Scout troop, one Brotherhood, and six new Sunday Schools.

The election resulted in the re-election of Dr. Taylor for the fifth year as president, Rev. C. W. Bates for the 16th term as secretary, Dr. G. R. Brown, fourth time as treasurer, Rev. C. B. Way, as statistical secretary.

Mr. H. A. Garret, former superintendent of the Children's Home, was elected as Lay Member of the Stationing Committee on the first ballot, which is something out of the ordinary in the N. C. Conference.

President Broomfield, in his usual pleasing and inspiring manner, brought an official message of hope and optimism for the future based upon observations made while visiting the churches.

The Conference Morning Worship

An entirely new departure in program building, was the drawing aside for one hour every morning, for an address by one of the local pastors. Each one of these men brought messages that were uplifting, and never failed to carry the conference to a new mountain top experience.

Dr. Chas. H. Nebers, minister of the First Presbyterian church of High Point, gave an exposition of the 22nd, and 23rd chapters of the prophecy of Jeremiah. Few preachers present had ever gone as deeply into this prophecy, perhaps as did this Scotch preacher that day. Only one word explains it—Marvelous. Then on Friday morning, Dr. G. Ray Jordan, minister of the Wesley Memorial M. E. church, South, using Deut. 31:6 as the foundation of his address. The problems of life must be faced by the individual, said Dr. Jordan, and it is up to the individual to decide what attitude will be assumed in the meeting of these several problems. He denounced the man with a "grass-hopper complex," saying that the church was challenging for a far different type. This address is best described as most highly encouraging to discouraged Christians.

Dr. A. B. Conrad of the Baptist church discussed Matthew's story of Christ's call to the fishermen, and being much of an angler himself, the speaker used terms of the group in the story, and drove home the one great challenge of Christ's call, saying, "The preacher is in the biggest business in the world." Rev. Tom Sikes, minister of the leading Friends church in N. C., brought the last of these addresses on Monday morning, using as his theme, a sentence found on a business man's desk, "Cheer up, brother, God never quits." While Brother Sikes approached the question from an entirely different angle his address was one of the best delivered during the conference.

High Point College

Dr. Humphreys presided during the discussion of the College situation, during which time addresses were heard from Dr. Frank Stephenon, and Rev. N. M. Harrison. Following these President Humphreys captured this conference as only he can capture it, and more completely than it has ever been captured before, and when he had finished his appeal, and almost completely exhausted, himself, the response was such as is seldom seen. The Bond Issue was explained, and support asked for, and before the conference adjourned for lunch, $10,000 worth of Bonds were sold on the conference floor. One of the oldest ministers, Rev. A. L. Hunter, bought $1,500 worth of these bonds in memory of a daughter who died suddenly in an auto accident, and who was one of the first graduates of the college. If the spirit of that meeting means anything, it simply says to North Carolina, and the world at large, HIGH POINT COLLEGE IS ALIVE, AND WILL STAY ALIVE.

Children's Home

No person got a greater "kick" out of the Children's Home hour on Saturday than did Dr. Jas. H. Straughn, we thought for a time, that he would kidnap little Barbara Ann. She stood with 104 other members of the Home family, and sang a solo, and as this five-year-old bit of humanity, with the perfect sweetness of innocent childhood, shining out from her clear eyes, with the soft glow of the morning's sun making her beautiful golden hair more beautiful, the words, of "Break Thou, the Bread of Life," never sounded sweeter, nor appealed to one's heart more. It was "Jimmy" Straughn that seemed to catch it first, and then to drive it, as only he can, into every heart in that auditorium. The home reports a great year, but like other homes, they are hard hit, and the church, if moving together, can make it enjoy a more pleasant day. We are looking for that picture of "Barbara Ann" being held close in the arms of Brother Straughn, representing the latest picture of our "New Century Service."

The Night Services

Bishop Pfohl, of the Southern Moravian church, delivered the first evening sermon, using the text in I. Peter 5:10. He seemed to have sensed the feeling of many people. It was his aim to turn the eye of the conference to One who could take up the broken threads of life, mending them so as to establish, strengthen and settle life for us so that we could be better prepared to meet the challenge of the world.

Dr. Haddaway brought the message on Thursday night, in which he sounded not only a note of confidence, but a blast of challenge to the church in the work of missions. The whole day Thursday was given over to Missions. Mrs. Marie Thompson having addressed the women of the conference, and conducted a round table on Missions. On account of committee work this writer was unable to hear Mrs. Thompson.

Lawrence Little to North Carolinians,—but Dr. Little to the General Church, lived up to his reputation on Friday night, in delivering another address before the conference that will not soon be forgotten. Lawrence is loved by North Carolina young people. He came to us while yet a young college lad. He brought his bride on what might be called a honeymoon, when he came, and through these years, we have watched as he has won his way to one of the highest offices in our church. Lawrence Little never disappoints a congregation.

The Sunday night sermon was preached by President Broomfield. That is sufficient within itself to prove the nature of a sermon sound in theology, and as full of hope and love, and as broad in usefulness as Jesus Christ himself. He seemed to be at his best in this Sunday night sermon, preached to one of the largest congregations.

I would be untrue to my position if I failed to mention the address of Judge Johnson J. Hayes, of the United States Federal Court of the Middle N. C. District. The conference was pleased with his appearance, and believes in him and his purpose of law enforcement. His plan for an adequate law enforcement is expressed, as being founded in the home, where the proper training is given the child; there must also be a sufficient number of enforcement officers, with a courage and loyalty to enforce law without fear or favor to class or condition; the people must be educated to a deeper respect for the law itself, and believe in the Constitution, thereby providing a knowledge and love for enforcement; and cultivation of a favorable public opinion as relates itself to law enforcement. The Judge thinks that these are absolutely necessary to a proper enforcement, and the best place to start these is within the church.

The Laymen's Meeting

Jasper Hicks, young rising lawyer of Henderson, and nephew of the late lamented and loved T. T. Hicks, presided at the Laymen's meeting on Sunday. Judge Lewis E. Teague, High Point city jurist, delivered the address, challenging the laymen to a more pronounced interest in, and loyalty to the church. Following Judge Teague's address Brother Hicks was elected Conference lay-leader, V. W. Idol, and E. L. Douglass both of High Point, were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The Ordination Sermon

The venerable voice of long and useful experience, spoke words of wisdom, faith and hope into the ears of youthful expectancy and enthusiasm, when Rev. Geo. F. Millaway, for more than 40 years a member of the conference, preached the ordination sermon Sunday morning. The great church auditorium and galleries were filled to overflow, and the rear isles of the church were crowded; preached from the words of Jesus, "Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men." He said this meant immediate detachment from the old way of living and an attachment to a new and better way, which necessitated complete surrender to the will and purposes of Jesus Christ. He told the congregation, and especially the young preachers, "Every achievement of victory is sealed in blood, and no walls of righteousness are built without a war-fare."

The Music

The conference would not forgive me, if I failed to say that the music at this conference was second to none. Professor Stimson, of the College faculty, provided music by the Girls' Glee club, the orchestra, the Boys' Glee club, solos by different persons, the College choir, and he himself sang a solo at the memorial service on Sunday afternoon. The conference will not soon forget Professor Stimson's contribution to our recent session.

Reports of Committees

It is impossible to give these reports, but some of these will be printed in the church paper at a later date. The one report that will meet with more opposition from some quarters is the report of the Committee on Social Reform. This committee declared that we are unalterably opposed to the repeal of the 18th Amendment, or to any weakening of the amendment or the Volstead Act. Cigarette smoking women and children came in for their share of rebuke and exhortation. The N. C. Conference wants the world to know that we are opposed to any modification, or repeal measure, and we are also opposed to any candidate for any office, whether local, county, state, or national, who is wet.

The conference adjourned at 4:05 p. m. Monday afternoon after having spent an enjoyable visit with the First church, High Point. The church is a great host for conference, Brother Farmer handled the situation wonderfully, showing that even in this short time in N. C. he has enough Tar on his heel, to make him love the brethren of this conference, and it is no secret, they appreciate him and his efforts to make things as comfortable and happy for us as he did. "Thank you, Roy!"

REPORT OF HIGH POINT COLLEGE COMMITTEE

TO THE NORTH CAROLINA ANNUAL CONFERENCE:

Your committee appointed to consider the recommendations of President G. I. Humphreys met and carefully considered each item of the recommendations and feel that each is timely and that they should be adopted by this conference and that the conference should pledge its loyal support to the execution of the recommendations: That the conference may be familiar with the recommendations we wish to read them again at this time:

1. The conference is requested to appoint P. E. Lindley, P. S. Kennett and N. M. Harrison for work at the college.

2. The conference is earnestly implored to appeal through its ministers and laymen for the raising of the college quotas in all the churches. Not all of the churches may be able to do this, but it maybe that all the churches can do better than the past year. The churches gave an average on the college quota of 6c per member.

3. The conference is requested to approve the organization of the High Point College 300 club. (In brief, the purpose of the plan is to secure a voluntary membership of 300 persons in the conference district, who will contribute, monthly, an amount ranging from $5 to $50 per year; purely as an expression of personal interest, aside from their interest through the local church: this money to be put aside and used directly for such purposes as an endowment income would be used.) The president of the conference is asked, if the conference endorses the plan, to name a special committee to co-operate with the president of the college in perfecting such organization throughout the district.

4. The conference is asked to give most hearty and full endorsement of the following plans to complete the Bond Campaign for the college:

5. a That all our ministers be requested to preach on the subject of Christian Education on Sunday, November 15th; stressing the place of the denominational school, and laying particular emphasis on High Point College in relation to the church in the work of the Kingdom program. That this occasion be the opportunity for the ministers to appeal for the support of the college in particular reference to the Bond Campaign.

6. That the conference endorse and promote a two weeks' intensive Bond Sale Campaign throughout the entire district, from November 16th to 30th. That a special committee be raised by the president to direct such campaign. That the president of the conference be asked to head the campaign and be relieved of all other duties during the time. That all churches be asked to co-operate with the plan; and that pastors and officials of all the churches be appealed to give their fullest support to the committee.

c. That this conference take action declaring itself as being of the mind and purpose whereby it says to the City of High Point and the General Church that we will give ourselves to a two weeks' intensive effort to absorb our part of the $150,000 worth of High Point College bonds; that we will not cease in our efforts to do this until the sale is completed.

d. That the Conference express its appreciation of the interest and co-operation manifested by the General Church in High Point College; of the great spirit of sympathy and interest shown by the president of the General Conference, and for his great appeals to the various annual conferences for their support; for the interest already shown by members of the general church who have purchased bonds.

e. That, once again, this conference go on record in declaring itself as deeply gratified by the interest in the College on the part of the citizens of High Point as evidenced by the formation in recent days, of the High Point College Citizens' Committee raised for the specific purpose of placing $75,000 of the College bonds. And that the conference pledge to this committee and to Mr. M. J. Wrenn, its chairman, our sacred purpose to carry out in the church our part of the work planned; and to assure this committee that we are confident our goal can and will be reached.

f. That we request all our members in the bounds of the North Carolina conference to tune in their radios on the evening of Saturday, November 14th at 9 p. m. which is the National Broadcast hour for the Liberal Arts Colleges Movement of America. President Hoover, Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, Dr. Robt. L. Kelly, educational secretary of the Association of American colleges, Mrs. Thos. J. Preston, Jr., and Dr. A. Norman Ward, chairman of the great movement, are to speak. Tell your friends about the hour.

Respectfully submitted,

R. M. ANDREWS, Chairman,

T. M. JOHNSON,

J. B. HICKS.

THE SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS

By LEE ANNA STAR

October 22d, 1917, Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, addressed the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America, in Chicago. He estimated the number of blind persons in the United States to be 60,000. He attributed over 60 per cent of the blindness to the immorality of the fathers in their youth. We quote his words verbatim: "We need to impress young men with the fact that sowing wild oats means reaping blind babies . . . I never knew of a more terrible fulfillment of the law that the sins of the father are visited upon the children. The tragedy of it! . . . We wonder how any community could ever have tolerated a system which took such a terrible toll of health, happiness and life itself, that filled our insane asylums, jails and hospitals, and left behind it a train of social devastation horrible to contemplate." He cited an authoritative statement by a Canadian during the World War: "While nine Canadian soldiers abroad died every hour to save their country, twelve babies died at home in the same time to the scandal of their country."

In the Bible we find these words: "None of us liveth to himself." This is emphatically true of parents. Whether they approve or disapprove, their lives react on others. "The iniquities of the fathers are visited upon the children to the third and fourth generation." This is just as true of the mother. The term "father" here is generic. We are told that the consequences of inebriety extend to seven generations.

Parents may be unable to bequeath to their offspring monetary wealth and real estate, but it is their bounden duty to endow them with health. It is the birthright of every child. The Conference on Child Health and Protection, held at Washington, D. C., at the summon of President Hoover, reported as follows:

"There are more than ten million handicapped children in the United States, of whom two and a half million have well-marked behavior disorders, including serious nervous and mentally deficient; 850,000 are feeble-minded, and 5,500,000 intellectually subnormal."

For every effect there is a cause. The conference pointed out the results; it is incumbent on this nation to discover the cause.

Recently an oculist of note announced that over 90 per cent of American citizens have impaired vision. The American Medical Association's committee on conservation of vision made this report:

"One of the most striking and characteristic forms of blindness caused by poisoning, is that due to the use of tobacco . . . Among the people of North America it is not rare to meet with people of great impairment of sight, unquestionably due to tobacco."

The undersigned crossed the Atlantic and occupied a steamer-chair next to an oculist from Boston. On one occasion he said: "I am treating a young man who has tobacco eyes." When asked if he could discover when a person used tobacco by examining the eyes, he answered: "Yes indeed! but the young man does not use tobacco." He inherited "tobacco eyes" from his father.

The undersigned heard a conversation between a tobacco addict and a physician. The addict said: "I have used tobacco since I was twelve years old and it never harmed me." The physician made no reply. Later the tobacco addict remarked: "I do not know what is the matter with my daughter. Her eyes are in such a condition I will have to take her from school. She cannot continue her studies." Then the physician spoke. He said: "I will tell you what ails your daughter. You have used tobacco since you were twelve years of age, now your daughter is paying the penalty."

All over these United States, in the schools and on the streets, we see children—some of them little more than babies—wearing eyeglasses. They go through life handicapped by impaired vision. We turn the pages of medical books and journals and encounter such terms as "Tobacco Asthma"; "Tobacco Heart"; "Tobacco Eyes"; "Tobacco Cancer," etc. James B. Duke, a tobacco magnate, enriched himself to the extent of $89,704,000 by his trade, but in Chicago court testified that he never smoked a cigarette. Colonel Ginter discovered that glycerine diluted with rum, sprayed on tobacco, worked perfectly in holding moisture and gave cohesiveness to tobacco. His brand acquired great popularity and he piled up wealth, but on his deathbed he expressed regret that he invented the American cigarette. Dr. J. H. Kellogg, superintendent of Battle Creek Sanitarium, makes this statement: "There is no doubt that every man who smokes, whether he be a heavy smoker or a light smoker, is certainly shortening his life." He named the cigarette "The diminutive demon." Dr. Pidduct says that leaches made to suck the blood of smokers, die instantly. There are eighteen poisons in the cigarette—Nicotine, Prussic Acid, Carbon Monoxide, Formic Aldehyde, Marsh Gas, Furfural, Tarry Products, Picolin, Lutidin, Coridin, Rubidin, Hydrogen Sulphate, Carbolie Acid, Methylamine, Ammonia, Acrolein, Collidin, Viridin.

It is a saying that a mother's love is next to Divine Love. Alas! Alas! In these latter days there are thousands of mothers who slay their Innocents with the "Coffin Nail."

Dr. C. L. Barber says that sixty per cent of all babies born of cigarette smoking mothers die before they reach the age of two years. Physicians agree that the use of tobacco in any form is more injurious to women than to men, and more disastrous to their offspring. Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, United States Surgeon General, makes this statement:

"If American women generally contract the habit, the entire American nation will suffer. The physical tone of the whole nation will be lowered. This is one of the most evil influences in American life today. The habit harms a woman more than it does a man. The woman's nervous system is more highly organized than the man's, the reaction therefore, is more intense, ruining her complexion, causing it to become gradually yellow and ashen."

Dr. Samuel Brown, Dean of Bellevue Hospital, New York City, says: "Among growing girls, particularly those developing mentally and physically, the habit is extremely dangerous."

The appalling sequence of the cigarette habit manifests itself in motherhood. During gestation the fetus draws its sustenance from the mother's body. The same is true during lactation. The fetus becomes saturated with poison. An Austrian physician made a careful analysis of the fluid that envelops the fetus during gestation and found it poisoned. The same was true of the mother's milk.

An Arizona Periodical reported the death of an infant eight days old. The attending physician was perplexed and performed a post mortem operation. He reported to the young mother: "Your baby died with a well defined 'Tobacco heart'." It was published in the Evangel that in one maternity hospital in New York City there were forty infants suffering with "tobacco hearts."

Charles B. Towns, the great drug specialist of New York, gives his opinion as follows: "I consider cigarette smoking the greatest menace devastating humanity today because it is doing more than any other vice to deteriorate the race."

Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, President of Armour Institute, added his testimony in these words: "I do not believe there is an agency more destructive of soul, mind, and body, or more subversive of good morals than the cigarette. The fight against the cigarette is a fight for civilization."

It is gratifying to know that the National Education Association has declared itself with no uncertain sound. In Convention assembled July 1920 it unanimously adopted the following Preamble and Resolution:

"Whereas, the alarming increase in cigarette smoking among people of all ages and both sexes, but especially growing boys, is not only cause for alarm but a call to arms; therefore be it

"RESOLVED, That the National Education Association, in Convention assembled, pledges its membership to co-operate in effort made in city, state, and nation to safeguard the health and morals of youth from cigarette smoking and kindred evils, to the end that high ideals for American manhood and womanhood may be preserved for coming generations."

At Columbus, Ohio, July, 1930, it adopted a Resolution urging all teachers to emphasize the evil effects of alcoholic drinks, tobacco, and other narcotics upon the human organism.

—On November 2nd, Dr. Robert E. Speer celebrated his 40th year as secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. A group of friends gathered in the assembly room of the Board in Philadelphia, to celebrate the occasion.

THE HERALD SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN BEGINS NOW

*The Methodist Protestant Herald
In Every M. P. Home*

To Herald Chairmen:

Reports of the old year will close with this issue. The table of quotas will be corrected and the "received column" will be erased and a new one started with the next issue. The campaign for new subscribers is on. A HERALD Subscription Chairman has been appointed in more than 200 churches in the N. C. Conference and these appointments were mailed out this week. A few more will be mailed later. Please be sure to read and preserve the letter of suggestions sent you. I am writing you this just to say that in order to show our appreciation to Brother McCulloch for his untiring efforts, I am asking every HERALD Subscription Chairman to send in ONE OR MORE NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS AT ONCE, mailing it in not later than Monday, November 16th. Let every church be represented in this and we will give Brother McCulloch the encouragement that he needs very much just at this time. A NEW subscriber from every church would bring in over $400.00; let's start the campaign by all doing the same thing at the same time, that is why I have named the day above on which to mail in the subscription. We want every church to have its part in starting this campaign.

Our goal of course is 3,000 or more subscribers, but this first week we want to send in such a nice bunch of subscriptions that it will be like saying, "Good morning, Brother McCulloch; we are on the job."

To Pastors:

Some of those appointed a Subscription Chairmen are not now subscribers, for this reason please ask the question at each church as to who has received the appointment and when ascertained please loan them your paper that they may be assured of reading the above and getting their NEW subscription mailed in on time.

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman,

Annual Conference.

The Annual Conference

Many have expressed the opinion that no session of the conference within their memory has excelled this one in excellence. The routine work was, of course, much like we have each year. But other things seemed different, and lifted the conference to a new level for our annual sessions. The number of platform addresses was more than usual, and more of the speakers were new to the conference than has been the case heretofore. The subject matter of all addresses was timely, and each speaker was at his best. Over and over again we were lifted to mountain top experiences by the magnetism of the speaker and the power of the message. Those outside our own denominational family, who addressed the conference, are Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl, of Winston-Salem, Judge John-son J. Hayes, of Greensboro, Rev. G. Ray Jordan, D.D., Rev. Tom A. Sykes, the four last being High Point pastors. Speakers from our own church were Rev. J. C. Broomfield, D.D., President of the General Conference; Rev. J. H. Straughn, D.D., Promotional Secretary and Treasurer of the General Church; Rev. F. W. Stephenson, D.D., Executive Secretary of the Board of Christian Education; Rev. Lawrence Little, D.D., Executive Secretary of the Department of Young People's Work of the Board of Christian Education; and Rev. F. L. Gibbs, Associate Executive Secretary of this Board; Rev. G. W. Haddaway, D.D., Executive Secretary of the Board of Missions; Mrs. Marie Thompson, Associate Secretary of this Board; Prof. C. E. Forlines, D.D., of the faculty of Westminster Theological Seminary; Rev. Crates S. Johnson, D.D., editor of the Sunday School publications. It was a pleasure to us to have these representatives of the General Church with us, and all made splendid contributions to the conference program.

Fraternal messengers were present from the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Episcopal church. President Few, of Duke university, and Rev. W. H. Newell, and Rev. M. T. Plyler, D.D., spoke on behalf of the former church, and Rev. W. A. Parsons, D.D., for the latter. An old time Methodist hand-shake followed these addresses.

Another interesting feature of this conference, and one that made it different, was Women's Day. This was Thursday. The conference had no session in the afternoon on this day in order that committees might work. But the women of the conference held a great inspirational meeting in the auditorium of the conference church, with Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the North Carolina Branch presiding. Mrs. Marie Thompson addressed the meeting. Dr. Haddaway said that it was the largest group of women that he had ever seen assembled anywhere in the church in a missionary gathering.

Our own conference men who appeared as platform speakers—Brother R. A. Hunter, for the conference sermon, and Brother G. F. Millaway for the ordination sermon, pleased and edified the large congregations that heard them. Brother Millaway has rounded out 41 years in the ministry of the conference. It was a most fitting thing that his ministry should close with this ordination sermon.

Another thing that made this session different was the Laymen's meeting that followed the memorial service Sunday afternoon, with Attorney J. B. Hicks of Henderson presiding. Addresses were made by Judge Lewis Teague of the municipal court of High Point, and by Dr. J.H. Straughn. A conference-wide laymen's organization was effected, with Brother J. B. Hicks as chairman, Brother Vernon Idol, secretary, and Brother E. L. Douglas, treasurer. This organization is in keeping with the denominational program, and is a distinct forward step for the conference.

Large congregations were present at all meetings, and the spirit that prevailed throughout the conference was most cheering. Differences of opinion were tempered by a common desire to promote the spirit and the purposes of the Kingdom. The attitude of the conference was also heartening. Despite the economic depression there was no disposition to hang any harps on willows. Every thing about the conference gave testimony to this. But it came to the front in a marked measure in the response that was made to the appeal of President Humphreys on behalf of High Point College. In a few minutes college bonds in the amount of $5,000 were sold, and a conference-wide campaign endorsed for the purpose of selling our part of $150,000 of these bonds, this total to be absorbed by the conference, the General Church, and the City of High Point. No one present could have doubted the purpose of the conference to see that the college goes forward in the great work of Christian Education to which it is dedicated.

Another impressive and pleasing feature was the appearance on the large church platform of all the children from the Children's Home—55 of them, and the program of song that they rendered. The reports of Dr. Dixon, superintendent, and Capt. Rankin, treasurer, were gratifying. This institution has always had a large place in our affections, and will continue to receive the generous support of the entire church.

But I can not go into further detail here. It was surely a great conference; the Lord was unmistakably with us, and made this gathering a great benediction to our souls. We are set forward in our programs, and strengthened in our purposes for the great God-given tasks that lie ahead. Each one of us has received new courage in this conference to stand in his place and play the part of a "good soldier of Christ Jesus."

Beginning the Work

It's on now, and accelerated by the great conference through which we have just passed. But with individual pastors and churches, it will have a new beginning next Sunday, the First Sunday in the New Conference year. Some pastors will be new to the churches in which they preach next Sunday; others will be old in the sense that they go back to their same fields of labor. But in both cases there should be, and will be, new pastors in each pulpit. Those who are not changing will go back to their former pulpits with new spirits and new programs and new purposes; those who go for the first time to their assignments will be new in person and in voice, and likewise, new in spirit and in purpose. In either case, whether it is the old pastor or a new pastor, let there be a new reception on the part of the church, and a new attitude of love and devotion on the part of the pastor. Let us see to it that next Sunday is a new day for every charge and every pastor in the conference; and not only a new day, but a High Day because of the spirit of hope, love, purpose, and co-operation that maintains everywhere. The Lord abundantly bless our pastors next Sunday, and the Lord abundantly bless every church in which they preach!

Consecrated Trucks

Many pastors will be moving, and many charges have trucks at their command. Let us urge that these trucks be used in moving pastors. This will not mean a great deal to the charge, but it will mean much to the pastor. Please, laymen of the church, take this matter on your hearts, and give to your pastor this needed help. He will be cheered by it, and you will be blessed.

Conference Program

These will be gotten before our people promptly, and kept there throughout the entire year. The first thing, however, is the sale of High Point College bonds, as ordered by the conference, and the allotment for HERALD deficit. Plans for carrying out the order of the conference in these matters will be made at once, and the work started without delay. We bespeak the full co-operation of every one in these two all-important matters, and having this, success is assured. The purpose of the Conference in regard to the HERALD is unmis-takeable. The conference wants this paper continued. It has been a tower of strength for us for 35 years, and the need for it now is greater than ever. We bespeak, therefore, a ready response on the part of our people to the conference plan for raising the deficit in publishing expense of last year, and also for increasing the subscriptions to 3,000. And we fully expect a likewise response in the purchase of college bonds. These bonds are just as safe, as investments, as the denomination is secure.

Tune In! Tune In!

On November 14, 9:00 to 9:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) and get the national broadcast in the interest of the Liberal Arts Colleges of America. The President of the United States is one of the speakers; Dr. A. N. Ward, President of Western Maryland college, founder of the movement, is to speak; other noted speakers are on the program. High Point College choir is on, also Adrian College choir.

"The broadcast will be a national affair, and is the largest hook-up ever arranged for any national interest. It will be given over the Red Network of the National Broadcasting company, originating at Station WEA, New York. Consult your local papers for the station carrying this program in your vicinity."

High Point College choir will sing at Greensboro on Sunday the 15th, at 5:30 p. m., and in Charlotte, Sunday the 22nd from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

We urge our ministers to give emphasis to this movement in their Sunday services, either by preaching a sermon on Christian Education, or in some other way bring before our people the meaning and the importance of the Christian College and the significance of this movement. If the purpose of this movement can be realized, the small colleges of this nation will be made secure, so far as finances are concerned. It is doubtful if any more important movement in American education has ever been started than this one.

Appointments

November 15, Sunday—English Street, 11 A. M.

November—First Quarterly Conference, Mt. Pleasant charge. (Date to be determined by pastor.)

"Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

Fraternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN CHURCH FINANCES

RESOLVED, That we, the North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant church, assembled in annual session, High Point, North Carolina, November 4-9, 1931, do hereby petition the approaching session of our General Conference, to-wit:

1. That it make such changes, or make possible such changes, in the law and practice of our denomination as will give to, or confer upon each individual, church or charge, the right to and final responsibility for determining the amount of any and all assessments laid upon or assumed by the local church or charge.

2. That the church or charge shall arrive at or designate its assessments in the same way and manner in which it designates, or would designate, its pastor's salary, and when possible at the same time provided that this information shall be in the hands of the Conference President, or some designated Conference Official at least three days before the sitting of each annual conference.

3. That the amounts as thus set or designated by the various churches and charges shall constitute the respective budgets for the ensuing conference year, and shall be so dealt with in all the records of the church and denomination, provided that each Annual Conference shall have the privilege of addressing a special appeal to each of its churches and charges any time during its annual session, or any call session thereafter. However, no such appeal shall be considered valid until approved by the duly constituted authority of the local church or charge.

4. That some medium or mediums be set up or designated through which and by which the full program of the church and the Kingdom may be kept before each church and charge, finally submitting thirty days before the sitting of each Annual Conference to each church or charge a suggested schedule of assessments covering all the activities of the church for the approaching conference year, which schedule shall be respected and complied with by all churches and charges, at least to that degree that it shall become the starting point in all deliberations leading to or resulting in the designation of any and all assessments, provided that every item on the schedule shall receive some recognition, and wherever and whenever possible, accepted in toto.

5. That all denominational machinery be so reorganized and administered as to reduce all expenses to the lowest possible minimum and keep all expenditures and commitments within the limits as prescribed by the respective budgets, any deviation from this to be considered and made an offence against the church.

6. Finally, that we instruct the North Carolina delegation to approve, sponsor and vote for the above named changes in the law and practice of our denomination, and any other changes involved in their execution.

H. F. FOGLEMAN,

J. A. BURGESS.

(Referred to our representatives in General Conference.)

High Points In High Point Conference

enlisting laymen in all our churches. Brother J. B. Hicks of Henderson is the president of the conference organization.

We like to believe that in this conference our people reached a higher point of interest in our work as a denomination. We are given a major part, but all of us do not realize it and of course do not measure up to the requirements of our task. All Methodists inherited from Wesley the conception that the purpose in church work is to spread scriptural holiness. But scriptural helpfulness is also to be spread, and it is incumbent on the Methodist Protestant Church to manifest to the world a Christ-like spirit of brotherliness. We are a small church, but not too small to do what God expects of us and will empower us to do. May we see our high mission and go forward together in its fulfillment.

We refer our readers to the article of Brother Trollinger for a report more in detail; also to the Journal of the Conference to be published by the Secretary, Rev. C. W. Bates.

THE MISSIONARY'S STORY

A missionary who had labored for many years among the Mexican Indians was one day at the dwelling of one of them when an old Indian chief of another tribe came there. Said the native Indian to the missionary, "This man has lost his daughter."

In conversation with the old chief the missionary asked, "Do you expect to see your daughter again?"

"No," the old man replied, "we don't think as you people—we believe the spirit goes into the air."

"And does that make you feel good?" asked the missionary.

"No," again replied the old chief.

"Well," said the missionary, "I had two beautiful daughters who came to stay a while with me, and then they, too, went to a far country, but some time I expect to see them again."

With a questioning look on his face the old chief asked, "Did any one ever come from that far country?"

Like a flash came the thought to the missionary. "I can tell him the story."

"Yes," said he, "the Chief of that country sent his only Son to us."

And he told him about the birth and childhood of Jesus, about the manhood and ministry on earth, about His temptations and miracles, about His resurrection—and concluded by saying:

"And some day He will come again and receive the righteous unto Himself, but the wicked He will cast into outer darkness."

"Oh, that was a good story," exclaimed the old chief. "Nobody ever told me that story before." Then, after a moment's hesitation, "I wish I might believe that story."

Time passed on and the missionary was transferred to another place. After several years he went back to his former people. Inquiring for this and that one, he at last exclaimed, "And the old chief, what has become of the old chief?"

"The old chief? Oh, he is dead; he died a glorious death, with a full and firm belief in a loving Saviour."

Said the missionary, "How glad I was I had told him the story."—Publisher Unknown.

SUMMER CONFERENCE LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL RESULTS

Almost 2,000 young people and church workers answered the challenge to train for leadership in twenty Leadership Schools during the past summer. Regardless of the economic conditions throughout the country the series far surpassed our expectations. A majority of the schools show a decided increase and only a few show a dropping off in attendance as compared with those of previous year. It is difficult to set forth the results in such a series by giving statistics. There are many other by-products of the schools which are worthy of note. Lives are enriched by social contact, visions are broadened and definite commitment to Christian Service is made. Opportunities are given for wholesome recreation to which contributions are made to the health and enjoyment of those who attend. The outstanding contributing factor for those who attend is the Christian spirit which permeates the entire program. We can still hear the young people singing with all earnestness and beauty the little song that was taught us at the Methodist Protestant Convention: "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in me, All His wonderful passion and purity, O Thou Spirit Divine, All my nature refine, Till the beauty of Jesus be seen in me."

For your information we are listing below the following: The conference and place in which schools were held; the local leader, known as Dean or Director; total enrollment; number of instructors; number of visitors, including all that came in contact with the various schools; and number of graduates.

Alabama—Place, Troy; Leader, Rev. W. O. Lynch; Enrollment, 51; Instructors, 8; Visitors, 250; Graduates, 3.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Charge.—On Sunday night, November 1, 1931, a union service for the four churches on Mt. Hermon charge was held at Mt. Hermon church. All the churches were well represented, the result being an overflowing house.

The Friendship choir, assisted by members from the Belmont and Mt. Hermon churches, led in the beautiful and impressive song service with Mrs. Paul Lowder at the piano.

A special feature of the program was a duet, "Under His Wings," rendered by Misses Margaret and Louise Moore of Graham.

Mr. H. A. Garrett led the prayer after which the pastor, Rev. J. E. Carroll, preached a very impressive and inspirational sermon as his farewell message to the church. He took his text from Phillipians 3:14: "I press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." The theme of his message was the unfinished task. Before going into the discussion of his theme, he briefly reviewed the progress the four churches have made, commending them for their co-operation and achievement and challenging them to press ever forward to even greater achievements.

The message and challenge to the youth of the church was that they dare live the Christian life in whatever vocation, avocation, or station in life to which they were called. To the church he emphasized the unfinished task and stressed the need of pressing forward, toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, under the leadership of the new pastor.

Our C. E. society has just finished raising the sum of $100 to be used in starting a church library and we want to express our thanks to the members of the Woman's Auxiliary who helped out by giving $30 of this amount.

Our Woman's Auxiliary gave a thank offering program the fourth Sunday night in September. The main feature of the program was the presentation of a very beautiful pageant, entitled "The Rainbow Pageant," and an address on missions by Rev. J. C. Whitehead. At the close of the program a very liberal offering was gratefully received.

On Friday night of last week the Woman's Auxiliary sponsored a Halloween party at the Eureka school. The people of the community as well as many visitors enjoyed the program which consisted of music and stunts. The proceeds derived from the sale of "eats" was turned in to the treasury of the auxiliary to count on the annual budget.

On the third Sunday morning in September Rev. O. C. Loy, a former student of Westminster Seminary had charge of our preaching service in the absence of our pastor, Rev. Carroll. Rev. Loy preached a very helpful and interesting sermon. Our congregation always enjoys Rev. Loy's messages.

Rev. J. E. Carroll, who is now a student at Yale university, came to our church in 1926. Under his leadership and guidance we feel that our church has made some real progress in the last five years, though there is much to accomplish yet. Since 1926 Mt. Hermon, through the church and church organizations, has erected and equipped six Sunday school rooms, painted the church, erected a wood house, purchased a piano, and raised $100.00 to be used in starting a church library. In the past two years our pastor has been responsible for our Daily Vacation Church schools which we feel have meant so much to the young people of our church. Each year new members have been added to the church and a greater interest in church work has been developed. It is with regret that we lose our pastor who has served us so faithfully. And yet we are glad on his account and congratulate him on pursuing his studies and preparing himself for greater kingdom service.

Bethany Church.—The following officers were installed Sunday, November 1 at Bethany church: Trustees, I. T. Brown, C. T. Redding, W. M. Julian, J. P. Routh, and John Julian; Stewards: John Julian, James Pugh, J. G. Julian, Superintendent of Sunday school, G. T. Gaster; Assistant Superintendent, W. H. Kinley; Class Leader, D. T. Gaster. General interest stewards: Mary Brown, Allene Julian; Reporter, Ola Belle Kinley; Ushers: W. R. Hinshaw, and Wade Routh; Secretary: W. P. Julian.

First Church, Thomasville.—During the past conference year we have united 36 new members to our church. Last Sunday morning we had a special service for these members and tried to get them all present. Twenty-five of these came and took part in the service. It was a free-for-all service, and many of the old and new members gave short talks. We also finished raising the small amount on the pastor's salary and now we will enter upon the honor roll. Much time was taken up during this service, so the communion was left until the evening service.

Our pastor preached his last sermon of the year to us last Sunday evening. We are hoping to have him back again next year, for he has made a great progress in the work of the church. We wish to beg the pardon of Mrs. Madison for not reporting the birth of her daughter, Miss Ruth Carolyn Madison. She was only six weeks old November 4th.

The C. E. society had its monthly social last Monday night. Many were present and everyone enjoyed the program. Again we extend an invitation to all those who wish to attend.

Bethel, Randolph Charge.—Another Conference year has closed. We are thankful for what our church has done. It has built three Sunday school rooms, painted the church both inside and out, and remodeled the pulpit. We feel the Sunday school rooms are a great help to our Sunday school, which is doing very well at present.

Bro. Suits filled his last appointment on the first Sunday of November. The ones that missed that sermon missed a good one. I trust it will help all who heard it to live a better life. Our pastor and family have won the love of our church and we are expecting them back.

We are thankful to say at the close of the Conference year Bethel church has paid everything in full, so we can start the new year with a clean sheet.

First Church, High Point.—The 104th annual session of the N. C. Conference was brought to a close shortly after 4 o'clock Monday afternoon after being in session six days. Taken all in all, it was a most harmonious and inspiring convention, and throughout all its deliberations and addresses, a spirit of optimism was prevalent. As Dr. Broomfield said before leaving the city Sunday evening for his home in Pittsburgh, "This has been a forward-looking Conference, serious in purpose, dedicated to tasks involved in that purpose, unified in spirit in the midst of diversity of opinion, and its influence will be far-reaching. A new day is dawning in North Carolina if our people will only respond to the impulses and emotions awakened in this Conference." Optimism and progress was the keynote of Dr. S. W. Taylor's cheerful and impressive annual address on the very first day, when he recounted the steps of growth and expansion made by the church in North Carolina during the past year, which was surprising and gratifying to many of us. Five new churches have been built with Sunday school rooms added at two points and church huts at two others, totaling a cost of $25,000; approximately 1,000 new members have been added to the rolls, pastors' salaries have been increased in some instances, and five new ministers were ordained on Sunday. A unique and pleasing feature of this Conference was the devotional exercises each morning led by different ministers of the city, which showed a beautiful spirit of fraternal fellowship and esteem; Rev. G. Ray Jordan, of Wesley Memorial M. E. church, Dr. Chas. H. Nabers, of the Presbyterian church, Dr. A. B. Conrad, of the Baptist church, and Rev. Tom Alderman Sykes, of the Friends' church. Among the high lights of the Conference were the inspiring sermon on Wednesday afternoon by President J. C. Froomfield, who declared that in spite of depression in business, the crime wave sweeping over the land, a lax moral code in the home, disregard of law and order, especially the 18th amendment God still loves His people, and "all's right with the world." Following up this line of thought came another splendid sermon by Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl of the Moravian church of Winston-Salem on Wednesday evening from the text in I Peter 5:10, "The God of all grace, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, and settle you."

Thursday was an unusually interesting day, known as Woman's Day, when the Executive Board meeting was held in the morning. Mrs. Marie Thompson, of Baltimore, gave an enthusiastic and inspiring message in the afternoon, and Dr. G. W. Haddaway, of Baltimore, delivered one of his characteristic sermons in the evening. Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Ashboro, president of N. C. Branch, presided with her usual grace and charm. Another high light of the week's admirable program was the address of Judge Johnson J. Hayes, of Greensboro on "Law Enforcement," who declared that there is not more drinking today than formerly despite the lamentations of the pessimists. He said that he holds dear two sacred treasures of the heart, the Holy Bible and the Constitution of the U. S. Judge Hayes' career has been phenomenal; born a poor boy in Wilkes county in an exceedingly "wet" community, at the age of 16 he decided that he was not going to be a drunkard, that he was going to get an education, and entered Whitsett Institute as a student, applied himself diligently, studied law at Wake Forest College, became Solicitor of his District, and now at the age of 47 years sits on the bench of the Federal District Court of Greensboro.

On Thursday at 11 a. m. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, delivered his annual report to the Conference, and made a masterful plea for the institution, declaring that "We must realize that we are just beginning the building of a college, and our work will never be finished. It will be a long pull and a hard pull, but we can and will do it." Contributions to the college within the past five years have amounted to $73,700. There are needed 100 more dormitory students, and this would increase the income by $30,000 annually. College bonds to the amount of $10,000 were sold in the Conference, one notable purchase being made by Rev. A. L. Hunter, of Pinnacle, in memory of a beloved daughter, who lost her life in an automobile accident soon after her graduation from the college in one of the first classes.

Dr. A. G. Dixon gave an interesting report of the status of the Children's Home, and said that operating expenses have been reduced nearly $1,000 annually for three years. Crops from the farm bring a handsome income each year. There are now 105 members of the Home family, and all those of school age attend Jamestown High School three miles distant. These children are hearty and in good health.

The Sunday morning service was significant and impressive. Rev. G. F. Millaway, of Concord, who has borne the burden and heat of the day for 41 years in the ministry, delivered a timely and practical ordination sermon to an audience estimated at 2,000, which packed and overflowed the auditorium and gallery. He chose as his text an appropriate one, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." He warned the young ministers that every achievement of victory is sealed in blood. The following five ministers were ordained elders by the laying on of hands: G. B. Ferree, Matthews; D. D. Broome, Cross Anchor, S. C.; C. W. Saunders, Chase City, Va., and J. P. Pegg, of Stokesdale.

On Sunday afternoon after a Memorial service for Mrs. J. R. Ball, of Greensboro, and Mrs. D. M. Loy, deceased wives of Methodist Protestant ministers, the laymen met and formed an association or auxiliary to the Conference. Judge Lewis E. Teague, of the local Municipal Court, addressed the meeting on "Men and the Church," and Jasper B. Hicks, of Henderson, was elected lay leader of this association. Dr. Broomfield gave the message Sunday evening, after which he left for his home.

A pleasing feature of the Conference was music furnished each evening by the college choir and orchestra, led by Prof. Ernest B. Stinson, the singing of the old-time hymns which seem to be favorites of Dr. Taylor's, and some splendid vocal solos by Mrs. J. H. Allred, C. L. Gray, Jr., and others. After all is said, the backbone of the Conference was the fine support and loyalty of the faithful, self-sacrificing women of First church, who not only gave the visiting ministers lodging and breakfast, but served two meals a day on three days at the nominal price of 35 cents per plate and they were good ones, too. The faithfulness and sacrifice of the wives of the ministers, who stayed at home and took care of the babies and children and "carried on" while Friend Husband dressed up and went to Conference and mingled with his friends and saw new people, are to be commended. We believe in giving honor to whom honor is due, and while too much cannot be said in praise of the consecrated minister and his great work, his little wife deserves a few bouquets now and then. Dr. Samuel W. Taylor was re-elected president of the Conference for the fifth time, and Rev. C. W. Bates, secretary for the 16th consecutive year. Dr. Geo. R. Brown, of Reidsville, was re-elected treasurer over his protest that he was more than willing to relinquish the honor to someone else. Mr. H. A. Garrett, former superintendent of the Children's Home, was elected lay member of the Stationing Committee. The efficient reporter, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, will doubtless give a more extended report, containing appointments of ministers, names of delegates and alternates to General Conference next May, etc.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its monthly meeting with Mrs. A. M. Rankin on Church street, and Circle No. 7, Mrs. L. R. Peacock, chairman, served tea, sandwiches, and small cakes. Plans for the bazaar and turkey supper to be given November 19th were made and the price was fixed at 60 cents per plate. Mrs. W. C. Hammond, executive secretary of the Board of Public Welfare of this city, was present, and made a plea for second-hand clothing for the needy. Mrs. Kennett, the president, asked that one member from each Circle be appointed to form a committee to solicit this clothing.

Mrs. John B. Ogburn, of Summerfield, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Blackburn, during Conference.

We are much gratified to know that Mr. June A. Gray, who was kept away from Conference by illness, is showing improvement.

Mrs. C. C. Robbins has gone to Cincinnati, Ohio, to visit her daughter, Anne, who is studying voice in the Conservatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Penny left last Wednesday for Indianapolis, Ind., on a business trip.

Miss Gertrude Teague, who recently moved to Sumter, S. C., came to attend Conference and spent the time with her sister, Mrs. W. P. Bodenheimer. Earl Teague, who has a position in Durham, was here Sunday.

The friends of Lester R. Peacock will be pleased to know that he is improving satisfactorily after an operation in High Point Hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. George R. Brown, of Reidsville, were guests in the home of Mrs. W. P. Pickett during Conference.

Miss Louise Jennings, graduate student at Chapel Hill, spent the week-end at home.

The Young People's C. E. Society and the Senior Society held a joint meeting Monday evening, which was led by Miss Myrtle Davis.

Spring Hill Church, North Davidson Circuit.
—There were 110 members on roll at Sunday school Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The collection was good. The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Herman Haynes, November 7. A good number of members were present and the reports were good.

Misses Alice and Ruth Haynes entertained the Primary and Junior classes at a Halloween party Friday evening, October 30. Many little folks were present to enjoy this occasion; refreshments were served after many interesting games and stunts.

The church officers were elected last Sunday evening. The following were elected: Class leader, Mrs. H. Byerly; assistant class leader, Mr. J. F. Craven; Sunday school superintendent, Mr. C. W. Haynes; assistant Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Henry Byerly; stewards, Mildred Swaim, chairman, Mrs. H. Byerly, Mrs. J. L. Craven, Mrs. Roby Proctor, George Craven, Alice Haynes, Mrs. R. G. Craven and John Swaim; reporter, Edith York; church secretary and treasurer, Julius Craven; organist, Mr. J. B. Swaim; assistants, George Craven and Mrs. Gladys Craven.

The same trustees that served the last year will serve again this year.

The Christian Endeavor Society has been doing good work. We will put on a Thanksgiving program the fourth Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Everyone is invited to worship with us. New officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Robert Swaim; vice-president, Milford Byerly; secretary and treasurer, Milford Byerly; social committee, Alice Haynes, chairman, Mildred Swaim, Jessie Garner, Helen Moore and Votra Swaim; program committee, Ruth Haynes, Myrtle Byerly and Stella Moore; Sunshine committee, Sadie Swaim, chairman, Edith York, John Swaim, Alice and Colin Haynes.

We are very sorry that Miss Vina Cecil is still on the sick list and is unable to be with us, but we hope she will soon be able to be with us again.

Rev. H. L. Powell was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. York Sunday evening, November 1, 1931.

REPORTER.

Asheville.—How do you do, dear Herald readers? Guess you thought we were long since dead, but we are very much alive; it will take more than has happened in the past to subdue us.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. C. C. McNeill. She is one of our most active workers and we surely miss our good workers; may God grant her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Taylor, mother of Miss Eula Taylor, has also been quite sick, but is improving. May our Heavenly Father be near to bless all who are sick.

Our Sunday school is going fine. Miss Verda McIntire and Mrs. Carrie Bolick are live wires and have a competent corps of teachers. Miss Novella McIntire has an interesting class of Intermediates. Mrs. Roby Wilson is teacher of the Young People's class.

Our Auxiliary gave a play last week, "Soup, Sand and Sage-brush," which was much enjoyed and netted a nice sum for the treasury. A full house was present.

Last Sunday evening at the church was our Thank-offering service, presided over by our president, Mrs. Ralph Beacham. An interesting program was presented and the offering was around $13.00. Miss Novella McIntire at the piano, and the choir, Misses Verda McIntire, Nancy Clouse, Josie McNeill, Louise Haner, Elsie Drake, Mrs. Bolick, James Bailey and E. H. Pratt rendered most appropriate music.

Would you enjoy a real inspirational treat? Then come over to our Sunday school and hear our junior choir, trained by Miss Verda McIntire. We are justly proud of them. Which reminds us that real leaders are born—not made.

Our Auxiliary Circles had a joint meeting last month with the Circles of our Weaver-ville church. An interesting program was enjoyed and we were all better for having gone. We enjoy the fellowship of these joint meetings.

We surely appreciate the valuable help Mr. Stedman and Mr. Buckner are continuing to give us; their talks are most helpful and give us much good spiritual food to meditate on.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pratt have as guests this winter, Mr. Pratt's father and mother, who are faithful in attending our services.

Good luck to my successor, from whom you will soon hear. REPORTER.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. P. E. Bingham, preached his last sermon before he went to Conference the first Sunday in November. Officers were elected that day for another year's work, which we trust will be the greatest of all. The sermon that Bro. Bingham brought us was much enjoyed by all who heard it, and which we feel sure will be of much benefit to our neighborhood if we will only take to heart the few words he spoke. All around Weaver's Chapel have learned to love Bro. and Sister Bingham, and are glad to have them in their homes at all times, because they are like home-folk, not company. We are looking forward to their return to serve us another year, be it the Lord's will. But in case the Conference sees fit for us to have someone else in their place our prayers and best wishes will follow them.

We are yet holding on to our Sunday school and we hope and trust the cold winter days will not force us to drop, as our superintendent, Mr. F. D. Wilson, has been so faithful as to miss only one Sunday this year, and we have so many girls and boys to work with.

Best wishes to the Methodist Protestant Herald and readers.

MRS. D. G. DICKENS, Reporter.

Midland.—To the Midland charge I send greetings. It brings to me great joy that it has been made possible for me to come back to the church of my childhood, to the associates of my childhood days, to the place where God, for Christ's sake, forgave my sins and made me a new creature in Christ Jesus. My heart's desire and prayer to God is that this year may be a glorious year for Midland.

I will be on the work as soon as circumstances will allow. W. D. REED.

Sandy Ridge, Kernersville Charge. Our new officers have been elected for the coming year as follows: Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. L. G. Wood; class leaders, L. A. Pendry, Fred Johnson; pianist, Ethel Wood; church treasurer, Mrs. L. G. Wood; reporter, Mrs. T. A. Holt; trustees, G. W. Gray, H. W. Gray, Fred Johnson, R. L. Anderson, J. G. Pegg; stewards, Mrs. L. G. Wood, Mrs. T. A. Holt, Mr. C. C. Sykes, Mrs. Roy Clark, Albert Rice and Guy Predmore.

We certainly have two young men at Sandy Ridge that are wide awake and ready to go.

One of them is Bro. Albert Rice, who is a member of our church; the other is Mr. Molan Long; he is not a member but works faithfully for our church. They both work at High Point silk mill. They decided to do something for the church. They went around to the good people that work with them and asked them to help pay for the piano at Sandy Ridge church. They responded just fine. When Mr. Rice and Mr. Long got around they found they had made up $42.75. We just lacked $53.00 having the piano paid for. We made up $5.25 at Sunday school Sunday. So you see we just lack $5 having our piano paid for. We will have to give these two splendid young men credit for it all and, believe me, we sure are proud of them. We hope that more of our young men and boys will take courage and go to work for their Lord and Master. We wish to thank all the men and boys at High Point silk mill that made it possible for these two young men to turn in such a good report of their work. We appreciate all you did for us. We want to say again to Brother Rice and Brother Long, Thank you, and God bless you all.

There were nine people including the writer that attended Conference at High Point last Friday. We heard some splendid talks. We met several of our former pastors and were real glad to meet them and shake hands one more time. We all enjoyed the day just fine.

Rev. Fred Love, one of our former pastors, preached for us Sunday night at Sandy Ridge. I am sure his sermon was enjoyed by all who heard him. The writer was not present, I am sorry to say.

MRS. T. A. HOLT, Reporter.

CHRIST WANTS THE BEST

(Sent in by Annie Squires)

Christ wants the best. He in the far-off age Once claimed the firstling of the flock, the finest of the wheat,

And still he asks his own with gentlest pleading,

To lay their highest hopes and brightest talents at his feet.

He'll not forget the feeblest service, humblest love;

He only asks that of our stores we give to him—the best we have.

Christ gave his best, He takes the hearts,
And fills them with his glorious beauty, joy,
and peace;

And in his service as we're growing strong,
The calls to great achievements still increase.
The richest gifts for us on earth or in the heavens above.

Are hid in Christ, in Jesus we receive the best we have.

And is our best too much? O friends, let us remember,

How once our Lord poured out his soul for us.
And in the prime of his mysterious manhood
Gave up his precious life upon the cross

The Lord of lords, by whom the worlds were made. Through bitter grief and tears gave us the best he had.

—Rev. J. S. Williams did not attend this Conference, but sent a letter.

—Rev. Chas Edwards has formed a partnership with Bro. Kemp Causcy for the purchase and sale of meat.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Moore

John W. Moore, after a protracted illness, died October 22, 1931, aged 68 years. His father died when he was three months old, his mother following 11 days later. For a time he was cared for by his grandmother, who was a daughter of Rev. John Coe, a prominent leader in the early history of the Methodist Protestant Church. His mother was a sister of Rev. J. H. Gilbreath, for some years a member of the N. C. Conference.

He was married to St. Jane Glasgow 34 years ago. He was a faithful and interested member of Moriah church, at which place his body was laid to rest the day following his death. Funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. M. P. Chambliss, assisted by the writer. T. F. McCULLOCH.

Hill

J. Milton Hill, aged 79 years, 5 months and 14 days, departed this life October 27, 1931. He leaves to mourn their loss three sons: Rev. W. E. Hill, of Denton; Rev. C. H. Hill, of Roberta church, Concord, and Judge A. L. Hill, of Denton. There are also four daughters surviving: Mrs. T. C. Russell, Mrs. J. E. Loftin, of High Point; Mrs. J. W. Luther, of the Bombay section, and Mrs. A. J. Smith, of Thomasville. The grandchildren numbered 38 and the great-grandchildren were 43 in number.

Grandpa Hill came to Denton to live after the death of his devoted wife and companion nine years ago. Brother Hill had been in declining health for several years, but after a slight fall a short time ago had been mostly confined to his room.

The funeral was conducted by his pastor, assisted by Rev. J. B. Trogon, Rev. E. A. Bingham, former pastors, and several visiting pastors, in Denton Methodist Protestant church, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

He professed faith in Christ in early life, lived and died a devoted Christian. His contribution to God and his fellowmen was unstinted and telling in its effect. Notwithstanding tender love and care from those who nursed him in his passing days, he often expressed the craving of his heart to "Depart this life and be with Christ" as soon as his work here was finished.

We bow our heads in humble grief at his going, and in deep sympathy with those near and dear to him who feel their loss so keenly. We thank God for his influence, life, memory, and wholesome example, praying that his grandchildren and great-grandchildren may seize the banner and carry on where he left off. ROBERT SHORT.

—Dr. Spahr and Mrs. Spahr were able to attend Conference this year. He was for a time pastor of First Church and has many friends there.

—Rev. M. P. Chambliss was called from Conference by the death of one of his members, Mrs. McLean, formerly Miss Katy Sharpe.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Conference has just adjourned, and we have not the time to make up the regular report from the Children's Home this week, so we are asking the editor to publish our report to Conference. The report will be published in the Journal, but this will reach so many more, and so much earlier.

Thanksgiving

Please, every Methodist Protestant and all our churches and Sunday schools, get ready for the best yet Thanksgiving offering for the Home. This is a necessity.

Report to Annual Conference

My dear Fellow Workers:

God in His kind providence has brought us through another year, and we are here to think about what has been done, and to consider ways and means for carrying on through the coming year.

The Children: The Home is run for the benefit of dependent children, so you wish to hear about the children first.

The health of our children has been excellent, with the exception of two cases of diphtheria and an epidemic of "flu." Dr. S. S. Coe is prompt and faithful in helping to keep the Children's Home family in good condition. Dr. J. W. Austin has examined eyes, ears, noses and throats of any of our children when necessary, and Drs. Coe and Austin removed tonsils and adenoids from all children necessary. Dr. W. F. Clayton, Dr. M. R. McKuglian, Dr. Richardson, and the Zimmerman Brothers have examined the teeth of all our children, and have cleaned and treated teeth when necessary.

Dr. W. L. Jackson, at the Guilford General Hospital, has also rendered faithful services when called upon.

Mr. Fred McPherson, at the Sunshine Laundry, is still doing all our heavy laundry free of charge. This is over two years he has been doing this.

We found 72 children here and we now have 105 children. You were paying them $486.00 per month in salaries. You are paying now $410.00 per month in salaries, a saving of $912.00 per year. The other overhead expenses are no more than they were. The first year we were here the Duke Endowment paid us $1,545.54 and this year they paid us $2,595.86. We have also received fairly good contributions from other conferences. All of these savings we have endeavored to put into the rearing of needy children.

Our School: Our children are all still going to school at Jamestown and they seem happy and contented there. Last year we employed a music teacher, who came to the Home in the afternoons and evenings and gave music lessons. Financial conditions are such that we have discontinued this so far this year. We regretted to do it, and it only means a saving of about $30.00 per month. Your direction in the matter will be welcomed.

The Religious Life: Daily devotional services are conducted in each dormitory. The Bible is taught daily. We have our own Christian Endeavor societies, Junior and Senior, and they hold their meetings once a week.

The children and workers all have access to the Sunday school and morning preaching services at First Church, High Point, and occasionally a group of just one bus load goes in to preaching on Sunday evenings.

From September 13 to September 20 this year we held our own revival services with Rev. N. G. Bethea to do the preaching. We felt the need of it and the result certainly justified the effort.

Orphanage Meetings: There was held in Greensboro last April an Institute for Orphanage Workers, lasting for two weeks, and we sent an average of four workers per day, and contributed $25 toward the expenses. This meetings was sponsored by the Duke Endowment.

Two attended the Tri-State Orphanage meeting in Oxford in April. And two also attended the meeting of the State Orphanage Association in Raleigh during September. Plans are already being worked out for a unified and intensive canvass for funds for all the Homes in the State at Thanksgiving.

In these meetings we gathered that funds are short in all the Homes. Mr. C. K. Proctor, of Oxford, said the Oxford Home was running about $1,000 per month short over last year. Dr. M. L. Kesler, of Thomasville, said the Mills Home is falling short about $20,000 for the year. Talking with his trustees, Dr. Kesler asked: "What are we to do in the meantime? We cannot retrench in service. To do this would be to surrender in the face of opportunity. It is more than opportunity—it is an inescapable obligation in the field of child welfare."

Wife and I have always stood for progress and growth in the Methodist Protestant Church, and God has never failed in giving us larger things in every field in which we have labored for Him. We undertook this work with no other thought than to help the Lord and you to build a bigger and better Children's Home. And by His help and yours it has grown in every capacity.

Gifts in Substance: Some of the outstanding gifts in substance have been:

The Moffitt Underwear Company, 81 suits of underwear for boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Penny, one Singer sewing machine.

Mr. M. C. McDonald, West End, N. C., about 100 bushels of peaches.

Mr. C. C. Bennett, Candor, N. C., 50 bushels of peaches.

Mr. C. L. Steed, Candor, N. C., 40 bushels of peaches.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCulloch, Wilmington, N. C., a three-days' outing for all of our honor children at Wrightsville Beach.

Sparger Apple Orchards, Mount Airy, N. C., three truck loads of apples.

Mr. Carl Stanfield, Brown Summit, about 8,000 sweet potato plants.

Besides these there have come many boxes and barrels of clothing, and fruits, and several large Harvest Home donations. Our friends have been exceptionally good in sending us these gifts "in kind." These did not pay our debts, but they have helped to feed and clothe our children.

Our Coal: We have two car loads of coal in our bins, and this time we had to arrange to pay for it before we could get it. We paid $155.40 for the coal, and $330.07 for the freight. We secured a rebate on the freight amounting to $165.39. We could buy a cheaper grade of coal in another field, but it would come in over the C. and O. R. R. to Lynchburg, and the freight would cost us just the same, and we would get no rebate. So our present plan is cheaper and we get better coal.

Buildings and Grounds: The superintendent's Cottage is, of course, in good repairs, but the two dormitories are badly in need of repairs and have been for a long time. The grounds toward the Cottage from the Girls' Dormitory has all been taken into the campus, and has been turfed and a good lot of trees and shrubbery have been planted. We planted about 300 plants last spring at almost no cost to the Home. Mr. Newton M. Cole, of Lyeoming, N. Y., gave us 20 cherry trees. Mr. W. T. Hanner, of the North State Nursery Company, Julian, gave us a nice lot of trees and shrubbery and sold us more at very reduced price. The most of this we paid for ourselves. Friends in various communities also donated plants.

The Work and the Workers: The work demands of every worker very close attention and long hours. It is very taxing to the body, mind and soul. There is no other work on earth like it. None of us would have to work so hard for our church anywhere else. And yet we try to get along with just as few workers as possible. Mr. J. A. Dixon and his wife both broke down during the summer and we had to get them away for a while. We are going to get by just as long as we can with as little help as possible. But if our people could only know our struggles, surely they would respond liberally.

Report of Duke Endowment: The Orphanage section of the Duke Endowment report for 1930 covering 15 Orphan Homes built for less than 151 children and operating farms, show that in the fields of administration, care of children, and plant operation this Home is running below the average in cost.

A Standard for Child-Caring Institutions: The Duke Endowment has set up a standard toward which all institutions aided by them are expected to aim. In that standard they say:

"Criteria, as here used, are intended to include those things that are generally regarded as essential to the care of children in institutions." And they add: "The following are common interests of Child-Caring institutions and have been used in the set-up. (1) Social service, which includes admission and discharge procedure, case work, case records and the general social service program of the institution. (2) Housing, (3) Food, (4) Clothing, (5) Education, (6) Health, (7) Moral and Religious Training, (8) Financial."

Each institution is to be graded on these eight points, and those grades will enter into the consideration for aid to said institution.

The Farm: The spring drought and the fall drought both cut our vegetables short, but the general farm has yielded the largest ingathering in the history of the Home. Our farm manager, Mr. J. A. Dixon, rented and cultivated 60 acres, besides the Children's Home farm, and he and his helpers worked overtime to produce as much as possible to help carry the Home through these times when offerings are short. We have 25 hogs, 15 milk cows, eight heifers, four calves, two mules, one horse and about 230 chickens.

Our Needs

With so large a family our needs are many and varied; but there are two such outstanding needs that we list only those:

1. Money to pay our bills. Those who have carried us for so long should be taken care of.
2. Some much needed repairs. The buildings will damage badly if not repaired soon. This calls for money.

Kindness of the People

People everywhere are kind to orphan homes. Anyone who will give money at all will give for the support of orphan children. Many of our people have given liberally to our Children's Home, and we appreciate it very keenly. May God bless them, every one.

We are only hoping that material conditions will so improve that the people will have more to give.

We can only ask for your very best at Thanksgiving and Christmas and a regular monthly offering from each Sunday school and church during the coming Conference year.

Thank you, and God bless you.

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

PINE GROVE C. E. SOCIETY NEWS

The Christian Endeavor Society held its last monthly social Wednesday night, November 4, at the home of Misses Lucile and Jessie Ingram. A short business meeting was conducted with the president, Miss Estelle Norman, presiding. After the business meeting many interesting games were enjoyed. At 9 o'clock the party hiked to Linville Springs, where a very amusing pop-corn popping and marshmallow roast was indulged in. About 35 young people enjoyed the occasion, with about 20 of that number members of the C. E. Society. At 10:30 all returned home, reporting a most enjoyable evening.

Our society has had an excellent percentage of perfect attendance so far, and a grand co-operation by every member in everything that has been undertaken, and we are hoping and praying that we may be able to do more for our church and community in the future than we have in the past.

CONFERENCE NOTES

—Rev. H. F. Fogleman visited his father's family for a few days after the close of Conference. Calling in our office he reported the death of Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Brinkleyville, the mother of Mrs. Neville who has attended our Annual Conference as a member.
 —Next Conference goes to Burlington, First Church.

—Find elsewhere in this issue of the Herald the list of apportionments.

—Rev. E. L. Ballard continues this year in his school work in Boston.

—Bro. E. L. Douglas, of High Point, was made chairman of the Herald Campaign Committee for this year. He is much interested in the Herald and believes that every family of our people should be receiving and reading the paper. We bespeak for him the co-operation of all whom he tries to enroll in the campaign.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field. In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot offer supply back numbers. We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE CHOIR WILL BROADCAST

The High Point College choir will give a sacred concert over radio station WBIG, Greensboro, next Sunday afternoon, November 15th, from 5 to 5:30 o'clock, and over WBT, Charlotte, Sunday evening, November 22nd, from 10 to 10:30.

The college choir is composed of 35 voices, and is said to be one of the best college choirs in the country. This same choir made a hit at the National Convention of the Methodist Protestant Church in Washington last May. The choir this year is still better than it was last year. A number of trained voices have been added, and it is predicted that they will attract wider attention than they did last year.

At the recent meeting of the Annual Conference they delighted the Conference in two evening programs. A number of requests have come to the college office since for similar programs before churches, clubs, and other groups over the state.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. Glenn Madison, $6.00; Rev. C. E. Ridge, $7.00; Rev. T. M. Johnson, $6.00; Rev. J. M. Morgan, $10.00; Rev. Robert Short, $1.00; Rev. J. C. Madison, $2.00; Rev. P. E. Bingham, $3.00; Rev. C. L. Spencer, $2.00; Rev. C. B. Way, $1.00; Rev. D. R. Williams, $5.00; Rev. T. A. Williams, $1.00; Rev. B. M. Williams, $20.00.

Money received for Herald subscriptions at Conference will be credited on next year. We hope to publish the list of goals next week. This week we note only the change in Orange charge's record; Bro. B. M. Williams' letter was mis-carried or this change would have been made last week. Bro. Williams has during the last year sent in $145 on Herald subscription accounts. We are grateful to him and his people.

—Minister Farmer proved himself to be a wide-awake and considerate host to the Conference.

—Report comes to us that the good sons of Rev. G. F. Milaway are building for him a home between Greensboro and Brown Summit. Ill health forbade his taking work this year. He will be much missed, especially in revival work. He was one of our most successful evangelists and was a favorite preacher. He and Mrs. Milaway have our best wishes for their comfort in their retirement. Their address will be Greensboro, R. F. D. 2, Box 473.

Fatherless and Motherless Children

Doubly bereft, what can they do?
Only depend on me and you!
Conscious of need, they look for friends
Who'll bring to them what the Lord sends.

Wards of the Lord and our wards too,
They'll be cared for while we are true:
God never fails and we must think
Food to provide and also drink.

God's very own He makes our care
That we may see just how they fare:
Honored by God with such a task,
We'll do our part and blessing ask.

Problem of Evil Solved Again

There have been many attempts to "justify the ways of God to men," but most of them have proved unsatisfactory. Men cannot explain what they themselves do not understand. The power and character of God are involved in the problem. The hard question is, How can an all-powerful being of perfect goodness permit the ravages of evil? If he cannot prevent them he is not all-powerful: if he will not prevent them, men are tempted to say that he is not perfectly good. Ancient philosophers untied the knot by assuming that there are two separate powers, Good and Evil, contending with each other, and only good events are attributable to God. But this makes a dual universe and is unsatisfactory. The scheme of things about us, including us, seems to be a single universe, the product of one creative mind. We believe there is only one God. For the most part we are happy in His care, but sometimes we are dreadfully afflicted. Why the affliction?

Satisfactory answer to this question was found centuries ago, but it has not satisfied all. We refer to St. Paul's solution. He saw that the light afflictions of the present work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, that all things work together for good to them that love God. The evil that God permits is justified by the greater good that results from it. But the philosophers have overlooked the explanation of Paul and have gone about finding a way of their own. One of these, Dr. Brightman, professor of philosophy in Boston University, has just written a book in which he elaborates at length his conception of the being of God, producing what may be called an apology for the failure of God to prevent all evil. In this view God is hindered if not thwarted by an opposing factor in His own being. He inherited from the past eternities an element in his own nature which is out of harmony with himself though a part of himself. He calls this The Given. It must be overcome by painful struggle in order that God may proceed with the successive parts of his program of progress. God is doing the best he can with the handicap of His inheritance and we should pity Him and sympathize with Him instead of blaming Him for the existence of evil.

Dr. Brightman may be a wise man, but Paul would probably say of him that by his wisdom he knows not God. We have recently read nothing seriously offered as rational thought that seemed more absurdly foolish. According to this view God is not only opposed and hindered, but He is made finite. It infinitely lowers God in our conception. It is a decidedly unhealthy and pessimistic book as it impresses us. We want to get away from its effect, back into the optimism of St. Paul and into the light of Jesus Christ.

—The gospel, says Dean Inge, is good news, not good advice.

—Note what President Taylor says about the charges left without pastoral supply.

—South Greensboro churches will hold a union Thanksgiving service in Calvary M. P. Church.

—Churches without pastors may still keep up worship and do many of the works of the church; but it is much better to have the guidance and help of a pastor.

—Several candidates for the ministry of the M. E. Church, South, were rejected by the recent conference in Asheville because of a lack of room.

—Japan and China are at war again, contending about their rights in Manchuria. Both are members of the League of Nations, too.

—Next week the HERALD printers wish to observe Thanksgiving Day. We must go to press a day earlier. Please send in communications as early as possible.

—Preachers without pastoral charges may still do much religious work, or at least continue to bear testimony to their devotion to Christ and His cause. John the Baptist preached in the wilderness, but had quite a hearing.

—Dr. T. M. Johnson moved his household goods from Whitakers to Mount Pleasant in a truck, bringing eight bushels of peanuts for the Children's Home. The same truck took Rev. H. F. Surratt's household goods on the return trip.

DR. A. N. WARD'S RADIO ADDRESS

Dr. A. N. Ward, president of Western Maryland College and Chairman of the Liberal Arts College Movement, delivered the following address in the broadcast of the Liberal Arts Colleges, Saturday, November 14, 1931, from the New York Studios of the National Broadcasting Company:

This evening's program has been made possible by the co-operation of the National Broadcasting Company and the representatives of the Association of American Colleges, the American Council on Education, and the Council of Church Boards of Education. On behalf of the Liberal Arts College Movement which originated this program, and of all the colleges of the country, we express our thorough appreciation.

We call your attention to the vast and invaluable contributions of our colleges to the educational, social and economic life of our country, and invite your further continued sympathetic co-operation and support in their behalf.

The one hundred and fifty most highly endowed colleges in the United States cannot meet the entire needs of our college population. At least five hundred additional adequately equipped and endowed institutions are needed. Without our small colleges the state institutions would be swamped with students. State legislatures are slashing budgets. The privately endowed institutions are imperative if there is to be a just distribution of educational opportunities among a million students.

The colleges at the top of the list hold three-fourths of the total endowment funds, but they provide for less than one-half of the college population. Ten colleges, at the very top of the list, hold nearly one-half of the total endowment funds. The argument that the state should assume the entire load in education has broken down. The states are not able to do it without unnecessarily increasing the tax rate. Private philanthropy coming to the aid of the states would afford wise and profitable outlet for wealth, namely, the education of our American youth.

In these days of financial depression colleges are hard hit, especially the small colleges which are educating a large share of the college population. Many are fighting with their backs to the wall. A thousand men and women of wealth, in co-operation with loyal alumni could put these colleges on a sound financial basis, these very institutions which must be kept going if a half-million students are to go to college at all. These very men and women are hearing this broadcast tonight. Within hailing distance of where they live are colleges which need their help. Their gifts thrown down as challenges to college constituencies, would evoke a response which would solve the financial problems of five hundred colleges.

It is for our American colleges, large and small, I am pleading: for women's colleges which have a right to a place in our educational system and have a program to fit into the place they occupy, whether men's colleges, or women's colleges, or co-educational colleges—for them all this broadcast makes its appeal to the American people. Like the home the college makes its contribution in ways that defy objective measurement, and its importance in our social structure passes all understanding. The service of the college extends not only to the students but even more potently to the community at large. It is in a word part and parcel of the community. And it must continue its fine work—its ministration to the needs of the youth on the one hand and to the community at large on the other.

In a changing economic order there are things we must not let go. We must not let our churches and our colleges. They are allied in any reconstruction of the social order which has permanent value. An average of two million dollars spent on each of five hundred colleges—the needs of some being more and of some less—would give employment to hundreds of thousands during the next two years, in erecting buildings which a returning prosperity will permanently endow, and in this way enable our colleges to “carry on” in our present national crisis.

The Liberal Arts College Movement proposes as a major enterprise for the American people to adequate equipment and endowment of all colleges which have a place in higher education and whose program meets the educational ideals and needs of the constituencies which they represent. Its appeal will not be for the few but for all; for the American college is a democratic institution, and should make ample provision for the humblest boy or girl, as well as for the more highly favored. The American college knows no distinctions and stands for all who are worthy of a higher education. It would include all American youth in its overtures. Its purpose is to take the masses of youth and endow them with as much of our cultural inheritances as may be practically possible while richly preparing the exceptional student for the graduate school. In the field of cultural education the college of liberal arts stands supreme. It is the door through which the nation's best leadership must pass. It is the greatest provision ever made for the cultural development of the mind and spirit of man.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION CHAIRMEN IN EMERGENCY SERVICE

See Conference Report in This Issue

“The Methodist Protestant Herald in every M. P. Home”

TO HERALD CHAIRMEN:

Elsewhere in this issue you will find the report on the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, as adopted by the Annual Conference. This will explain in part the need for this campaign and give you some facts which may help you in selling our church paper to every Methodist Protestant home. Please read the report carefully. Also please note that your appointment as Chairman is by authority of the Annual Conference.

Approximately 150 of our Subscription Chairmen, apparently are non-subscribers and because of this, I am asking Brother McCulloch to send each of you a copy of this issue. Then in order that you may keep fully in touch with the campaign, please send in your own subscription at once if you have not done so, as I shall depend upon the medium of this paper to reach each of you. You in turn can talk back to me through your Church correspondent, and I trust that you will keep your correspondent informed of what you are doing.

We want to insure the life of this paper and if each church will raise its quota of subscribers it will be assured. However the emergency is such that we must raise these quotas at once and not let it run on indefinitely. I want to thank everyone of you for your co-operation, which I feel sure I can depend upon. I shall be watching the incoming subscriptions with the expectation of real results from each of you. Thanks to every one who sent in one or more new subscribers this week. Your co-operation is certainly appreciated.

To PASTORS:

Do you know that if we count five members to each family that receives this paper, that there is still more than 75% of our membership who are non-readers of the HERALD. Therefore let me suggest that a good way to reach these non-readers and advertise the HERALD to them is to quote to your congregation each Sunday, some item from this paper and say you saw it in our church paper, the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD. The report as adopted by the Annual Conference calls for the HERALD to be advertised by each Pastor from the pulpit, and I feel sure you will be ready and glad to help in this way.

To CORRESPONDENTS:

Please keep in touch with the activities of the Committee and Chairman for HERALD subscriptions in your church and tell about it in your letters to the HERALD; this will be not only an encouragement to your committee but to other churches as well. I am looking forward to reading your letters, telling what is being done by your church.

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman,

Directing Committee of the Annual Conference.

THANKSGIVING AND OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

From the beginning of the work of our Children's Home Thanksgiving has been set apart as a time for sacrificial and thankful giving for the support of the little ones gathered here.

The State Publicity Committee has the following to say:

Thanksgiving

This is one of the "special days" which, during recent years, comes to North Carolinians freighted with the spirit of good will, of cheerfulness, of happy greetings fragrant with friendship that means service where service may be needed. A generous spirit has been manifested toward the various orphan homes of the State and the North Carolina Orphan Association once again renews its appeal for liberal offerings for these beneficent institutions during the approaching Thanksgiving period.

On or before Thursday, November 26, the day set apart by the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina for prayer and thanksgiving, every high-hearted citizen of the State is requested to contribute the income of a DAY to the orphanage of his or her choice.

Help for the Destitute

Positively, the need has never been so urgent as it is today. Surely the contributions will be more liberal than for any previous year. Let everyone rise to the dignity of the hour by each doing his, or her, level best to aid these homes in the training and education of orphaned children who might otherwise become a menace to society and a care upon the public. Conditions invite and duty demands the co-operation of every North Carolinian in aiding a class of children who should receive the protection of every man's arm and the affection of every woman's heart.

Contribute the income of a DAY to the orphanage of your choice on or near Thanksgiving Day, November 26.

Our Annual Appeal

The following letter has been mailed to every pastor and every S. S. Superintendent in the Conference as our annual Thanksgiving appeal:

OUR DEAR FRIENDS:

This letter comes to bring our annual plea for help for the orphan child. That period covering Thanksgiving and Christmas is the season especially set apart for Christian hearts and minds and purses to turn toward orphan homes with helpfulness. Our Methodist Protestant Children's Home is caring for 105 dependent children, and surely all Methodist Protestants; who are living in happy homes, will turn in thought, and in prayer, and in sacrificial giving toward this Home at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

At this season all good Christian people are asked to contribute a day's income, or more, to the support of orphan homes. It is a worthy cause, a beautiful work, and one that must look to God's faithful children for support with their free-will offerings. Through this appeal the little children of this Home are stretching their hands to you, pleading that you help to the extent of your ability and that you get others to help.

Pastors and Sunday School superintendents are asked to lay this matter upon the hearts of their people, and secure a special Thanksgiving or Christmas offering. Where "White Gifts for the King" services are held let the Children's Home be included. The worst financial depression known to our Southland, certainly for half a century, makes this the most urgent appeal we have ever sent out. The offerings for this Home during the year just closed amount to about $2,500.00 less than last year. For this the material conditions alone are to blame; but it means that all of us must be willing to go the second mile for the Home at this season.

The inclosed leaflet explains itself, and the bold type paragraph tells the story when it says:—"Positively, the Need Has Never Been So Urgent As It Is Today. Surely the Contributions Will Be More Liberal Than for Any Previous Year."

We face the winter with no funds, but we face it with faith in God and in His children, believing that He will supply our needs. He has promised and His promises are sure. We are looking to Him and He is depending upon you. Please present this to your people as the PLEA OF 105 ORPHANS, and secure the best offering possible and send direct to the Superintendent of the M. P. Children's Home, High Point, N. C.

Our people have been exceedingly kind to this Home, and we know they will be both kind and generous in this trying hour. We thank you and may God bless you.

Please Note—Good clothing and other gifts are thankfully received. Our boys and girls range in age from 5 to 18. We cannot use baby clothing nor high heeled shoes for women.

And we need money so badly to pay bills that all money offerings, however small should be sent direct to us. And if your Thanksgiving offerings go to pay budgets we only get one cent on the dollar.

Again we thank you and pray God's richest blessings upon you everyone.

Yours in His blessed service,

J. M. MILLIKAN, Chairman,
A. M. RANKIN, Treasurer,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD (Report E)

We your Committee on the HERALD feel that the HERALD is absolutely necessary if our conference is to grow and prosper. The paper has, however, reached the point where it can no longer continue on the same basis as in the past, and unless we can rally to its support its very existence is threatened. Certainly the Editor can no longer continue to publish the paper with a deficit running around $1,500 per year. Approximately $2,400 has been paid in this year for subscriptions, while printing and postage—without including anything for Editor's salary—has amounted to $3,400. There is due the printers $1,500.00 on this year's printing and $900.00 balance due on last year's printing, and if this is paid it must come from our Conference. Some years ago Brother J. F. McCulloch had the vision to erect a building in Greensboro, which was known as the Publishing House, the rentals from which helped sustain the paper. This building was finally sold at a profit of some $70,000.00 and the money turned over to High Point College, leaving the paper without this support. The result has been that while the Conference has been greatly benefited by this well edited and well printed paper, Brother McCulloch has had his personal means reduced from year to year so that it has now come to a point where he can no longer continue, and either we must pay him for the past, in something more substantial than promises, and for the future more than double the present circulation of the paper, or it must of necessity cease to visit our homes. This committee has checked up the the price the present printers charge for printing the HERALD, and find that they are printing it for less than we can get it done elsewhere. We also find that it requires a paid-up circulation of 2,000 to come out even for printing alone, and that 3,000 subscribers would pay all expenses and approximately $900.00 per year to the Editor.

We therefore recommend:

1. At the suggestion of the Editor we request that the churches take a free will offering to cover the deficit amounting to $2,400.00, the offering to be taken at the earliest possible date, and the money sent to Rev. J. F. McCulloch, Editor, Greensboro, N. C.

2. That there be a Directing Committee of the Annual Conference, consisting of E. L. Douglas, Rev. C. W. Bates, and Rev. J. E. Pritchard, with full authority to appoint or otherwise organize HERALD Subscription Committees in each church; and that a campaign be put on beginning immediately following this conference to raise the circulation to 3,000 copies or more by the securing of NEW subscribers as well as renewals, and that this campaign continue until every church member or home has been solicited, who are not subscribers. The minimum quota for each church or charge to be one subscriber for every ten members.

3. That all pastors give all possible aid to the subscription committee by advertising the campaign from the pulpit and that they begin to do so immediately following this conference, keeping the matter before the people so long as the campaign continues, and making frequent contact with each HERALD Subscription Chairman.

4. That the slogan of this campaign be: "The METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD in every Methodist Protestant Home."

5. That the Conference give Honor Roll recognition in the Journal to those charges which secure their HERALD quotas.

Respectfully submitted,

C. W. BATES,
H. A. GARRETT,
C. L. KOONTZ,
E. L. DOUGLAS,
J. E. PRITCHARD.

A METHOD FOR ELECTING REPRESENTATIVES TO GENERAL CONFERENCE

That preceding the taking of the first ballot there shall be nominations from the floor. Anyone whose nomination has a second may be voted for on the first or second ballot; after that is taken and there be those who have received less than five votes on the second ballot, their names shall be taken from the list of nominees; except when there is no election and there are no names on the list with as any many as five or more votes for them, and the full quota of representatives has not been elected; then nominations shall be made from the floor as before and the election shall proceed as in the first instance until all representatives are duly elected.

2. That the conference shall frown upon every form of electioneering of boosting the names of ministers or laymen for this position of honor and responsibility, either before, or during the sitting of the annual conference or during the session of the electoral college. And any minister or layman known to have been engaged in urging the candidacy of any person for the above position shall be subject to reprimand by the conference.

Statement; I am fully aware that there will be four years before the sitting of another electoral college and the election of representatives to General Conference, and such a proposal ought to have been made at the last conference, as some will say. But I have a presentiment that there was electioneering before our last conference met, that "the slate was made out" before November the 4th and I know from observation, (sight and sound) that men were urged to vote for certain men during the sitting of the electoral college. This I know, of the former I have a presumption, occurred. It is distasteful to me, it smatters too much of the huskings, of low ward politics and ought to be discontinued.

R. M. ANDREWS.

OPTIMISM

The President's Letter

EVANGELISM

"Thy Kingdom Come"

Apportionments

There appeared in the HERALD of last week, as adopted by the conference. We trust that each church may regard these allotments as reasonable, and that wise and earnest plans may be made now at the beginning of the year to raise full budgets. Of course charges with more than one church will apportion these allotments at the first quarterly conference; when churches get their allotments, each member should have a definite amount. When the budget of the local church is thus distributed to the membership there is certainly more hope of its being raised than there can be where no such distribution is made. A definite amount to each individual will tend to arouse interest and a sense of individual responsibility, both of which are necessary before the finances of the church can be raised.

To Our Laymen

The Laymen's Organization that was effected at our recent conference is a recognition of the place that our laymen hold in the management of church matters, and their indispensableness to the success of conference and denominational undertakings. Of course we have always understood this, and recognized it, but never before in a Denomination-wide undertaking such as is contemplated in this organization. Now just this suggestion: Let this new emphasis on Laymen's work in the church find expression in the FIRST QUARTERLY CONFERENCE of this new year, by the readiness of the laymen to take hold of the finances of each church and each charge. This is pre-eminently the work of our laymen, and we hope to see them give themselves to this task at the very beginning of this conference year with renewed zeal and purpose. There will be a new financial day for us when our laymen determine to raise more money for the work of the church. We urge them to speed the dawning.

Omitted

By some mishap, Creswell charge was omitted from the plan of appointments, as given in the HERALD of last week. We apologize both to the charge and the pastor, Rev. J. C. Russell. In spite of our efforts, and the very splendid co-operation of the HERALD, these mistakes just will sometimes happen. Brother Russell goes back to this charge on his second appointment. We hope for him and his people happiness and prosperity during the new conference year.

High Point College Bonds

Plans are being made now for the sale of these bonds in our North Carolina churches, as ordered by the last conference. We bespeak for our people their confidence and their generous co-operation with the College in this movement. Let us say again that these bonds are just as safe as is the Denomination. The Denomination is back of the College, and unless the Denomination fails, the bonds can not go by default. And Denominations do not fail, and do not repudiate their obligations. Let us push this bond sale to a finish at the earliest possible date. High Point College MUST go on in its career of Christian Education.

Unsupplied Charges

We are giving to these points our careful consideration, and provision will be made for them at the very earliest date possible. We hope to make more definite announcement by the next issue of the HERALD. No effort will be lacking on our part to supply each of these unsupplied fields with pastoral service.

English Street

We were with this church on last Sunday, November 15. The Sunday School was in session when we arrived at the church. It was noticeable that the attendance on this date and that of one year ago was exactly the same, 121. One very impressive fact about the school was the large number of children and young people who were present. At least 75 per cent of those present must have been of this class. We are confident that there is a great field here for growth and constructive work. The attendance upon the preaching service was pleasing, and the interest manifested on the part of the hearers was helpful. A business meeting was held upon the conclusion of the morning worship, at which time we discussed with the church the matter of pastoral supply. A committee was appointed to work this out with us. We hope to be able to report something definite and pleasing to the church in a very short while. We enjoy our visit here, and we confidently expect to see a brighter day for this church.

Have Faith in God

"No man can be useful to God unless his soul is aglow with faith in God." This is gleaned from Dr. Chas. Hadden Naber's little book, "Gladness in Christian Living." Dr. Nabers will be recalled by his thrilling message delivered before our recent conference. I wonder if this is not what Jesus had in mind when he said to the Twelve in the presence of the withered fig tree, "Have Faith in God?" He certainly wanted them to be useful to God, and he knew that a thousand hindrances would rise up to prevent their usefulness. Therefore, he said to them, "Have faith in God." Is it too much to think that he is saying just that to all of us, and each of us, just now; and especially those of us whom he has appointed to preach his gospel? Some will go to fish in new waters; others will go back to the same boats and the same nets and to the same waters; and for all, there will be hindrances. Everything will not be just like we would make it, if we could have our own choosing. Frequent associations with intimate friends may have to be interrupted; living conditions and environments that are delightful may have to be given up; and smaller salaries may have to be accepted as compensation for our labors. But what of it? If God has called us to be his ministers, we have His word, "I am with you." And going with that assurance, why should we fear? If he provides homes and friends and food, and raiment, in one place, he will in another. Our business is to go to our assignments, as men sent of God, and preach his gospel in the power and demonstration of the Spirit,—preach it thus from the pulpit; preach it thus in the homes of our people; preach it thus in daily life and conversation; and if we do, he will see to it that “the barrel of meal does not waste, nor the cruse of oil fail.” With an unwavering faith in God, let us go gladly and courageously to our tasks for this new conference year.

Appointments

November 17.—Meeting with Board of Church Extension, Grace Church, Greensboro, 11 A. M.

November 18.—Siler City Church, in business meeting.

November.—First Quarterly Conference, Mt. Pleasant charge, November 28, at 2 P. M. Church: Mt. Pleasant.

November 25.—First Quarterly Conference, Rockingham Church, 7:30 P. M.

“The Lord is thy keeper.”

Fraternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

S. O. S. CALL FOR CHURCH EXTENSION

At a meeting of the Board of Church Extension today it was found that the amount coming to the Board from the Annual Conference Budget is not sufficient to take care of obligations that must be met immediately. Therefore we are turning to the churches in this our time of distress and are asking each church for Five Dollars as an advance payment on the Annual Conference Budget. You get credit for the payment if you designate it Special for Church Extension and at the same time you will be helping the Board of Church Extension out of an embarrassing situation. Pastors and Church Treasurers, will you please attend to this as early as possible. Send the money to the Conference Treasurer as usual.

Thank you, Thank you,

J. E. PRITCHARD, Chairman Bd. Ch. Ex.

A REAL HOME

Since that group of children from our Children's Home was presented to our Annual Conference we have heard many favorable comments. It seems to us there was more personality and individuality in that group than any it has been our privilege to see anywhere. There was no “institutional” expression, or “just so” marching and singing, for they moved with ease and confidence and seemed to be full of the joy of life and living.

We cannot think of our Children's Home as an institution, but as a real home where individuality, personality and character is the true aim of those in charge. That we believe is what puts smiles on their faces and sparkles in their eyes.

Yes, we have there, a group of jolly, pranky, kind-hearted boys that “work while they work and play while they play.” And a group of rollicking and attractive girls that are women when they work and girls when they play.

It's a great place and a great work is being done by Dr. and Mrs. Dixon and the others that are there. Wish we could care for a thousand more like that, but if we cannot, let's love and care for the ones we have and be happy along with them.

R. C. STUBBINS.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

DEAR NORTH CAROLINA FRIEND:

The matter is settled and the thing determined. The attitude of the recent session of the North Carolina Annual Conference is unmistakable. In response to President Humphreys' impassioned appeal, and after careful consideration by a special committee, his program was cordially accepted. It pledged the full support of the conference and the Methodist Protestant people of the Old North State.

This letter is an earnest appeal to keep that promise! Let us put our hands and hearts and souls into this work and do it well. It can be done. It must be done. I believe you are one ready to say, “It will be done.”

There are two individuals who can defeat this project and send High Point College to defeat and ruin:

The one who says, “It can't be done!”

The other, “I can't do a thing.”

A few pessimists can endanger any great enterprise. Give us those who say:

“I believe High Point College is going to succeed”

and

“I'll do my part to make it succeed.”

To do that will bring to us a blessing of the finest kind, one more to count, “and it will surprise us what the Lord has done.”

I move, Mr. President, that we join the Optimists Club!

Dispel the demons of despair and doubt, welcome the angels of hope!

High Point College must not die. And we're not going to let her.

Sincerely yours,

FRANK W. STEPHENSON, Exec. Sec.,
Board of Christian Education.

WHY WE SHOULD DO THIS

Since spending the week with Dr. and Mrs. Dixon and the children, of the Home in High Point last September, and working with them all there, I am interested more than ever in that work. I only wish every pastor had been privileged to enjoy it with me. I am sure that any of you could have done as well as I in the matter of leading and many of you much better.

But here is what I am interested in more than my stay there: What I found out there, about the work and the workers, convinces me that we cannot do too much for them to help them to get on their feet and keep the support where it ought to be.

There are many children there that are going to repay the church richly in the years to come for what they are doing for them. Those little tots are praying for the folks back home that help them. They are taught nothing but to believe God's promises. They are praying for you contributor with a faith that takes no denial. Who knows but some of your blessings have come as a direct answer to some child's prayer at the Home? Many a farmer, many a manufacturer, many a merchant has prospered, not because he gave what he ought, but because somewhere on that farm, somewhere in that mill, behind that counter, some helper prayed and they prospered. If you do not believe this read the account of how those in whose house Joseph stayed prospered.

So then do not count all your prosperity to your own wise foresight, unless you have been honoring God; for it might have come through the prayers and Godly living on the part of one connected with your business who apparently had nothing to do with it. But God controls.

With these thoughts before us, and Thanksgiving time coming, when we all are asked to give at least one day's salary or income to the Home, let us think what would take place if all our folks in North Carolina would do this? Think what would take place if all our people would pay the amount of ONE DOLLAR each! But it will not do to figure too much on that, for there are lots of our folks who are able and will give many dollars in gratitude that day.

The trouble with lots of folks they do not count by what they make, but take the lowest figure of proportions suggested, and then give according to that, if they give at all. So that is why I am not running these figures any further as to what we could do if all should do a certain amount.

Let us roll up a good amount for this Thanksgiving and show that we really do appreciate our blessings and make the Children's Home folks happy, get a blessing out of it ourselves and claim God's promise for being liberal toward the needy ones.

Those children there love Jesus, they will gladly tell you so. They do not mind letting you know where they stand. God bless Dr. Dixon and his faithful helpers and open the hearts of thirty thousand Methodist Protestants in North Carolina as they have never been opened before to these needy yet deserving children, and then to open their pocket books and as the hearts and pocket books are open may He "pour us out a blessing such as we shall not be able to contain."

One who loves all children, especially the orphan.

N. G. BETHEA.

ARMISTICE DAY

By REV. LUTHER K. LONG

The event of central interest to me on Armistice Day was the dedication of the Memorial erected to the honor of the men and women of the District of Columbia who served in the World War.

President Hoover made the principal address. General Pershing and other notables sat on the platform; and John Phillip Sousa, veteran band leader and composer, returned to conduct the Marine Band.

The Memorial is a simple, chaste, and beautiful Greek structure dome in white marble. It stands in a grove near the south side of the reflecting pool between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. Eventually some of the trees will be removed, and the grounds will be beautifully landscaped.

Being so near the Lincoln Memorial, I went over to it again after the conclusion of the dedicatory exercises. This is a spot to which I frequently resort for meditation. As a bit of architecture it excels anything else in Washington, or in the entire country. Its setting is ample, and the landscaper's art—together with the great things in the way of beauty that time will become increasingly attractive. Here will always be a spot for reflection, for appreciation, and for consecration.

In front of the Lincoln Memorial looking toward the east, the eye passes over the reflecting pool and on to the Washington Monument as it rises in solitary beauty to the clouds. Back of the Lincoln Memorial the new Memorial Bridge spans the Potomac river and leads on to Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon.

I could not help noting on this visit that war seemed to have the center of the stage. Here, within the range of my vision, were monuments commemorating the deeds of leaders, officers, and men who served in the Revolutionary War, in the war for the preservation of the Union, in the war with Spain, and in the recent World War.

But as I think of it, these monuments are not so much memorials of war as they are tributes to character. The Washington Monument is primarily to be taken as a tribute to the character of that great man who was only incidentally a great military leader. The Lincoln Memorial is the tribute of a grateful people to a great common man, who was bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh and who could hold together in his large heart all the people in this beloved land. The Memorial Bridge, the markers in Arlington Cemetery, the District Memorial just dedicated, all testify to our gratitude for the service of men of line and officers who have stood ready to serve, for the common good, in whatever capacity required.

Henceforth I shall feel myself free to enjoy to the full the beauty and uplift of patriotic monuments. I shall see the value of the character intended to be commemorated. I shall hope that increasingly good taste will be displayed in subjects and treatment. I shall expect that less and less in the way of references to blood and carnage will be thought of as necessary to keep fresh in memory the service of men who have given themselves up in time of war. More and more there should be a merging of all memorials into the idea of civic, educational, scientific, moral, and religious service.

PRAYER AND POWER

Prayer and power are synonyms in the Christian's vocabulary. The record in Acts 4:31 is that when they had prayed the place was shaken where they were assembled. There are thirty-one illustrations in this Book (Acts) of what prayer is and does. * * *

Unfortunately that which we sometimes call prayer is merely putting together pious phrases, without thought, without passion, without faith. * * * They (the disciples) came to Jesus asking that He would teach them to pray with a new emphasis, a new intent, with a new significance.

Prayer when rightly spoken precedes everything that is worth while in spiritual conquest. Evangelism is always born in prayer. The ministry and the mission fields are recruited from praying homes, as the sons and daughters of praying fathers and mothers."—Selected.

OUR STORY PAGE

NORMA'S THANKSGIVING

"I don't see the use in Thanksgiving Day, anyway," grumbled Norma. "Just to eat a bigger dinner than usual, and say how thankful you are. It doesn't get you anywhere, does it?"

"Who started this thing, anyway?" inquired her brother, apparently with a laudable desire for information. "Let's get busy, Norma, and find out what it's all about. Then maybe we'll find out whether we have anything to be thankful for."

Norma looked at him suspiciously, but his face was perfectly grave. "When was the first Thanksgiving appointed, do you know?"

"Of course I do," said Norma indignantly. "Everybody knows it was started by Governor Bradford, to show the colonists' thankfulness for being taken care of during the hard times they had, getting through their first months after they landed on Plymouth Rock. And how they had lots of deer and wild turkeys, and feasted for—how many days was it? And the Indian chiefs came to the feast, and all that. I've studied history as well as you. But I'm talking about Thanksgiving at the present day. It seems to me just an empty form. People ought to be thankful all the year 'round, not just on one day."

"So they ought," agreed Bob, soberly. "But it does bring things to mind, when we have a special day to celebrate them; and then it gives us the opportunity to pass on some of the kindness we have received."

"But there is nobody in this town who needs any kindness. They all have more money, and better houses, and prettier clothes than we have. I'm not specially thankful for this little shack—" Norma looked disdainfully at the pretty bungalow, set in the shade of two spreading oaks.

"It looks like a pretty good home, to me," said Bob. "I know there are richer people in town, but I don't believe anybody has a better father and mother. And we always have plenty to eat."

"Oh, yes," agreed Norma, rising from her hammock and ending the discussion by walking away. But she could not help hearing Bob's parting shot:

"It's well Thanksgiving is a week away. Think about it a little and maybe you'll find you have something to be thankful for, after all."

On the day before Thanksgiving, the little bungalow was fragrant with odors of turkey and mince pies and other good things, for Mother Raymond believed in Thanksgiving, if her daughter did not, and meant to make it a happy day for family. She did her baking the day before, because she wanted to invite some guests who did not often have such fare to share their blessings with them, and there would be plenty to do on the day itself.

It was nearly time for the children to come in from school, when the fire bell rang out with a clangor that made everyone jump and run. Mother Raymond ran to the window, and beheld the neighbors running toward her own house, screaming "Fire" at every step, and, running out, she saw that the roof of the bungalow was in a blaze—a terrifying sight.

Bob and Norma, hurrying home from school, saw the smoke and the crowd running, and ran too, to find the yard full of people, the engine playing vigorously upon the burning roof, and the neighbors busy bringing out the furniture.

It was all over in a few moments. The fire was extinguished, and the little home stood safe, but with a great hole in the roof, and everything drenched with water and blackened with smoke, the pretty lawn and flower beds trampled and ruined. But Mrs. Raymond, with her children safe around her, was saying fervently:

"How thankful I am! All safe, no one hurt! What cause we have for thanksgiving!"

Norma echoed the words in her heart. It had come over her as she watched the devouring flames, that she loved the little bungalow home, after all, and things were never so bad but that they might have been worse. Suppose they had been left homeless on the very day before Thanksgiving!

"What do you, say now, Norma, about having something to be thankful for?" whispered Bob, when, after restoring the house to order, the family prepared to sleep in the part of the house that had escaped damage from fire and water.

Norma looked at him with her heart in her eyes. "I'll say we have, Bob. I never realized it before, and I don't know how to be thankful enough. I'll never say again that there is no use in Thanksgiving Day!"

That was the happiest Thanksgiving Day the Raymonds had ever spent. Mother Raymond "passed on" the kindness she had received to the poor neighbors whom she gathered about her hospitable table to enjoy the dinner which had happily escaped destruction. And no heart there was happier or more grateful than Norma's.—Selected.

THE GREATEST POWER

The nearer we are to the Cross, the nearer we shall be to Jesus the King of Jews; and our heart will be filled with His Love that embraces all. Even the Jew and Christian—in order to learn the true Mind of Christ, and also to learn to love the Jews whom Christ loved during His whole earthly ministry; and for whom He prayed on the Cross. He who is still their King is waiting for the time when they will return to crown Him King over the House of Israel! At the Cross Jew and Christian must meet to abandon all hate, suspicion and indifference—(all of which are anti-Christian in origin)—and be filled with the Spirit of Christ's Love, that "doth not behave itself unseemly, seeking not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things" (I Cor. 13:5-7)—I. H. C. A. Report.

"We thank Thee, Lord, for all Thou art doing among Thine ancient people. May the Message of the Cross bind them and us together in a Heavenly Unity. Keep us all faithful to the Cross day by day, until we behold Thy Glory!

"Even so, come, Lord Jesus."—Life and Liberty.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw Charge.—On Sunday, November 15th, Bro. Whitehead held his first service for the new Conference year. He said it wouldn't be called a sermon, but to the writer it was a sermon and a very good one indeed.

Mrs. J. J. Crawford was elected financial secretary at the Annual Conference for the Saxapahaw charge and she and Bro. Whitehead come back to us. We are very fortunate to get him back. He is a fine Christian character and a very good preacher. It seems that he always says just the right thing in the right place.

On November 8th Mr. Henry Easley and Miss Beaver of Burlington came to Orange Chapel and gave us a beautiful musical program, songs and piano solos. Everybody seemed to enjoy the program fine. A free will offering was taken. They are doing a great work in carrying the Gospel in song.

The Ladies' Auxiliary meets every first Sunday afternoon. There is lots of interest being shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Colon Thompson intend moving from this neighborhood some time soon. It makes our hearts sad to have to give them up because they are the very best neighbors and good church workers, but let's hope they will come back and worship with us often.

On Saturday before the fifth Sunday in November the first quarterly conference is to be held at Orange Chapel at 2:30 in the afternoon. As we start the new Conference year may we start with the determination to do our best. Though sometimes our path may be rough and rugged let's carry our cross with a smile. REPORTER.

Asheboro.—On Sunday morning, November 1st, the newly-elected church officers were installed; also the congregation united in an impressive celebration of the Lord's Supper. With the evening service the Conference year was closed, thus finishing a splendid year's work by our pastor, Rev. R. C. Stubbins.

Our fourth quarterly conference voted unanimously for the return of Mr. Stubbins for another year.

The reporter attended Conference as delegate from this church, and enjoyed all the sessions, the fellowship of the Christian people and the splendid hospitality of the High Point people. We are grateful to the Conference for the return of our pastor for another year. The work of the new Conference year is going forward as outlined by the Conference. Mr. Stubbins preached to a large congregation last Sunday morning, using as his subject "The Training Camps of Life." He discussed Camp No. 1 as the home, Camp No. 2, the community and Camp No. 3, the school. We were very glad to have Mrs. Stubbins worship with us at this time; she is very much improved in health after several weeks of rest and treatment at home.

Our people were told of the sale of bonds and plans are being made to sell the $5,000 worth of Bonds for High Point College, which has been allotted to the Asheboro church. Miss Fern Way has been elected agent for the Herald for this year. We are sure our people will ably support her in this work.

The union Thanksgiving service will be held in our church on Thanksgiving morning; the sermon will be preached by the new M. E. pastor, Rev. R. S. Truesdale. The offering will go to the various orphanages.

The contract for our parsonage has been let to Mr. W. B. Lamb, of our church (Burrow and Lamb, contractors), and work has begun. Mrs. Frank Phillips, Miss Esther Ross, Mrs. L. D. Burkhead and Mrs. N. M. Harrison, the lady members of the plan committee, had the privilege of shoveling the first dirt on Monday morning.

The Philathea class delighted the people of the town with a three-act comedy, "No Men Admitted," at the courthouse last Friday evening. A nice sum was realized. All were well entertained from beginning to finish. The characters were fine and deserve much credit for the splendid presentation. Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., coached the play.

Circle No. 3 of the Auxiliary will give a Thanksgiving dinner Tuesday, November 24, from 5:30 to 8:30 p. m. in the showrooms of the Hayworth Motor Company, Hedrick building, on South Fayetteville street.

We are sorry to lose Rev. W. H. Neese and Rev. Joel B. Trogdon from District No. 7, but we welcome Rev. G. L. Reynolds and Rev. Q. L. Joyner into this District.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich have returned from Miami, Florida, where they recently visited relatives for several days.

The many friends and relatives of Mrs. George Ross, of Raleigh, are glad to know of the improved condition of her father, Dr. W. R. Goley of Graham, who has been very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bost, of High Point, announce the birth of a son at High Point Hospital on Wednesday, November 10. Mrs. Bost was Miss Isley Smith of Asheboro and is a member of our church.

Mr. W. F. Redding, who has been indisposed for a few weeks, is in the High Point Hospital receiving treatment.

Mrs. Rufus Routh underwent an emergency operation at High Point Hospital on Wednesday night, November 11, and is very ill at this time. We are hoping for a complete recovery of these two valued church members. LOLLIE JONES, Reporter.

Mount Pleasant, Mount Pleasant Charge.—"The glory of God is stamped upon the whole universe," declared Rev. Mr. Neese. Since our new pastor, Dr. T. M. Johnson, could not fill his appointment November 15, Rev. W. H. Neese preached. He read the eighth division of Psalms, using the entire Psalm as a text. He said that everything was serving the purpose for which it was created, save one—man. Man has done well in ruling the various things of the universe, but has failed to master self. Mr. Neese pointed out some of the deplorable situations that come as a result of man's failing to have dominion over himself.

The church auditorium was filled with people who wished to hear the first sermon of the new Conference year. Rev. J. A. Burgess was among the visitors who worshiped with us Sunday.

Our Sunday school attendance still continues to be good, averaging about 200 each Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid of our church is making plans for planting shrubbery on the church grounds this fall.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor is holding its regular meetings on the second and fourth Sunday mornings after Sunday school. Recently the Senior and Young People's Societies held a joint meeting, which proved to be helpful and inspirational. November 22 Mrs. H. Floyd Amick is leader for the Young People's meeting.

The first quarterly conference meets at Mount Pleasant November 28, at 2:30 o'clock. MARGARET CAUSEY, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—Yesterday was a good day. Everything starting off fine for the new year.

Thanksgiving services are being planned as follows: Thursday, November 26, Union Grove, 11 a. m.; Thursday, November 26, Efland, 7 p. m.; Sunday, November 29, Chestnut Ridge, 11 a. m.; Sunday, November 29, Hebron, 3 p. m.

Please bring or send your contributions for the orphan children. Everyone is asked to contribute an amount equal to one day's income or more. Let's do the very best we can for our own M. P. Children's Home as well as other institutions of like nature.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Spring Hill Church, North Davidson Ct.—Our new pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, was with us Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He delivered a wonderful message, which we all enjoyed.

Miss Louvina Cecil, one of our active church members, passed away Thursday evening at 9 o'clock. She leaves one half sister, Mrs. I. I. York; two brothers, Barney and John Cecil; and a host of friends. The funeral was held at Spring Hill church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Officiating ministers were Rev. H. L. Powell, Dr. George R. Brown, Rev. M. C. Connor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, and Rev. D. R. Williams. Interment took place in the church cemetery, the mound being covered with many beautiful floral designs.

The Junior C. E. Society met Sunday morning with Margaret Swaim presiding. They finished electing new officers for the coming year.

The Senior C. E. Society will meet Sunday evening, November 22, at 7 o'clock. Miss Votra Swaim will be the leader, and a Thanksgiving program is being prepared. Everyone is invited to come.

E. YORK, Reporter.

South Lexington, Mount Carmel.—We were more than glad to welcome Rev. Mr. Isley back for his fourth year's work with South Lexington charge. He has served us very faithfully and we hope he will continue to be blessed in his work. We are deeply grateful to Bro. Isley and mother for the faithful and untiring way in which they have labored with us. May this be a great year for both pastor and people.

The first Sunday in November we were delighted to have Rev. J. Adrian Thompson, pastor of Democrat charge, preach for us. Rev. Mr. Thompson delivered a very helpful and uplifting sermon. At this service the ordinance of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the last appointment before Conference, and also installed so they might be ready for the year's work: Mr. H. V. Swiegood was again elected Sunday school superintendent; Mr. H. L. Swiegood, assistant superintendent; both have served in this capacity for a number of years; Mrs. R. M. Fritts and Mr. J. T. Swiegood were again elected as class leaders; trustees, Mr. R. M. Fritts, Mr. R. M. Rowe, Mr. C. A. Berrier, Mr. John Rowe and Mr. J. I. Swiegood; stewards, Mr. R. M. Rowe, Mr. Grady Swiegood, Mr. R. I. Fritts, Mr. W. W. Swiegood and Miss Beatus Waitman; Miss Zula Fritts was re-elected reporter.

Sunday, November 15, proved a record-breaking day for Mount Carmel; 116 were present for Sunday school with several more coming in for preaching service.

Rev. Mr. Isley started off his new year's work with another of his splendid sermons. We are looking forward to one of the greatest year's work in the history of the church.

REPORTER.

Pine Church.—I am glad we have Bro. Bingham back on our charge. We are having Sunday school every Sunday. We have not a large attendance but we are hoping for more every Sunday. We pray for people to get interested in going to church to keep the work of the Lord moving on. It seems that people don't care for the church as they should.

Pray for us that we may do more for kingdom service than ever before.

MRS. F. L. SMITH, Reporter.

Bethany Church.—Professor Hinshaw, of High Point College, spoke at Bethany Sunday, November 15, on the value of higher education and what High Point College is doing toward religious education.

Rev. D. I. Garner, former pastor of Bethany church, visited the church Sunday afternoon and made a short talk.

MISS OLA KINLEY.

Burlington, First Church.—Yesterday marked the first Sunday of our new Conference year. All members present pledged themselves to give and do their best this year and to co-operate wholeheartedly with the pastor, Dr. W. F. Paschall. In regard to the musical selection, "The Victory Depends on You," rendered by the choir yesterday, Dr. Paschall brought this question before the church: "If the victory depends on you and me, what kind of a result will there be at the end of next Conference year?" He pressed upon the minds and hearts of the people to help make it a success and a real victory. This church greatly appreciates the work our pastor has done and is still doing and the members are glad to have him back with us another year. We feel sure that with his guidance and help we will do much better work this year.

On Tuesday evening, November 10th, at the Hut, the annual Workers' Council Banquet was held. Fifty or more persons were present. Mr. C. C. Lindley, new superintendent of the Sunday school, acted as toastmaster. At the beginning all guests were introduced. Songs were in charge of Dr. and Mrs. Paschall. The stunts, which created much laughter, were conducted by Tula Paul. The spice of the program was Miss Frances Browning, who recited several humorous selections. She kept everyone laughing from beginning until the end. Talks were as follows:

"Why It Is Important for Teachers to Be On Time," Miss Susie Stafford.

"The Need of Leadership Training Schools," Robert Wagoner.

"Duties of a Teacher," Mr. M. A. Coble.

Prizes were awarded to Miss Susie Stafford, Mr. A. M. Wagoner and Mrs. J. G. Rogers for holding the lucky turkey, pumpkin and pencil.

The Business Girls' Circle met with Misses Mary and Elizabeth Miller Monday evening, November 2nd, with 17 present. The devotion was conducted by the president, Arthula Cheek, after which the chorus, "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me," was sung. The secretary gave her report, roll call and dues were collected. Thirty-five visits to the sick, flowers sent to four, cards to one and trays to two were reported at this meeting. We were glad to welcome into our society another new member, Miss Mildred Steele. A turkey supper was planned for Saturday, November 21st, after which the circle adjourned with an invitation to meet with Tula Paul next month. During the social hour everyone told about the craziest thing she ever did. The hostess served refreshments.

The Christian Endavor had a real interesting program last night. Miss Sara Thompson was the leader. She had several items of interest on her program. The C. E. Society of the Second Presbyterian church of this city visited at this meeting. Miss Frances Browning is the president of this society. We were very glad to have them come and visit us.

Friendship Station Since there will be some moving of ministers since Conference and many reporters will wait, we are sending a report of our first meeting the Ladies' Aid Society for the new Conference year. The meeting was held at the parsonage with the new president, Mrs. C. R. Hatley, presiding. After the business part of the program, which consisted of the forming of our Sunday Eggs Club and birthday offering, which is to be used as a flower fund, Mrs. Williams, assisted by Mesdames J. H. Harkey and D. W. Sides, served refreshments to the following: Mesdames R. H. Shoe, J. A. Lowder, C. R. Hatley, J. W. Almond, Attie Hatley, T. J. Lefler, Raymon Almond and Frances Sides.

Mesdames J. W. Almond and C. R. Hatley will entertain the society at the next meeting in the home of Mrs. Hatley.

MRS. D. W. SIDES, Reporter.

Charlotte.—We are delighted to welcome our new pastor for this year, Rev. R. M. Andrews, and his charming family. We are looking forward to a great year in the Lord's work. There is a wonderful atmosphere of good will and hearty co-operation manifest among the church folk.

Now if you would see and hear something, just come see our children march in S.S. from classes and hear the different classes of the Sunday school conduct the opening and closing exercises. You will then find out whether or not it is good to have them go—and you will really want to come, too.

The officers of the various organizations have been duly installed by the pastor for the year. A new committee was created to work in conjunction with the trustees, a finance committee. This committee has already found work to do.

The Junior C. E. Society is surely a live wire. It is an inspiration to attend their meetings and witness their interest. The young folk have a wide awake C. E. Society also. Come with them and they will show you "It can be done!" Interest is increasing, also attendance.

Circles 1 and 2 of the Woman's Auxiliary held a joint meeting last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ledbetter. Devotional was conducted by Mrs. McCall; question box was in charge of Mrs. Daughtery, which was most interesting and helpful. Mrs. R. M. Andrews gave a most interesting and helpful talk on Stewardship. Various and sundry plans for replenishing the treasury were discussed, and a traveling basket was started out by Mrs. Ledbetter; also little aprons with a verse in the pocket—a penny for every inch the waist is around. Mrs. Stegall offers a prize to the one bringing in the most over a dollar. Watch us work. After the meeting delicious refreshments were served.

During the winter the mid-week prayer service will be held at the parsonage.

Next Sunday night the Choral Society from High Point College is to broadcast over Station WBT, Charlotte, at 10:30. Tune in for a delightful musical treat. We are hoping they will be with us for our 7:30 service at the church.

You who have heard Dr. Andrews know how good and helpful his sermons are. Sunday morning he surely gave us much to think on. James 1:12: "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him." Subject, "The Blessing of Enduring Temptation." Religion, said James, is something worked out in you—through emotion, judgment and contact. An open mind will be taught by past mistakes. God allows us to be tempted that we may grow and enjoy our triumphs over sin. We cannot get something for nothing; things worth while must be won, fought for. You cannot cloister a life and make it strong. We must meet the test; we must separate the good from the bad to obtain by the grace of God the crown, which is power, authority, courage, and glory.

The evening sermon was equally fine. Proverbs 4:23: "Keep thy heart with all diligence." We must fight to win—as a man thinketh so is he. When we love the church and Jesus Christ we will love to do His will. Do not forget to pray, that our thoughts may be from pure hearts.

I trust those of our members who could not be present may get in a small way, at least, some food for thought. REPORTER.

Liberty, Davidson Charge.—The church work has been moving along right well. Our pastor filled his first appointment since Conference on the past third Sunday. The attendance was good. He talked to us from Christ's Sermon on the Mount, and his subject was, "Christ Teaching." He preached to us an interesting sermon and I am quite sure all present enjoyed it. We are very glad to have Rev. E. A. Bingham back with us for a new year's work. If it is the Lord's will that nothing should prevent, so we extend to him a cordial welcome.

Our Sunday school is still running and with a very good attendance. On the fourth Sunday in this month the Township Sunday School Institute will be held at Gravel Hill Baptist church, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The first quarterly meeting will be held at Lineberry church on Saturday before the third Sunday in December, if nothing prevents.

We welcome one and all to attend our church services. Preaching third Sunday at 2:30 p. m.; Sunday school, 1:45.

I close with best wishes to the church work and Herald.

ANNIE HILL, Reporter.

Winston-Salem, First.—Just to say our reception here has been so cordial we are indeed glad to be returned for the second year. Things started off well yesterday with good attendance at all the services. We are hoping for a good year.

Brother E. M. Routh, who had a long siege in the hospital and a serious operation, has been able to be at church for the past few Sundays. A great grief has come to him in the death of his wife.

Mr. Clyde Tise continues seriously at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tise.

Our every-member canvass will be made next Sunday afternoon.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Rose Hill Church.—Another conference year has passed with much success; but we still hope for a better year in 1932.

Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Love, who served us last year, rendered splendid work. I am sure his work has meant something worth while to the church. We are indeed sorry to lose Bro. Love, but wherever he is located next year we know he will still continue his good work and may the Lord bless him in his service.

The C. E. Societies were re-organized November 8. We hope to have another successful year.

New officers for our church were elected and re-elected. Mrs. H. A. Marze, who served as superintendent last year, was re-elected for the coming year.

With our new pastor, Rev. Mr. Reed, we hope to accomplish some real work. Our plans suggest a great year's work.

EDNA SWANNER, Reporter.

West Forsyth.—The writer has entered upon the work of the fourth year as pastor of West Forsyth Charge. We have been cordially received by the people of the charge and are glad of the privilege of serving this good people for another year. Our first service for the new Conference year was held at Pleasant Hill church last Sunday morning. There was a good attendance and splendid interest shown in the service. We were very glad to have visitors in the service. Among those in attendance were Prof. Carl M. Felts, principal of the consolidated school in the community, and Mr. A. L. Thomas, also member of the faculty of the school. Professor Felts and Mr. Thomas each taught Sunday school classes during the Sunday school session, and remained for the preaching service.

A splendid addition to the furnishings of the parsonage was made last week. It is a new "Carolina Beauty" range, which is a beautiful and serviceable piece of kitchen furniture. The women of the different churches on the charge made up the money for the purchase of the range. The pastor and family are very appreciative of the addition to the parsonage furnishings.

After the service at Pleasant Hill last Sunday the pastor and family, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Long and granddaughter, Frances, went to the home of Bro. Houston Hunter, a member of Pleasant Hill church, where a splendid birthday dinner was enjoyed. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Amelia Doub, aged 90 years, mother of Mrs. Hunter and sister of Bro. Ellis Long and Bro. J. W. Long, of Pleasant Hill church. About 200 relatives, neighbors and friends were present.

A large attendance was present for the prayer service at Tabernacle church last Sunday night. It was the privilege of the pastor to be present for a part of the service and speak to the gathering. These prayer meetings have been held there for several weeks, the people of the church and community gathering each Sunday night for the service, with a different leader for each meeting.

Our appointment for next Sunday will be at Harmony Grove church at 11 a. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

South Lexington Church.—We started the year off in a fine spirit. There were 257 present for Sunday school, which is a good number to start the year off.

We were very glad indeed to have the Conference send Bro. Isley back to us to begin his fourth year's work with us.

In our morning service Bro. Isley delivered a very forceful message to the large audience. He urged that we strive to make this Conference year the greatest one in the history of the church.

In our evening service we were very glad to have Rev. O. C. Loy with us to preach for us; he delivered a great message to the large crowd present. His subject was "Jesus Christ, the Savior of the World." We learned to love Bro. Loy when he helped Bro. Isley in a revival meeting here two years ago. We are glad to have him near us on his new work this year and we wish for him a good year.

REPORTER.

Friendship, Shiloh Charge.—We, the Friendship people, are very happy indeed over the return of our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, who has been with us seven years and has been so faithful that we have a stronger feeling of affection for him than ever. We never grow tired of his great messages; they are always new and inspiring to us. We pray that we all may be of more service to our pastor any church than we have been.

Sunday morning, November 8th, the Christian Endeavor Society had charge of the 11 o'clock hour.

The following officers of the church were elected for 1932: Sunday school superintendent, W. M. Byerly; assistant, Henry Shoaf; secretaries, Adele Phillips and Catherine Freedle; class leaders, Mrs. Zeb Snider and Roy Phillips; trustees, Isiah Miller, J. A. Jordan, L. E. Phillips, N. W. Essex, and W. D. Walser; stewards, J. W. Walser, Harper Shoaf, W. C. Lanier, B. L. Kountz, Juanita Phillips, Bertha Delapay, and Lelia Byerly; pianist, Elizabeth Walser; reporters, Adele Phillips and Catherine Freedle; sexton, R. L. York.

We have several sick ones in our community at this time; hope they all will soon be better and able to attend church.

Our Sunday school is getting along just as well as can be expected without our superintendent, W. M. Byerly, who is in Baltimore, Maryland, taking treatment and is improving slowly. We all are anxious for him to get well and come back to Sunday school.

The Christian Endeavor had an interesting lesson Sunday night, November 15th, with a large crowd present. We were glad to have so many visitors with us. Visitors are always welcome.

ADELE PHILLIPS, Reporter.

State Street, Lexington.—We are glad to welcome our pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, again to our midst. The goal he has set for advancement and progress is a high and worthy one and we pledge him our efforts and co-operation to make the plans mature.

A week ago last Friday night a congregational meeting was called and responded to by almost the entire membership. Sandwiches and coffee were served in the church dining room preceding a short devotional period, after which Mr. Hendry put his program for the year before the audience. It was adopted unanimously and enthusiastically by all present.

Again at the beginning of the new Conference year we gratefully acknowledge our Heavenly Father's goodness to us in that not a member of our church has been called in death since we organized eight years ago.

REPORTER.

Winston, First Church. The dawn of a new Conference year in our church life. No doubt, already in many hearts there is a desire to go forward, to do more and better work in this new year than ever before for humanity and the Kingdom.

Our pastor, Rev. J. E. Pritchard, was in the pulpit Sunday morning, as happy and friendly as ever. We were delighted to have Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard back with us this year, and it is hoped bigger and better things may be done this year than ever before. It takes a good leader for a church or organization of any kind to succeed. First Church, Winston, has a splendid leader—all the leadership that could be sought or needed in a church, no doubt, can be found in Mr. Pritchard, we think. Mrs. Pritchard is a splendid worker and leader in the women's work and all those who have associated with her have learned lessons from her smiling quietness and have grown to love and respect her very much.

A very effective sermon was brought last Sunday morning, the theme being "The Church's Supreme Opportunity." Since Christianity is in the background, so far as the secular schools are concerned it is therefore the duty of the Sunday school and organizations of the church to train its children and supply their spiritual needs. Every church should train, as well as possible, its young people, who are soon to become teachers, preachers, and co-workers in the church. The one Opportunity and the "Supreme Opportunity" of the church is to teach and drill into the very soul and life of its young the godly way of living and help them to help others by doing the right thing as they grow older. "Go ye therefore and teach all nations," saith the Lord, "baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Bro. Pritchard's sermon was helpful and strengthening to all who heard. It instilled in the minds of teachers and workers to put forth more effort in order to accomplish better results in the coming year.

A meeting of the Workers' Council of the Sunday school was announced for Thursday evening. Circle No. 2 of the Auxiliary will serve supper at 6:30 and the Workers' Council will be held just afterward. The board of stewards will meet following adjournment of the former meeting on Thursday evening.

We wish to commend High Point College on its choir. Those who have had the opportunity of hearing their splendid singing would certainly like to hear them again.

PAULINE BRANSON, Reporter.

Bethel, Alamance.—The Woman's Auxiliary held its fall thank-offering service on Sunday, November 15. The program consisted of a devotional service conducted by the president of the society, Mrs. Lou McPherson, with reading of a portion of Scripture and prayer led by Rev. G. W. Holmes. Special music was rendered by Miss Opal Cook, Mesdames O. Cook, E. P. Dixon, Robert Holman and Messrs. W. R. Foust, G. L. Roberson, J. H. Woody and Sweat. An inspiring address entitled "The Life Beautiful," was delivered by Mr. E. P. Dixon, superintendent of the Eli Whitney High School. He placed special emphasis upon giving as an important factor in forming the beautiful life.

The offering was $9.50.

The people of Bethel are glad to have Rev. J. A. Burgess returned to them as their pastor. He is now on a two weeks' vacation, the first he has ever taken in the 26 years of his ministry, and has the good wishes of his people for a most pleasant trip and safe return home.

We are glad to add two new families to the list of subscribers to our church paper, namely, A. T. Thompson and O. C. Braxton, and we hope to add more soon.

BESSIE HOLMES.

Shiloh.—Shiloh is sincerely rejoicing because our beloved pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, has returned to labor in this field again. Our fellowship in service through the past seven years has been one of those priceless possessions that money can never buy and time cannot erase. Our earnest prayer is that Bro. Troxler may lead his whole flock on even higher planes, and through even greener pastures than ever before. We, as his flock, pledge our wholehearted co-operation, praying that we may all be one in Christ.

For his first sermon of this year, Bro. Troxler chose this vital text from Luke 10:42: "But one thing is needful." Some of the thoughts from his message follow:

Jesus loved to go to the home of Mary and Martha for rest and sympathy and love. Martha busied herself to make Him physically comfortable, but Mary sat at His feet and let her soul feed on the bread of life. When Martha complained that Mary did not also serve, Jesus said: "Martha, thou art troubled about many things, but one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her." If one should make a list of everything he needed he might have a long list, but if he should have to cut it down to one thing, that one need would be Jesus Christ. When He comes into our lives He "supplies all our need according to his riches in glory." The learned Nicodemus needed Jesus; Paul, the zealous Pharisee, needed Jesus; the demon-possessed man of the tombs needed Jesus, and He brought to him health and peace and joy and spirit of service.

Even though the world may not think so, yet its great and only real need is Jesus today. Without Him, leagues and peace pacts and peace conferences are worthless. The nations need Jesus, and with Him harmony would reign and war would be no more, for love would rule and "love works no ill to his neighbor."

The community needs Jesus and with Him envy and all ill-feeling passes away. The church needs Jesus and with Him organizations and finances are cared for in their proper place, and salvation of souls becomes the chief aim. And when Christ is talked, loved, and served in the home, there will be no more cry of need and depression, for to sit at His feet is the good part, "and all these things shall be added."

Shiloh sends greetings and sympathy to our beloved brother of Friendship church, W. M. Byerly, and commends him to One who is able to do above all we ask or think.

MRS. W. L. SHOAF, Reporter.

First Church, High Point.—Beginning next Sunday, November 22nd, the following week will be known as Honor Week. At the Sunday morning service Mr. E. L. Douglas, chairman of the Budget Committee, made a talk to the congregation, stating that our budget amounts and the church debt have been grouped together, and a statement of the total amount has been mailed to every member. Next Sunday from 1:30 to 5 o'clock p. m. the stewards will be at the church to take the pledges of the members, and for one hour each evening during the week except Saturday.

At the 11 o'clock service Rev. R. I. Farmer spoke according to the order of the Annual Conference on "Christian Education in a Day of Re-building." He stressed the necessity of supporting the College, and urged the purchase of bonds being offered in the present campaign. He said that when our forefathers came to America, they first built a log cabin for a home, then one for a church, and still another for a school. Christ Himself placed emphasis on trained leadership. Plenty of thinking is going on, but we need more Christian thinking. Civilization has waited for trained leaders. Lloyd Garrison, Charles Sumner, and Harriet Beecher Stowe were leaders against slavery. Education is development of our faculties, and it makes us calm in adversity, sane in living, and serene in a crisis. This day of rebuilding is confronted with problems of both head and heart. The home, the public school, and the church must be supplemented by the small Christian college. Dr. H. L. Feeman, president of our own Adrian College, said: "The American church college has never failed our country in any crisis." There is no certain fact that we can leave out Christ and still be successful. I was greatly impressed as I stood yesterday in that vast M. E. Conference at Asheville and the Bishop asked every minister who would pledge allegiance to the church in this crisis to come forward and take his hand, and they came to a man, some with tears streaming down their faces, others singing the songs of Zion.

Since the last report the following new members have united with our membership: Mrs. James E. Perryman, Jr., Miss Annie Farrington, Misses Millicent and Frances Rich, Misses Mary Anne Coe, Daisy Simpson, Annabelle Thompson, and Mayme Ellis. The following of the Children's Home family: Edith, Helen, and Ralph Brewer, Margaret Ballinger, Jewel and Margaret Campbell, Elizabeth and Wilma Cashatt, Maggie Dixon, Louise and Mary Hamin, Claude and Mary Shanklin, Lucille Lanier, Rosella Modlin, Charlotte McGee, and Clara Almond.

The Auxiliary Circles held meetings on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock: No. 4 with Mrs. G. I. Humphreys, No. 5 with Mrs. H. U. Oakes, No. 6 with Mrs. P. E. Lindley, No. 7 with Mrs. J. T. Ryan, No. 8 with Mrs. C. C. Robbins.

At the Senior C. E. Society meeting on Monday evening the topic, "What Is the Purpose of Life," was discussed.

The usual mid-week prayer service will be held Wednesday evening.

At a congregational meeting after the morning service on Sunday it was voted to extend an invitation for the General Conference to meet in High Point in May, 1936. This was the suggestion of the Annual Conference in recent session here. The invitation will be tendered by the North Carolina delegates to the 1932 convention, which will meet in Columbus, Ohio, next May. For the first time, if the bid is accepted, this large body, usually attended by 200 to 300 delegates and officials, will convene in this city. This session will undoubtedly be an important and forward-looking one, from the fact that action on the matter of merging the three great bodies of Methodism will likely be taken at that Conference.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. G. Ray Jordan, at the Annual Conference in Asheville, on last Sunday morning, President G. I. Humphreys of High Point College filled the pulpit of Wesley Memorial church in a most acceptable manner, and delivered an inspiring sermon on "Christian Education." He stressed the fact that both education and religion are vital to make a well-rounded man or woman, neither being adequate without the other. At the evening service Dr. Paul S. Kennett of the Chair of History in the College filled the pulpit, and spoke on "A Man of Valor." Large congregations greeted the speakers on both occasions, Wesley Memorial being the largest church in the city.

Miss Louvina Cecil, a sister of the late Rev. C. A. Cecil, an honored member and at one time president of the N. C. Conference, passed away last Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at her residence after an illness of several months' duration. "Miss Vina" was loved and highly esteemed by a large circle of relatives and friends in High Point and the surrounding community. She often attended services at First Church while in good health, but retained her membership at Spring Hill, Davidson County, for 35 years. Funeral services were conducted at the latter place by Dr. Geo. R. Brown, of Reidsville; Rev. G. L. Reynolds, of High Point; Rev. D. R. Williams, and others Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and interment was made in the cemetery there.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. I. I. York, and two brothers, Yancey and John Cecil, all of High Point, and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Rev. R. I. Farmer drove to Asheville last Friday, and bore fraternal greetings from the Methodist Protestant church to the Western N. C. Conference of the M. E. Church, South, on Saturday, and we feel confident that he made a fine impression on that body.

We regret to learn that Mrs. C. L. Whitaker was called to Lexington on Monday by the critical illness of her sister, Mrs. John C. Hunt.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its annual bazaar and turkey supper Thursday from 2 to 7 o'clock p. m. Many useful old fancy articles of embroidery and handiwork will be on sale, and a turkey supper with all accessories will be served at 60 cents per plate.

Mrs. B. F. Montgomery and daughters, Misses Jewel and Frances, went to Chapel Hill last week to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas A. Rosemond.

We are pleased to know that Miss Vera Idol, who came home from New York on account of illness, and spent two weeks in Guilford General Hospital, has improved and is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. S. S. Coe on Hillcrest Drive, and next week will go to Aberdeen, N. C., to be the guest of Miss Page for several weeks. Miss Idol went to New York to finish work in Columbia University for a Doctor's degree.

The numerous friends of Mr. June A. Gray, who has been ill for nearly two weeks, will rejoice to know that he is able to sit up a short while every day now.

We are delighted to see Miss Elizabeth Welch out after her recent illness.

Greer's Chapel.—Our Sunday school is growing very rapidly, both in number and interest. The cold weather is coming and that will keep lots of the little children away.

Our C. E. is at its best at the present. This society is also growing very rapidly. We have between 55 and 60 on roll and the average attendance is 35 or 40.

We are very glad indeed to have our old pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, back with us again. May God shower His richest blessings on him and his congregation in the coming year.

L. E. FITZGERALD, Reporter.

First Church, Albemarle.—Since new year is the selected time for everyone to make their new year's resolutions, I cannot see why it would be improper for us to make ours at the beginning of our Conference year. We have formed our resolutions all into one, merely this, that we will strive with our body, mind, and soul to make this a better year than we have ever had. If all churches the world over would put this one resolution into effect our churches would be filled to overflowing every Sunday.

We are indeed glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Anderson and their family back with us again. And from the large audience which filled the auditorium for the morning and evening service, I am sure that they should feel that the church welcomes them back.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning Mr. Anderson used as his text Exodus 4:2: "What is that in thine hand?" The speaker pointed out many helpful thoughts. He said in part that every individual does not possess the same talent. Some have much to give in the service of God while others have less, but regardless of how great or how little He expects that we should give what we have. He turned our thoughts to Moses, whom God chose to lead the children of Israel. Moses thought that this was a task too great for him to undertake, but God proved to him through the rod which he held in his hand that all things are possible with God. David possessed a small sling, but what did God do with his talent? He used it to overthrow the Philistines. Therefore, if we put our trust in God, and we use the talent which He has given us, we will receive the same reward as those who have much to give.

For the evening service Mr. Anderson used as his subject "How Reasonable Salvation Is." Text, Isaiah 1:18: "Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord." Many helpful thoughts were received from this message.

Thomasville.—We are happy indeed to have Rev. T. Glenn Madison back with us to start another year. We are starting the year off with new interest and determination. Our pastor preached his first sermon to us last Sunday on "Christian Education," as all the pastors were requested to do so. Last Sunday week we enjoyed a sermon by Mr. Braxton, who came to preach in the absence of our pastor.

As winter is approaching, a few heating devices are being prepared in the church. The young men's Bible class and other smaller classes are arranged to be more comfortable during the cold weather.

The smaller activities of our church are progressing rapidly. Everyone is invited to attend our services at any time. We should like to have all the members to attend and bring someone with them.

REPORTER.

St. Paul, Greensboro.—Our pastor preached one of his splendid sermons last Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour, using as his text "The Disciples saw the Lord and were glad." We are glad to have Bro. Garner return and are looking for a good year's work.

New officers have been elected for the church and Sunday school. Mr. H. E. Oaks will be our Sunday school superintendent for the coming years, and Mr. D. H. May has accepted the class of older men as their teacher this year. Stewards are lined up ready for work, using the pledge cards this year. Mr. G. H. May is our church treasurer and we trust that we are lined up to do a good year's work and can get our members to pay weekly and not be so far behind at the close of the year.

The male quartet added much to the 11 o'clock service Sunday by singing for us.

The Ladies' Aid Society gave a chicken and oyster stew at the hut on Saturday night before Conference and gave the proceeds to pay off the superannuate assessment for the church, and with so much to raise at the close of the year this was a real help to the church; this society is always a help in time of need.

The Royal Blue class of married ladies held a class meeting at the hut. After a social hour the ladies made coffee and each one had brought a plate of cake and sandwiches, and a table was set in the kitchen and all enjoyed hot coffee, sandwiches and cake.

Our people were made sad to hear of the death of Mrs. E. M. Routh, of Winston. She was a devoted member of St. Paul church for a number of years until she left to go to Winston to live, and also was a charter member of our Ladies' Aid Society; she held the president's chair for six years or more and was always ready to do what her hands found to do for the good of her society. She even sent back her dues, though she had been away for a long time. Her name was still on our roll book. The pallbearers were chosen from St. Paul church. We wish to extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Routh and daughter, Mrs. Worth Coble, in their great loss.

We were glad to have Mrs. N. Brittain meet with us for Sunday school on Conference Sunday.

A good many of our people went to High Point on Sunday to attend Conference.

MRS. J. S. WADE, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—We are thankful to say our family stays together for another year. The Lord has seen fit to leave Mr. Bates with us.

Mr. Ralph Jackson, director of music in our Sunday school and a member of our choir, was a soloist at the local broadcasting station Sunday evening. Would you believe it—he has a quartet in his family. His four children make up the "Jackson quartet." We are proud of Ralph.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Monday afternoon. They are planning big things. If it were not for our ladies' auxiliaries where would we be? Thank God for such working women.

"LIVING WATERS"

By Margaret A. Overcash

(Dedicated to J. B. Clower. Inspired by his sermon over the radio from the Church of the Covenant Sunday evening, November 15, 1931.)

Oh, Lord, let thy Living Waters flow
And fill our souls with thy love.
Let thy light in us forever glow,
And lead stray souls to try home above.

Like a shepherd, let us lead thy sheep
Beside the Living Waters, that they may fill

Their empty hearts, and of thy wisdom drink deep.

O, Lord, we thank thee, peace be still.

Forever let thy Living Waters flow on Till every heart is filled to the brim;
Lord, we give thanks for the love that is born,

Let not the light of understanding grow dim.

Lord, let us drink, our souls be refreshed;
Quench the thirst of thy earthly sons and daughters;

Shew us the way, may we be forever blest
In the perpetual flow of thy Living Waters.

Wise—Say, don't you ever take a vacation?
Crax—I feel that I shouldn't leave my job.
Wise—Why, can't the company do without you?

Crax—Yes; that's just what I don't want them to find out.—Exchange.

We are thankful for this financial showing. The report covers two weeks, and the most of it was handed to me at Conference. May the dear Lord bless every one who gave.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, Harvest Home donation: 39 half gallon cans fruit and vegetables, 31 quarts canned fruit and vegetables, 20 quarts preserves and marmalades, 1 quart honey, 1 pint jelly, 1 gallon molasses, 4 half-gallon cans pickles, 10 pumpkins, 24 pounds flour, 1 gallon white peas, 3 pecks Irish potatoes and 1 bushel sweet potatoes.

Davidson, additional Harvest Home donation: 11 half gallon cans fruit and vegetables, 3 little boys' suits, 2 shirts and 1 pair pants.

Maple Springs, additional Harvest Home donation: 6 half-gallon cans fruit and vegetables, 2 pumpkins, 1/2 bushel potatoes, 1 quilt and 1 coat.

Mrs. M. N. Morgan, Farmer, N. C., 1 pair shoes, 5 dresses, 3 blouses, and 1 vest.

Union Grove, Orange, by Mrs. H. M. Blackwood: 2 pumpkins, 1 package dried fruit, and 4 dresses.

The Ladies' Industrial Organization, Eastport, L. I., one box of clothing.

Mrs. Keatley, Wilmington, Del., 1 box of clothing.

Mr. I. V. Jones, Greenbackville, Va., 3 bags Irish potatoes.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Williams, Okla., 1 quilt.

The Women's Sunday school class, Grace church, an outfit for one little girl.

The Friendly class, Calvary, an outfit for one little girl.

We are thankful for all these gifts.

Thanksgiving and Christmas packages are already beginning to come in, and with reference to these please permit us to say:

In sending gifts, other than money, please remember that we have 105 happy, normal boys and girls, ranging in ages from 5 to 18. Just about an equal number of boys and girls. They appreciate practical and useful gifts just as much and more than they do trinkets. Handkerchiefs, stockings, socks, towels, and wash cloths, good tooth brushes, toothpaste, soap, caps, sweaters, coats, shoes, or other articles of clothing which have good wear in them prove just as pleasing to the children as do the cheap toys which are soon gone. If you do send things to play with, then balls of various kinds, bats, gloves, and tennis rackets will be very timely. Of course, fruits and vegetables are always in keeping. With thanksgivings and praises in our hearts for God's goodness, and for the help of His children, we are,

Yours in service for our Master and His little ones.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.
High Point, N. C.

THANKSGIVING

Lord God of hosts, we render thanks
For all Thy mercies sure;
Thy tender love environs us
And will through life endure.

Teach us to know Thy perfect will
And truly humble be;
May we in gladness praise Thy name
Through all eternity.

Lord God of hosts, we offer thanks
And call upon thy name;
A psalm of praise to Thee we sing,
Thy wondrous love proclaim.

Thou art our refuge and our strength,
There is no other power;
If sudden danger threatens us,
We find in Thee a tower.

Lord God of hosts, we proffer praise,
Direct us on our way;
With grateful hearts we worship Thee
On this Thanksgiving Day.

—Grenville Kleiser.

Some Plural

Teacher: Give me the plural of seven.
Student (smiling): Eight.

—I plan now to give the equivalent of one day's income to the orphans on Thanksgiving.

FAIR GROVE SERVICE STATION

Thomasville, N. C., Route 3, Box 111

Conference is over and I am here with my little service station, doing the best I can to keep the wolf away. He seems to be in sight ready to spring upon me at any time. I shall give him a fight. I'll do my best.

Last Sunday I thought I would visit my old friends at Bethesda. I found them busy in their Sunday school work. Superintendent Lee Wagoner was at his post. He lives in Winston and has served them for a number of years. He is efficient, faithful; his congenial little wife and interesting family come with him every Sunday. Few families are so faithful to the home church as this one. I went home to dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinkley. After eating a good dinner Sister Brinkley asked me to baptize two grandbabies. After the baptismal service Sister Brinkley told me I had baptized all of her children but one and now had baptized all her grandchildren but one. I had a very pleasant evening with these kind folks. I then drove to Union Grove for a lost penny. I lost it when I filled my last appointment of the last Conference year.

It seems strange not to have appointment after 34 years of continuous service as a minister in the North Carolina Conference. I am trying to be sweet and good and wish for the Conference a great year in the service of our Master. For these 34 years I've been so busy looking at the Conference grow that I am like the negro's cat fish—actually shrunk up and canned in a tin box, the key has been lost and no pork and beans therein. The sun is going down and soon will hide a bright and shining face behind the western hills. Only a few men in the Conference that were there when I first knew it. I am not old or even old-timey, neither am I lame. Watch out, brothers—you youngsters that now feel the world is yours. Take due warning! Old Father Time is slipping upon you with his scythe and mow you down and you will not be. You may be looked for, but will not be found. What is it all about, anyhow?

With good wishes for greater success.

H. L. POWELL.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE MUSICIANS MUCH IN DEMAND

The High Point College Choir, Glee Club, Orchestra, and Band have made a reputation for themselves in the fine programs they gave last year and have given this year, and their services are much in demand from different parts of the state.

The Choir will sing at the First M. P. church, Charlotte, Sunday evening, November 22nd, and from 10 to 10:30 will broadcast over WBT, Charlotte.

The Glee Club will give a sacred concert at a joint service of all of the churches of Thomasville Sunday evening, November 29th.

Sunday afternoon, November 29th, the Orchestra will give a concert of sacred music for the First Baptist church of High Point.

Miss Luce and her Band will be heard at the college auditorium Friday evening, November 20th, from 8 to 9 o'clock.

These musicians are glad to be of service wherever they can, whether in church, school, or club. Requests for their services should be addressed to Promotional Secretary, High Point College.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Resolutions of Love and Respect

We, the members of Maple Springs Auxiliary and church, wish to offer a tribute of love and esteem to the memory of our oldest and most beloved member, Mrs. J. M. Hunter, better known as Grandmother Hunter.

She was a faithful member of Maple Springs M. P. church and always attended when her health permitted. The last time she ever attended church she put her arms around her teacher and told her that she loved her church and all of the members.

We all wish to express the sadness of our hearts at the loss of this dear one who will meet with us no more.

Whereas, this consecrated mother has passed from labor to her reward and has heard the Master's "Well done, thou good and faithful servant," therefore, Be it Resolved:

First, That we extend our sympathy to her bereaved family and commend them to the care of Him whom she loved and served so faithfully while here on earth;

Second, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, one to be recorded in the minutes of our Auxiliary, and one sent to be published in our church paper.

Routh

Ada Dean Routh, daughter of Troy and Sarah Dean, and beloved wife of E. M. Routh, was born in Randleman, N. C., April 10, 1875, and departed this life in a hospital in Greensboro November 4, 1931.

She was united in marriage to Mr. E. M. Routh September 16, 1896, and for the remainder of her life made him a most helpful companion.

In young girlhood she professed saving faith in Jesus Christ and united with Mount Lebanon Methodist Protestant church. She later moved her membership to St. Paul's M. P. church in Greensboro, and in June, 1927, transferred it to the First M. P. church in Winston-Salem, where it remained as long as she lived. Mrs. Routh was indeed a good woman. She was kind to and considerate of all with whom she came in contact. She was loyal to her church and a great encouragement to her pastor. The last conversation her pastor had with her before she was taken sick, she expressed herself concerning her church and pastor in such a way as to cheer the heart of her pastor. She was held in high esteem by all who knew her. While it is sad to give her up, yet we are fully persuaded that she was ready when the summons came.

The funeral was conducted in Mount Lebanon M. P. church in Randleman by the writer, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Kirk, pastor of Bessemer M. E. church, South, in Greensboro, November 5th, and the body was laid to rest in the Mount Lebanon cemetery to await the resurrection morning.

Mrs. Routh is survived by her husband, and by one daughter, Mrs. Worth D. Coble, of Winston-Salem; one sister, Mrs. E. D. Grubbs, of Greensboro; three brothers, J. A. and A. A. Dean, of Greensboro, and M. W. Dean, of Pensacola, Fla. J. E. PRITCHARD.

MORE NOTES BY THE WAY BY LUTHER K. LONG

Before starting on my recent trip to the central west, I thought it advisable to remind myself of one or two things, that I might avoid too much sadness and bring about a larger measure of enjoyment.

My brother and sister, whom I was to visit, are older than I, and neither of them has very good health. Besides, the financial depression has made considerable difference with their mode of living. I must so bear myself as not only not to add to the gloom, but bring positive relief. My task was not as difficult as it might have been. I was glad to find that my own good health and spirits were met by a courageous and responsive spirit on their part.

We had a most enjoyable visit. Old times and scenes were recalled. A few remaining old friends were called upon, we saw in memory's pictures the former ways of living, and rejoiced in the great improvements that have come since we were children. We ate thankfully of fine fruits and vegetables, admired the flowers growing in profusion, and noted the unusually tremendous crops on every farm. When we separated, we were all stronger and better prepared to face the years that may still be ahead of us.

Everywhere I went I had in some respects similar experiences. During the past ten or fifteen years people have enlarged and heightened their scale of living. More and better cars are driven, more and better radios are in operation, houses are better, furnishings and equipment have been greatly improved. The material good things of life have been much in evidence. Now, with the increase of unemployment and shrinking of incomes from investments, every one is feeling pinched. But wailing and complaining have no prominent place. Fall crops are being planted, food for the winter is being prepared and stored, and plans are being made for next year's farming operations. Not so many things are being bought, the old car and winter overcoat, in many instances, being gone over with a view to another season's service. This is not altogether to the bad. Adjustments must be made, and the matter is being taken in good part and proceeded with in good spirit.

Getting into intimate relations with many people, as I did, I was sure to see numerous cases of old age and infirmities, of the breaking up of families by death, of misfortunes and moral lapses, of disillusionment concerning the so-called good things of life. How are people bearing themselves under these conditions? I should say they are doing remarkably well.

There is Mrs. Wood. I first knew her forty years ago. She was then a frail little body. She is now ninety years old, confined to her bed, has wonderful eyes and clear complexion, is dependent on a son and his good wife for care, cheers the neighbors as they come in, and waits patiently in Christian faith for the change that must come soon.

Men whose wives have passed on to the other side are carrying on in a fine spirit, wives who have been left alone are filling out the days helpfully and with a good measure of joy. Children have grown up and are doing their work in the world while the parents at home alone are courageously rejoicing in their success. Children are taking care of aged and infirm parents while, as a rule, those parents are doing all they can to help themselves.

Even the girl who got into the wrong sort of company and became an unmarried mother, is not hopeless. She explained to me that the trouble was that she had been given no adequate instruction on sex matters. She had learned only enough to become curious, and easily led astray. Too much ignorant innocence! It was a hard experience—a year and a half in a Florence Crittenden Home where she learned many useful things and during which time she finished the high school course, found the church people kind and unsympathetic when she returned home, suffered beyond what she should have been made to suffer, is now happily married, and the little home is almost paid for. I trust she may soon be re-established in the church and Sunday school where she once was a good little worker.

How about religion among these folks, in many places, who were unusually frank in talking of what was in their minds? I might ask: What do you mean, religion? If you mean by religion merely going to church and following out the old program of assenting to what they are told there, I should say they are not so fierce for it as formerly. If you mean by religion a serious concern about life and its obligations and possibilities, a desire to make one's life count in making people and communities better, more intelligent, more moral, more godly, I should unhesitatingly say that things are going pretty well. Many people, while they are not so sure about God and heaven and hell or even immortality, about how we got the Bible and how the human race was started and what marriage and the family mean, as some of us used to think we were—are nevertheless not behind the church people of forty or fifty years ago in what pertains to vital Christian living. Having seen deeply into the hearts and minds of many individuals recently, I am bound to testify that they are sound and good.

Having said this I hasten to express the hearty wish that more of these good folks might find their way regularly and constantly to the services and activities of the churches. And let me say a final word as emphatically as I know how: It is my conviction that if the rank and file of ministers and church leaders were more open-minded, more conscious of what is going on in the minds of the best Christian thinkers, more ready to confer with and to understand and appreciate those who differ from them, the church and its services would speedily become more attractive to these people of whom I have been speaking.

You can tell a senior by his dignity, a junior by his aspirations, a freshman by his green nose, but you cannot tell a sophomore anything.

"At home" evidently may have varying meanings.

A certain student thought that a pod of okra was a cucumber.

FIRST FRUITS

One of the Herald Subscription Chairmen just appointed writes me as follows:

"I accept with pleasure the work of the Herald Chairman of our church. I shall do my best for this most vital organ of our North Carolina Conference. All your suggestions will be very gratefully accepted and tried as nearly as possible."

Thank you for writing me. For the spirit of co-operation manifest I am indeed deeply grateful. The above is being published because it is the first returns from our efforts. First fruits, so to speak. With that same spirit among our Subscription Chairmen we cannot fail to accomplish our goal.

E. L. DOUGLAS.

OUR HOME ORCHARD

Two or three years ago I thought of trying to manage to get help and plant an orchard up near the mountains and put a share of stock in it for the M. P. Children's Home at High Point. I now wish to ask help to see what we can do.

I have 40 or 50 young apple trees that I want to take out, to thin out from where they now stand. These trees would serve well in two or three years. I would propose to give the Home a fifth of the stock. Any who may think favorable of this venture, please let me know. Twelve or 15 acres would be enough to give an active man regular work. Besides the planting of young trees there are small orchards that could be bought.

This case is urging and deserves due respect.

The fruit climate a few miles south of the cover of the mountains is better than that of the mountain.

Please give me a call about next Monday.

Truly,

W. F. GRABS.

Thanksgiving Day Thoughts

Each coming day its witness brings,
Each passing night its carol sings,
Assuring us of love divine:
We thank Thee, Lord, that we are Thine.

The years—they speak of greater things,
Of time when bell of freedom rings,
Of war's dark days and terror's reign
When earth was red with bloody stain.

The centuries talk in different strain,
Their thoughts do run in other vein:
They tell us how the wilds were tamed
By arts unknown—now duly famed.

But centuries and years and days
In this agree in all their lays:
A God of goodness over all
Has saved our nation from a fall.

Making a Fizzle At the Lord's Work

We have known some men to make a success at farming or in business and make a failure in the Lord's work. They made a success in their business because they studied it and worked at it. They made a fizzle at the Lord's work because they neither studied it nor worked at it. They did not think about it enough to become interested; they did not study it enough to know what to do or how to do it, and as a consequence they did not put forth effort enough to accomplish the work. And to add to the greatness of the failure, they did not even know that they were failing. What a shameful fizzle!

God never fails in His work. He who made the light to travel 180,000 miles a second need not be expected to fail in anything He undertakes. He who made eyes to receive painlessly the impulses of the swift-coming light and to react in marvelous vision has constructive skill for any reasonable undertaking. God has never failed and will never fail. Men cannot share in God's creative work and He has given them a minor part. They can promote some of the work the Lord has undertaken. They can become God's agents in some of His enterprises. They can aid in the doing of God's will on earth as it is done in heaven. This is God's purpose and expectation concerning men. They are to work at the works of God. But what a miserable fizzle many men are making in this work. They prove their capacity by the splendid work they do for themselves. Their successes in self-service condemn them for their failure in the work of the Lord.

Think of a man earning and receiving a man's wages paying an average of four cents a week to promote the program of Christ for the evangelization of the world! How can such a man hold up his head among Christian men?

Let every man that names the name of Christ depart from such meanness. Let men who call themselves Christians catch the spirit of Christ. He was no slacker. Had He been a slacker the world would not have been redeemed, much less evangelized. There would have been no gospel to preach had not Jesus devoted himself strenuously to service and given Himself unreservedly to sacrifice. The gospel is simply the story of Jesus. How does the man regard that story who pays only four cents a week for its propagation?

Wake up, thou that sleepest, rise from the dead, and Christ will give thee light. Put mind and heart and effort into your work for God. It is time for you to put away childish things. Four cents a week! Be heartily ashamed of it.

—Treasurer Straughn has discovered that the women of our churches are surpassing the men in raising money for church uses. This has been suspected by many people for some time. Now the men will have to admit it. But what are the men going to do about it? Will they recognize their obligation and yield to conscience? Or, better still, will they see how much good they can do with their money spent in educational and missionary work and yield to benevolence? Christ is depending on every layman to do his duty to his church. What is Christ's will regarding the money He permits you to receive? We may reach assigned goals, we may have our names on honor rolls, but that will avail little if we fall below Christ's standard. Church work is not a small game for us to play for our own amusement or recreation: it is a most serious matter. Through our church work Christ is most earnestly trying to effect the evangelization and salvation of the world. Shall we longer dawdle at the task?

—The venerable G. W. Garrett of Mt. Hermon charge, Alamance county, died last Sunday afternoon, aged 88 years. He was the father of Brother H. A. Garrett and two other sons. He was a veteran of the Civil War and had spent a term in a northern prison. He was a man of noble character and hopeful spirit. He had long been a faithful member of the church at Mt. Hermon where the funeral service was held on Monday afternoon conducted by the new pastor, Brother Mabry, assisted by Rev. D. I. Offman.

—It is gratifying to see evidence of High Point citizens' devotion, to High Point College in matter we print this week. See the letter from the chairman of their campaign committee. Like earnestness on the part of our church members will insure the success of the present effort.

RECOGNIZING FATHER AND HIS INFLUENCE

By REV. LUTHER K. LONG

Mother, Home, and Heaven have for long been three words of tremendous sentiment and power. Without wishing to detract in the least from the value of these words, I wish to call attention to the fact that there are three other words destined to play an increasing part in the development of our country and its people.

These words are Father, Business, and Manhood. Not until boys and girls tie up a good measure of healthy sentiment with father, business, and manhood will there be released for righteous living the measure of power needed. Only then will mother, home, and heaven be correctly estimated and appreciated.

Recently there has come from the press a fine little volume entitled "What I Owe to My Father." It is edited by Sidney Strong, and consists of fourteen chapters in which eminent men pay tribute to the qualities in their fathers that have placed them in debt to those same fathers, and a number of shorter testimonials.

Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, tells of a helpful conversation with her father on fore-ordination. She writes: "After setting the difficulty before him and complaining that I could not make it out, although my best friend 'understood it perfectly,' I settled down to hear his argument, having no doubt that he could make it quite clear. To my delighted surprise, for any intimation that our minds were on an equality lifted me high indeed, he said that he feared that he and I did not have the kind of mind that would ever understand fore-ordination very well and advised me not to give too much time to it; but he then proceeded to say other things of which the final impression left upon my mind was, that it did not matter much whether one understood fore-ordination or not, but that it was very important not to pretend to understand what you didn't understand and that you must always be honest with yourself inside." "Mental integrity above everything else" is the lesson that this sturdy father impressed indelibly upon this inquiring daughter.

Roger Babson, the statistician, quotes his father as saying: "What is needed is not the crushing of natural instincts, but the harnessing of their energy to some great and satisfying objective." Mr. Babson gives this advice to fathers: "Don't wait too long before taking your children into your confidence. Don't figure that you will know when you are in your last sickness, thinking then will be time enough to make plans. Don't hesitate to talk freely now about what you would like done after you are gone."

Alice Stone Blackwell writes concerning her father, Henry B. Blackwell: "My debt to my father is two-fold, as a daughter and as a woman. He was not only a kind and loving father, but a powerful champion of equal rights for women. Many prominent men in America, from Abraham Lincoln down, favored woman suffrage, and not a few did valiant work for it; but Henry B. Blackwell was the one man of high talents who really devoted his life to that cause."

It is interesting to note a few things Samuel A. Eliot writes concerning his father, Charles W. Eliot, for many years president of Harvard university: "The old rule 'children should be seen but not heard' did not prevail with us. Even when there were distinguished guests at table the boys were expected to take their share in the conversation or, at least, to be interested in something more than the things to eat. Public affairs, college business, scientific discoveries, new inventions, were discussed not only before us but with us. It was assumed that we read the daily paper and the best of the periodicals and our opinions were both asked and expressed about current events. My father was an animated interrogation point and sought information from every source and angle. He was a good listener and gave equal attention to the argument of the statesman and a child's story of the day's adventures. He gave an unusual deference to the judgments of young people. I suspect that his decisions in regard to the merits of Deans and Professors were more often based on the estimates of students than of colleges. To students a teacher was likely to be either 'bum' or 'bully' and that verdict, if supported by valid testimony, carried weight with the president. Naturally in the forty years of his presidency of Harvard my father had as his guests many men and women of renown in the academic world and in the realms of politics, business, science, art and literature. With these people and about them my brother and I had spirited discussions and formed rather impetuous opinions. As the people I thus met in my youth become historic characters I find those early formed prejudices—for or against—still at the back of my mind and am often surprised to find how time has justified and confirmed them. After all the vision of youth is likely to be lucid and disinterested. The mirror is as yet untarnished. I see now why my father had such confidence in the verdict of youthful minds on people or events and why he would often change the whole tone of some speech or article he was writing after reading it to a grandchild and both inviting and getting a frank comment or criticism."

Edward A. Filene, great Boston merchant, says of his father: "I have learned that to achieve success, I must pay the full price in kind for it, which usually means not money, but rather straight thinking, hard work, and good health. When I have failed, it has usually been because I was too weak to pay the full price and not because I had not analyzed what the price would be. It is to this kind of thinking which my father taught me that I owe whatever business success I have achieved."

It is all right, I am sure, to use an extract from the testimony of Harry E. Fosdick, the eminent New York preacher, that joins the father and mother in the home: "Asked to write on what my father did for me, I cannot separate him from my mother. They were one. Never in all my boyhood did they fail to stand together on any question that affected the children. We never could play one off against the other, or find anywhere a rift between them. . . . In the home I can recall yet the freedom with which he treated religion, his impatience with its shams, his independence of its bigotries and prejudices, his breadth of tolerance. Yet always I recall, too, the impression of religious reality and reverence which his life carried with it. If, through the upsets and turmoils of a generation whose rapid changes have stripped so many of their faith, I have kept my assurance that while religious pass religion abides, I have most of all to thank what I experienced in my boyhood's home."

John H. Holmes, pastor Community church, of New York, writes with enthusiasm: "My father's influence was predominant in stirring my own interest in religion and the church. Down to the time I went to college, this interest was large and deep. It involved regular attendance at church on Sunday mornings, long association with the Sunday School, and frequently a service or meeting on Sunday evening. Later came intense activity in the young people's society in the church. As a lad I always spoke my piece at the Sunday School festivals, and later, as a young man, I frequently read papers or gave short addresses before the gathering of young men and women. In all this my father had interest and gave encouragement. On going to college, however, there came a sudden change in my piece at the Sunday School festivals, and later, as a young man, I frequently read papers or gave short addresses before the gathering of young men and women. In all this my father had interest and gave encouragement. On going to college, however, there came a sudden change in my experience. The first two years at Harvard seemed to constitute a period of escape. I had left my home, and must now prove my independence by breaking the habits and conventions of my life. So I did not attend the college chapel, and broke all religious contacts of any kind. But the planting of my early days was deep, and the seeds were bound sooner or later to sprout and break the surface of the ground. By the time of my junior year in college, I was leading a Sunday School in Cambridge, and when I became a senior I announced to my classmates, as I had already announced to my family, that I had decided to become a minister. I cannot recall that my father ever persuaded me to make this choice of a profession. I search my mind in vain for any recollection of a word from him on the subject. I think he had a great reverence for my integrity as a person, and had no desire to intrude upon a matter which belonged so intimately to myself. But it is not difficult to recall his warm expression of pleasure when I told him of my decision, and one of the happiest memories of my life is that of his days over what I was doing in the ministry."

Vachel Lindsay, poet of Springfield, Illinois, honors the memory of his father, a country doctor from Kentucky who settled in Illinois in pioneer days, and who practiced his profession faithfully and courageously amid the hard conditions of those early days. Perhaps the most significant sentence is this: "Quacks feared him, patent-medicine men feared him, liars feared him with a deadly fear—mothers and sons loved him."

Paul Dwight Moody, president of Middlebury college and son of Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist honors his father for the fundamental things he taught him. "One is a recognition of the dignity of labor, and the realization that any honest toil is worthy." "I am deeply grateful that by his wisdom I have had to work for a living." "My deepest gratitude is for what he himself was. Some men, whose lives have been lived in public as much as his was, have neglected their children, and have used up their moral energy in denouncing evil and in private have been peevish, or selfish. In other words, they have not practiced what they preached. The life he lived was greater than any sermon he ever preached, for he was the gentlest and most humble and consistent of men."

But I have already used enough space. For further testimonies and fuller statements get this book from the publishers, Henry Holt and Company, New York.

THE FATHERLIKE GOD

By REV. W. A. LEDFORD

We are made to rejoice, upon reaching one of the high mountain peaks of New Testament Truth, where the writer to the Hebrews defines and illustrates faith. We feel, as Peter felt on the Mount of Transfiguration, that it is good to be here. Perhaps, it would be better for us to accompany the aged apostle John, as he winds his way through the closing scenes of our Lord's earthly life; taking us, as a true priest, into the veritable holy of holies of the Gospel Message. Such a journey would enable one to see the True Vine and the Branches. Another scene is enriched by the presence of the Good Shepherd and the flock that has heard His voice and has followed Him. The disciples could never forget the heavenly lifted eyes of Jesus in His high priestly prayer, with a united Christendom before Him. The Father's house of many mansions was more beautiful than any city that was ever set on a hill. The gates of pearls and streets of gold were only suggestive of the glory of the heavenly home.

The world is much indebted to such men as Thomas and Philip, who are not ashamed to ask questions, nor afraid to make interruptions when they fail to comprehend mystical visions and spiritual truths. As Jesus began to lift the curtain of time, and give the troubled hearted disciples a few glimpses of the future life, Thomas exclaimed, "Lord, we know not whither thou goest, and how can we know the way?" Perhaps, if it had not been for the question of Thomas, the world might not have the nugget of truth, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No man cometh unto the Father, but by me." I have wondered why Thomas asked no further questions. Perhaps, he was thoroughly pondering this answer from his Lord; which must have formed a basis for his great post-Resurrection confession.

When Jesus mentioned His Father, Philip, may have given no one else time for further questions. Following Moffatt's translation, Philip interrupted, "Lord, show us the Father, and that is all we want." Philip's was a language of the heart. The head wants to see the God of Creation, Kingship, the Judge; but the heart desires to see the Fatherlike God, Who is patient, forgiving and loving. Philip was told that he had before him the best revelation of the Father that he or the world would ever have. The Fatherhood of God might be termed the supreme revelation of Jesus to the world. From the frequency the word "Father" fell from His lips, one would conclude that Jesus scarcely knew any other kind of a God. It is highly important that we know God, and His Son Jesus Christ, whom to know aright is life eternal.

Philip seems to have expressed the universal desire of humanity. It is comforting for the Good Minister of Jesus Christ to be able, on the authority of his Master, to announce that all may see the Fatherlike God. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Even in this far off day the pure in heart and holy in character may do what Philip desired.

THE "FIRST WORKS" IN REVIVAL

Earnest Christians are asking what they can do to promote a revival in the Body of Christ. The League would answer, that, first of all, they can be purged and pruned as living branches of the Lord, the Vine, and thus made to bear more fruit. When they do "the first works," the Holy Spirit will assist them in doing greater works.

What are these "first works" in revival? They are two:

FIRST—Returning to the "first love" of CHRIST.

SECOND—Returning to the first dependence on CHRIST.

A return to our "first love" to Christ is the starting point of individual success. When we are revived ourselves, we can be used in reviving others. The Lord desires the deepest affection of His people. Where this is lacking, spiritual power will be lacking. Today there are thousands of Christians who, like Peter, seek the society of Christ, and are willing to work for Him, while all the time the Lord is seeking to press home the question: "Lovest Thou Me?" As soon as that question is settled to the Lord's satisfaction, there will be an immediate renewal of their commission and His blessing will attend their labors.

A return to our first dependence on God, expressed supremely in prayer, completes our "first works." As we feel our helplessness and depend wholly upon God. He will undertake for us and we shall soon see His arm made bare.

One of the first things restored Christians will try to do is to start, or help maintain, a revival prayer meeting. They love fellowship in prayer. They will seek to have one or more companions to pray with them.

When Mr. Finney became awakened, he gathered Christian friends for early morning prayers. Often he would be seen walking with his friends asking them to come together to pray for revival. Is it any wonder he was used to promote revivals?

Dr. R. A. Torrey, in like manner, spent much time in social prayer. Often he prayed with church officials until the small hours of Sunday morning. The dew of heaven rested upon his ministry as a result.

CHRISTIAN, WHAT ABOUT YOUR LOVE TO CHRIST? WHAT ABOUT YOUR PRAYER LIFE? If pastors and people would only get closer to Christ, a prayer revival would immediately follow, in this way revival fires would be kindled in parishes all over the land, and the work of the Lord would move marvelously forward.

The Lord may be waiting for you, Reader of these lines, to return to a love which has been lost, and to a spirit of dependence that has been lacking for years. There is no telling what God will do through you, if you will do these "first works." He may use you to save many who shall become mightily efficient for Christ and His Kingdom. "THE WORLD HAS YET TO SEE WHAT GOD CAN DO

THROUGH THE ONE WHO IS WHOLLY YIELDED TO HIM."

A number of recently revived Christians were used to inaugurate Saturday night revival prayer meetings. They in turn were wonderfully used of God in quickening congregations to newness of life in Christ. When we are wide awake, then we can help to arouse others.

An acquaintance recently saved six members of her family from death by asphyxiation. In her semi-conscious condition, she obeyed the impulse to open an outside door. The fresh air served to revive her, and then she called for assistance. Help came promptly, and after a time the unconscious members of her family were all revived. In some such way God is pleased to use His aroused people to awaken others.

"AWAKE THOU THAT SLEEPEST, AND ARISE FROM THE DEAD, AND CHRIST SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT."

A PROCLAMATION FOR NATIONAL THANKSGIVING

By THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

We approach the season when, according to custom dating from the garnering of the first harvest by our forefathers in the New World, a day is set apart to give thanks even amid hardships to Almighty God for our temporal and spiritual blessings. It has become a hallowed tradition for the Chief Magistrate to proclaim annually a national day of thanksgiving.

Our country has cause for gratitude to the Almighty. We have been widely blessed with abundant harvests. We have been spared from pestilence and calamities. Our institutions have served the people. Knowledge has advanced, the health of our people has increased. We have dwelt in peace with all men. The measure of passing adversity which has come upon us should deepen the spiritual life of the people, quicken their sympathies and spirit of sacrifice for others, and strengthen their courage. Many of our neighbors are in need from causes beyond their control and the compassion of the people throughout the Nation should so assure their security over this Winter that they too may have full cause to participate in this day of gratitude to the Almighty.

Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, November 26, 1931, as a national day of Thanksgiving, and do recommend that our people rest from their daily labors and in their homes and accustomed places of worship give devout thanks for the blessings which a merciful Father has bestowed upon us.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 3d day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1931, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundredth and fifty-sixth.

HERBERT HOOVER.

WHAT ONE COPY OF A RELIGIOUS PAPER ACCOMPLISHED

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE

Many years ago I came in touch with a dear old saint in Pasadena, California, a retired physician, named Dr. O. W. Jewett. After two or three letters had passed between us, he told me the following story.

He said that thirty-one years ago he was suddenly stricken down with one of the most serious and painful maladies then known to medical science. His sufferings were excruciating, and much of the time he was unconscious. His weight fell from 145 pounds in about five weeks to 70 pounds. Naturally he had the best medical attendance and the advice of many specialists, all of whom said that he could not possibly live, and frequently they said that he could not live a week, or even a day. At one time he was unconscious for several hours, and preparations were made for his burial.

He became a Christian when he was a boy, but for about five years before he was stricken down, he had almost entirely stopped reading his Bible and had drifted away from the Christian life. His serious illness and constant expectation of soon meeting his Lord, naturally revived his Christian experience. A desire sprang up in his heart to do something, if possible, to redeem the wasted years of his life. He was so weak that he could hardly speak aloud to those who came into his room.

He prayed that the Lord would show him some way to make known to others the sweetness and joy which had come to him in his hours of suffering. Somehow he learned that a minister by the name of Pope, in Connecticut, would send a package of leaflets to any one who asked for them. It occurred to him that here was a way in which he could still be useful, if God saw fit to spare his life a little longer.

In due course of time the package of tracts arrived, and he began using them at once and has continued to do so ever since.

For sixteen years when he was able to travel, he was obliged to go South or to California during the winter, and in this way he scattered leaflets from Canada to Cuba, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific shores, giving out hundreds of thousands of them, some of which he had written himself.

In that package of leaflets was one entitled, "Will You Go or Send?" which exploited the idea of supporting a substitute in the foreign field. These are native preachers who have been trained in the schools of the missionaries, and who at that time could be supported for $25 a year. It occurred to him that as he must shortly leave this world he could leave behind him a substitute to preach the Gospel in his stead, and when he came to write the letter, he sent $50, for two substitutes, to Dr. Andrew Murray, of South Africa.

As time went on he improved a little in health, and he became so interested in this substitute work that he took on other workers in other countries, until now for the last few years, he says, "I have six native preachers and teachers, and four students in Africa, the same number in India, two day schools in China, and several Bible women and teachers in the Pacific Islands. I am connected with four missions and other religious work in the home land. Besides this, I spend my

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN

The Methodist Protestant Herald in Every Methodist Protestant Home

TO HERALD CHAIRMEN:

Do you know that it will require 60 subscriptions every issue of the paper for a year to bring us up to the 3,000 subscribers that we need? Therefore I am asking every Chairman to begin your work immediately.

Not a single Chairman has reported that they would not serve; on the other hand I have received several letters accepting the appointment and pledging their co-operation in putting over this campaign. I thank every one that has written for their words of assurance. I quote just one letter below, viz:

"It is with pleasure I accept the work which has been assigned me, as Chairman of our church, in securing subscriptions for our METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD. It should be in every home, and you may be assured I'll do my very best to help put this campaign across."

How it cheers one to get letters like that, but then I felt sure you would do it. Of course, I am very anxious that we get our subscriptions started in from every church, at once; this is very important. Make it a point to send in one or more every week; of course the larger churches should be sending in several each week. I shall be watching the remittance blanks which you send in to Brother McCulloch, to see the name of every Chairman there.

Who will be the first to raise their quota? Charlotte has one-third of her quota now. I am expecting some one or more churches to reach their quotas before the end of December.

TO PASTORS:

You will remember that at Brother McCulloch's request the deficit was to be collected as a free will offering from each church. To be taken at the earliest possible date. Therefore let the writer suggest that a Christmas offering be taken in each church and sent to Brother McCulloch. It will require approximately 10c per member to cover the $2,400.00 deficit.

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman Directing Committee.

time in visiting the sick and shut-ins whenever and wherever I have an opportunity." Then he closed his letter by saying, "And now, my dear brother, I desire to know if you are the one whom God used in helping me to get started in these two lines of work, giving out leaflets and supporting native preachers?" I replied that there could be little doubt that I was the one to whom he wrote for the leaflets, for at that time (1885) I was a pastor in Manchester, Connecticut. It was in the early days of Christian Endeavor, and I was speaking a good deal in state and national conventions. Occasionally in my addresses I would refer to the subject of tracts, and suggest that any Christian could easily multiply his influence a hundred fold by wise use of leaflets.

Every time I mentioned the subject, many people would come up to inquire where they could obtain good leaflets. So often did this occur that I wrote an article entitled, "The Use and Abuse of Tracts," which I sent to the organ of the Christian Endeavor Society, which at that time, I think, was called "The Golden Rule." At the end of the article I said that if any of the readers were interested in that line of work I would send them a little package of samples, if they would send me an addressed envelope. Doubtless it was a copy of this paper that our brother saw which led him to write to me.

This story is encouraging to all Christians, as it shows how a single copy of a religious paper brought forth fruit in abundance, and for a long time. Here was a man who, apparently at death's door, thirty-one years ago was set to work along these two lines, and who has continued diligently in the same work ever since. As he said in one of his letters, "The reason why I was so zealous in this matter was that I expected that every year would be my last."

For thirty-one years he and I have been serving the same Master, several thousand miles apart, and entirely unknown to each other. A letter brought us into correspondence. Later I visited him at his home and had delightful fellowship with him for several days.

He was very feeble, but was still in active work. Many people came to him daily to have him pray with them. Doubtless he is now in Heaven. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord . . . and their works do follow them." Revelation 14:13.

"When all a Christian's work is done,
He goes to live with God's dear Son;
Him he will worship and adore,
And love his dear ones as before."

ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION

By GORDON BARNES, President
Christian Youth Council

When one wants to condemn prohibition he accuses it of being responsible for an increase in the use of liquor. After all, the effect of a full generation of scientific temperance instruction in the home, church, and public schools is still a big factor in present day thinking on the liquor question.

The test of prohibition manifestly cannot depend upon anything else quite so much as upon whether it has increased or decreased the amount of alcohol consumed. If it has caused an increase in the consumption of liquor, there is little to be said in its defense, except that it is a noble experiment and has hardly yet had a fair trial.

If prohibition has materially reduced the consumption of alcohol, it will be hard to disprove its worthiness in the minds of people who know alcohol for what it really is.

How much liquor was consumed before prohibition? Fortunately we have a record of the amount sold legally. We have no more record of illegal manufacture and sale than (of which there was much), than we have of illegal consumption now. Here are the figures on pre-prohibition consumption as recorded by the United States Statistical Abstract, for the year 1917, the last year of unrestricted manufacture and sale—a total, including wine, spirits and malt liquors, of 2,094,729,078 gallons. (Statistical Abstract, 1917, p. 540).

That is a lot of liquor. It credits every man, woman, and child in the country with an average consumption of approximately 20 gallons of booze.

Of course, no one actually knows how much liquor is consumed in the United States today. Too much is consumed—10%, 20%, 30% of the amount consumed before prohibition. A generous estimate, naturally, is that of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. They estimate that in 1929 the consumption table looks like this:

|--------------|-----------------------|
| Wine         | 110,000,000 gallons   |
| Spirits      | 200,000,000 gallons   |
| Malt liquors | 790,000,000 gallons   |
| Total        | 1,100,000,000 gallons |

For the present we won't ask them upon what basis they estimate the increased consumption in wines and spirits. What we are interested in noting is that the Anti-prohibition Association has pointed out an enormous decrease in the amount of alcohol consumed since prohibition as compared with the amount consumed before prohibition. James A. Crain, in American Youth and the Liquor Problem summarizes this comparison thus:

... "there is a gross decrease of nearly a billion gallons in the consumption of all classes of liquors in the United States under prohibition"—according to A. A. P. A. figures—"and a net decrease of nearly 16,000,000 gallons of pure alcohol, at the accepted rate of alcoholic content."

Now, nobody is going to claim that prohibition is a spotless new dispensation. It is simply a device for reducing the consumption of alcoholic beverages. Since, in the eyes of even its enemies, it has been so outstandingly successful in doing what it is intended to do, quite a few people would like to see it tried a little longer.

Sick

Brother J. D. Williams was taken ill on last Wednesday, November 18, and is still confined to his bed. He was taken to the Wesley Long Hospital in Greensboro Sunday for some examinations, but returned to his home today. He will have the deep interest and earnest prayers of his many friends. We hope for him an early recovery, and renewed strength for the work of his new field of labor. His address is 803 Mangum street, High Point.

Siler City

On Wednesday night, November 18, we were with this church in the mid-week-prayer service, and a business meeting which followed. The meeting was well attended, and a spirit of earnest purpose toward the church characterized those who were present. They will not have a pastor assigned at present, but will make arrangements for regular preaching services. They will most likely ask for a pastor later in the year. In the meantime, they will go on with all of the organizational activities of the church, and will make payments on their financial obligations. A coat of paint would add much to the exterior of the church; we trust that a way may be found for doing this in the near future. The interior of the church is pleasing and worshipful. We have a splendid group of people here, and we bespeak for them renewed diligence in Christian service while they are without a pastor, and while the chief responsibility of keeping the church alive rests on them. Our visit here was enjoyable, and we wish to acknowledge our indebtedness to Brother and Sister Johnson for entertainment at the Chatham Inn.

Chatham

We had no appointments with the churches of this charge while we were within its bounds during our visit to Siler City, but we did have contact with the charge through Brother Johnson and Brother Routh in a brief visit to Bonlee. Brother Love, the pastor, had visited two of the churches, and was gladly received. He is to be a citizen of Bonlee, and will live in a neat cottage, which is located on highway No. 60, on the south side of the town, and immediately in front of Brother Routh's roller mill. And we make bold to say that he won't go hungry. Brother Routh—C. C. it is,—delegate to our recent conference—demonstrated his generous heart by putting into our car, flour, meal, and wheat, for which we are very grateful. Of course the meal will not fail in his pastor's barrel! We predict for Brother Love and his family a happy stay with these people.

Thanksgiving

The early settlers of this country did a fitting thing when they set apart a day for Thanksgiving to Almighty God for his goodness that had crowned the year. It is likewise most fitting that this practice should have been continued, and that every recurring year the President of the United States designates a day in November to be observed throughout the nation as Thanksgiving Day. His proclamation this year sets apart Thursday, November 26, for this purpose. There is much cause in our nation for general Thanksgiving. We are at peace with all the world; no pestilence nor famine is devastating any part of our country; and God has crowned the year with an almost unprecedented harvest of field and orchard. Surely we should render to Him praise and thanksgiving. For a number of years we have been urging our people to assemble in their churches on this day, and make a public recognition of this obligation to God for His mercies, and from his holy temple, render unto Him praise and thanksgiving for His unfailing goodness. We understand that First Church, High Point, will do this. We trust that many others may, also.

Since writing this we learn that Thanksgiving services will be held on Thursday at the following churches: Tabernacle and Julian on Tabernacle charge and Pleasant Union on Mt. Pleasant charge. Burlington churches will unite in a union Thanksgiving service, with Dr. Paschall as preacher. This is all good news, and we believe that God will be pleased with these services. Our hope is that many of our people will attend.

And, of course, our offering is to be made to the Children's Home. Many will make this on Thanksgiving day, no doubt. Others will probably not make it until next Sunday. But whatever the time, let us see to it that the Home is not forgotten now when we are giving expressions of gratitude to God. And let us make the offering just as generous as possible.

Assigned

Rev. C. I. Smith has been assigned to the Kannapolis work. He will enter at once upon his duties as pastor, but will not move to the charge until the first of January. After that he will give his full time to the work. For the past two years our church here has had pleasing growth. Brother Smith is encouraged with what he has seen already of the work during the two recent Sundays that he has filled the appointments there. He will enter hopefully upon the work, and we bespeak for him the fullest co-operation of his people.

Herald

The HERALD Promotional Committee, appointed by the conference, and headed by Mr. E. L. Douglas, is working timely and well. It is a big job that this committee has, but a most worthy one. And certainly the goal is not beyond our reach. Thirty thousand church members should take 3,000 copies of the HERALD. And every time the paper goes to a new home, new interest is created in the local church, the conference, and the denomination. Push the HERALD! Push the HERALD!

That S. O. S.

Brother Pritchard sent it out last week, as Chairman of the Board of Church Extension. He has not over-rated the need—not one whit. WE just MUST have some immediate money for this Board. And the amount asked for from each church—just $5—is so small that we are confident of good results. And please remember that it is NOT an EXTRA, but just a payment on the A. C. B. for which the local church will be given full credit by Treasurer Brown. When you remit to Dr. Brown, please designate, "Church Extension." AND WON'T YOU PLEASE SEND THIS IN WITHIN THE NEXT TEN DAYS. Thank you, and you, and you, and you!

Notice Church Officials

When does your quarterly conference meet? Where does it meet? Are you—YOU—planning to be there? Of course it will be held if you are not there. But it will be better held if you are there. The first quarterly conference of a charge is an important occasion. Well, they are all important, as to that. But there is a peculiar importance attached to the First of the new conference year. The pastor may be new, and a good First Quarterly conference starts him off with faith and courage and happiness. He may be the old pastor; if so, he needs a good First Quarterly conference. It will be to him something of a vote of confidence, and will help him to start the year with new inspiration and new strength. Then, too, plans for the new year are to be made. The FIRST Quarterly conference is the official beginning of the year's work. It is certainly important that the united wisdom and strength of the official body of the charge should be brought to bear upon this beginning. Let us urge, then, that every official of every First Quarterly conference plan to be present when this meeting is held. Please do not minimize this matter; it IS important that YOU be there.

Magnify the Church

It belongs to Christ: "I will build my church." It was "purchased with His blood." "Christ loved the church, and gave himself for it." It is "His body"; it is the "bride of the Lamb." Therefore, "Give none offense to the Church of God"; but rather, "take heed—to all the flock"—and "feed the church of God." God wants his church to be nourished; he wants it to be strong; he wants it exalted. It is through his church that he proposes to lift up Jesus, and to bring the world to his cross for the remission of sins. No other institution in the world is charged with such tremendous responsibilities, blessed with such rich privileges, and so powerful in the good that it gives to humanity now and forever, as is the Church of God. Magnify it, brethren, magnify it! And do not be deterred by an economic depression. The one thing that we need, and must have, to save us from this condition is the Church. Let us not be fainthearted about that; let us have no doubt about it. To the church is given the spiritual savor that is the one sure antidote for all ills. Nothing else can be so powerful today toward setting the world going in peace, and in prosperity as the church which Jesus loves and bought with His blood. Let us magnify this "body of Christ"; let us press its claims upon the people; let us hold it up as the one Institution through which God will give his greatest blessings for the life that now is, and through which he will bring us into the larger life that is to be. God bless His Church, and God help us to magnify His Zion!

Appointments

November 25.—Rockingham charge in quarterly conference at 7 P. M.

November 28.—Mt. Pleasant charge in quarterly conference at Mt. Pleasant church. Hour, 2 P. M.

November 29.—St. Paul, 7:30 P. M.

December 5.—Flat Rock charge in quarterly conference at Gideon's Grove. Hour, 2 P. M.

"Feed the church of God."

Fraternally yours,

S. W. TAYLOR.

COLLEGE BOND CAMPAIGN

The campaign to sell a hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of High Point College bonds is now underway. Encouraging reports, for the beginning, are coming from different parts of the state.

The charges have been grouped with a directing committee for each grouping. These committees will call to their aid as many from the local churches as they need, in order to press the campaign to an immediate conclusion.

A weekly bulletin will be sent out from the college office to the workers showing the progress being made in the different groups. It would be a fine thing if the first issue of the bulletin could show that several charges had reached the quota. Let us have your report, by letter or wire. The progress of the campaign will likewise be published in the HERALD.

The Bonds

The bonds are coupon bonds, and are in denominations of $100., $500., and $1,000., maturing in 1935. The $5,000. bonds mature in 1940. Interest at the rate of 6% is paid semi-annually, February 15th, and August 15th.

Bond purchasers will be charged the accrued interest, upon purchase, since August 15th, which is the last interest date. They will get this back in the February 15th. coupons. Each coupon is a check for 6% interest for six months, and as they are due should be clipped and deposited as a check.

DEAR MOTHER O' MINE

Little things mean so much to mother—

A quick caress or a sunny smile,
Willing hands that give loving service—
All help to make her toil worth while.

Little things mean so much to mother—

A bitter word or an angry frown
Hushes the song on her lips to silence
While on her day the sun goes down.

Little things mean so much to mother—

Which shall it be, dear Mother o' mine?
Words that fill all your days with shadows,
Or smiles that carry their own sunshine?

—Florence Jones Hadley in Girls' Weekly.

PLEASING GOD WITH SONGS

There are many ways by which we can praise the Lord. That is one way by which the Psalmist David praised Him. He said, "I will praise the Name of God with a song" (Ps. 69:30). This is a lovely way to praise the One who loves us so much.

It is possible to sing beautiful songs about the Lord Jesus, and think about something else while we are singing them. But the Lord Jesus can look right into our hearts and see what we are thinking about.—Olive Plants.

OUR STORY PAGE

RACHEL'S THANKSGIVING GUESTS

Katherine waved her hands as she went by, but that only made Rachel sigh harder. Of course she smiled to Katherine, but it was a poor little rainy smile. The sight of the grip in Katherine's papa's hand was more than she could bear, for it meant she was going to her grandmother's for Thanksgiving.

"Oh, dear me! Oh, dear me!" sobbed Rachel, very softly indeed, so poor, sick mamma would not hear, "seeing Kathie go makes my stomach ache for my grandmother's Thanksgiving dinner! The mashed potatoes and the white meat and cranberry sauce and the wishbone! Oh, dear me! and the little saucer mince pie just a-purpose for me! Seems to me I can not bear it!"

The window pane was cold, and Rachel's little flattened nose turned quite blue against it. Her tears made little paths in the steam of her breath.

Last year she and Katherine had gone to Cloverdale together and sat in the same car-seat and nibbled both ends of the same banana. That was much fun? Then their grandfathers had met them and they had wished each other "A merry Thanksgiving" and parted.

Now, only Kathrine had gone. A faint whistle sounded down at the end of the snowy street.

"There goes Katherine's whistle this minute!" thought Rachel dolefully. "Now the engine's puffing in—now they're getting on—now the conductor's crying, 'All aboard!' Katherine's sitting next to the window and she's begun to eat her bananas. We did the minute we got on, last year. You can't wait when you're riding on the cars. O dear! I wonder if my end o' that banana doesn't look lonesome!" And then, in spite of herself, Rachel laughed. It was such a funny idea.

"Dear child! How good that laugh sounds!" thought mamma, among her pillows. She had been lying there grieving that her sickness must keep Rachel away from grandmother's Thanksgiving dinner. It was hard for the child. And then, to have Bridget gone, so there couldn't be any Thanksgiving dinner at home. It was a wonder the dear child could laugh.

Outside, on the snowy lawn, a few little chickadees were hopping about, pecking hungrily at the dry weed-stalks that peeped above the snow. Rachel watched them with a sudden feeling of companionship with them. They would have no Thanksgiving dinner, either—just snow and dried grass, poor things. Not even rice and cream and baked apples.

"I wish I could—I wonder if I couldn't—I'm going to!" she cried aloud. Her eyes shone with delight. It would be such a beautiful thing to do! Who'd ever given the birds a Thanksgiving dinner before!

"I'll begin right now to make out the bill o' fare. Oh, this is fun!" laughed Rachel. Then she tiptoed to the door and listened.

"Mamma, are you asleep?" she called, just above her breath.

"No, sweetheart; come right in here."

"A dear little birds' Thanksgiving dinner, mamma!" she cried.

"Splendid, sweetheart."

"And we'll count the things to eat—the courses, you know—right now, on my fingers. You say the thumb one, mamma."

"Seeds, Rachel, and grain."

"Oh, please wait! The grain's my forefinger. That's two courses. And little bits of apple, mamma?"

"Yes, dear, and peanuts all nicely shelled and broken up."

"Oh, yes, peanuts—goody!"

"And bits of cake and bread and—yes, a bone, Rachel."

"Mamma! a bone!"

"Yes, or two or three bones — that would be better," mamma smiled. "You can hang them on the lowest branches of the mulberry bush. Tie them on with little bright ribbons, to make the dinner-table look nice! Didn't you know little birds like to peek at meat? The idea of a Thanksgiving dinner without any turkey course!"

Such a Thanksgiving dinner as it was, next day! Rachel got it read yerself.

But, best of all, mamma was able to sit bolstered up in the easy chair, beside the window, and be introduced to the guests.

"Oh, mamma, seems as if this was the thankfulest Thanksgiving—that—ever—was!" laughed Rachel.—Annie Hamilton Donnell in Young Evangelist.

THE MINISTER'S WIFE

"If I were a minister's wife," said a lady in the car, who was talking too loud not to be overheard, "you may rest assured I should take an interest—an active interest—in my husband's work. I should say to him: 'Richard, if you want to do well next Sunday, preach short! If you want your congregation to grow larger and larger, preach short! If you want to draw them to this church, that church and the other preach short! Always preach short! But, Richard, have something to say, always! Condense, condense, and condense, and then have an air about you as if time were worth something and you could not afford to lose a minute of it.' If on a Sunday morning he seemed to be in an extra amiable mood, I would venture to say: 'Richard, dear, don't be all day in giving out your notices! Don't blink over them and clear your throat, and go poking along through them as if you had never seen them before and were pondering them in your mind as you call attention to them! Don't, I beg of you, Richard, read them forward and then say them all over again backwards! There is nothing so tiresome!' I am not sure but some Sunday I should say: 'Richard, if you get the least tedious today, I shall fuss with my bonnet-strings as a warning. And when you say, 'In conclusion,' don't, for pity's sake, go on until you reach a 'Finally,' and after that, 'One word more,' or 'Just another thought.' I do think it is such a mistake to try to tell all one knows in one sermon.'"

Just then the auditor was obliged to leave the car, but he could not help exclaiming to himself, "What a sensible woman." It is to be hoped that some day this sensible one will marry a minister.—Religious Herald.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, president of the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work, has made the following appeal to the women of the North Carolina conference to contribute to the Children's Home:

Asheboro, N. C., Nov. 20, 1931.

Dear Co-Workers:

As you know Thursday is Thanksgiving Day and, as usual, the Governor of the State has asked that each individual give at least the sum equal to one day's earnings to the Orphanage of his or her choice.

Our Children's Home is in need of money. Will you not use every effort to get every person in your church to make an offering. By every one of the thirty thousand Methodist Protestants in the state co-operating we can lighten the burdens at the Children's Home.

Get every member of your Auxiliary to working. This is a great opportunity.

Good wishes,

MRS. Wm. C. HAMMER, Pres.,
N. C. Branch Women's Work.

P. S. -Mrs. Dixon has a plan by which funds might be raised—A Vanishing Tea. Write her for particulars. Thanks.—

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCES OF MRS. O. H. JOHNSON

We, the members of Sapling Ridge Missionary society, record with sorrow the death of our beloved president, Mrs. O. H. Johnson. She was a much-loved president and was always faithful in whatever way she could serve her Lord. May her faithful service to her master be an inspiration to better and nobler living to all who knew her.

It is with saddened hearts that we tender this tribute of love, but we believe this change for her means joy, peace and rest, in that home above. Her presence will be greatly missed, not only as president of our society, but in all the activities of the church and community.

Therefore, be it resolved that we think of her with loving remembrance of her many years of faithful service in our mission and Sunday school work, and that an expression of love and sympathy be extended to her children, and commend them to God for comfort in their loneliness and sorrow, as the death of their mother follows so closely that of their dear father, O. H. Johnson.

That a copy of these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of our society, one to the "Methodist Protestant Recorder" and one to the "Missionary Record."

MRS. T. M. CLARK.

Myers, $6.00; Miss Tula Paul, $8.00; E. L. Douglas, $1.00; Mrs. J. M. Baity, $6.00; Miss Annie B. Satterwhite, $4.00; J. V. Dwiggins, $4.00; Mrs. A. L. Moore, $3.00; Rev. J. L. Trollinger, $5.00.

A NEW MOVEMENT

For the Laity

The great Washington convention initiated a new movement to band the laymen of our churches into a closer working unity. The idea seems to have struck a responsive chord. The major motive is to effect some such federated activity as now obtains with the women of the church, not in the same sort of organization, but rather to tie in with whatever type of laymen's work already functioning within a church, such as Bible classes, church boards, brotherhoods, etc., or the institution of a new body.

Annual conference organizations foster and maintain the movement. Each annual conference has been asked to give an hour during its session to a meeting of the lay delegates for a statement of the aims of the movement and to elect a group of officers who will have charge of the movement within the conference district. The general conference executive committee has appointed a general committee to prepare a statement with recommendations to the next general conference for a permanent plan.

The purpose of the Movement is to get the entire man power of the denomination at work for the church and back of the great program of the church, providing local authorities and responsibilities as well.

This is in line with the tremendously active tendency asserting itself in all denominations. We intend to be a part of it.

J. S. STRAUGHN, Treasurer.

THANKSGIVING

by Margaret A. Overcash

Lord, let us show our love in Thanksgiving
For all that thou hast showered on us;
For thy kindness in keeping us living
In the light of thy love most righteous.

For the earth and its beauty, the waters that flow,
For each light in the sky that shews us the way
That our feet may be led in the paths that go
Away from the dark at the end of day.

Lord, let us not forget the Son that thou gave,
Who suffered for us, bore our cross while living,
That our hearts be made true, our souls brave.
Lord, in His name, accept our Thanksgiving.

A PRIZED HYMN BOOK

I have the Methodist Protestant hymn book my father bought when I was a little girl. It has all the old songs in it. One is "When I Can Read My Title Clear to Mansions in the Skies," and "There Is a Fountain Filled With Blood;" and "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me;" and "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?" and "Lord, Thou Wilt Hear Me When I Pray." "I Am Forever Thine," "I Fear Before Thee all the Day," "Nor Would I Dare to Live," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone and All the World Go Free? No, There's a Cross for Every One, and There's a Cross for Me." It does me so much good when I read that song. I think so much of my hymn book.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. P. W. Miller, Cooper, Texas, 1 quilt.
Circle No. 2, Woman's Auxiliary, Lebanon, 4 quilt tops, 2 sheets, 12 towels, 17 wash cloths and 10 pair curtains.

We are thankful for these gifts of money and substance. Just a few Thanksgiving offerings have come in, and these are indicated by "T. O." We are sure that our people throughout the conference are planning to do great things by the Home at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

We have been notified that there are two large bags of peanuts on the way, the gifts of friends in Whitakers.

We appreciate the good things said of the Home and its children in the last copy of the "Herald."

And we appreciate the thoughts and prayers of our people which are turning this way at this season.

God bless and prosper each of you.

—The Richmond, Va., "News Leader" is authority for the statement that "With a billion dollar deficit, Secretary Adams proposes a new billion-dollar way to protect the pacific patron of the Kellogg-Briand treaty from non-existent enemies." "How long," says the "News Leader," "are the American people to be the dupes of their own unfounded fears?"

—Rev. John M. Walker, for the past five years pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Charlotte, North Carolina, has accepted the rectorship of St. Luke's Episcopal Church at Atlanta, Georgia. Dr. Walker will begin his Atlanta pastorate in the fall.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

English Street Church.—Since our last report many things have happened at our church. Our former pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, has been sent to Why Not Charge and we are missing him and Mrs. Reynolds very much. We, as yet, have not been assigned a pastor.

On Sunday, November 8th, Rev. D. I. Garner brought to us a very inspiring sermon at the 11 o'clock hour. He is from the St. Paul's church in Greensboro. At the night service Rev. J. M. Morgan, formerly of Fallston charge, spoke to us.

On the past Sunday Dr. S. W. Taylor was with us and preached for us at 11 a.m. His sermon was a very appropriate one for the beginning of a new Conference year, his subject being "Go Forward." Following the service, a business meeting was held. At the night service Rev. L. A. Thompson, from the College, spoke to us. We have greatly enjoyed having all these people with us and hope that they will come again.

On the past Sunday evening at the regular C. E. meeting time, our society was the special guest of the Welch Memorial Christian Endeavorers. A large number of our society were present to enjoy this splendid program. We hope soon to have the pleasure of this society meeting with us.

REPORTERS.

Oak Grove, Forsyth.—Our Sunday school was short in number again Sunday, but we hope and pray to have a large attendance the coming year. We had good attendance Sunday night at our prayer meeting. We were all sorry to hear of Brother Gerringer's having to leave us. We had all learned to love Brother Gerringer and family. We pray God's blessings on them wherever they go, and we give Brother Hunter a hearty welcome.

We ask the prayers of all you Christian people for the upbuilding of our church, for we feel like prayers are needed everywhere at this time, for it seems like people everywhere have forgotten God.

Good wishes to everybody.

MRS. R. M. WARREN, Reporter.

Hebron.—The past "revival" at Hebron church has proved to be a revival in reality. Rev. J. M. Morgan and assistant, Rev. C. M. Robinson, brought the divided people of Mt. Vernon church and Hebron church together to a higher standard of love and fellowship toward each other and with God. As a result of that meeting, we have established, we hope, a permanent Christian Endeavor Society at Hebron, and we feel that great good is being done to develop that part of God's work that is being left undone in our public schools.

The Christian Endeavor Society gave a program at Friendship church and was pleased with the courtesy and kindness shown by the Friendship C. E.

A spiritual atmosphere is very easily obtained and held in our society meetings.

Our Sunday school is still doing great good in teaching the young folks about Christ and His kingdom. The following teachers were elected for the coming year:

Class No. 1—Luther Hauser.

Class No. 2—F. A. Boyles.

Class No. 3—L. E. Boyles.

Class No. 4—Katherine Boyles.

Class No. 5—Texie Boyles.

Superintendent—Charlie Hauser.

We regret very much having Rev. J. M. Morgan leave us, for we feel that a great and good man has been taken from among us. And we feel sure that the field that he is in will have a man whose life is worth while. May he visit us when he can.

First Church, Concord.—Sunday was a wonderful day at our church. Our new pastor, Brother Morgan, preached a wonderful sermon Sunday morning and Sunday evening. We feel sure if we co-operate with our pastor we will have a glorious year for the Master. May God's richest blessings rest upon us all that we endeavor to do more this coming year than ever before.

We were very sorry to see our good pastor, Brother Millaway, and his good wife leave us because we could tell by their lives that they were children of God, and during their stay here we feel that many have been drawn closer to God and we pray that God's richest blessings follow them wherever they go and that their lives will prove a blessing to everyone with whom they come in contact. The memories of the splendid service that they rendered here will always be sweet and pleasant to us.

We earnestly desire your prayers for our pastor and the entire church here that God may bless us daily and help us to bring the lost back to the fold.

Mount Lebanon, Randleman.—Our attendance at Sunday school is going steadily upward; 140 members present Sunday. No visitors.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies have just closed a very successful year.

Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor Societies have been organized. We hope these societies will continue to function through the years.

It seems to me that if we can get our young people really interested in religious organizations and in doing religious work, then the problem of keeping them in church will have been, to a great extent, solved.

A large congregation was present Sunday to welcome our pastor, Rev. T. A. Williams, and to hear his splendid sermon. He spoke in grateful appreciation of the kindness and co-operation shown him since coming to this work. He seemed pleased to be back and I am sure that our members are more than glad to have him and his family with us again. Let us co-operate as never before and make this the best year that we have ever known.

Miss Rozelle King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will King, died Sunday night at her home here following a long period of ill health. Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Mount Lebanon church by Rev. T. A. Williams. Besides her parents Miss King is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Charles Lovett, Misses Bright and Jewel King, of Randleman, Mrs. W. S. McKenzie, of Archdale, and three brothers, Henry King, of Greensboro, Amos and Grover King, of Randleman.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—On Sunday, November the first, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll preached his last sermon of the conference year. We hate to lose Brother Carroll for he has done much good in this community. May God be with him wherever his duty may call him.

Mr. G. W. Garrett was able to be home from Rainey's hospital, where he spent several days, November 12.

Mrs. G. W. Garrett doesn't seem to be improving very much.

Mrs. L. A. Iseley has returned home after undergoing an operation at Rainey's hospital in Burlington.

Mr. L. E. Sharpe passed away at his home, November 9, 1931.

Mr. Sharpe is survived by his widow, Mary Sharpe and two daughters, Mrs. A. H. Patterson and Miss Elma Sharpe, both of Burlington, N. C. Two sisters, Mrs. Tom Graves, Mrs. A. M. Iseley and one brother Mr. Gilbert Sharpe, all of Burlington, N. C. The funeral was conducted from Friendship Methodist Protestant church on November 10 at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. O. C. Loy was in charge of the service assisted by Rev. T. M. Johnson and Rev. D. I. Offman. His going will be greatly felt by this church and community.

The Woman's Missionary society met with Mrs. H. A. Patterson Saturday evening, November 14.

Mr. Jordan Isely is seriously ill at Rainey's hospital.

We were very much pleased with Rev. L. E. Mabry's sermon last Sunday. He expects to make his home in our community as soon as he finishes school.

Grace, Greensboro.—The Sunday school of Grace church, under the efficient leadership of Superintendent Roy C. Millikan, is striving to reach the goal of better attendance. One hundred and fifty-five were present last Sunday—a small increase over the previous Sunday. Varied programs are presented during the assembly period, with which the school closes. Last Sunday two youthful musicians charmed the school. Miss Dorothy Livengood, a member of West Market Street M. E. Sunday school, played a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. J. Norman Wills. Her selection was "Sarabande," by Carl Bohm. W. H. Waynick, Jr., from the West End Sunday school, played a piano selection, "March Wind," by MacDonald. Both of these juniors give evidence of genuine talent and by faithful work will "make their mark" in the world of music.

Following these selections the junior department gave a song. The director of music for the Sunday school and church, Bynum Clapp, has been paying special attention to the juniors, and has organized a junior division of the choir, which assists in the music of the morning service. The church is very appreciative of Mr. Clapp's efforts, and hopes to see the juniors become an important part of the choir.

At the morning service Mr. Tambllyn preached an interesting and impressive sermon suitable to the Thanksgiving season. His text, "He took the cup and gave thanks." Mr. Hoover, he said, was faced by a difficult problem in issuing his Thanksgiving proclamation, but Mr. Tamblin feels that he has shown in this proclamation a keener sense of spiritual values than that which had marked his former efforts—certainly a great improvement over the last proclamation of his predecessor. Mr. Tamblin brought out clearly the fact that just as Christ could give thanks as he took the cup, so we may find in adversity, in the sweeping away of material possessions which we had become accustomed to regard as essential to our happiness and welfare, a genuine source of thanksgiving, as we may be led to realize and appreciate the fact that the things of the spirit are, after all, those of the most importance.

Spencer.—As our reporter did not report last year, and no one was elected this year, I thought it time to let you hear from us. We are glad to have our good pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, return to us. Our appointments follow: The first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. M. P. churches near us, come over into Macedonia and help us. You will hear a good sermon and we will be glad to have you worship with us.

New officers have been elected for church and Sunday school. Our new superintendent, Mr. Herman Brown, officiating Sunday, making our hearts glad that our young people were willing to work in our church. Our secretary is also one of our boys, Philip Coble; and as we look at our goodly number of young people we look forward to a better day, a larger church, and take courage. Pray that we may grow in grace and knowledge of our Savior.

MRS. A. L. MOORE.

West End, Greensboro.—The Auxiliary held a very interesting meeting November 9 in the home of the president, Mrs. V. C. Stockard, with Mrs. J. K. Osborne in charge of the devotion. The attendance was very good. The circles have all been working hard to raise the finances and the treasurer reported everything paid up to date, and we are hoping to report our full quota at Branch meeting in April. Now some one may think that quite a long time off but we have all learned time passes very fast.

The past year has been very hard financially with so many people out of work and we have learned to use "I can't" so often, but I feel like our Auxiliary has adopted "I will try" for their slogan.

May we all work more earnestly for the Master this new Conference year.

MRS. F. S. STOCKARD, Cor. Sec'y.

Tabernacle Church, Tabernacle Charge.—We are happy to have Mr. Isley back with us. This is the beginning of his fifth year as our pastor and we hope that this year will be even more pleasant and the best year of his ministry. Mr. Isley preached a very inspiring sermon Sunday. His theme was "In the School of Christ." Text, Matt. 28:19: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. In his theme he used some very important things that assist in Christian education, Christian homes, Christian churches, and Christian colleges.

Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock we will have our Thanksgiving service, at which time there will be a thank-offering taken for our Children's Home at High Point.

REPORTER.

Piney Grove.—We are glad we have our same pastor with us again. We welcome Rev. and Mrs. Short and pray God's richest blessings upon them, and may he serve us as well as he did last year.

The Sunday school institute was held at Piney Grove November 22, with very large attendance and good interest shown.

We were glad to have Mr. Lee Kearns, of Asheboro, with us. He made an interesting talk concerning teachers and how they should get along with young people in the Sunday schools.

Our pastor read for the opening a Thanksgiving Scripture very appropriate to Thanksgiving time. Mr. N. H. Prevost made an excellent talk on the value of Sunday school. We were indeed glad to have the Trogdon quartet of near Asheboro with us. They rendered some good songs which we enjoyed so much. We extend to them an invitation to come back and sing again.

MRS. J. A. GARNER, Reporter.

Kannapolis. We had a fine Sunday school today. It is still growing. We want to double our attendance this year. We are always glad to have visitors. We had two good sermons from our pastor today. Mr. Smith spoke at the morning service on "Blinded From Sin." There was a fine congregation. Many helpful thoughts were received from the sermon. We are indeed glad to have a man like Mr. Smith with us. He installed church and Sunday school officers and teachers. He made a fine talk at all of them. It was enjoyed by all.

The Ladies' Aid is doing fine work in the church. They are to give a supper Saturday, November 28th, at the parsonage. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Canaan, Denton Charge. Rev. Robert Short filled his appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, his subject being "True Greatness," using six reasons of the greatness of John the Baptist. We are fortunate to have Mr. Short return this year, for he is true, able, fearless, and worthy of our most hearty co-operation.

Preceding the sermon Mr. Short urged the Sunday school to make some form of Thanksgiving offering, either money or send the children anything they can use. He also stressed the need of assistance of High Point College.

The Sunday school is quite active, with much interest being shown, although the attendance is not as large as last year. The officers for this year are: Superintendent, J. S. Harris; class leader, J. M. Gallimore; secretary Val Bisher; reporter, Wesley Sexton; teachers, T. J. Ward, F. W. Nance, Mrs. J. S. Harris, and Mrs. S. E. Martin.

Concord Township Sunday School Institute was held at Piney Grove Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with President E. L. McDowell presiding. Rev. Robert Short conducted the devotional exercises. All the schools of the township reported except two. The Trogdon quartet of Asheboro was present and gave a number of selections which were very inspiring. Mr. Lee M. Kearns, of Asheboro, gave a very interesting talk, stressing unity and deeper channels of religious life. Miss Hope Hubbard, of Farmer, gave a talk on "The Adults' Division." There were also a number of local talks from the different schools of the township.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—When a pastor and his family have served a charge faithfully and well for two years it is only natural that there should be sorrow in the hearts of their people when they leave. We learned to love Brother Joyner and family, and we wish them well in their new field of endeavor. However, our hearts are made lighter by the arrival of our new pastor, Rev. J. L. Love, and his family. He has preached one sermon at this church and we were well pleased with him. Am sure we shall rejoice in this new fellowship.

On Friday night, November 20th, the people of this community gave our new pastor a pantry shower. They received an abundance of good things to eat. Brother Love made quite an appropriate little speech and everyone had a lovely time. Before leaving we sang "Blest Be the Tie," and Brother Love led in prayer.

Our Sunday school is not so very large, but there are always a faithful few who enjoy coming to the house of God.

Our Ladies' Aid meets regularly and we are still working and praying that if it is God's will we may soon pay off the church debt. It seems slow, but I believe God will crown our efforts in due season. Our president, Mrs. M. L. Stallings, continues to strive, as she has done for a number of years, to encourage one and all to do their best. Pray for us.

MRS. P. L. GARMON, Reporter.

First Church, High Point.—At the morning service last Sunday the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, delivered a forceful sermon on "What Constitutes a Majority?" taking as a text Joshua 1:6-8. God was seeking a man for leadership, and Joshua in his 83rd year was to be chosen. He best honors his God who takes up his task. A factor in the life of Joshua was that he could obey orders, and he who can obey them is best fitted to give them. Nothing will be ours until we move into action. Godly men and women will obey God from love. The world wants large-hearted men. High Point wants heroes, this church wants them. More heroism is often displayed in the home and in the closet where you pray daily than on the battle front. "He that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." Most people want to be on the side of the majority, not so much from principle as to be popular. One with God is a majority. Never be so foolish as to think what you and I do constitutes a majority, but what God wants us to do. There is a demand for righteousness and a willingness to obey.

At the evening service Mesdames Alfred and Whitesell sang a beautiful duet, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," and Rev. Mr. Farmer brought a practical message on "In the Other Fellow's Place."

This week is Honor or Loyalty Week. Beginning on Sunday afternoon, members of the board of stewards were in the pastor's study from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. to take subscriptions to the church budget, and each evening during the week from 7:30 to 8:30 except Saturday.

The Young People's C. E. Society with Miss Frances Taylor, president, met Sunday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock and discussed the topic, "What Is a Good Citizen?" from Peter 2:13-17.

Monday afternoon Mrs. S. W. Taylor and Mrs. George T. Penny will meet all children from 6 to 15 years of age who are interested in missionary work, with the plan of re-organizing the former Sunshine Circle into two groups. This meeting will be held at the church after school closes.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary is being re-organized under the chairmanship of Miss Frances Taylor, and will hold a meeting at her home, 909 West College Drive, on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Senior C. E. Society will meet Monday evening, when the topic, "God's Gifts and My Obligation," will be discussed, after which a Thanksgiving social will be enjoyed. The two C. E. societies are preparing baskets of groceries and all kinds of provisions to be delivered to those who are needy on Thursday morning.

On Thursday morning at 9 o'clock the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, Dr. Charles H. Nabers, pastor, will unite with the First church congregation in a Thanksgiving service. The message will be brought this year by our minister and the offering will be sent to the local Children's Home. One day's wages or income is asked for these dependent children.

"Giving is living," the angels said,
"Go feed to the hungry sweet Charity's bread."

"And must I keep giving and giving again?"

My selfish and querulous answer ran.

"Oh, no," said the angel, piercing me through,
"Just give till the Master stops giving to you."

The annual bazaar and turkey supper sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary was held last Thursday afternoon and evening, and proved to be a decided success with a splendid patronage and a delicious and ample menu. Mrs. C. C. Robbins was chairman of the committee on the supper, and she was aided by a corps of efficient helpers. More than 200 plates were served, and we feel sure that when proceeds are all collected and counted, the treasury will receive a substantial balance.

Mrs. E. M. Robertson, a sister of the late Rev. J. H. Stowe, who was a member of N. C. Conference for the greater part of his life, died last Thursday afternoon at the home of her nieces, Misses Annette and Zannie Stowe, on Hawthorne street. She had attained the ripe old age of 96 years. Her devoted nieces had tenderly cared for her for several years. Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the home by Rev. R. L. Farmer, and a quartette from the First church choir rendered appropriate selections. Burial was made in Oakwood Memorial cemetery here.

We regret exceedingly to announce the critical illness of Miss Elizabeth Ferree at HIGH POINT, N. C.

November 18th, 1931

Dear _____

The enclosed folder gives the information which our committee desires to bring to your attention, and we ask your careful reading.

High Point College is a Community Institution of which we are justly proud and which we are morally bound to stand by. It is rendering a service to the youth of our city in a remarkable way—100 of our boys and girls, annually, are getting training for future citizenship here, and 75% of them would miss the chance but for this college.

The college, yearly, is turning over nearly $100,000.00 through various channels in the city's life.

These bonds, in our judgment, are sound and secure—backed by Real Estate holdings worth, today, twice the issue of the bonds, and real estate which we know must increase in value as High Point continues her growth in industry and population. In addition these bonds are backed by the Methodist Protestant Church in the State, and by the denomination at large—the general Church guaranteeing the interest on bonds.

The college is located here by virtue of the invitation of our citizenship—we must meet the challenge of the Church in this Bond Sale. You will be called on by the Committee to take some bonds—we believe that your civic pride and purpose will lend fullest co-operation in this campaign. We are asking you to join with us in putting this across. We are buying these bonds testifying to our faith and interest in this college.

Very truly yours,

M. J. WRENN, Chairman

the home of her mother, Mrs. T. T. Ferree, on Steele street. She is one of our best loved and most useful members, and the prayers of a host of friends ascend daily for her recovery. Her brother, Robert Ferree, of Asheboro, was here Sunday to see his sister, and her sister, Grace, of Alexandria, Va., has been at her bedside for several weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul S. Kennett went to Mt. Hermon church, Alamance County, Monday afternoon to attend the funeral services for George W. Garrett, father of H. A. Garrett, a former member of First church and Superintendent of the Children's Home for several years. Mr. Garrett was 88 years of age.

Wyatt J. Armfield, 704 West Broad street, this city, father of Mrs. R. T. Pickens, will on Wednesday of this week, November 25th, celebrate his 88th birthday, having been born November 25, 1843 on his father's farm on Deep River, four miles from High Point. With the exception of deafness, he retains all his faculties in a marked degree. He remembers distinctly when rabbits played in the sedge-fields, where the Sheraton Hotel, Main street, and Southern Furniture Exposition building are now located. He has watched with keenest interest the evolution of the crossroads at Mecklenburgville, where the Plank Road between Bethania and Fayetteville crossed the Stage Road from Richmond to Atlanta into this "Grand Rapids of the South," teeming with bustling life and activity, with a population of 38,000 souls. With the exception of a few years spent in Mid-Western and Southern states, Mr. Armfield has spent his entire life in Guilford County as a pioneer banker, farmer, and business man. He has aided materially in the upbuilding of his native state, and still owns the farm of his grandfather and father, which has been in possession of the family 136 years, since 1795.

Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant Charge.—Our first preaching service with our new pastor, Dr. T. M. Johnson, in charge was held the fourth Sunday with a large crowd eager to hear the message. In an informal talk before the sermon Dr. Johnson expressed a feeling of Pleasant Union being very sacred ground to him as it was the church of his mother's childhood. He spoke of thinking of his mother as just a girl in connection with this church.

Dr. Johnson brought a very helpful message on "Christian Education," after having read Ephesians 4:11-22. He pointed out that above all things we should have men and women who have had Christian experiences to instruct our young people. He ended by explaining the High Point College bonds.

A special thanksgiving offering was taken for the Children's Home.

A Thanksgiving service will be held in our church at 8:30 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. Everyone is invited to meet with us in grateful praise and thanksgiving for the bountiful harvest.

Our first quarterly conference will be held at Mount Pleasant Saturday afternoon, November 28th, at 2 o'clock. Dr. Taylor will be with us in the meeting.

The installation service for the new officers will be held the second Sunday in December.

Among the visitors at our church we were glad to see Mr. John Deviney and Mark. We are always glad to have friends from other churches worship with us.

We were also glad to have Mrs. J. T. Bowman, one of our own members, who is away teaching. She expects to spend Thanksgiving with her husband at Westminster Theological Seminary.

Orange Charge.—The first quarterly conference will be held at Edland church Saturday before the first Sunday in December at 2 o'clock p. m. Let's have a good attendance and start the year off right.

We have completed the first round of appointments on the work. Everything looks hopeful for a good year's work.

The new Herald agents are entering upon their work enthusiastically. Their names and addresses are as follows: For Edland church, Mrs. E. S. Taylor, Edland, Route 1; for Hebron church, Miss Nannie McAdams, Melane, Route 2; for Chestnut Ridge church, Mrs. D. M. Pender, Edland, Route 2, and for Union Grove church, Miss Janie Blackwood, University, N. C.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Henderson.—The new Conference year has brought to us a new pastor, Rev. L. W. Geringer, and his family. We extend to them a cordial welcome and our sincere promises in helping them to carry on the work for the Kingdom here in our community. Our former pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter, and family left for his new charge at Forsyth last Tuesday and we wish for them the best of success in their new fields of labor.

Rev. L. W. Geringer preached his first sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday morning to an unusually large congregation. The main auditorium was completely filled. His theme for the morning was "My Aim and Yours." Using the words of Paul, "I shall know nothing among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," he delivered a most inspiring message, bringing out the ideals of leading a life of righteousness as He did, and to daily go about doing good.

There was a splendid attendance at the Sunday school hour and a special offering was taken for our Children's Home. Canned goods and other provisions were collected; also the sum of $8.58 in money, which will be sent to the Home. On next Sunday morning our pastor will preach a Thanksgiving sermon, at which time another offering will be taken for the Home. This is in response to the request of our governor that each person give one day's salary or income to the orphanage of his choice as a Thanksgiving offering.

The Philathea class was delightfully entertained at its regular monthly meeting in October at the home of Mrs. E. G. Finch. Mrs. A. E. Smerdon was associate hostess. The reception hall and living room were attractively decorated, carrying out the Halloween idea. About 35 members were present. Mrs. J. B. Burchett, president, was in the chair. Following the regular business routine a most enjoyable contest and program was given. Rev. R. A. Hunter, winner of the contest, was given a large candy sucker for a prize. Mrs. W. B. Hight sang a solo which was greatly enjoyed. During the social hour refreshments were served carrying out the Halloween motif.

We are glad to report that Mrs. George B. Harris, who has been ill and confined to her bed for several weeks, is now able to be up at short intervals and is gradually improving.

It is also with great pleasure that we report a successful operation for Mrs. S. R. Harris and that she is now able to see and get about with much more ease than heretofore.

As an expression of love and appreciation, a farewell supper was given Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Hunter Thursday, November 12. About 100 adult members of the church attended. The basement was a scene of beauty with its background of pine boughs, autumn leaves and American flags. The tables were made colorful with autumn leaves, golden chrysanthemums, miniature turkeys, fruit and pumpkins bringing out the harvest season idea. Small flags were given as favors. The program was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Fox, with Miss Maxine Taylor presiding. Patriotic songs were sung and short addresses made by Mr. Henry Powell and Mr. Jasper Hicks, both expressing the appreciation of the entire church for the valued service that Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have given during their six years' stay in Henderson. Their lives have been an inspiration and have meant much to the community as well as to the local church and it is with sincere regret to have to give them up. Mrs. S. R. Watson gave an impressive talk in behalf of the women of the church expressing the love they have for Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and the gratitude for the benefits they have received from them.

Two lovely duets were given by Mrs. C. S. Finch and Mrs. C. M. Hight, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Martin, pianist, and Mr. C. M. Hight, Jr., violinist.

Mr. Hunter, in his usual interesting way, responded to the talks and expressed his sincere hope that the church would progress and be as loyal to the incoming pastor as they have been to him.

After singing the appropriate hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," a miscellaneous shower was given Mrs. Hunter in the Philathea class room.

REPORTER.

Charlotte.—Our prayer service was held at the parsonage Wednesday evening with a good attendance. An interesting and helpful discussion on various subjects concerning church work was held after the service, in which all present entered.

Surely every shoulder is to the wheel, judging from the hum in our Sunday school. This people has evidently found the solution to the query, "How to get folks out?" Would you like to know? Well, give the opening and closing exercises to a different class each Sunday morning. You will find out what the pupils of your school are learning and incidentally profit you.

The sermon at 11 o'clock by Dr. R. M. Andrews was both timely and instructive. The text, found in Psalms 116:12, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits to me?" The speaker showed that thoughtlessness in the cause of being unthankful. If we think of the goodness of God we will want to thank Him for His wonderful love and thoughtfulness of us in the gift of His Son for our sins—for material things also. We are no longer servants but sons of God by adoption.

David said, Take the cup of salvation, and the Psalmist said We should forsake sin and give thanks unto God.

We all enjoyed a real musical treat from 7:30 to 8:30 in the evening given by the Capella Choir from High Point College, directed by Prof. E. B. Stimson, who was also piano accompanist for the special numbers. Miss Aileen Vance delighted the audience with a violin solo, "Paradise;" Mr. C. L. Gray was tenor soloist and sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," by Rathbun; Miss Virginia Bean sang "Rock of Ages," by Johnson. All of the soloists have very sweet voices. Outstanding among the numbers given by the choir: "Come, Let Us Worship," by Palestrina; "Give to My Restless Heart," by MacKinnon; "Beautiful Savior," by Christianson; "Cherulim Chorus," Glinka; "Open Our Eyes," MacFarlane, with Professor Mourane soloist; "That Sweet Story of Old," by West, with S. W. Taylor, soloist. "S. W.," son (probably 12 years old) of Rev. S. W. Taylor, president of the North Carolina Conference, has a splendid voice and was greatly enjoyed, as was the whole program. We hope they will come to us again. The ladies of the church served supper to the choir at the parsonage.

At 10:30 the choir broadcasted over Station WBT, Charlotte, returning home thereafter.

The C. E. Society was in charge of Miss Mary Shaw, who had a most interesting program. Mr. C. L. Gray very kindly entertained those present with a selection. He was accompanied by Miss Alma Andrews, who is also a student at High Point College, and a member of the chorus.

Miss Shaw asked the members to bring an offering of canned goods for the Children's Home. Quite a number responded. The stewards held a members' canvass in the afternoon. They are a busy number.

Morrah.—We are very happy indeed to have our pastor, Rev. M. P. Chambliss, back with us, and we hope he is happy to be back.

Morrah and Liberty have united and are also happy to have them with us to share in the splendid sermons which are delivered each Sunday. About 40 members of our church were the guests of Liberty Sunday, November 22. We enjoyed a sermon on Thanksgiving. The text was "In everything give thanks."

The first quarterly conference will be held at Morrah December 6.

girls of our church, Miss Elvira Scott, was happily married to Mr. Edgar L. Berry, of Pleasant Garden. Rev. M. P. Chambliss performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scott. Mr. and Mrs. Berry are now at home in Pleasant Garden. We wish them a long, happy, and prosperous life.

Two of our members have been taken by death recently, Mr. J. W. Moore and Mrs. E. C. McLean, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sharpe.

Miss Madge Smith, of High Point, is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Hebron, Orange Charge.—The new year started Sunday morning when our old and new pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, delivered a practical and most helpful message from the book of Jeremiah. Jeremiah was a prophet during the reign of five kings. His aim in life was to find out real conditions of his time and to remedy these conditions. This is the aim that our devoted pastor has set for the coming year. Unless every church member meets his responsibility the pastor will find his aim difficult to accomplish.

The year's work was outlined to some extent today, the remaining plans to be outlined at a special meeting of church officers this week.

The church welcomes our pastor and his family to this charge another year. We feel that we must work harder than ever before. This will prove to him that he is welcomed and wanted.

Our Sunday school is growing in interest under the leadership of the new superintendent, Mr. J. A. Nicholson. He can't make a good Sunday school alone; he also must have full co-operation.

Another thing of interest that is happening at this place is the beautifying of the grove with shrubs, walk, and later a driveway. If you don't know where you have gotten to when you drive out on the Hebron Road just look for the church sign.

May the Lord help us to make the year a sunshine year. REPORTER.

In John Wesley's Day there was a question like this—

"Are We Going On to Perfection?"

This is the question now facing the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina. How shall we answer?

A denomination, having more than 30,000 members in the state faces the responsibility of being a dynamic force in the life of its constituency, in the outlook of communities and in the progress of the commonwealth.

Facing such responsibility—the denomination must have an educated and trained leadership, both in the ministry and laity. It must be an education that is Christian, and this means under Christian leadership, where Christian ideals and motives receive their due emphasis under wholesome influences.

Hence the recognition, long since, of the Church as to the need of the Christian College.

This is the why of High Point College. Let us face the FACTS:

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BONDS

Carolina—and further underwritten by the General Church.

1. Our Church has achieved an outstanding record in High Point College.
2. Our indebtedness is not great in the light of assets, but its nature is such that the pressure is tremendous—and we must relieve the pressure.
3. In seven years High Point College has attained a yearly enrollment, standing in college circles and community confidence, that have no parallel in the history of denominational colleges.
4. The City of High Point is challenging the North Carolina Conference in this plan of re-financing through the sale of bonds. We must meet the challenge.
5. For the first time in the one hundred years' history of the denomination, the General Church, without respect to area, is being appealed to through its official leadership to back a college. And bonds are being bought outside of North Carolina. We must capitalize this support.
6. There is money enough in the possession of Methodist Protestants in our Conference to absorb our quota of bonds. Let us do it.
7. Let us say, "We are going on"—to sell these bonds, thus re-financing the College, and securing it these days of "trying times."

Is it Depression or Repression that is gripping the Church? Doubtless something of both—but now it is going to be Expression! Expression of FAITH—LOYALTY—PURPOSE.

"Launch Out Into the Deep"

(Suggested by a sermon by Rev. C. W. Bates)

The sea of life is deep and vast
And into it our nets we cast;
Our catch sometimes is very small,
At other times just nought at all.

It is because we do not know
The way the schools of fishes go:
We drop our nets quite near the shore
And wonder why we catch no more.

To deeper seas we must depart
If we would ply the fisher's art;
Sure we must go where fish abound
If we would tell of fishes found.

The lesson has its parallels
In every sphere in which man dwells:
There is the sea with all its deeps
Where God His costly treasure keeps.

The shore-bound life is never deep,
If it rejoice or if it weep;
It's bound in shallows, miseries,
And can't escape from one of these.

The superficial mind must move
In endless, toilsome, grinding groove;
A slavish mind devoid of joy,
It plays the part of simple toy.

Launch out! Launch out in God's great deep!
For there His power will surely keep:
And there you'll find a treasure rare
With worth to you beyond compare.

—A bunch of men got into a fight and tore the clothes off of each others' backs and then tried to fix the blame for their nakedness. They remind us of the nations who back in the teens of this century attacked each other and who are now in their destitution and distress trying to fix the blame for their forlorn condition.

—Gandhi, the eccentric Indian statesman, presents a pathetic figure as he returns from England confessing the failure of his visit and with determination to go on with his program of passive resistance. How much hardship he has already endured! One wonders how much more suffering his frail body can stand.

—It is remarkable how many politicians climb onto the fence when important issues become clouded and uncertain.

Dr. Brightman and His Theology

Our recent reference to Professor Brightman of Boston University with disapproval of some of his theological views provoked an interesting reply from a student of that university. It is as follows:

"I read with keen interest your editorial in the HERALD of November 19th, entitled Problem of Evil Solved Again. Especially was I interested when I realized it to be a criticism of Dr. Brightman's recent book, The Finding of God.

"Last summer I was one of the many students of Dr. Brightman in a course designated Problems of Philosophy. It was a stiff course, I can tell you, but very enlightening. Dr. Brightman is without question a scholar and a philosopher, a personalist and idealist by classification. He is an able instructor with a most encouraging and optimistic attitude. In the class room he permits—rather, welcomes—questions and discussions, and is tolerant to those who disagree with him. He tries to see all viewpoints. He possesses a striking personality, and I call him a Christian gentleman.

"It has not yet been my privilege to read his latest book, mentioned above, but toward the end of our summer school session he discussed it with us in class, and I can see his point of view to some extent, at least. Still, with his explanation of it, and defense, I cannot agree with him. Knowing him as I do, I cannot understand how he can take such a pessimistic view, as you state, toward God and evil. Doubtless he would deny that it is pessimistic, but it certainly seems so to me. Nor can I think of God as being less than perfect. If he is struggling with The Given as a part of himself, when will he conquer? How can a mighty God, who created heaven and earth, not to mention living creatures, and who operates the universe with such precision as astronomers tell us, be impotent to control himself?

"Furthermore, like you, I cannot think of God as finite, which brings him, in that regard, to the level of man. If he is imperfect or incomplete in this attribute, he must be so in others, and we are not much better than the savages who worship deified humans. This may not be philosophically sound nor scholarly, but I'd rather cling to the view of a dual universe with God and Satan striving for supremacy. God may be found in other ways, as well as through philosophy."

—Back in the childhood of the world war may have been a remedy for some conditions, but times have changed: Now war is murder.

—Hoover's days have become like Cleveland's with idle men moving on to Washington to make impossible demands. Times can be made better, but not by false moves.

Father of Rev. C. H. Hill Passes

We learned this only recently. J. Milton Hill, the deceased, was 79 years old at his death, which occurred October 27. Brother Hill was a member of the Denton Methodist Protestant church. The funeral service was held there, and interment followed in the Denton cemetery. Rev. C. H. Hill, and the other members of the family have our sympathy. For a time like this there is great comfort in the assurance of the better things that await us in the beyond.

Improving

The many friends of Brother J. D. Williams will be glad to know that he is recovering from his illness. If he continues to improve he will be able to resume the active work of his pastorate very soon. It was our privilege to fill his appointment at Welch Sunday morning. We had an attentive hearing; the spirit of worship was in evidence, and the service seemed helpful. The people of this charge are delighted to have Brother Williams and his family in their midst, and both pastor and people are hopefully anticipating a prosperous year's work. We shall rejoice with them in every success that attends their labors.

Assigned

Rev. C. H. Hill was assigned, on last Sunday, to the pastorate of English Street church. He will move to High Point at once and enter upon the duties of this pastorate. This church has a fertile field for development, and we shall watch its growth with deep interest and earnest prayers. We bespeak for Brother Hill the full co-operation of his people, and we likewise bespeak for him all the wisdom, patience and power, that he can summon for this task. It will be a great joy to us to see a year of phenomenal development in this church.

First Church, Winston

On November 24 we sat in the first quarterly conference of this church as a visitor, though we were invited by Pastor Pritchard to officiate. Not being here in pursuance to the usual purposes of our visitation among the churches, we preferred to "sit in" as an interested spectator. It is not our purpose to give any detailed account of the meeting. The business was transacted well, as was to be expected. The stewards reported more pledged on budget than is usual at this time. The spirit and program of the pastor indicated hope and courage. We were particularly pleased with the aptness and expressiveness of his slogan, "More This Year Than Last Year." We trust that this may prove true in every particular.

Rockingham

November 25.—The first quarterly conference of the charge was the occasion of our visit here on this date. The meeting was held at 7:30 p. m. Brother Trollinger has been sick, and was not able to attend the annual conference. We were glad to find him up again and able to be at his work. The conference was not largely attended, though several were present, and the business was attended to promptly, and "in harmony," as we say. A Thanksgiving offering was taken for the Children's Home, and another offering for this purpose was announced for the following Sunday. The Sunday School appears to be well attended, and Brother W. M. Jenkins, the superintendent, declared his earnest purpose to do all possible to keep the school prospering during the year. Finances were discussed at length. The total amount for budget and salary here is only $535, or $5 per member. This is not large, and a proper financing system, with weekly payments, should mean, "Paid in Full" next fall. We are confident that this can be done if the officials set their hearts upon it. Brother Trollinger has had a long pastorate here. We trust that this may be his best year yet. It was a pleasure to be with our work here again, and we wish to express our gratitude to Bro. Trollinger and his wife for the hospitality and comfort of their home.

Mt. Pleasant

November 28.—Our first official visit to this charge for the new conference year was on this date, the occasion being the meeting of the first quarterly conference, which was held at Mt. Pleasant church, at 2 p. m. A large number of officials were present—21 to be exact—and this number was augmented by others who were not members of the conference. All routine business was transacted, though the major part of the conference was taken up with the pastor's report. Dr. Johnson is beginning his first year on this charge. In his report he set before the conference a comprehensive and complete program for the year's work. His recommendations included: 1. An immediate response to the S. O. S. of Brother Pritchard for the Board of Church Extension; 2. A HERALD agent at each church, and the full allotment of 61 subscribers for the charge; 3. The sale of High Point College Bonds and a representative for this purpose at each church; 4. Budget apportionments to each church, and each church apportioning the same to each member. These recommendations were discussed and heartily adopted. The following goals were proposed by the pastor, and these were also adopted: 1. A revival in every heart; 2. Earnest emphasis on evangelism; 3. The HERALD in every home; 4. Each and all behind every program of the church; 5. Observance of all special days; 6. Monthly payments on conference claims. The conference was evidently impressed with the attitude of the pastor and his approach to the work of the charge in which he is to be leader for year. The financial allotments would not seem to be beyond the reach of this work. Budget allotments amount to $1.41 per member; salary, $1.95 per member. The total for both budgets and salary is only $3.36 per member. We believe that our people on this charge will see this not only as a possible task, but one that is easily within their reach, and that they will resolve now to be a full-fledged Honor Roll charge next fall. The Sunday Schools of the charge are in good condition; so are the C. E. and Auxiliary organizations at Mt. Pleasant church. The indications are that the work is starting off well along all lines. Dr. Johnson has been cordially received, as was expected, of course, and he will leave nothing undone that is within his power to make the charge spiritually strong and prosperous. So far as we are able to do so, we commit to him every member and every agency of the charge in his efforts to work out this good purpose. Dr. Johnson will live at the parsonage and will board with Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, who now occupy the house. The conference instructed the parsonage trustees to make any necessary improvements on the room that Dr. Johnson will occupy. It was a pleasure to be in a quarterly conference so business-like as this one was, and in which there was so much of earnest concern and encouraging purpose regarding the interests of the church and the kingdom.

St. Paul, 7:30 P. M.

November 29.—Our visit here on this date was two-fold: first, to preach, and second, to officiate at the marriage of the pastor. The church was set for the occasion with the usual decorations of ferns, flowers, and candles; and a congregation that more than filled the house assembled to do honor to the occasion. Of course the minds of the people were set on the marriage, but nevertheless, they gave marked attention to the preaching of the word. We could not ask for a more ready hearing. And there is certainly an inspiration in preaching to such a congregation. Of course we can not have a marriage every Sunday to bring them out; but is there not something that will draw them? The merit in the church is not in great numbers, to be sure; but there is merit, much merit, in the something in the church that attracts great numbers.

The marriage followed upon the conclusion of the sermon at 8:30. The groom is Rev. David I. Garner, the popular pastor of St. Paul church; the bride is Miss Carrie Lee Mabry, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mabry of Cabarrus county. The many friends of this happy couple will join us in extending congratulations and good wishes. We most heartily welcome Sister Garner into the conference family, and bid her a hearty "God-speed" as she assumes the roll of pastor's wife.

We noted with pleasure the presence of Brother W. F. Ashburn in this service, and we were glad to have his company as we drove him back to his home in Greensboro.

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN

"The Methodist Protestant Herald in Every Methodist Protestant Home"

TO HERALD CHAIRMEN:

Did you note the increase in "HERALD Subscription receipts" in the last issue of the HERALD? Some of these were of goodly size too. Already we begin to see the results of our campaign. Just think what it will be when our 217 chairmen, (the number now appointed) all get their work started. We expect to see a long, long list of receipts, and by the way these receipts will be shown in a different form from heretofore, i.e., tabulated, with the largest amount at the top, then the next largest and so on down, and in addition to the name of the remitter the name of the church (not the charge but the church) will be shown.

Please note the following letter which I received last week:

"Your letter of appointment and instructions received and I should have written you I would do my best, but instead got in my car and went out after a new subscriber as requested.

"I could not do without the HERALD, and do think it should be in every Methodist Protestant home. I shall do my best to not only get our quota, but get as many subscribers as possible. If more of our people would subscribe and read the HERALD our work would all go forward better. I shall do my best and hope we may all feel the responsibility."

Do you feel the same way about it? If you do I am sure we shall succeed in raising our circulation to 3,000. If there are any more that feel the same way about it, please say so. I think it will be an encouragement to all of us. Of course we can't print every letter received but we may print some of them.

A hint to the wise—very few subscriptions will ever be gotten over the telephone, too easy for the prospect to say no. Visit the prospect in the home, go to them. A few subscriptions can be had by making a public speech about the HERALD and then inviting subscriptions to be handed in to you. This will not prevent your still visiting them in their homes if they do not volunteer their subscriptions, and the majority will have to be tracked down to their own hearthstones. Considerable work, yes. But the cause is worthwhile. Let's go.

When you need more remittance blanks, please request Brother McCulloch to send you more. He will be glad to do so. Already some requests for more have come in. If you did not get the correct mailing list, write and tell me what address and route numbers are required and will try to supply them.

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman Directing Committee.

WHEN THE HAZE IS ON THE HILLS

By JAMES L. ELDERDICE

Corresponding to the English St. Martin's, or Allhallow Summer, comes an enchanted period of autumn, a period of warm, dry, calm weather, with hazy atmosphere, when, for no apparent reason, the genial, balmy beauty of summer undiminished returns, and lingers for awhile ere the chilly, gray mists of winter close around us.

According to the folklore of the North American Indian, one of the sun gods, Michabo, whose name signifies the Great Hare, the Great White One, or the God of the dawn and the east, is responsible for these "dream days," as Longfellow delighted to call them in his "day." Michabo slept during the winter months, and in autumn, when he was about to seek repose, he filled his huge pipe with tobacco, and the blue clouds of smoke that he exhaled drifted far and wide over the landscape and filled the land with the veil-like haze known as Indian Summer. Through the winter Michabo dwelt in the skies with his brother, the Snow, and decreed what the weather should be. Hence it is not difficult to believe that for his

"PLEASE, TELL ME A STORY"

"Mother, please tell me a story." Carol had been busily engaged putting her dolls to bed, but now tired of her task she ran to her mother with the request for a story.

Mrs. Smith laid aside her mending, and taking her little daughter on her knee, said, "Have you any special story you would like tonight, Carol?" "Our memory verse for next Sunday is 'Jesus said, Let the little ones come unto Me.' Tell me about Jesus and the children, mother."

"I will tell you about three little Indian boys. Their names were White Cloud, Red Feather and Little Bird. Like our own boys and girls, these children loved to roam through the forest, chase butterflies and swim.

"One day the boys went out to play. They chased each other through the fields and finally came to the forest. They amused themselves for quite a while watching the birds, but they finally grew tired and decided to go swimming. Down the shady path they ran to the river. How they did love to dive into the river. Time and again they would disappear in the water. Little Bird climbed in a nearby tree and jumped into the water, but I guess he wished he hadn't jumped quite so far because he hit his foot against a stone and cut it badly. He had all he could do to get out of the water, but White Cloud and Red Feather helped him as they could.

"What shall we do?" asked White Cloud.

"Let's take him to the white doctor," said Red Feather. "He helped my father." So they made a chair with their hands and carried Little Bird to the white doctor. When they got to the doctor's home, he wasn't in, but his wife, Mrs. Jones, took care of the foot. She bathed it, put some ointment on it and bandaged it. At first Little Bird was afraid of the doctor's wife and trembled whenever she touched him, but she was so gentle and kind he forgot to be afraid. Why, she didn't hurt nearly as much as his doctor would.

"Bring him back tomorrow and let me see how the foot is getting along. I think you will be able to run around with the boys before long," Mrs. Jones said when the boys started for home.

"The next day they came again to the doctor's house, and what a nice time they had. There were so many books and pictures to look at and Mrs. Jones told such lovely stories. Day after day the boys came to call. Mrs. Jones told them Bible stories, showed them pictures, and talked to them about the other little boys and girls in this great world. The boys loved the stories of Jesus, Moses and Samuel.

"One day when they came to call, Mrs. Jones had a new picture to show them. It was the picture of Jesus with the little children of different nations around Him. Our three little friends looked a long time at the picture. All at once Little Bird discovered a little Indian boy standing at Jesus' knee. He jumped up and down and clapped his little hands, 'Oh, Mrs. Jones,' he said, 'I see a little Indian boy in the picture. Does Jesus love him as much as He loves the white children?'

"Yes, He loves them just as much and wants them to be well and happy. Jesus wants them to love Him, too."

"The three little faces turned toward Mrs. Jones. 'Will you tell Jesus we want to be in His family, too?' Red Feather asked. Mrs. Jones gathered the three little ones in her arms and with bowed heads, they told Jesus that they loved Him and wanted to belong to Him."

"That was a real nice story about the little Indian boy, Mother," said Carol. "And now let's sing, 'Jesus loves me'." The song was started, but as it came to a close Mrs. Smith realized she was the only singer. Carol had slipped away into the land of dreams. Before the little one was tucked into bed, the mother uttered the prayer that her little Carol might learn to really love and serve Jesus, the Friend of little children.—Selected.

yearly pipe-dream he commanded weather conditions such as sets the world a-dreaming."

The mild weather about this time has given rise to many proverbs, one of the well-known ones being, "St. Martin's little summer," an allusion to which Shakespeare refers when he represents Joan of Arc as saying, "Expect St. Martin's summer halcyon days," which Johnson paraphrases thus: "Expect prosperity after misfortune, like fair weather at Marthelmas (St. Martin's), after winter has begun. "But the popular conception makes Indian Summer the synonym for beauty, warmth and glory, that like the blue smoke drifting from Michabo's pipe, vanishes like the morning mist.

Poets and novelists, feeling the tenderness, the indescribable emotion that "resembles sorrow only as the mist resembles the rain," speak of it as that romance of love that comes to one late in life, or that pathetic experience of those to whom love only returns with its rapture in dreams that fade at the dawn of light.

Young hearts in the spring of life have their dreams of hopeful anticipation, but "There comes a time when manhood's prime Is shrouded in the midst of years."

and older hearts in life's autumn indulge in the bitter-sweet dreams of remembrance. As the aged gaze on the entrancing haze on the hills there often comes a mist into the eyes. There is a satisfying charm and tranquility that is best described in the words of Beecher:

"Such days fill one with pleasant sadness. How sweet a pleasure there is in sadness! It is not sorrow; it is not despondency; it is not gloom! It is one of the moods of joy. At any rate I am very happy, and yet it is sober, and very sad happiness. . . . It is the minor key of our thoughts."

The Manetta Mills, Monreal, no name given, 1 large carton cotton goods.

A friend (no name given), Mackeys, 1 bag peanuts.

Our reports this week shows that a goodly number of God's children were thankful, and that they gave expression to their thanks by and through their donations to this Home.

We had a good Thanksgiving dinner, thanks to loyal friends, and all our children seemed happy.

We have the promise of other good offerings yet to come.

Several cash donations deserve special mention this week, but we realize the delicacy of so doing, and in the main refrain.

Note the offering of Mr. D. B. Altman, of Bethel Home. Mr. Altman has been in Bethel Home for several years, a perfect ray of sunshine to all who visit him in his sick room. Through his Thanksgiving offering his sunshine has radiated out to our children here. Two of our pastors have responded with their personal T. O. Note the good T. O. from a daughter of the sainted Dr. John Paris, and also note the $100.00 T. O. from the hills of N. C. It is also encouraging to be so well remembered by the dear friends on the old home circuit. See also the number of T. O.'s from Lebanon. In fact the entire report this week is very heartening to those of us who are trying to hold the fort here.

Some of our small churches have made good offerings, and many friends have made their personal offerings.

May the dear Lord bless and keep you, every one.

We hope all of you had a fine Thanksgiving day, and that Christmas will bring its good cheer to all your homes.

A Sane Christmas

Let's cut out the toys and the trinkets this year just as nearly as possible and save our money for actual needs. Some fruit and candy and handkerchiefs and towels and soap and such things as will be useful will serve far better here and will give just as much joy. We thank you and may God bless you.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

The above are the quotas assigned the different charges, by the committee, in accordance with the action of the last Annual Conference.

It is hoped that each pastor, where there is more than one church on his charge, allot the amount of the churches, and either appoint a Bond Committee for each church, or a committee for the charge, or do the work himself.

The college is ready to aid in any way it can to help each charge reach its quota. Upon request a speaker for the Sunday services will be sent to present the matter of the bonds, and if it is needed someone will be sent to assist the Bond Committee in its work.

Bond literature has been sent to each pastor, as well as to the members of the directing committee for the various grouping of charges. If more literature is needed write in to the college for it.

Bonds Sold

|                       |          |
|-----------------------|----------|
| High Point            | $ 9,000 |
| M. P's in N. Carolina | 6,800    |
| M. P's out of state   | 5,100    |

Total $20,900

West End, Greensboro, tops the list for the amount of bonds sold in the state. She has passed the half-way mark toward her quota. Pinnacle-Mt. Zion, and Enfield charges are a close second. Both of the latter have just reached half of their quota. All three of these charges usually put things over when they start, and we shall watch with interest their progress the next two weeks.

North Davidson stands high, as does Haw River. Information has come that North Davidson will have more to report next week. Joe Trollinger usually gets what he goes after, and we venture the assertion that Haw River will not be left far behind in next week's report.

Calvary church, as well as Community church and First church, Thomasville, are not far in arrears of some of the highest. With the start they have, progress should be noted each week.

"Bob" Troxler says: "I'll do my best. You can depend on Shiloh," so we will watch Shiloh a bit next week. If "Bob" can sell bonds as well as he can sing, we will not be surprised to see Shiloh over the top next week.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mount Meriah, Cleveland Charge.—We were more than glad to welcome Rev. C. E. Ridge and family back for this fourth year's work with Cleveland charge. He has served very faithfully and we hope he will continue to be blessed in his work. We are hoping this may be a great year for both pastor and people. He started off last Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with another one of his splendid sermons.

The following officers were elected for the new year's work at the last appointment before Conference so they would be ready for the year's work: Mr. R. C. Waters was again elected Sunday school superintendent; Mr. O. S. Hunt, assistant superintendent; Mr. Punch Turner, Mr. Alfred Brackett as class leaders; trustees, Mr. Cleo Turner, Mr. Roland Turner, Mr. Charlie Self, Mr. Charlie Mefarland, Mr. John Queen, Mr. John Leadford, Mr. J. M. Deviney, church treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Hunt was re-elected reporter.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. We have 126 on roll. Last Sunday 93 were present. We are praying for the people to get more interested in going to the church to keep the work of the Lord moving on.

We have appointed the first Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock of each month to have our class meeting. We are expecting a large crowd of the older people to be present and also the young ones. We are asking all the good Christians to pray for us.

REPORTER.

Sandy Ridge, Kernersville Charge.—Our Sunday school is still going fine. The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. R. K. Anderson Saturday, November 14th, with eight members present. We took in two new members at this time. After the meeting was over Mrs. Anderson served cake and coffee.

Our new pastor, Mr. D. D. Broom, was with us yesterday and filled his first appointment. He brought us a real interesting sermon. I am sure every one present enjoyed it. We are looking forward to a great year in the Lord's work. I am sure if we will co-operate wholeheartedly with our pastor and one another we will have a great year.

Our C. E. Society has not started yet like we would like to have it. But we are planning on great things for it. The C. E. Society from Thomasville gave us an invitation to visit them. We decided to surprise them. Yesterday at 5 p. m. there was a delegation of 28 from Sandy Ridge bound for West End, Thomasville, and when we arrived there was a surprise for us. They were expecting a delegation of C. E. Society folks from Trinity Moravian church near Winston-Salem. They came and, believe me, we heard some interesting talks from the Thomasville Society and also from the Trinity Society. There was not much said from Sandy Ridge. We just went to learn something, and we certainly did learn a lot. After members of the C. E. societies got through talking the pastor from Trinity church preached a sermon that was well worth the trip. We all certainly enjoyed all that was said and done. The folks at West End sure did give us a hearty welcome and we appreciate it. We want them to visit us and we will try to return the compliment. We also would like for those Trinity folks to visit us in the near future.

We are sorry to have to report that one of our members and Sunday school workers is in the hospital at High Point, Miss Emily Shields, but we are glad to say she is getting along as well as could be expected, considering the serious operation she has undergone.

MRS. L. A. HOLT, Reporter.

Randolph Charge.—The work for the new year is starting off nicely. All of the churches have been visited since conference except Bethany. Owing to a funeral the pastor could not fill the appointment there the third Sunday. Professor Hinchaw went in the pastor's place. We have been informed that the people greatly enjoyed his talk.

The first quarterly conference will meet at Bethel on Saturday before the first Sunday in December at 2:30. All officials take notice and, if possible, be present. Let us put Randolph on the honor roll this year. We can do this if each member will do his part.

EDW. SUITS.

Haw River, Glen Raven Charge.—The Sunday school of Haw River church under the splendid leadership of Superintendent C. P. Suits, is striving to reach the goal of better attendance. Although our Sunday school is small we are doing good work. The director of music for the Sunday school and church, Miss Thelma Thompson, has been giving her attention to the children of the Sunday school. We are hoping for a good junior choir. The adult choir is doing good work at the present and we hope they will continue.

Sunday was a wonderful day at our church. The Sunday school attendance was good. Our new pastor, Rev. J. P. Pegg, delivered his first message to the congregation Sunday morning which proved to be both interesting and helpful. We feel sure if we co-operate with him we will have accomplished very much at the end of this conference year.

Even though we miss Rev. A. D. Shelton, our former pastor, who did much for the church and for the people, we are planning to like Rev. Pegg also.

There is to be a Thanksgiving offering taken at the Sunday school for the Children's Home.

Mr. W. J. Crutchfield an active member of the church has been very ill; but is slowly improving.

Little Miss Dortha Colde, daughter of T. S. Colde, is improving after being ill for several weeks.

RUBY SYKES.

Denton.—After what seemed to me to be one of our best Annual Conference sessions, and after finding so much optimism among the dear brethren of the conference, in spite of the grind of depression through which we have just passed, I feel that I am better prepared for another year of faithful effort for our Master.

We have been received back to Denton charge in a very pleasing fashion. The work is taking shape for what gives promise of a successful issue, at least in advance of what the past year has been. The brethren here, especially at Denton church, are not of the number of them that give up at discouragements. It will be remembered that their church was burned to the ground several years ago, with a total loss. They just laid hold and erected a new brick building which is now paid for. Many less optimistic would have given up, but not Denton. I can say I never served a more loyal, helpful and faithfully devoted people than Denton charge is proving to be.

O boy! Did you see that new suit this pastor wore to Conference, and that pretty new dress and shoes his wife displayed? That was a gift from Denton church. Who wouldn't feel good, when they thought only of wearing their old last year's clothes with no hopes of a new garment for months to come? Oh, just keep the change, I don't need it.

Our annual Thanksgiving service, a union affair, will be held in Denton M. P. church Thursday night, with Rev. Mr. Sisk as the speaker of the hour. He is pastor of Denton M. E. church, South.

We wish for all the Herald family great success in kingdom service.

ROBERT SHORT.

Shiloh, Randolph Charge.—The first appointment for the new conference year was held Sunday, November 22. We were glad to have our former pastor, Brother Edward Suits, back with us again. He preached a very interesting sermon, taking his text from Psalms 84:6—"Who passing through the valley of Baca make it a well; the rain also filleth the pools." The subject was "The Refreshing Christian," and in his sermon the pastor cited examples of this type of Christians. The sermon was indeed helpful and inspiring.

The first quarterly conference of the year 1931-32 meets on Saturday, December 5, at Bethel church. The conference wishes to organize and begin afresh the work of the ensuing year. May we accomplish much to the good of all concerned.

Best wishes to the many Herald readers.

CLARICE WHITAKER, Reporter.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson Charge.—We are delighted to welcome our new pastor for this year, Rev. O. C. Loy, and his charming family. We are looking forward to a great year in the Lord's work. There is a wonderful atmosphere of good will and hearty co-operation manifest among the church folk. If it is the Lord's will that nothing should prevent, we extend to him a cordial welcome. He brought a very effective sermon last Sunday morning, his text being the second chapter of Nehemiah and the 17th verse: "Come let us build up the wall of Jerusalem that we be no more a reproach."

We feel such that with his guidance and help we will do much good work this year.

We pray for people to get interested in going to church to keep the work of the Lord moving on. Pray for us that we may do more for kingdom service than ever before. It seems that people don't care for the church as they should.

Our Sunday school is still running, and with a very good attendance.

The Sunday school held its fall thank offering on Sunday, November 22. The total amount was $16.54. This money goes to our Children's Home as the thank offering gift.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Bethesda on Saturday before the second Sunday in December. There will be preaching at 11:00 o'clock, dinner on the grounds, and business in the afternoon.

The Christian Endeavor society is moving along nicely under the splendid leadership of Miss Treva Reid, as president.

We have started the year off in fine spirits in all services.

Again at the beginning of the new conference year we gratefully acknowledge our Heavenly Father's goodness to us in that not a member of our church has passed away during the past year.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Cletus Nifong, one of our members of near Winston-Salem, is improving very rapidly after having undergone an operation at the Thomasville hospital.

We are proud of the fact that Mrs. J. R. Stone was back with us Sunday after quite an absence on account of sickness.

The sick list isn't so long of which we are glad.

We welcome one and all to attend our church services.

Best wishes to the church work and the Herald.

RUTH PAYNE, Reporter.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—People around Weaver's Chapel were very much pleased last Sunday p. m. to have Brother F. E. Bingham bring us another good sermon, and to be back with for another year's work in the service of the Lord, and we believe he will do his part, if we will only work with him; so let us start this conference year with prayer and high aim then work forward to that goal.

Our Sunday school attendance was not as good Sunday as it has been. We think it was due to so much sickness in our neighborhood.

We are sorry to report that one of our members, Mrs. Ervie Smith, is very sick with scarlet fever. We pray for her a speedy recovery, so that she may be back with us in our church work. We also have mumps and chicken pox scattered among our children. I hope that the disease will soon be captured, and all be back in our Sunday school class.

Best wishes to one and all.

MRS. D. G. DICKENS, Reporter.

West Thomasville.—We were indeed glad to have our dear pastor, Rev. H. W. Bell, back for another year. I feel sure all our people were pleased, not only our members but the whole community and all who knew him. Last year was a great year for our church and we are looking forward to another together.

Our Sunday school is coming along fine. Our officers for this year are: Superintendent, Carlos Hill; assistant supt., Reid Long; secretary, Mrs. Ruby Allen; assistant secretary, Tom Hamm; pianist, Miss Nellie Barker; cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. H. W. Armsworth, and Mrs. Ila Smith, assistant cradle roll superintendent.

We are just beginning our Christmas program. Parts were given out Sunday afternoon. We are expecting a nice Christmas.

We are having good prayer services. Last Wednesday night we had between twenty-five and thirty present although the showers of rain were falling. Our Christian Endeavor society has been having a cottage prayer service each Friday night also. A large number attended these interesting services.

One of our members, Mr. Dave Long painted a large "Rock of Ages" and gave it to the church. He has also done a number of other things for our church in the artist's line.

We had quite a number of visitors in our Christian Endeavor and preaching service Sunday night. We were delighted to have about twenty-five from Sandy Ridge Christian Endeavor society and also about forty from the Advante Moravian society near Winston-Salem. We all had a fine time together with the two visiting societies taking part in our program. After Christian Endeavor the pastor of the Advante church, Rev. Mr. Brooner, preached a wonderful sermon.

REPORTER.

Graham.—As the Thanksgiving season approaches our church as a whole is very thankful the Annual Conference saw fit to send Mr. Auman and family back to us in addition to the countless other blessings we have to be grateful for.

Our Sunday school is on the up-grade, having had the largest attendance for quite a while. We are hoping every one will remember next Sunday is the time for the special Thanksgiving offering and come prepared.

The C. E. Society is also doing splendid work and the attendance is fine.

No services will be held in our church next Sunday evening, but union services will be held in the M. E. church, this being the custom for the fifth Sunday.

We are glad to report Dr. W. R. Goley is much improved from his recent illness.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

Friendship, Fallston Charge.—A very large crowd gathered last Thursday night to give our new pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton, a pounding. He gave us our first message Sunday evening, taking as his text Ephesians 1:22: "Christ the head and the church the body." The message was wonderfully appreciated by a large congregation.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is doing nicely. We are having a good attendance. We appreciate the many visitors we are having and hope they will continue to come. Mr. Shelton gave the Christian Endeavor society a talk Sunday night. The society subject concerned Thanksgiving, "The Gifts of God." Our pastor is always welcome and we hope he will be with us often.

We are sorry that our Sunday school superintendent, N. J. Wright, has been unable to attend Sunday school for the last several Sundays on account of illness. He was 87 years old last week. We hope for him many more happy birthdays.

MRS. F. B. TONEY, Reporter.

Mount Hermon, Mount Hermon Charge.—Rev. L. E. Mabry preached his first sermon here November 15. We were glad indeed to welcome our new pastor, and the people heard him gladly on the subject, "Life, Death and Eternity." Mr. Mabry is now a senior in our own school, High Point College. Those who heard him feel he is going to be a capable leader in carrying on the work that needs to be done through our church. We realize a pastor must have co-operation in carrying out a church program, and shall try to work together in his program for our church.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crabtree, November 13. Stewardship was the theme for discussion and an interesting program was given.

Plans for the coming month were discussed during the business meeting and the Auxiliary voted to sponsor a reading circle in our community. A committee was appointed to find out and report at the next meeting the number of members who would be interested in joining a reading circle.

A large number of young people attended the C. E. Thanksgiving program Sunday night. Miss Mabel Crabtree had charge of the program. Plans were made for carrying the annual Thanksgiving basket to a poor family of colored people. The Junior C. E. voted to send one dollar as a thank-offering to the Children's Home at High Point.

REPORTER.

Fairgrove, Haw River Circuit.—Our regular church service was held Sunday afternoon, November 22, at 3 o'clock. The entire congregation was glad to welcome our pastor, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, back. The year is starting out with a very bright outlook with a larger congregation for church and an increase in the Sunday school classes.

Miss V. E. Hopkins was not able to be at church Sunday due to a slight illness.

Mrs. E. F. Windsor is ill at her home.

Church services will be held Sunday, December 13, at 11:30, instead of 11 o'clock.

REPORTER.

Clark's Chapel, Weaverville.—We are indeed glad to say that the outlook for the coming year is splendid. The attendance is increasing and great interest is being manifested in Sunday school and church. Bro. Cowan preached an interesting sermon last Sunday from these words: "And Caleb stilled the people before Moses and said: Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it." Num. 13:30.

Next Sunday was set apart to take an offering for the Children's Home.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society is doing nicely.

LOUISE CHEEK, Reporter.

Roberta Church.—Our church and Sunday school are going well, but not so well as we hope for it to be. Our church is now working on an every-member canvass, weekly or monthly payments. We want every member to pledge some sort of a pledge, and then we feel when the end of the year comes our expenses will all be paid and there will be money in the treasury.

As much as we regret to see our old pastor, Brother C. H. Hill, leave us, we feel we have a man who is just as able to take his place, Rev. Joel B. Trogdon. We had the pleasure of hearing Brother Trogdon for two Sundays. His messages have been very helpful and inspiring. Today he brought with him a quartet, which we enjoyed hearing very much. Many souls may be sung into the Kingdom where preaching would not affect them. We are hoping that Brother Trogdon and his family may soon be able to move among us.

The Sunday school is now working on a pageant entitled "The Star-Lighted Path," for Christmas. The pageant consists of about 20 characters besides the choir. We hope it will be a splendid success.

The death angel came into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Furr last Sunday afternoon about 3 p. m. and took their little daughter, Laura Agnes, and carried her soul back to God who gave it. The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. C. H.

Hill and interment was made in the church cemetery. The father and mother have our deepest sympathy.

Mr. Glenn Little, a young man of our community, had the misfortune of getting his arm caught in a shredder on his father's farm last Tuesday. His hand and arm were badly mangled and torn. He was rushed immediately to the Concord Hospital where his arm was taken off just below the elbow. Mr. Little was to have been married to Miss Irene Furr at her home on Friday evening. The ceremony was performed in the hospital instead of the bride's home. Rev. R. L. Fisher, of near Lexington, officiated. Only the immediate families and a few friends were present. The bride is an attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Furr and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Little, Route 1, Concord. In spite of the groom's handicap, we hope for him a speedy recovery and a long and happy married life.

Lineberry, Davidson Charge.—Rev. E. A. Bingham preached for us the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock. Quite a large congregation was out to hear a Thanksgiving sermon. Our people were very glad to have Brother Bingham come back to us this year; he is very earnest and faithful in his work, and our people have learned to love him and his family.

Brother Tom Hill is our new superintendent, and our Sunday school is starting off very well.

Miss Flada Smith is the new president for the Christian Endeavor Society, and we are hoping for a good year's work by this society.

Mrs. Bewell Tucker is president of the Ladies' Aid Society. They held their last meeting with Miss Nora Carroll. Attendance and interest were reported good with plenty of refreshments.

Our first quarterly conference will be held at Lineberry church on Saturday evening before the third Sunday in December.

We believe that Brother Bingham will have the cooperation of his people on the entire charge and we are hoping for a good year's work.
J. P. ELLIOTT, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—With Rev. William C. Lyerly, pastor of the First Reformed church, delivering the sermon, a union Thanksgiving service was held at Calvary Methodist Protestant church on Asheboro street Thursday morning. Eight South Greensboro church congregations participated.

Special musical numbers and several other events were on the program, in which pastors of the participating churches took part. The churches uniting in the service were Asheboro Street Friends, Centenary Methodist, First Reformed, First Christian, Westminster Presbyterian, Asheboro Street Baptist, First Moravian and Calvary Methodist Protestant. Each congregation made contributions to its denominational orphanage.

"Calvary's Family," numbering about 150, met Tuesday, November 24, at 6:30 p. m. in honor of Mr. Bates and his family. A banquet was served in the church hut consisting of turkey and all the good things that make a real feast.

Mr. Curry, of West End church, asked the blessing and later gave the history of Mr. Bates' early life and courtship. Mr. Claude Coe was toastmaster. An interesting program was given by some of the younger members of the church. Ione Friddle and Jane Greer gave a piano recital. A musical reading was given by Margaret Curtis. Miss Elizabeth Williams gave a reading, "Do Preachers Eat?" and dressed as a negro preacher she preached a "sermon" on the weaker sex. Miss Velma Beam gave a reading, "Calvary's Family." Several of the men of the church gave short talks.

The object of this supper was to welcome Mr. Bates back home for another year, and we hope that he will be with us for many more family gatherings.

May I ask our family to support the Herald. We enjoy the paper, so let's work for it. So many of our members are not taking the Herald. Get busy and see who can get the most subscriptions.

MRS. E. D. OVERCASH, Reporter.

Asheville.—A number of interesting activities have taken place since our last report to the Herald. The fact that we are unable to have a pastor has seemed a challenge to the membership and a greater per cent of the members are attending church regularly and taking active part in the program of the church than have for some time. We are working toward the end of clearing up financial matters so that we may be in a position before many months to call a pastor.

Services have been in charge of Mr. A. J. Buckner and Mr. F. C. Stedman of the Men's Evangelistic Club of the city. These men have given untiringly of their services with no compensation other than their delight in serving the church. Their messages are always practical and inspirational. In the absence of Mr. Buckner the addresses for the past two Sundays have been delivered by Mr. Victor Starbuck, also of the club. The congregation sympathizes with Mr. Starbuck in the loss of his daughter, who was fatally injured in an automobile wreck in Orlando, Florida, in November. Miss Starbuck was a sophomore at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. H. O. Charnock with good attendance. The circles are very active and each one is responsible for a part of the auxiliary budget each month.

The social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society served a buffet supper to the members of the society on Sunday evening, November 21st. At the conclusion of the supper a short devotional service was conducted and the regular election of officers for the ensuing year took place. The following were elected: President, Miss Amy Mitchell; vice-president, Miss Elsie Drake; secretary-treasurer, Mr. E. H. Pratt, and pianist, Miss Nancy Clouse. The Society sent a Thanksgiving basket to a worthy family and several other projects are being planned in the interest of the society.

The Young People's Class, with Mrs. Robey Wilson (formerly Miss Flossie Monteith) as teacher, is making great progress, there being 19 young men and women present last Sunday. The interest is good and the slogan is "Organized for Service." The class plans to send a Christmas basket, buy presents for some deserving child at Christmas, and take part in the White Christmas as planned by the Sunday school. The class enjoyed a delightful party last Friday evening at the home of the Misses McIntire on Merrimon Avenue, with 28 in attendance. The social committee has arranged for a social once a month, and the next will be in the form of a Christmas party. Officers of the class include Miss Louise Hanner, president; Mr. Richard Hanner, vice-president; Mr. L. S. Neville, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Florence Mitchell, class reporter.

The contract for a new heating plant for the church was awarded last Sunday by a vote of the membership to the Holland Fur-race Company for $545.00. The account is payable in two years. Mr. Ralph Beacham was made chairman of pledges and he reported the amount covered by pledges and expressed hope of getting additional ones so that the account may be paid in one year.

The teaching staff of the Primary Department has been strengthened by the addition of Miss Mary Waters, a popular teacher at Hall Fletcher High School.

Mrs. Sue Carter was welcomed back to the services Sunday after an extended absence due to a broken arm sustained in September.

Misses Eula Taylor and Florence Johnson are reported to be improving after an attack of ptomaine poisoning.

Reports from our work here will be sent in monthly by various members of our church.
VERDA M. MCINTIRE, Reporter.

Gibsonville Church.—The reporter is busy with school work and seldom reports the activities of our church. Nevertheless, the other folk are active in the work.

We are more than happy to have Rev. and Mrs. Bethea with us for another year's work and, most of all, we are glad that they have come to our town to live. He is a splendid pastor, his sermons are interesting, and are always worth hearing.

There will be a choir practice on Thursday evening of this week. All who are interested in singing are invited to attend.

The Young Ladies' Bible Class will hold their December meeting on Friday, December 11, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Misses Lessie and Lena Fawcett. All members are requested to be present. The members of the Woman's Auxiliary and the Young Ladies' Missionary Society will hold their December meeting in the hut in a union session. At this meeting a Christmas tree and social will be held. The date of meeting has not yet been decided.

Since our last report Mr. Arlie Beckham, a member of the Young Men's Bible Class, has died. He was also a member of the church. Arlie had been in failing health for some time, but his untimely death was not expected so early. The many flowers and the large number of folk attending the funeral portrayed the esteem in which he was held. The funeral was conducted from Gibsonville M. P. church by the pastor, Rev. N. G. Bethea. Interment was in the Gibsonville cemetery.
REPORTER.

Oak Grove, Cleveland Charge.—We notice several of the charges have new pastors; they haven't got anything on Cleveland charge, for we have a new pastor also. Bro. C. E. Ridge has served us for the past three years, yet he is ever new. We were delighted to have Bro. Ridge and his good family as our pastor and neighbor again. We were glad, too, to have Bro. A. D. Shelton preach for us on Thursday evening. He brought us a splendid message. After preaching an offering was taken for the Children's Home, receipts being around $10.00.

Our Christian Endeavor is moving along nicely. Miss Inez Ridge was elected president. There is a contest on between the young folks and the grown-ups, the losers having to treat the winners to a picnic supper-Christmas eve. It looks now as if the grown-ups are going to lose. Hurrah for the young folks.

Here's wishing the Herald and all its readers a Merry Christmas.

MRS. F. H. GRIGG.

Friendship Station.—We want to thank the Conference for the return of our pastor, Rev. O. B. Williams. We pray that this will be the greatest year we have ever had.

Our ladies' circles are doing good work. They have an egg club which is working just fine, and the Aid is going to raise a part of the Conference budget.

The Christian Endeavor Society is still at work; good program last night, and the interest very good.

The church all together is going to beautify the church yard with shrubbery and things as needed to make it beautiful. Also we are going to underpin the church.

We had a good union Thanksgiving service Thursday night at Salem M. E. church with Rev. O. B. Williams pulpit speaker.

REPORTER.

Pine Hill, Davidson Charge.—Rev. E. A. Bingham was with us Sunday at 2:30 p. m. He brought a wonderful message which we all enjoyed. He preached a Thanksgiving sermon which was wonderful to me.

We are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Bingham back; he has served us faithfully this year and we hope he will continue to be blessed in his work. May this year be a great year for both pastor and people.

MRS. F. L. SMITH, Reporter.

Alleghany, Davidson Charge.—We are glad to have Brother E. A. Bingham and family back with us. He preached a good sermon the fifth Sunday on the bountifulness of God's grace, which we enjoyed. I wish that more would come out to hear him.

On the fourth Sunday in November we were made sad by the death of one of our members, Mr. Thomas Adderton. He leaves a wife and one daughter and many friends. May we all remember them in our prayers and may we all meet on the other shore where there will be no parting.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Lincolnton on Saturday before the third Sunday in December. Hope that we will do our best and that much good may be done this year. Pray for success.

ABIGAIL COGGIN.

Carleton.—We are happy indeed to have the Conference to send Rev. J. D. Morris back to us again. We feel that he has helped our church.

We had 156 in Sunday school Sunday, which we thought was a good organization considering the weather. Our new Sunday school superintendent is Mr. J. B. Tiscum. We all believe he will make us a good one. He is a young man and is willing to do anything for his Lord and Master that he is called upon to do.

The Christian Endeavor Society is coming along just fine. We have 100 on roll and more new members are coming in every Sunday evening. I suppose the average attendance is about three-fourths of the number on roll. We know that the C. E. Society is a great help to our church, for in our last revival meeting some of our C. E. members gave their hearts to God and joined the church, and now most of them are teaching Sunday school classes or doing any kind of work the church sees fit for them.

Someone has asked Bro. Morris to preach on the Tongues. So his next time with us will be December 6th and The Tongues will be his subject.

MRS. RISBERTH WEBB.

Spring Church Charge.—Our property left Seagrove November 20th at 9 a. m., and was placed in the parsonage at Pleasant Hill in mid-afternoon of the same day. Half of the expenses were paid by the charge. We arrived in the village on Saturday, and were generously taken care of in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Vassar. Monday we set up housekeeping.

Only two Sundays have passed since we came here, but I have preached in all the churches on the charge. There are only three churches, one in Pleasant Hill, near the parsonage; the other two are but a few miles away, and easily reached over good roads. Each church building has been well kept, each being particularly neat and attractive, especially the interior. Each church uses our own M. P. hymnal. This feature is highly pleasing to the pastor, as it insures the highest type of standard hymns.

We believe that we are in the midst of a fine people. The indications are that both pastor and people will have a pleasant and profitable year.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Pleasant Hill on Friday, December 11, at 3:30 p. m.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.

Wm. H. NEESE.

Why Not Ladies' Aid.—On Tuesday evening, November 18, we were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cagle for a farewell social given by the Ladies' Aid and other friends of the preacher's family. After the guests arrived the fun of the evening began. Each one present was requested to tell a joke, give a recitation or sing a song. Little Dorothy King, just three years old, started the program by telling how much she loved the preacher's family. After all present had rendered their part, the president, Mrs. L. E. Cagle, asked Miss Della Mae Graves to see if she could find anything that didn't belong there. For a little while it began to look like Santa Claus had moved Christmas up a month. The Junior Aid presented Sara Marie with a nice scarf and handkerchief as an appreciation of her work as secretary. Mr. Neese was given a nice notebook, pair of socks, and little Dorothy King gave him a handkerchief. The writer was given a nice handkerchief and nice pair of hose. All of these gifts are appreciated very much but lack of the gift we appreciate more the spirit that prompted the giving.

It was our privilege to help organize these societies, both at Why Not and Seagrove, and it was a great pleasure to work in them. We promise the members that we are going to watch with interest their growth in the future. While we are many miles away trying to do the same kind of work that we did there we crave an interest in the prayers of each member.

We like our new home, our new work and our new friends, but there is a warm spot in our hearts for the folks on Why Not charge.

MRS. WILLIAM H. NEESE.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.

Siler City Church.—It has been a long time since you have had a report from our church, but that doesn't say we are dead or not doing anything. We are very much alive, and although, as you know, we have no pastor, we are starting off the new year with a strong determination to do more and better work for the upbuilding of God's Kingdom here on earth than ever before. We are planning great things for the new year and with the help of a higher power from whom all blessings flow we mean to carry them out.

Our plans now are to get someone to preach for us twice per month through the winter months, and we will carry on our mid-week prayer service as usual. Wednesday night, after prayer service, the teachers of the Sunday school will get together and make some new plans for the new year. Perhaps they will organize a Workers' Council. I am sure this will be a great help to our Sunday school.

Mr. Sharpe was re-elected as superintendent for another year, which proves that we all like him and feel sure he is the right man in the right place. We are having a real wide-awake Sunday school and good attendance. Yesterday we took our thank-offering for the Children's Home. The amount was over $16.00.

On the fourth Sunday, right after Sunday school, the Woman's Auxiliary rendered a brief thank-offering program, which was enjoyed by every one present.

We were all sorry to give up our former beloved pastor and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Williams, and now we are grieved to read an account of Dr. Williams' sickness in the Herald. We trust he is much improved by this and that he may soon be able to fill his place in his new field of labor. We are so sorry to lose him, but our loss is Welch Memorial's gain.

We are glad to report that Mrs. J. H. Fox is able to be out again after an operation at St. Leo's Hospital.

Miss Sallie Smith is busy soliciting our quota of subscribers to the Herald. Best wishes to all the Herald readers.

MRS. J. A. COOPER, Reporter.

First Church, Winston.—At a recent meeting of the Workers' Council many things of interest were discussed to make our Sunday school a bigger and better one. A goodly number attended and many fine reports were heard from the superintendents of the departments. An Honor Roll Plan was introduced and accepted. The general idea of this is to have more present in each class this year than were present the corresponding Sunday of last year. By each class working the school should become larger. Mrs. J. E. Pritchard was elected secretary of the Workers' Council for the next year.

The quarterly conference accepted a fine slogan, which was manufactured by our pastor. The slogan was, "More than last year."

Throughout our Sunday school and church we hope to have more people attend and do more work than last year.

Last Sunday was Rev. J. E. Pritchard's birthday. We hope that he thoroughly enjoyed his birthday dinner and that it was a happy occasion for him, and many more happy birthdays are wished for. The brothers of Mr. Pritchard and their wives worshiped with us Sunday morning. We were delighted to have had them and hope they will want to visit us again soon.

The church endorsed two movements Sunday morning that are in effect in Winston-Salem. The first movement authorizes the Junior Chamber of Commerce of this city to go around next Sunday afternoon and collect bundles for the poor from porches of those who will contribute. This is a good interest, it seems, and if properly carried out will help many who need clothing and other bare necessities to exist. Sunday is certainly a day to do good deeds, and if we spend the day in that way, surely there will be no regret, but in helping others to happiness we are nearing that goal ourselves. Happiness doesn't always come by sitting back and waiting, but happiness comes from within ourselves. If happiness is sought in the right way, it will most assuredly be found. The second movement is the "Penny-a-Meal" movement. After we have eaten a meal, why not give just one cent to someone who might go for days without food if it were not for those who care and help.

In our own Sunday school, Mr. R. N. Hauser, our superintendent, appointed a committee to work together and to make definite plans for those of our immediate group who need help. This committee consists of Mr. F. D. Voss, chairman, and the superintendents of each department in the Sunday school. The first meeting of this committee will be held after prayer meeting Wednesday night to discuss the situation and make plans to aid.

PAULINE L. BRANSON, Reporter.

Hollister, Halifax Charge.—We are more than glad to welcome Rev. and Mrs. Fogleman back to serve us as pastor for another year. They have served us faithfully for the past two years.

On Sunday morning, November 22, Mr. Fogleman preached an inspiring sermon from Revelations 3:8.

The Christian Endeavor Society continues to hold its regular meeting every Sunday evening with good attendance. We are conducting the meetings in the various homes of the community. We will meet in the home of Mrs. Mae Alston on next Sunday evening. Miss Louise Shearin will be the leader.

The Woman's Auxiliary continues to hold its regular monthly meetings. The November meeting was held at the church.

Since my last report, Hollister church has lost one of its oldest members by death, Mrs. Bettie Hardy. She had been suffering for a year or more with high blood pressure. She was buried on Thanksgiving day. The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. M. L. Mintz, pastor of the Baptist church in Swansboro, N. C.

On Sunday afternoon, November 29, a union Thanksgiving service for Halifax was held at Union church. Rev. H. F. Surratt, pastor of Enfield M. P. church, preached a wonderful sermon appropriate for the occasion. Mrs. Blanche Walker sang a solo, "He is So Precious to Me," accompanied at the organ by Miss Kathleen Shearin. The offering amounted to $30.00. This will be sent to the Children's Home at High Point.

REPORTER.

Shiloh Charge.—We are starting on our eighth year with these good people; have been to all the churches, and the new preacher has had a hearty welcome at all the churches.

I told them they had a new man, for it is said a man changes every seven years; if that is true, they have a new man. At least I want to make them feel that way, for I want to do a better work for them. I want to live closer to my Master. I want more of the Spirit of Truth. I want to pray more. I want to study more. I want to read His Word more. I want to live more for Him. I want to suffer with Him. I want to preach more of Christ, and less of self. Then I am sure I will leave a better church to serve than last year, and they will have a better preacher to serve them.

We are planning to raise every cent of every budget, and with our present board of stewards, who are willing to work, we will do it. And we are going to reach our goal for our church paper this year. We can, and we must, and with Roy Leatherman, Adele Phillips and Clara Bailey as our committee, we will.

The people at Shiloh began to show their appreciation even before Conference. Bro. Jesse Evans brought us a hundred-pound sack of flour and a sack of cotton seed. Bro. Jeff Berrier, $10.00 in cash, fresh meats and ham; Miss Berrier, $5.00 in cash; Miss Florence and Mabel Berrier, birthday gifts. We certainly do appreciate these nice gifts, and pray that the Lord may richly bless them in their work.

R. S. TROXLER, Pastor.

Concord, First Church.—Our church had a fine day Sunday. Our Sunday school attendance was good in spite of the weather. We had 351 present and some of the classes had 100 per cent in attendance. We are proud of every class in our school and we are looking forward to the time when our Sunday school attendance will be 500. We could easily have this number, I'm sure, if each pupil would speak just a word to those who do not attend church anywhere, our school would grow in leaps and bounds. May God give each one in our church a greater desire to help bring the lost sheep back to the fold where they will be sheltered from the cold and from the evil things of this world, and where they will be able to receive real blessings from God, our great Shepherd and Leader.

I feel sure I can speak the truth and speak for the entire church when I say that we are delighted with our pastor, Bro. Morgan, and his dear wife, who have come to labor with us in the harvest field. We know that the harvest is white and the laborers are few, but with the help of our pastor and his wife we hope we will be able to do more for God than ever before. Since their coming God has blessed us in a wonderful way and each message that we have listened to has been a real Gospel message and has proved to be a blessing to those present.

After the sermon Sunday evening our pastor gave an invitation to the unsaved ones and four responded to the call and may God bless them and help them to stand true. We earnestly ask each and every one to pray for the work here that it may prosper and grow stronger in the Lord.

REPORTER.

Pleasant Grove.—We have entered upon our fourth year with the good people of Pleasant Grove. Due to the depression, the rent on the church property in High Point was cut from $125 to $87.50 per month, and a $150 cut on the church farm. But I feel that the membership has started out with the determination to pay the entire budget this year. Mrs. J. R. Meredith, the church treasurer, went before four of the S. S. classes Sunday and they agreed to pay a stated amount monthly. We will take our thank offering next Sunday for the Children's Home.

Last Thursday we had Thanksgiving dinner with Bro. and Sister Joseph Moore. We enjoyed the day with these good people and 25 of their friends and relatives.

Last Saturday evening the Brotherhood met with Bro. B. C. Kennedy. After the business meeting we were served turkey with all the fixings. Bro. Jeff Hilton has given us backbone and sausage and sweet potatoes. Taking everything into consideration, we have a real nice place to live and some real friends, for which we are thankful.

Mrs. Fred Kennedy was elected reporter for the paper this year and I guess we will be hearing from her.

Mr. Flanigan, section master, had a wreck on his section and failed to report it and was jacked up. In a few days other cars were derailed on his section. This was his report: Off again. On again. Gone again. Flanigan.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

First Church, High Point.—On Sunday morning, November 22, officers and teachers of the Baraca Class and Brotherhood were installed as follows: President, C. C. Robbins, Jr.; vice-presidents, W. C. Ferree and R. W. Riggins; secretary-treasurer, M. P. Schrest; assistants, Herman Burrows and William Payne; teacher, Dr. P. S. Kennett; assistants, Dr. A. G. Dixon and Prof. L. R. Johnston; song leader, Prof. E. B. Stinson; pianist, Miss Elizabeth Welch.

The result of Pledge Week was a larger number of voluntary subscriptions to the budget of the church than last year. The follow-up canvass of the membership will be completed by the stewards.

Last Sunday morning the minister delivered a timely sermon on the subject, "Unemployment and the Mind to Work." He read several verses from Nehemiah and the Parable of the Householder from Matthew as his text. The problem raised is as old as the race, but always new. The majority of people in America want to work, but many have no opportunity, for no one will hire them. On his return trip from the Pacific coast last summer, one Sunday afternoon he stopped in Boise City, Idaho, to listen to a preacher in a park, who said that most people who are out of employment do not want to work, which made his blood boil. Unemployment causes dependency, immorality, suicide. Work is essential to contentment and happiness and peace with God. The very first sentence in the Bible proclaims God as a worker: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth," and farther on, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." "By the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread." Work is a cure for poverty, boredom, unrest. What made America great? Not education, business, religion—but work. Unemployment stalks in the land; every man who reaches old age is almost certain to lose his job. There are three classes of people in America today: the idle rich, many of whom are careless and thoughtless of life's real meaning; the professionally poor and idle; both these classes are dangerous to society; the middle group are those who are idle because "no man hath hired them." This is the group most vital to America. Do you know what thoughts are in the minds of this "middle group"? How many of us know what it means to have no roof over our heads and no food for the babes? In 1930 the railroads paid $318,000,000 in dividends, but wages are falling behind. What contrasts are presented today, on one side the rich rolling in wealth, and on the other, soup kitchens! Since 1855 there have been eight major depressions in America. It is not so much overproduction, but underconsumption. This is economically unsound. In 1927 35 men had incomes of five million dollars, while one-third of families live below the level of necessity. There will be violence, a revolution of hungry people; no wonder there was a police guard around the White House and Capitol at Washington. Unemployment is a religious problem; an issue that deals with human life belongs to the church. Industry must make it possible for every man who wants a job to find work.

At the Sunday evening service the minister began a series of five sermons of especial interest to women, "One thing needful." It was a discussion of the text, "One thing is needful; and Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her." Next Sunday evening the subject will be "Two Things Required."

On account of the nearness of Christmas the Woman's Auxiliary and Circle meetings will be advanced one week. On Monday afternoon the executive board met at the parsonage with Mrs. R. I. Farmer.

The Young People's Society on Sunday afternoon and the Senior Society on Monday evening discussed the topic, "Where Missionaries Are Needed in This Country."

The Workers' Council of the church school will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church.

Next Sunday morning will be known as Universal Bible Sunday, and a table will contain a display of Bibles: Oldest, Largest, Smallest, Most Used, Most Unique, Foreign Language, Historic and Ornamental Bibles. Everyone is asked to bring a Bible to the church to add to the interest of this collection.

Many friends in High Point lend with keenest regret of the death of Mrs. Nannie Davidson Ogburn at her home in Greensboro, 501 West Washington street, last Saturday morning at 3 o'clock. She was the widow of Rev. Thomas J. Ogburn, who was actively identified with the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina for a long span of years, and who held a number of important offices, having been secretary-treasurer of foreign missions at one time. He died eight years ago. Mrs. Ogburn was the daughter of Mr. Berry Davidson, of Burlington, and was highly esteemed and greatly beloved. Her surviving children are the following: Mrs. W. C. Jones of High Point; Mrs. Ellen Gaskill of Deming, New Mexico; Dr. Herbert H. Ogburn of Greensboro; Mr. Thomas J. Ogburn of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Bascom Whitaker of Oak Ridge, and Miss Hilda Ogburn of Greensboro. A son, Dr. Roger W. Ogburn, lost his life in an automobile accident in New York City in August, 1927. Mrs. R. R. Blackburn, of our congregation, is a niece. Funeral services were conducted from West Market Street M. E. church Sunday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. H. Grady Hardin, who was assisted by Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor emeritus of Grace Methodist Protestant church.

Judge and Mrs. Lewis E. Teague and daughters, Peggy and Jean, went to Sumter, S. C., Thursday to spend Thanksgiving with his brother, Lester B. Teague, and sister, Gertrude. They returned home Sunday.

Friends of Miss Mildred Kreiger will be pleased to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from an operation for appendicitis in High Point Hospital.

June A. Gray, who has been ill for four weeks, continues to improve.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Vance, who are teaching in Bartlett Yancey School, Yanceyville, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. C. W. Vance.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Moffitt, of Ramseur, spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. John C. Whitesell.

It is announced by Mrs. P. S. Kennett, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, that proceeds from the annual bazaar and turkey supper on November 19th amounted to $200.

Randleman.—We are indeed glad to be here with these good people another year. We have learned to love them very much. I have filled one appointment at each church since Conference with large congregations.

Our Sunday schools are doing fine; 153 present at Mount Lebanon last Sunday. We have such a fine class of young men; 37 present Sunday.

There is not much sickness with our members at this time. Mrs. Foust, at Worthville, has been real sick, but is improving. Bro. K. G. Coltrane, at Level Cross, is right sick at this time; we hope for him a speedy recovery.

We will hold our first quarterly meeting at Mount Lebanon next Saturday night, December 5. We hope a large crowd will be there so we may get lined up for the year's work. Pray for us that we may have a great year.
T. A. WILLIAMS.

English Street Church.—We have had the pleasure of having several different ministers with us lately. Mr. Howard, from the college, spoke to us on the fourth Sunday morning, and Rev. E. O. Peeler on Sunday night. We owe much gratitude to Dr. S. W. Taylor for his many efforts in trying to help us solve the difficult situations confronting us. On the past Sunday Rev. C. H. Hill spoke at both services and was assigned to this church as pastor. His sermons are very uplifting, and we believe that we are entering a successful year with this good man as our leader.

Sunday night the C. E. had a very unusual program. It was in the form of a radio program led by Frank Ring. Our society plans to visit St. Paul's church in Greensboro some time in the near future.

The Ladies' Aid Society recently elected new officers as follows: Mrs. J. A. Lee, president; Mrs. J. P. Hulin, vice-president; Mrs. L. R. Gibson, secretary.

REPORTERS.

Salem, Saxapahaw Charge.—We are very glad indeed to have our pastor, Rev. T. J. Whitehead, back with us for another year. On Sunday afternoon, November 22, he gave us another one of his splendid sermons. Mrs. J. J. Crawford, the financial agent of our charge, also made an interesting talk just before preaching service. We always enjoy Mrs. Crawford's talks and are glad to have her with us any time.

The Brotherhood class and two Missionary circles had their regular monthly meetings the fourth Sunday afternoon.

We are all enjoying the heat from our new Heatiola.

On November 12 the ladies met and cleaned the windows while the men puttid them.

All the members are invited to come out Wednesday, December 2, and help clean off the grove.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock our pastor met with us for a business meeting. At this meeting plans for the coming year were made and discussed. We decided to have a Vacation Bible School, beginning July 25 and continuing two weeks. Parents, please see that your children attend this school. The committee to have charge of the Christmas program was also elected. This committee is composed of Mr. G. W. Paris, Mr. W. Adrian Jobe, Miss Irene Thompson, and Mrs. T. R. Crawford.

We have reorganized our Sunday school and feel sure we are doing better work. Our thank-offering, which was taken Sunday, amounted to $8.67.

Our Christian Endeavor is doing very good work. We had our Thanksgiving program Sunday night. Mr. T. R. Crawford was leader. Miss Doris Bradshaw will lead Sunday night. Her subject will be "How Jesus Reveals God's Love."

MRS. T. R. CRAWFORD, Reporter.

Asheboro.—The union Thanksgiving service held in our church at 9 o'clock on Thanksgiving morning was well attended. The service was in charge of our pastor, Rev. R. C. Stubbins, and Rev. R. S. Truesdale, the new minister for the First Methodist church, preached an able sermon. The music was led by the community choir and an appropriate anthem was rendered. On account of the illness of Dr. O. G. Tillman, pastor of the First Baptist church, he could not be present on this occasion, and special prayer was offered on his behalf.

The attendance at Sunday school and church last Sunday was good. Our pastor gave us a very helpful sermon on "The World Moves On." At the evening hour the M. P. and Presbyterian congregations attended the M. E. church service, as a courtesy to the new pastor, Rev. R. S. Truesdale.

On Friday of last week Mr. Stubbins, who is leader of the local Roy Rangers, took them to Raleigh, where they visited the capitol, mansion, museum, and other places of interest.

This was a big trip for the boys, and they thoroughly enjoyed the day.

Miss Agnes Nance and Mr. Virgil Redding were married Thursday morning, November 19, at the M. P. parsonage, with Rev. R. C. Stubbins officiating. Both of these young people are residents of Asheboro. The groom is the son of Mrs. Laura Redding, a member of our church. After a wedding trip in Western North Carolina they are at home to their friends in Asheboro.

Dr. and Mrs. John Swaim and daughter, Miss Louise, were able to return home Sunday from Liberty, where they were in an automobile wreck on Thanksgiving day. Their many friends are glad to know they are improving satisfactorily and hope they will be out soon.

Miss Kate Bulla, a member of the city school faculty at Lexington, visited home-folks during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Misses Elizabeth Ross, of High Point College, and Lucy Clyde Ross, of N. C. C. W., were home for the holidays.

Miss Cleta Rich, a member of the Bessemer school faculty, Greensboro, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich, last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Allen announce the birth of a son on November 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rich are the happy parents of a son born on Saturday, November 21.

Mrs. J. W. Hill has been confined to her home by illness for the past few weeks. She is being missed from the Sunday school and church services, as she was a regular attendant.
LOLLIE JONES, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—Thanksgiving services have been held at each church. At these services offerings were taken for our Children's Home. The services were fairly well attended and good interest was shown.

Some time during, or immediately following the service at Union Grove, the pastor's car was bombarded with all kinds of produce, canned goods, etc. We express our thanks to these good people.
B. M. WILLIAMS.

St. Paul, Greensboro.—In the absence of our pastor Sunday the 11 o'clock hour was filled by Rev. C. B. Way. This service was well attended and the speaker seemed to be at his best and the writer feels sure that all present enjoyed this splendid sermon. At the night service Dr. Taylor preached to a full house; every seat was taken, the Sunday school rooms were full and all standing space was taken, and some could not get in. Well, I know that some of our readers will wonder why there were so many people out. Well, there was to be a marriage just after preaching. Our pastor, Rev. D. I. Garner, and Miss Carrie Mabry were united in marriage by Dr. Taylor. The altar was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers. Two large candlesticks were used for lights. Miss Lenorah Linckery played softly while the bride and bridegroom came to the altar unattended. In a very simple ceremony Dr. Taylor spoke the words that made them man and wife, after which the couple left for the parsonage where they will be at home. On Monday night the members and friends met in a body and went to the parsonage and pounded the preacher and wife, carrying many things that will be a help to them in house-keeping.

One hundred and seventy-seven were present last Sunday for Sunday school and the collection amounted to $14.94.

The Sunbeam class and the Mission Band are making a box of handkerchiefs for Christmas to be used for a good cause; may tell you more about it later on.

The class of older men held a class meeting at the hut last Friday night. Mr. May, the teacher, is planning something to build up his class and something to get ahead of the Royal Blue class, but the ladies are working, too, and will give them a race.

The Ladies' Aid will give a chicken and oyster stew next Saturday night at the hut; the public is invited.

MRS. J. S. WADE, Reporter.

Glen Raven.—It was with deep regret that we left Flat Rock Circuit. Four years there had, indeed, made it our home. The kindness, hospitality, and loyalty of the people at each of the five churches on the circuit can be fully understood only by one who has served them as pastor. The golden memories of those years shall forever be to us a benediction of hope in the Lord.

And yet, here at Glen Raven we are finding a similar kindness among the people. They have opened their homes and hearts to us, making us feel that the Lord's people are gracious everywhere. Appointments have been held at each of the three churches. There is every prospect of success. We believe a good year lies before us.

On Thursday night of last week, after the mid-week prayer service at Glen Raven, the parsonage was taken by a surprise attack and the pastor was heavily pounded, very much to his pleasure. Bro. Bethea, always our friend, now our neighbor, was one of the pounders. We are indeed glad and grateful for the many good things brought to us. May each one that gave find it more blessed to give than to receive.

We were sorry to lose by death one of the members at Fairview, Miss Betty Rich. Those who knew her spoke in the highest terms of her Christian virtues. The funeral service was held Sunday afternoon. Bro. N. G. Bethea, a former pastor of the deceased, was in charge. Rev. Mr. Harris, of the M. E. Church, South, and the pastor assisted.
J. P. PEGG, Pastor.

Albemarle.—Our first service for this Conference year was held Sunday, November 15th. The large audience that filled the auditorium almost to overflowing, both at the morning and evening services, made us feel very humble, and very grateful. Mixed with our own members were a number of our friends from the different churches of the town. Our reception was most cordial, and the many volunteer pledges of hearty co-operation make us feel like we have before us prospects for a great year. Having served these people for four years makes me put every confidence in their pledges of co-operation. I have only been away one year, and I am sure they would not change in so short a time from a faithful, loyal, sacrificing people to become unreliable.

Last Sunday was a good day with us, too. A fine class of men met us at the Men's Class in Sunday school, with three new members. I delight in trying to teach this fine class of responsive men. After the lesson we took an offering for our Children's Home; the amount was $12.77; total amount for the Children's Home by the school was $23.94.

We have many problems to work out, but we have a great God, and in Him we are trusting.
J. R. ANDERSON.

West Forsyth.—Conference is over. Thanksgiving is over, and soon Christmas will be here. We suppose that the preachers who had to move are already in their new homes. We are thankful our pastor did not have to move, glad in more ways than one. We are hoping that the Annual Conference will be as good to us as they are to Rev. A. L. Hunter, of Pinnacle. Let's live in hopes, anyway.

I read the letter from Susie Jarrell in our Herald. I, too, have an M. P. hymn-book that has all the old songs in it, but not the music. Still, I know all the songs, and remember hearing my mother sing them when I was a tot. And, well, seems to me there is more of the spirit of true religion in them than in our late songs. But I love the new ones, too.

My husband has an old Dutch Bible, real old, but any of our young or older ministers may read it if they will come and do so.

I do not know if I should tell it or not. (I am not the reporter) but I just want to say a nice new cooking range has been placed in the kitchen of our parsonage, and other things are being done, and will be done later on.
MRS. R. P. PETREE.

Mecklenburg Charge.—I have been very cordially received by the people of this work. We apparently have some very active and sincere people here; some very devout, consecrated ones, who have made me rejoice when I observed their piety and willingness. I am confident we are going to have a good year with this spirit demonstrated.

My first appointment was at New Hope church. I found a small group of the faithful ones awaiting me. We had an inspiring service and were much edified by the fellowship of the good people. We would have had a larger audience had they been expecting preaching services.

At the evening services on the same day at Stallings a larger crowd than we expected greeted us, and very noticeably responded to our message. Our souls have been lifted up and strengthened by the beautiful spirit exemplified by the people. When we note the evidence of expectancy on the faces, the confident attitude, we are made to feel a deep sense of our responsibility as pastor of the flock, as it was with Solomon when the kingdom of Israel was handed to him from his father, David; it brings a feeling of our weakness and limitations, and causes us to seek divine guidance more earnestly than at any time.

Appointments for fourth Sunday: Beulah, 11 a. m. We were again made glad by the splendid spirit shown and the response received from our feeble efforts. Afternoon, 3 o'clock, Antioch. Again we felt a keener sense of our needs in being able to feed the flock over which the Lord has appointed us. There are some evident possibilities at this church also, and we enjoyed our meeting together.

Our third appointment at Zoar was a pleasant surprise to see the number assembled for worship, as the membership is smaller than at the other churches, but the difference is made up by their zeal and faithfulness in the work of the kingdom, the thrills experienced in coming in contact with God's people more than compensates for any sacrifice a pastor may be called upon to make.

Last, but not least: We had hardly got our second breath from moving when we heard someone trying to get in the rear door just after dark. Our first thought naturally was, burglars. While in the act of getting my revolver someone anticipating my movements called to us open the door. Imagine our pleasant surprise to see the yard filled with cars and a part of a grocery store piled on the rear porch. Our pantry was filled to overflowing with every good thing imaginable. They evidently don't intend for the pastor to suffer for eats. Surely we have been led in pleasant pastures. "Our reins have fallen in pleasant places." Abundance of words that come to us are crowded out by others. May the Lord richly bless and enrich their lives in our future labors together.

J. L. LOVE, Pastor.

Henderson.—Just a few words to the Herald family to say that this pastor and his family are comfortably and happily housed in the Henderson parsonage.

Upon our arrival late in the afternoon of November 18th we found a number of the ladies present with a good supper ready and the house in as good order as possible with Bro. Hunter's furnishings still in the house. The same moving van that moved our things from Forsyth took Bro. Hunter's on the return trip.

We have been given a most cordial welcome by the church people. Already we are beginning to feel very much at home among them and can see no reason why our relationship as pastor and people should not be happy and profitable.

On Tuesday evening, November 24th, quite a number of our church folks visited the parsonage and gave us what very much resembled an old fashioned pounding. We recognized many of them because we had known them before and others by their cards, but will not attempt to give names or even mention all the good things that were left for our pantry. Among the many other articles, however, we could not fail to notice a load of coal and 56 pounds of sugar. Surely we are expected to be warm-hearted and to keep sweet. We thank all of these good friends for this expression of interest and Christian fellowship.

We have found the church well organized and running smoothly. Brother Hunter is doubtless an easy pastor to follow. He and his family have a large place in the hearts of this people.

It was, of course, impossible for us to speak a word of farewell to all our friends in Forsyth. However, we want to assure them all of our love and abiding interest. We shall be praying for you and your pastors that the work of the Lord may continue to make progress as you work together with and for Him.

Our interest and our prayers reach out to all our pastors and to all our churches. May God richly and abundantly bless us all this year in his service.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

SIGN OF THE RED STAR

When this bright star appears on the first page of the Herald it has a solemn portent: it means that your subscription will expire in this month. It is also a sign of hope—our hope that you will renew your subscription before your name is taken from our list.

—Mrs. Rev. T. J. Ogburn died last Saturday. Her funeral at West Market M. E. church on Sunday afternoon was attended by a large throng of relatives and friends. She was a daughter of the late Berry Davidson of Gibsonville.

—War between China and Japan seems to be at an end. War seems to be losing its standing among civilized nations. It is high time.

—Rev. W. F. Ashburn went squirrel hunting last Saturday in his Ford. He drove into the woods and waited, but not a single squirrel came and climbed upon his fender to be shot.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. W. R. Goley is regaining health.

—We expect pastors to inform us when and how they wish their addresses changed.

High Point College Bond Campaign

"Recently our hearts were burdened by reading of the continued difficulties, financially, you are experiencing at High Point. After thinking and praying over the matter we have written to the Secretary of the Board to have a hundred dollars sent you to buy a bond. I wish that we had it we would have made it many thousands."

The above is from a letter from the Rev. J. F. Minnis, our missionary to India. It was written before the last meeting of the annual conference. The interest and co-operation of Brother Minnis, in far off India, ought to be a challenge to Methodist Protestants in North Carolina.

This is an appeal to all our ministers and lay members of the Conference to make every effort that the various charges will reach their quotas in the matter of Bonds. And an appeal that there be no delay in getting this done. We ought not to let the evident interest and purpose shown at the annual conference go by default. It is of the utmost importance that we place the bonds and for delivery at the earliest possible date—only thus can we have the relief here at the college that is so imperative.

Will the various committees, directing the charges as grouped, please give us information as to progress, prospects and plans just as soon as possible.

Dr. Taylor, Mr. Harrison and myself stand ready to help whenever and wherever we can.

We need some real money before Christmas and this means selling and delivering the bonds. Pastors and officials of churches, we must count on you to lead in the campaign.

G. I. HUMPHREYS.

BAND OF 51 ATTACK PREACHER'S WIFE

Night before Thanksgiving this writer went down to Fountain Place to assist in organizing a Christian Endeavor Society, little thinking that the madame of the parsonage would fall into the hands—not of bandits—but a band of pounders. There were 51 of them, and they let missiles fly to the amount of 64 packages. And they came in such sizes and variety as to go straight to the mark, I am sure, for when I reached home just after the party had left, the madame still showed the effects of the attack, for her smile was broader than ever when I came in. She had business with me in the dining room at once. A complete surprise! I was not looking for this. Not that these folks had not been guilty of just such acts before, but I had not heard much about poundings up to this time.

Well, we had a double Thanksgiving. So much to be thankful for in that we are still among good friends and neighbors, and then the spirit of such actions always lends value to the acts.

We are living in Gibsonville now, and we like it. Not that he had to leave Fountain Place, but it is but fair that we work from this end of the line a while. So we are going to be just as well satisfied as before and are hoping to be just as helpful to the other church as before and hope that we may be more useful here.

The work is starting off well and we are really expecting a better year's work than we had last year, for there are many things to indicate it.

We are getting about straight from moving and while we did not have to change work, the ordeal of moving was just about as severe, but we are beginning to get where we feel at home in our new quarters and are hoping for the best in every way. There is a man's job here in these two fields, but we are trusting for a majority report in the end, for we are trusting in God to help us in the battle.

So, good people, we thank you for your kindness, and we trust to repay in a service that will glorify God on your behalf.

N. G. BETHEA.

BETHEL HOME

All who have attended the Branch meetings know Bethel Home and its superintendent, Rev. Homer Casto. Should you go there you would find that it is a "House of God," as its name signifies—this home that sits on a hill facing a most wonderful view of the mountains. Inside you will find a happy family, consisting of Mr. Casto, president; Miss Rowen, nurse, and an ever-changing group who are taking the cure—except Mr. Altman who is a permanent part of the household and a real benediction to all.

This Home is a work of faith and through the auxiliaries and its friends many comforts are provided for those who are very patiently taking the cure here. But you would never think it is a tubercular sanatorium.

Bethel Home is one of our finest privileges and all those who contribute may know that it is wisely used for a good cause.

May our Father open our hearts to this one of our most appealing interests.

A CARD OF THANKS

At the last meeting of the Seagrove Ladies' Aid this writer was presented with a pair of nice house slippers as a token of appreciation of the work done by her in the society. The Junior Aid of the same church presented Sara Marie with a box of nice stationery as an appreciation of her work as secretary of the Aid.

These gifts are appreciated very much and help us to remember that though we are many miles apart we still have loyal friends in Seagrove. Our best wishes remain with them for a good year.

In John Wesley's Day there was a question like this—

"Are We Going On to Perfection?"

This is the question now facing the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina. How shall we answer?

A denomination, having more than 30,000 members in the state faces the responsibility of being a dynamic force in the life of its constituency, in the outlook of communities and in the progress of the commonwealth.

Facing such responsibility—the denomination must have an educated and trained leadership, both in the ministry and laity. It must be an education that is Christian, and this means under Christian leadership, where Christian ideals and motives receive their due emphasis under wholesome influences.

Hence the recognition, long since, of the Church as to the need of the Christian College.

This is the why of High Point College. Let us face the FACTS:

Redemption of Bonds at Maturity pledged by the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina—and further underwritten by the General Church.

1. Our Church has achieved an outstanding record in High Point College.
2. Our indebtedness is not great in the light of assets, but its nature is such that the pressure is tremendous—and we must relieve the pressure.
3. In seven years High Point College has attained a yearly enrollment, standing in college circles and community confidence, that have no parallel in the history of denominational colleges.
4. The City of High Point is challenging the North Carolina Conference in this plan of re-financing through the sale of bonds. We must meet the challenge.
5. For the first time in the one hundred years' history of the denomination, the General Church, without respect to area, is being appealed to through its official leadership to back a college. And bonds are being bought outside of North Carolina. We must capitalize this support.
6. There is money enough in the possession of Methodist Protestants in our Conference to absorb our quota of bonds. Let us do it.
7. Let us say, "We are going on"—to sell these bonds, thus re-financing the College, and securing it these days of "trying times."

Is it Depression or Repression that is gripping the Church? Doubtless something of both—but now it is going to be Expression! Expression of FAITH—LOYALTY—PURPOSE.

The Focal Point of Memory

Once I was a child in arms,
Kept in safety from all harms;
Pretty, prattling babe was I,
Growing as the days went by.

Once I lived among the boys,
Fond of sport and fond of toys:
Subject to my parents' will,
Daily gaining more of skill.

Once I was a man of strength,
Helping out to my full strength,
All who came my aid to seek—
Halt and deaf and blind and weak.

Once I was a rabbi wise,
Showing truth without disguise,
Setting forth the rule of right,
Warning men of error's night.

Once upon a mountain height
Shone my face with brightest light;
God's own voice approved my way,
Speaking words as clear as day.

Soon you'll see me bruised and crushed,
Voice of friends in silence hushed,
Body pierced and blood poured out,
Men to save from deadly doubt.

When you see my broken form,
Left to you by hell's fierce storm,
Lose not faith but trust the more:
Plainly see God's open door!

Thus I die that men may live,
God His Son to all does give:
Whoso e'er in Me believes
Pardon, peace and life receives.

Broken bread and outpoured wine
Token forth this gift of mine:
Eat and drink all you in faith,
Heeding what your Master sayeth.

Eat and drink remembering Me,
Show the world just what you see—
Sinless One in death for sin,
Trying hard all souls to win.

Security

Twenty years ago or more The Atlantic Monthly carried a story of a young man of good family who fell in love with the daughter of a convict serving time in prison. The young man's family and friends opposed the marriage of the pair on the ground that her father had disgraced the whole family; the young woman's mother also objected to the marriage, perhaps because she feared her daughter would not be happy under the conditions. The young man would not yield, and was advised to go to the prison and discuss the matter with the girl's father. He did so. The report of the conversation is as follows:

Convict: "One wants absolute security in one way for Ruth; the other wants absolute security in another way for you. And security—why, it's just the one thing a human being can't have, the thing that's the damnation of him if he gets it! The reason it is so hard for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven is that he has that false sense of security. To demand security just disintegrates a man. I don't know why. It does."

Young man: "I don't quite follow you, sir. Oughtn't one try to be safe?"

Convict: "One ought to try, yes. That is common prudence. But the point is that, whatever you do or get, you aren't after all secure. There is no such condition, and the harder you demand it, the more risk you run. So it is up to a man to take all reasonable precautions about his money, or his happiness, or his life, and trust the rest. What every man in the world is looking for is the sense of having mastery over life. But I tell you, boy, there is only one thing that really gives it!"

Young man: "And that is—?"

Convict: "It comes with the knowledge of our power to endure. That's it. You are safe only when you can stand everything that can happen to you. Then, and then only! Endurance is the measure of a man! Ruth is the core of my heart! I would rather die than have her suffer more than she must. But she must take her chances like the rest. It is the law of things. If you know yourself fit for her, and feel reasonably sure you can take care of her, you have a right to trust the future. I believe there is some One to trust it to."

This convict through his varied experiences had gained a degree of wisdom. He saw that by increasing our powers of endurance we lessen the force of evils that assail us. The terrifying evils of our childhood may not intimidate us in manhood. But there are evils to which we cannot make ourselves immune. The convict also sensed the fact that only God can give us absolute security, and that He may be depended on to do that if we trust Him and obey Him.

A PROFESSION WITH A SOUL

By W. H. HOOD, M. D.

It is with gratitude for the great honor bestowed upon me that, as your President, I am opening the twenty-eighth session of this scientific body of Railway Surgeons.

Great has been its progress during these years. Greater has been the progress of our profession since the illustrious Lister applied the principle of Pasteur, scarcely two decades before the birth of our organization. Greater still will be the progress in the days to come, for today, in hundreds of laboratories, there are thousands of investigators following in the footsteps of these pioneers—investigators to whom all honor will be given, and through whose efforts scientific medicine will continue to advance.

But as the clerical profession deplores today what it terms a material age, with the chief aim in life of obtaining wealth with which to gratify the body, unmindful of the deeper pleasures of the mind or soul, which money cannot buy, so the thought comes to me that, unmindful of the Bible injunction "Man cannot live by bread alone," our profession may become so materialistic that it overlooks the fact that it possesses a soul as well as a body, a soul that cannot be measured by the material scientist with his instrument of precision, proven in his laboratories, or seen with his strongest microscopes; and, further, the thought our service to humanity will be fuller if this soul be not ignored.

Today there are many cults and systems competing with scientific medicine. That they have intelligent followers in large numbers there is no denying; and if they seem to these credulous followers to succeed, is it not because they have capitalized an element that we have been too prone to neglect?

As I grow older in the practice of medicine, and in the experiences of life, I feel more and more the importance of this soul in medicine. My thought to you today is that we, who from habit are concerned largely with the material elements of the body, may gain in value by keeping in mind this undefined soul, keeping in mind the psychical element in disease. We all know the effects of a sick body on the mind, but we sometimes forget that as great, or greater, are effects of a sick mind on that body.

In our school days we were taught that a perfect functioning of the body depended upon healthy organs, a healthy supply of blood to these organs, and, third, which a strict materialist may overlook, a healthy nerve supply to these organs; and by nerve supply I do not refer to that inert wire that conducts the impulse, but to that living battery that generates it.

As you well know, we have in the brain two sets of nerve centers—the upper centers of thought, intelligence, will power, memory, and the like, and the lower sub-conscious or medullary centers, through which the upper centers act. This is a wise provision of Nature, universally observed. For example, when the student of music learns to play the piano, every key that he strikes, every note that he sounds, is a conscious effort, and even with the simplest melody is followed with fatigue; but when, by constant practice, he masters the instrument, with only the decision of the will to do, these lower centers act automatically, and he plays even the most complicated compositions without effort and without fatigue.

To apply this example, what happens in health or normal processes may also happen in sickness. In your own experiences you have seen how these sub-conscious centers act viciously, with symptoms continuing long after the cause of the illness is removed. These unfortunate patients need mental and not physical treatment; mental treatment along these lines: First of all let the physician make a complete examination, using the aid of all scientific tests, so that he can be sure of his position for if the physician is not confident he is in no position to inspire confidence. Then, with sympathy, assure the patient that his trouble is not imaginary, but real. Then, tracing the progress of the illness from the beginning to the present, and illustrating how this sub-conscious center acts automatically in the ordinary pursuits of life, from the examination and all tests made, you are now convinced that the trouble is not in the parts affected, but due to the vicious action of this same sub-conscious center. To obtain a cure it is necessary to re-educate this center into normal action, which cannot be done by an effort of the will power, for trying to do a thing expresses in itself an element of doubt of success. But it can be done by cultivating an attitude of complete indifference, neither anticipating nor recalling the symptoms.

Doubtless many of you have had a similar experience to the one that I am about to relate, an experience that started me on this line of thought. More than one-third of a century ago I was called to a little mining camp to attend a young girl with appendicitis. According to the standard treatment of that day, I purged her with free doses of epsom salts, advising her to come to Battle Mountain (where I was then located) in two days for observation, with the possibility of sending her to San Francisco at the end of a week for an operation. The young lady came for observation and continued on to the city. One of the famous surgeons there kept her under observation for another week, with the same purging treatment, when he operated; but afterwards, with the remark so often observed by country doctors, "You came just in time; another day would have been too late."

In a short time this emotional girl (we are all emotional) returned home in good health, but carrying as exhibit "A" her appendix preserved in a bottle. Her mind or brain was filled with her new experiences—her first trip on a railroad train, her first visit to San Francisco, her first operation—experiences which she delighted to dwell upon. Her good health continued for several months, when she began to suffer with so-called gas pains and adhesions. As soon as finances could be arranged she renewed that wonderful experience—that trip to the hospital. Three times the operation for adhesions was repeated, each time with relief for a year or two when the trouble would recur. Then financial reverses prevented further operations and the suffering continued. After some years report came to me that she had been completely cured; had become a useful member of society, a wife and mother. Inquiry revealed that this great miracle had been performed by the use of the "Ouija" board.

All of you, at some time or another in your practice, might recall similar experiences. We know that there is more than a scientific and materialistic side to medicine. We know that medicine has a soul.

I hope that you have been interested in this, my theme, "A Profession with a Soul." I advance it in all sincerity after a lifetime devoted to the active practice of medicine. Many of you may be in hearty accord with me; others may disagree. But I have one consolation. You remember that great essay, "Cicero De Senectute," in which the author depicts the pleasures of old age and the bliss of the hereafter, but added, If I am wrong in this, my delusion of an immortality, I am happy in the thought that there will be none of my critics there to ridicule me. So, knowing that your President's address is not open to discussion, if I am wrong in this, my belief, I am happy in the thought that there is no one here that can ridicule me.

SHALL WE HAVE RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS?

By LUTHER K. LONG

Recently there was dedicated in Washington a new school building. It is called the Crosby Stuart Noyes School, in honor of Mr. Noyes, who was a former editor of the Washington Evening Star.

In the course of the dedicatory exercise Mr. Henry Gilligan, a member of the school board, made some interesting remarks along the line of religious education in the schools. Mr. Gilligan said:

"What the country needs in this time of depression, and every other time, is more religion. I believe there ought to be a way we could see to it that our young people, confronted as they are with more intimate temptations than ever before, can be made to see this need and provided with the religious training they need."

I suppose the home should always remain the central place of opportunity and responsibility in the matter of religious training; but many parents repudiate, or at least neglect, their responsibility. Churches and Sunday Schools all over the country are doing a tremendous service, continued year in and year out; but a large proportion of the children are unreached by these agencies.

The schools have all the children for a longer or shorter part of their specially impressionable years. Here is the place for such fundamental, non-sectarian, unifying religious instruction as will give proper tone and vigor to the moral sense and conduct of our coming citizens.

It is not uncommon now-days for groups of broad-minded Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews to gather about tables and to confer as to the great ideas and teachings on which they agree, and the bearing of these ideas on the problem of better human relationships. This is one of the encouraging signs of the times. It is found in such conferences, and in other ways, that there is no division among our people as to the importance of morality that there is no division among our people as to the importance of morality and right living. They are also agreed that morality and a good life have their most vital roots deeply imbedded in religion.

I do not believe it is too much to hope that before long some such group will prepare and present a brief manual of religious instruction for American youth. The schools of Washington, the Capital City, would be an excellent place for the introduction of such a manual. It goes without saying that each denomination could be free to supplement this manual by farther religious instruction according to their own ideas in their homes and churches.

PAUL

Paul was an apostle of Jesus Christ, and author of about half of the New Testament. He was a native of Tarsus. He was of Pharisaic parentage and was reared according to the strictest doctrines of that sect. Saul, as he was named when a baby, like all Jewish children was taught a trade. He was taught that of a tent-maker. He was liberally educated.

Except for his visits to Tarsus, Saul probably remained in Jerusalem and connected with one of the Synagogues there. He was probably there during some of the times Jesus was there, although he did not see him. His introduction to Christianity came through the preaching of Stephen. Saul immediately threw himself into a furious campaign of persecution. This was brought to an abrupt close by his vision on the road to Damascus, as a sequel to which he was baptized a few days later.

Following an extended period of retirement in Arabia he went to Jerusalem accompanied by Barnabas. His purpose was perhaps to obtain from Peter a first hand account of Jesus, his ministry and teachings. He planned likewise to begin his work, among his former associates, the Greek speaking Jews of Jerusalem. But they refused to listen to him until at the urgent solicitation of Barnabas they half-heartedly took him in.

Saul went to Tarsus and remained there till Barnabas sent for him to go to the community of Antioch. It was from here Saul and Barnabas set out on their first missionary journey. When Saul began this work he took his Roman name, Paul. Their first journey took them to Southern Asia Minor, where considerable progress was made. They later returned to Antioch.

On their second missionary journey they disagreed on a minor point, and Paul took Silas with him. On this journey they covered new territory, and Paul found Timothy, a young man of great promise. At Troy he had a vision which caused him to go over into Europe. Here he established churches at Philippi, Thessalonica, Berea, and Corinth. While at Corinth he wrote his two extant letters to the Thessalonians, generally known as the first of Paul's letters and earliest "books" of the New Testament.

From Corinth he started to Jerusalem by sea but stopped at Ephesus and preached a while, and promised to come again.

His third mission from Antioch took him back to Ephesus. He spent three years here. From Ephesus either by letter or in person he carried the Gospel throughout the entire coast of Asia. This is the period of his letters to the Corinthians, of these there were four. What is called "First Corin-

Death of Brother Farmer's Father

Brother Roy I. Farmer, pastor of First Church, High Point, has been called to Ohio on account of the death of his father, which occurred last Saturday. He was about 70 years old, and had been ailing some, though his death was not expected, as we understand. Brother Farmer and his family have our tender sympathy and prayers. •

Lebanon and Welch

We were with these two churches Sunday, December 6—worshiper at Lebanon and a worshiper and preacher at Welch. It was a pleasure to be in the service at each church. We found a most gratifying attendance at Lebanon. The house appeared to us to be full, and there was a noticeable number of young people present. We understand that this is usual at this church—large congregations and many young people. The pastor, Brother J. C. Madison, is very popular with his people, and he is doing splendid work at this church. His people attest their appreciation of him and his services in various ways; Sunday, it was by the gift of a new overcoat.

At Welch the attendance was good, though not as large as we predict that it will be when Pastor Williams is able to take up the work. He had hoped to be out before now, but last week he suffered some unfavorable reaction in his recovery. But he is better now and gradually regaining his strength. The prospects are that he will be out soon. His people are ready for his leadership. We confidently expect a good year at Welch.

Flat Rock Charge

On the 5th of December we were with this charge in the first quarterly conference, which was held at Gideon's Grove. All five churches were represented, in the 16 officials who were present, and others not members of the conference. Pastor Hutton was so well pleased with the recommendations and goals of Dr. Johnson, presented to the first quarterly conference at Mt. Pleasant, that he adopted them, and submitted them to the first quarterly conference of his charge for consideration. He made one addition to Dr. Johnson's list, namely, that the stewards at each church appoint one of their number to report to the congregation at least quarterly the exact financial status of the church, on both budgets and salary. All recommendations and goals were adopted without a dissenting vote. Budgets were ordered apportioned to each church on basis of salary allotment. This is one of our best rural charges, but for some reason the finances have not kept pace with other fields. We wonder if this is not due to a lack of an adequate financing system? This was discussed in the conference, and we are hopeful that the brethren at each church will see that improvements are made along this line. The charge seems to be lacking also in organizational activities. Aside from the Sunday Schools, the only other organizations is an Aid Society at Bethel and an Auxiliary at Gideon's Grove. We wonder if the women could not be more fully organized and C. E. Societies started for the young people? These matters will no doubt receive the attention of pastor and people. Stewards from all five churches made payments on salary, the amount being $81.25. Pastor Hutton has been cordially received on the charge. He is not new to this field, having served it twice before—ten years, we believe, in all. We hope that this may be his best year yet. It was a pleasure to be in this conference and to share with the pastor and his people in the starting off of the year's work. And we are grateful also to Pastor for a seat in his car to and from the conference.

That S. O. S.

Brother L. E. Mabry informs us that all of the churches on Mt. Hermon charge has responded but one, and he has not been to that church since the call was made. Other charges have responded also, we are confident. Let us urge that this call have a 100 per cent response. The amount asked for, $5 per church—is not much, and surely it can be raised on every charge. And the need is urgent—so URGENT! Thank you, pastors, and church officials! Thank you!

Christmas Day Church Service

For a number of years we have been thoroughly imbued with the idea that there should be a service in our churches—on Christmas day. To Christians, Christmas honors Christ. This may not be the meaning of the day to those who are not Christians; but for those who are, the day is meaningless apart from the Babe of Bethlehem. What then, could be more fitting, than to assemble in our churches on Christmas morning and render homage and worship to Him? We most earnestly urge that a Christmas day service be held in our churches throughout the conference, or that our people join with other churches in union services on this day.

Herald Christmas Offering

Mr. E. L. Douglas, chairman of the HERALD promoting committee, has suggested that a Christmas offering be taken in all of our churches for the HERALD. The accumulated printing deficit for two years amounts to $2,400. Dr. McCulloch can not stand this, nor can the printers. And the conference does not want them to stand it. We must provide this shortage, and very earnest effort was made at the last conference to do it. At the suggestion of Dr. McCulloch, the conference agreed to ask the churches to make a free will offering for this purpose. It is in keeping with this plan that Mr. Douglas makes the suggestion of the Christmas offering. We urge that every church in the conference co-operate with this undertaking. Christmas is a time when everybody gives to some worthy cause; and surely this is a worthy one,—highly so. Dr. McCulloch has made great sacrifices in giving to the conference this paper, and the paper has been of untold good to us in our work. We surely will not fail him now. LET'S MAKE THIS CHRISTMAS OFFERING GENEROUS, AND MAKE EDITOR McCULLOCH VERY HAPPY. Ten cents (10 cents) per member will pay the deficit in full.

Meeting of Executive Committee

At the call of President Paschall of the C. C. R. E., the Executive Committee met at High Point College, Tuesday, December 7, and transacted some business necessary to the closing of the work of last year, and also toward starting the work off for the new year. Brother Harrison made a good record last year in this phase of his work. His report to the Council showed that he conducted eight training schools, with a total enrollment of 407. This is supplemented by 110 visitors who attended the schools but did not enroll. Of those who enrolled, 219 were given certificates in standard courses, and 66 in young people's courses. The total cost of the schools was $202.74, or an average of 49 cents per pupil. These training schools for church workers are full of potential value, and the pity is that we do not have more money with which to operate them. We have been trying for two years now to finance the Council through offering from Sunday Schools and C. E. Societies. The amount received last year from these sources was only $299.66. This was paid by 80 Sunday Schools and 25 C. E. Societies, leaving 135 of the former and 50 of the latter that did not pay allotments for this purpose. We are short $400. in the conference obligation to the Council last year. Unless we can increase receipts this year, we will be under the necessity of suspending this phase of our work, or find some other way of financing it. The amount asked of Sunday Schools and C. E. Societies is so small that one would think it could easily be paid, and if paid, our needs for the work of the Council would be met.

Week of Prayer

The last conference designated January 3 to 10, as a period of prayer for the church. Attention is being called to this now in order that pastors may have time to put this in their program for that week. They no doubt will want to emphasize it in their mid-week prayer services, and the time includes two Sundays, thus giving opportunity to preach on prayer, and in that way emphasize the purpose of this week. We are to pray during this week especially for the church. We are expected to do that always, of course; but there is merit in united praying during a designated period for a definite purpose. "Prayer changes things." I trust that we may be much in the spirit of prayer during this designated period, and that pastors and other church leaders may begin now to prepare us for it.

Appointments

December 12.—Roberta, in quarterly conference, 7:30 P. M., and preaching service, 11 a. m. Sunday.

December 13.—Concord, 7:30 P. M.

December 15.—South Lexington charge in quarterly conference. Hour, 7:30 P. M.

December 19.—Littleton charge in quarterly conference. Hour, 1:00 P. M. Three appointments on the charge on Sunday.

January 9.—Alamance charge in quarterly conference at Center church.

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN

"The Methodist Protestant Herald in Every Methodist Protestant Home"

I hear that the pastors are talking the HERALD from the pulpit; that is bound to help, I am hoping that every pastor is doing this. Why not every church in the entire Conference begin now their part of this Campaign, and let us put it over without waiting until the last of the year. English Street, High Point, is planning to raise her quota in the next few weeks and she may be the first to come out in Capital letters; well, why not? This church has some splendid workers and when they start we are pretty sure to see results.

Greensboro and High Point each has four churches; let's see which city will be the first to get all its churches on the list in Capitals. As soon as a Charge or Station raises its Quota of subscribers it will be listed for the rest of the year in CAPITALS.

May I ask each pastor to confer with the Chairman at each church and help plan the Campaign. A little later I plan to have printed in the HERALD a list of the names of all the Chairmen at the different churches; until then if the pastors do not know who the chairmen are, please ask at each church, and the Chairman will no doubt make themselves known.

One Chairman writes as follows:

"It is indeed a pleasure for me to help put this HERALD Campaign across. I shall endeavor to do my best."

The same Chairman that writes this has been sending in subscriptions weekly, and has written in for more remittance blanks. That is a splendid example for the rest of us. I want every Chairman to send in some subscriptions between now and Christmas, those of you who have not yet sent in your initial remittance, I am looking forward to hearing from you in next week's HERALD. Please be sure to get your name in the next issue.

No pastor is required to take the HERALD, yet every one does so. Why should not every layman take it, too? While you are selling the HERALD to our laymen remember that you are helping to save the paper for our Church for it cannot exist another year unless we secure the subscribers necessary to keep it going. With your help we will save the paper.

E. L. DOUGLAS,
Chairman Directing Committee.

PAUL

thians" was the second of them, and "Second Corinthians" is the fourth. After repeated letters failed to reform he went in person, but failed. Paul returned to Ephesus with a heavy heart.

In the spring of 56, A D. Paul and a company of believers went to Jerusalem. While here he was attacked by a mob and thrown in prison. Plots against his life were discovered. Preliminary hearing of charges before Felix was held. But Felix refused to make a decision. Paul interposed with an appeal to Caesar, which was granted him by the authorities and he was sent to Rome.

During his imprisonment there Paul wrote his letters to the Philippians, the Colossians, the personal letter to Philemon and the letter to the Ephesians.

Although evidence is lacking it is probable that Paul suffered martyrdom in Rome not later than the year 65. There is some evidence that during his interim of his prison life he visited Spain and also made a rapid tour of the churches he had founded.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE PATTERN MAKER

Bobby Wilson was very quiet and thoughtful during Sunday dinner. In fact he nearly forgot to ask for a second piece of cream pie, which certainly proved that something of great importance was troubling his twelve-year-old mind.

"Why the solemn stare, Bob?" exclaimed his older brother, David.

"You see, I'm rather worried over what Mrs. Thomas said in our Sunday School class this morning," exclaimed Bobby.

"What did she say, dear?" asked his mother encouragingly.

"Well," began Bobby with a sigh, "our lesson was on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Thomas asked us if we had ever seen one of those tissue paper patterns used by dress-makers when they are making clothes. Of course, we had all seen them. Next, she asked Mary Morgan why we use a pattern. Mary said, 'It is a guide for making a garment.' Mrs. Thomas asked what we would think of a pattern that made a twisted coat, perhaps up side down or with one sleeve too small. Dick Murray said, 'It would be a worthless pattern'."

After a little thinking he continued.

"She said Jesus is the True Pattern for us to follow, but we all are patterns, too, and people really copy us many times instead of Jesus. Mrs. Thomas said if I did something wrong it was just the same as if I had no collar on my coat. If the other boys followed my example it was just the same as if all the lads went without collars."

"That is a splendid lesson, son," said his father slowly. "Be a good pattern for your chums."

As the little chap went on his way to school the following morning his thoughts were still on the Sunday School lesson. On nearing the corner he heard shouts of laughter and ran eagerly forward expecting to join the fun. He found a number of school boys teasing old Mr. Smith. The old man hated boys and was continually trying to get them into trouble. This morning, however, they rather had the advantage of him, as one of them had snatched his cane and had thrown it over a near-by fence.

"Come on Bob! Come on!" called the boys as they made room for him in their circle.

"No" said Bobby firmly. "It is a shame for you fellows to act like this."

"Ho! Ho!" cried some one, "Bob has turned goody."

Immediately they forgot about the old gentleman and began yelling taunting words at Bobby.

Bobby's face flushed, but he was thinking of a collarless coat and so remained quiet. A silent prayer went up from his young heart, asking for strength to make the pattern correctly.

The boys soon scattered and our little friend began searching for the lost cane. Finally he found it and returned it to its owner, who took it quickly and struck savagely at the boy.

Bobby wet sorrowfully on his way, feeling that the good pattern which he had tried to be had utterly failed. His friends had laughed at him and Mr. Smith had been angry.

He wondered vaguely if Mrs. Thomas had been right. Only for a moment did he doubt, then he heard a small voice inside whispering, "You did your duty." A smile lit up the young face. His conscience was free.

One day in early autumn while passing through a wood adjoining the town, Bobby came quite suddenly upon Mr. Smith. The old man was seated on the ground with his head bowed in his hands, and the boy hoped to pass unobserved.

"Wait a minute, my boy," said a gentle voice, and Bobby stood amazed as he realized Mr. Smith had spoken so kindly.

"Will you tell me why you try to be kind to an old man like me? I have never been good to you; in fact I have always hated you," said the same voice.

The boy could almost hear his own heart thumping, but he spoke bravely.

"I love Jesus and am seeking to be like Him, and besides I want to be a good pattern for those who may watch my life."

"Would you mind telling me all about it?" asked Mr. Smith.

Bobby told the story of the Sunday School lesson, while tears ran freely down the face of the old man.

"Perhaps you have wondered," he began slowly, "why I have always been so mean and cross to all the young boys in town. I will try to explain, though the reason seems small indeed now. I had a little chap about your age once, but God took him to Heaven. I hated God because He had taken my treasure, and I hated other boys because they reminded me of my little son. I have been a dreadful pattern all my life. Many a young man has taken his first drink with me. Bobby, I have watched your life and I am ashamed. If I had started to do right long ago, I fancy things might have been different with me. I'm too bad now. There can be no pardon for such as I."

The old man's grief was pitiful, and Bobby felt tears starting in his own eyes as he exclaimed, "O sir, there is pardon for you. Jesus died for sinners."

"Eh?" cried Mr. Smith, wistfully. "Could you pray for me, lad?"

Together they knelt in the dry leaves, and the sun peeping through the branches cast its bright rays on their heads.

Bobby clasped his small hands and prayed earnestly:

"Our Father which art in Heaven, Mr. Smith has been such a bad pattern all his life, but he is so sorry, and, dear God, please forgive him for Jesus sake."

"Amen," cried the seeking sinner as his faith reached the throne of mercy.

Half an hour later, Mrs. Wilson, sitting on the porch of her home heard a young voice singing happily,

"It pays to serve Jesus,
I speak from my heart;
He will ever be with us
If we do our part."

"God bless my little pattern-maker," she prayed fervently.—Sparkling Waters.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

ORGANIZATIONS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

"Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it," is perhaps the most familiar adage to everyone, and the secret of its popularity is probably in the truth of its statement.

This is as true in our missionary activities as in the other phases of life. The child who has had the advantages offered by the different organizations in the Young People's department of our Woman's Work is much better prepared to go ahead with the work in the adult division.

In order to better equip our leaders of the future our Young People's Department offers four groups, namely: Precious Jewels, which includes children from six to twelve years of age; Mission Club, which includes young people from twelve to sixteen years of age; and Young People's Circle, which includes young people over sixteen until they finish college, marry, or go to work earning their own living.

Some churches will need all of these organizations; others will not have sufficient young people of each of these groups to justify all of these organizations. But the work can be adjusted to meet the needs of each local church regardless of how large or how small.

Some time ago I wrote to the different pastors asking for the name and address of the secretary of Young People's Work in each local church, or in case they did not have an Auxiliary in each church to send me the name and address of someone in each church who would look after this work. Their response was splendid, but so far I haven't been very successful in getting organizations in all of these churches. Will you find out whether or not there has been someone appointed in your church to look after this work, and if not, will you see that there is someone appointed to do this, and that there is at least one of these organizations in your church?

This work is not difficult and I will be so glad to co-operate in any way possible. I will be glad to explain the work further in a personal letter or to suggest materials. This work is being carried on successfully in connection with a number of Sunday schools.

Let us go forward together in the work of our Master in training our youth for larger fields of service.

MRS. F. W. PASCHALL,
Secretary of Young People's Work.

—We have a number of articles which we are unable to print this week because of the crowded condition of our columns. We ask the patience of those who sent them in until we find it possible to print them.

—The distinguished physician whose official address we print in another column was a fellow-graduate at Adrian College with the editor of the Herald. We congratulate him on his attainments and achievements. Ah there, Henry!

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BOND CAMPAIGN

Previously reported .....$20,900
Received since last report:
High Point .....$ 100
North Carolina M. P.'s.. 2,000 .....$2,100

Total .....$23,000
South Lexington has the honor of being the first charge to go over the top. Due to the fine efforts of Rev. C. G. Isley and Bro. J. J. Mallard the quota for this charge has been met.

Cleveland and Whitakers report a half of the quota of each subscribed. Rev. C. E. Ridge, for Cleveland, and Mrs. J. M. Cutchins, Jr., for Whitakers, are responsible for this. Both of these workers are optimistic, and we expect that their charges will soon join the South Lexington class.

An error was made last week in reporting North Davidson $700. It should have been $500. Shiloh should have been reported $500. Rev. R. S. Troxler, Shiloh Charge, is expecting soon to report $1,200 more for his charge, and thus put it over the top.

Calvary makes a good gain this week. She was reported $600 last week; this week she moves up $400 more. You may expect most anything good from Calvary. I have heard that her people are taking the matter in a serious way.

Workers will please report each week the results of their canvass. Let's keep the list moving weekly in number of charges reporting, and the advances made.

A weekly bulletin is sent to each worker. If you did not get yours please let us know and we will send another.

—We are indebted to the wife of one of our Congregational secretaries for the following: "It happened at the wedding of a friend. A small guest, aged four, was little interested in the wedding ceremony, but much interested in a goldfish in a bowl, which he watched excitedly all during the ritual. Just the moment after the minister said the binding words, 'I pronounce you man and wife,' the little boy cried out, 'Oh, the poor fish, he can't get out!'"—Congregationalist.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Enfield - Whitakers - Roseneath. — Having moved from the eastern section, I find myself becoming somewhat reminiscent, thinking of the good time I had among the kind people on those wide extended plains.

A period of three years worshipping with Whitakers and Roseneath—part of that time with Speight's Chapel—and one year with Enfield and Whitakers Chapel, where some Methodist Protestant history was made in the beginning of the denomination, is a privilege not to be despised or soon forgotten. Among them are some that are of the salt of the earth, devout worshippers, tireless workers, strong in faith, big in courage, kind in spirit.

Their kindness to me was out of proportion to the service I was able to render, judged by visible results and numerical growth. I enjoyed the high privilege of breaking bread in a larger per cent of the homes than is wont. It was eastern hospitality, second to none.

The kindness piled up in the closing weeks of my pastorate there—a room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cutchin, Jr., meals in the same home and meals in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Cutchin as I chose to take them, all without charge. This, when the daughter left for college, leaving me alone—but they would not allow me to be much lonely. Then a hat, shoes, and suit, given by members of Whitakers, Enfield, and Whitakers Chapel churches. I do not know the names of all the donors. A four-bushel bag of peanuts given by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bradley. The truck of Mr. J. M. Cutchin, Jr., to haul, without charge, my belongings to Burlington. Can any report a bigger, better pounding? T. M. JOHNSON.

Flat Rock, Vance Charge.—We were all made happy by the return of our much-loved pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton.

The Ladies' Auxiliary gave a very interesting thank-offering program on Thanksgiving night. The collection was taken for High Point Children's Home. We were glad to have our pastor with us and also glad to have Rev. Mr. Andrews, of Duke University, who came with him.

The fifth Sunday a Sunday school rally was held at Flat Rock, with all day services and dinner on the ground. The subject for the day was "The Church." We all enjoyed Mr. Jasper Hicks' address. He is from Henderson. The next rally will be held at Gilburg.

May the Lord help us to work more earnestly for the Master this new Conference year.

ELIZABETH WORTHAM, Reporter.

Cedar Falls.—As the Annual Conference saw fit to send us a new pastor at this place, we accept him with a feeling of good will and optimism, although our hearts were made heavy at parting with our former pastor, Bro. Joel B. Trogdon. Bro. Trogdon had served this work for seven years. It was only natural that we had learned to love him, and especially did the writer admire him for his fearlessness and because he stood firm to his convictions. We feel that one of the biggest mistakes church people make today is in failing to show their love and appreciation to their pastors, and to each other, while we are working and mingling together for the Lord. We take too much for granted, and withhold a demonstration of our love and appreciation for each other.

However, we bid Bro. Trogdon Godspeed on his new charge.

Bro. Joyner, our new pastor, preached his first sermon here the fourth Sunday night to an unusually large crowd. We understand the congregation was well pleased with his appearance and message. Of course we haven't gotten acquainted well yet, but we trust the coming Conference year will be a profitable one in our Lord's service.

C. F. LAUGHLIN, Reporter.

Democrat Charge.—Memorial service for Jefferson D. Carter was held at Pleasant Gap church, October 25. A number of friends and relatives were present in honor of the occasion.

We are glad to welcome in our midst our new pastor and family, Rev. Mr. Cook. We hope to make this a successful year's work.

A MEMBER.

Spring Church Charge.—As we become more and more acclimated to our new field, our impressions are also more favorable.

As an indication of the women's interest in the parsonage, they spent a day and a half putting the interior in shape. This work was done prior to our coming.

On last Thursday night several Lebanon members came over and pounded us with pantry supplies. Spring church and Pleasant Hill also have remembered us in a substantial way. Our depth of gratitude is inexpressible, and "I thank you" must suffice.

The financial depression in this section of the state is keenly felt, as elsewhere. Much cotton is being held over from last year, and peanuts are slow at half price. This condition retards the speeding up of our financial program, especially the sale of bonds. However, we are expecting to make a considerable showing in the matter of finances, despite the financial stringency. Wm. H. NEESE.

Moriah.—Our pastor, Rev. M. P. Chambliss, has returned from a two-weeks' visit with his mother.

Sunday was a wonderful day for Moriah. Mr. Chambliss preached one of his most excellent sermons, "Tithing." Many members pledged themselves to tithe.

Prior to this service the doors of the church were opened and eight joined the church. Five were young people from the community who joined by faith. The other three came by letter from other churches. They were: Mrs. Robert N. Sharpe, from Huntersville Presbyterian church; Mr. George L. Glenn, from the Friends church, Greensboro; Mr. Edgar L. Berry, from the M. E. church, Pleasant Garden. We are very glad to have these young people join with us.

The first quarterly conference convened at Moriah Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The attendance from both Moriah and Liberty was excellent. Much business of interest was transacted. The next quarterly conference will be held at Liberty.

We believe this is going to be a good year for both Moriah and Liberty churches.

Rev. Mr. Chambliss will preach at Moriah at 11 o'clock the first and third Sundays and at 10 o'clock the second and fourth Sundays with Sunday school following at 11 o'clock. Liberty will have two day services and two night services.

Plans are being made for a Christmas program and a tree.

The attendance at Sunday school is very good.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met with Mrs. C. F. Scott Thursday, December 3. The attendance was good and a splendid Christmas program was prepared by Mrs. B. H. Kinney.

REBECCA SHARPE, Reporter.

Corinth, Littleton Charge.—We were more than glad to welcome Rev. P. E. Bingham and his good wife back to our church for his second year's work. These good people have made many friends since coming to us a year ago and we are deeply grateful to them for the faithful and untiring way in which they have labored with us. May this be a great year for both pastor and people, is our prayer.

At the 11 o'clock service yesterday he brought us a very good message, using for his subject "Christian Education." We feel that all present at this service went home with many helpful thoughts from this message.

We were very glad to have Mrs. A. P. Pittman and daughter, Margie, from Whitaker's, worship with us at the service yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris and Miss Vera Morris and Miss Irma Hawkins from Hawkins Chapel visited Mr. and Mrs. Bingham at the parsonage Saturday night.

Mrs. B. F. Morris has been elected agent for the Herald this year, and will appreciate the support of the people in this work.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

Mizpah, Haw River Circuit.—Rev. J. L. Trollinger last Sunday morning preached an inspiring sermon. The impression made: with love or charity we do not see the faults in others and more readily see the good points.

During the past year there has been a decided improvement in Sunday school and church attendance. We have met several times socially.

Our Sunday school lost one of our little girls, Maydel Faircloth.

There has been an epidemic of diphtheria in our community. This has caused a decrease in Sunday school attendance the past few Sundays.

Misses Eliza and Sallie Hill are confined to their room with sickness.

REPORTER.

Midland, Pageland.—Our first quarterly conference will be held at Midland on Saturday before the third Sunday in December at 2 p. m.

We are doubling on our rounds on this charge and are delighted with the fine spirit and large congregations at each church. We have never had a warmer reception and a brighter outlook than on this charge. We have here an efficient leadership, splendid Sunday school teachers and live Sunday schools and C. E. Societies. We have been greatly disturbed at Pine Bluff by the drastic course pursued by Rev. D. I. Garner in taking from us, without serving due notice.

on the pastor, Miss Mabry, one of our most popular and substantial leaders in our umhrrh, but our loss is St. Paul's gain. She is a force for good wherever she goes.

The official boards at Love's Grove and Midland will be installed next Sunday.

W. D. REED.

Mount Pleasant, Mount Pleasant.—We have made a good start on the new Conference year; three preaching services and first quarterly conference have been held.

Dr. Johnson gave us an appointment on the fifth Sunday of November, at which time he held an impressive Thanksgiving service. After reading ten verses from Psalm 136 the pastor chose part of verses 1-3 as a text. The story of the first Thanksgiving, related by Dr. Johnson in the opening of the service, pleased the children very much. Preaching service was followed by the administering of the Lord's Supper. Rev. J. A. Burgess and Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk assisted the pastor in this service.

On the first Sunday in December Dr. Johnson used "Christian Education" as his subject, reading from Roman 13:8-14, and using part of the 11th verse as a text: "And that, knowing." Again the pastor remembered the children by using some leaves as an object lesson and pointing out truths from nature. In the sermon, Dr. Johnson emphasized the fact that the responsibility of Christian Education rests upon the church and its agencies.

The new church officers will be installed at the next preaching service.

In the afternoon of December 24 there will be a Christmas program at the church at which time Santa Claus will visit the children.

MARGARET CAUSEY, Reporter.

Baltimore, West Forsyth.—We are very glad indeed to have with us again our old pastor, Rev. C. B. Way. He preached a very inspiring sermon Sunday. His text was taken from the 12th chapter, first verse, of Genesis: "Now the Lord said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers' house unto a land that I will show thee." Bro. Way said that the calling of Abram involved four things—departure, sacrifice, faith, and promise. He said that we should have the faith of Abram to go out and work for our Master, realizing that He will go with us if we have faith. If we rely on God, and take Him with us, our efforts will be blessed.

The Woman's Auxiliary received a cordial invitation to meet with the Woman's Auxiliary of Pleasant Hill next Friday night at the home of Mrs. W. B. Speas, the president of the Auxiliary of Pleasant Hill.

South Lexington.—Our work here is making good progress. Our Sunday school is being well attended. Our preaching services are also being well attended.

All phases of our work have shown up well during the first month of the Conference year. Our Christian Endeavor now has the largest attendance it has ever had and we can very easily see the good a real wide-awake C. E. society can do for a church.

We did not have any preaching here at the morning hour. This being the first Sunday,

Rev. Mr. Isley filled his appointment at Mt. Carmel church.

We have received one new member this year, Miss Maggie Swink, who came to us from the First M. E. Church of this city. We were very glad to receive this young lady into the church.

Our first quarterly conference will be held here at this church on next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock and we are very glad to note Dr. Taylor will be with us in the conference.

We were very glad to have Rev. N. M. Harrison with us in our evening service to preach for us. The church was filled for the service. Bro. Harrison delivered a very interesting and inspiring message, after which he made a talk on High Point College and urged that all Methodist Protestants co-operate in helping to put the college in better shape by buying the bonds which are being sold. We shall endeavor to do all we can to put our part over here at this church.

REPORTER.

North Davidson Charge.—The first quarterly conference will be held Saturday, December 12, at Bethesda church. A sermon will be preached at 11 o'clock, lunch served at noon, and a business session in the afternoon. All members are invited to attend, and the official members are especially urged to be present.

O. C. LOY.

Kannapolis.—Our regular church service was held Sunday, December 6, at 11 a. m. Pastor C. I. Smith was in charge, with a large congregation present. Many helpful thoughts were received. The evening service was held by Mr. Odell Brown, superintendent of the Elementary Department of Welch Memorial church at High Point. Service was enjoyed by all. We had a fine Sunday school with 100 present the first Sunday being Children's Home day, our collection, amounting to $6, goes to the Children's Home. Our Sunday school is still growing and we hope it will continue to grow. Visitors are always welcome.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. L. C. Carter Monday evening at 7 o'clock. They had a meeting of importance. All members were requested to be present. New members are always welcome.

Christian Endeavor meets every Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock with good attendance. Mrs. C. L. Hampton is in charge. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people.

Lebanon, Spring Church.—I am very happy to report that everyone likes our new pastor, Brother Neese, and his family unusually well. Brother Neese gave us our first sermon on the fifth Sunday in November. Everyone was deeply impressed by his sermon. His text was: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." The subject of the sermon was: "The Principles of the Christian Life." In the sermon Brother Neese stressed the facts that "Everybody has a religion, but not everybody has the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. There are six leading religions in the world today, and in order to be a follower of Jesus Christ we must have a sincere desire to belong to Him." In the sermon were brought out four reasons for following Jesus Christ: "His divinity appeals to me, in view of His provision for the future, His personal interest in me, and is not selfish in His interest and pursuits." Brother Neese left with us this word: "It is not always easy to follow Jesus Christ, to do the right thing, to say the right thing, but nevertheless we must stand up under the test if we would be true followers of our Master."

Last Sunday morning we were again given another sermon, but the reporter was absent on account of sickness.

In reply to our pastor's invitation to visit him, several of our members enjoyed a very pleasant evening in his home last week.

VIRGINIA GRANT.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—We opened Sunday school Sunday evening at 2 o'clock with 189 persons present. Our attendance is increasing and we sincerely hope it will continue to do so. After Sunday school, our pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, preached a very touching sermon, using as his topic, "Jesus, the Savior of Men." The auditorium of our church was almost filled during the preaching hour.

Our Ladies' Aid Society met Saturday evening with Mrs. Belvin Craven. Nine of the members were present and a good report was given.

We will have a Christmas tree at our church December 23, at 7 o'clock. The committee elected to get up the program was Alice and Ruth Haynes, Sadie and Mildred Swaim, Stella Moore and Edith York.

The Junior C. E. met the first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with Lucille Craven as leader. An interesting program was rendered by these little folks.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Craven, November 17, a boy, Clarence Donald.

Miss Nellie Wade, a member of our church, underwent an operation for appendicitis the latter part of last week. She is in the clinic, where she is doing nicely.

Miss Bessie Swaim is still on our sick list. We hope that she will soon be back with us.

The girls' and boys' intermediate classes in Sunday school are having a contest. We are trying to see which class can bring in the most visitors and new members by the end of this year. At the present moment the girls are in the lead.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—The first quarterly conference was held at the Effland church Saturday, December 5th. This conference was well attended. C. H. Jones was re-elected secretary; W. A. Davies was re-elected financial agent for the charge. Parsonage trustees and other committee were elected as per last year with very few exceptions.

Plans were adopted for the year's work. We believe the official members are determined to carry out these plans. If so, we are expecting to do the best year's work yet.

We all realize that it is no play job to carry on God's work. We are entering the new year with a determination to do our best.

Yesterday was a good day. Universal Bible Sunday was observed at each church: Union Grove, morning, and Effland at night.

Offerings were received at each church for Dr. McCulloch's M. P. Herald deficit. Both of these churches overpaid the 10 cents per member allotment proposed by our last Annual Conference. We are not making our offering on a 10 cents per member basis, but on a basis of our appreciation to Dr. McCulloch for his splendid services to our church through the M. P. Herald.

Opportunities will be given at the other two churches next Sunday to contribute for the above purpose. We hope they will respond as freely and generously as Union Grove and Edland did.

We are starting the new year with "our backs to the wall," but determined by God's help to march out to greater accomplishments this year than ever before. All slackers must be dealt with according to God's word and the Discipline of our church.

We cannot do 100 per cent service when 25 to 50 per cent of our people are not doing anything for the advancing of God's kingdom. If we fall short this year we want the responsibility placed where it properly belongs.

If pastor, officials and members all assume their part of the responsibility and all follow God's leadership we will not fail.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Gillburg, Vance Charge.—On Sunday, November 22, all members of Gillburg church were pleased to welcome Rev. J. W. Braxton back as pastor, and we feel fortunate in having him with us again.

Sunday he spoke on "The Business of Running the Church," in which he gave many interesting points to be used in the work of the church for another year. He also announced that Mrs. W. S. Fox is chairman of the drive for subscriptions to the Methodist Protestant Herald which is being sponsored by the church.

The first quarterly conference will be held December 12 at Spring Valley church at 2:30 o'clock, and a large number from Gillburg are planning to attend. At this meeting plans will be made for the work of the coming year.

Considering our small number we have good attendance at church and Sunday school. We have preaching services on the second Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., and the fourth Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school the second Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. On all other Sundays at 10 a. m. We hope our Sunday school will continue improving as it has done in the past.

VIRGINIA P. FULLER.

State Street, Lexington. Our church in all its branches is alive and functioning in a satisfactory manner. The attendance at all the services is increasing, and we are especially pleased to have some valuable additions to the choir.

Last Sunday morning Mr. B. F. Sink and his quartet were with us in the opening exercises of Sunday school and delighted a large audience with several numbers sung in their usual splendid way, with Mr. Sink at the piano.

Mr. Hendry brought us a fine address at the 11 o'clock hour, the subject being "The Soul's Desire for God."

The evening service was devoted to the program suggested by the American Bible Society, followed by a short address by the minister, which was most timely and helpful. Special music by the choir was a pleasing feature of the evening. The song service preceding the minister's address each Sunday evening is much enjoyed and is drawing many visitors as well as a good average of our own congregation. We are always glad to have the visitors and try to let them know it.

We were delighted to receive Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Leonard and their son and daughter into church membership Sunday. These fine people come to us from Shiloh. We are expecting some other additions soon.

On the night of the 25th of November a very interesting program was given by the Missionary society under the direction of Mrs. Harkey, thank-offering secretary of Circle No. 1. Both circles and some of the young ladies of the C. E. Society combined their efforts to make the program a success.

A meeting of the Men's Brotherhood to be held tomorrow (Tuesday) night was to have been addressed by Rev. Roy I. Farmer, pastor of First Church, High Point. It was with regret and sadness that the news was received here that Mr. Farmer was called to Urichville, Ohio, early Sunday morning on account of the death of his father.

We are sorry to note the serious illness of Mrs. J. M. Byerly. Mrs. J. W. Lindsay was unable to attend church Sunday on account of sickness. We are wishing for both these ladies a speedy recovery. REPORTER.

Thomasville.—Although the weather has been cold, our attendance has been very good. The heating devices have been placed in the Sunday school rooms, and now it will be more comfortable for the members. All the officers are working hard and trying to improve the church. The ushers had a meeting and planned the work for each so the work may be carried on better.

The Christian Endeavor Society is still going on with its work. Our social for this month was postponed because we needed all the time to practice our Christmas pageant. The name of the pageant is "The Eternal Quest." We started practicing it last Monday evening, and we are going to try to give it so it will be worth while and helpful.

We are looking forward to a great success under the leadership of Rev. T. Glenn Madison, our pastor.

Union Grove.—On last Sunday morning Rev. O. C. Loy delivered his first sermon to the people of Union Grove. It was enjoyed by all. We think the Conference has sent us a splendid pastor.

Preparations have been made for a Christmas entertainment, which will be given on Saturday night after Christmas. This is a time that should always be celebrated. God always remembers us every day of our lives. Sunday school conditions are about the same.

We kindly ask all you Christian people to remember us in your prayers. We will assure you all the same. REPORTER.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—The Sunday school attendance was right good Sunday. The class leader, Mr. C. F. Hawkins, held prayer service immediately after Sunday school. He called on Mr. E. B. Pair to conduct the next service the third Sunday morning.

Our same pastor, Rev. P. E. Bingham, is with us, we are glad to say. But he can not work by himself. We can not work without a pastor. So let's co-operate to accomplish much during the coming year.

We had a meeting on Thanksgiving night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham and a few more took part in it. An offering was taken for the Children's Home at High Point.

Don't forget preaching service Sunday morning. Christian Endeavor Sunday evening.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary met Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bingham.

Miss Erma Hawkins spent Saturday night in Littleton with Miss Louise King.

We are sorry to note Mr. Baldy Green, who was once our superintendent, is ill.

Best wishes to all.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Charge.—We feel fortunate in getting our same pastor back. We trust all on the charge will be so united that this will be the best year's work yet, that we may launch out in different things of life and be real fishers of men. We had a sermon the first Sunday of December by our pastor, Rev. E. O. Feiler, on "Doing Things That Seem Impossible." We never do much worth while until we launch out in the work and find the hard task and have our faith and trust tested. Then it is we see and feel the need of the Higher Power to carry us through.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Bergeron and daughter worship with us Sunday, and also to have them live in our community. We welcome them. Mr. Bergeron is principal of Union Hill school and Mrs. Bergeron is one of our loyal Methodist Protestants. She was Miss Jewel Floyd before marriage. We feel they will be of much help to our church and community.

Mr. E. L. Douglas has launched out in the deep work that we have long felt the need of such a foreman. He is going to work in a business way and, best of all, is getting others to work. We need to read our own church paper to see what the church as a whole is doing and we can be more intelligent Christians by reading our paper, and Mr. Douglas should be commended for his work. We need more in our church like him. It takes grace and grit to put the work over.

"Sure, I must fight if I would win;
Increase my courage, Lord;
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by Thy Word."

MARTHA PARSONS.

First Church, High Point.—Owing to the absence of the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer, the pulpit was filled very acceptably Sunday morning by Dr. Paul S. Kennett, and at the evening service by Dean P. E. Lindley.

The entire congregation joins in extending sincere sympathy to our minister in the loss of his father, Mr. O. E. Farmer, who passed away suddenly at his home in Urichville, Ohio, last Saturday evening, December 5, as the result of a stroke of paralysis. He was 70 years of age, and had been unusually well and active throughout these three score and ten years. Rev. Mr. Farmer left Sunday morning at 3 o'clock for Urichville to attend the funeral services, which will be held this (Tuesday) afternoon. May the God of all grace sustain and comfort our beloved pastor during this trial and bereavement. He will probably return home Friday.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its December meeting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. W. P. Pickett, Members of Circle No. 8, Mrs. R. H. Shaw, chairman, were hostesses. The president, Mrs. P. S. Kennett, was in the chair. Devotional services were conducted by Mrs. R. H. Davis and Mrs. C. L. Whitaker. The program was in charge of Mrs. R. T. Piekens, who read some extracts on "World Peace," the appropriate topic for the day, as the time of "peace on earth, good will to men" is fast approaching. Miss Margaret Walton read a paper on "Woman's Part in the World Peace Movement." A business session followed. It was announced that Circle No. 2, Mrs. Lucy Oakes Harper, chairman, won the first prize of $10 for selling the largest number of tickets for the recent turkey supper, and Circle No. 8, Mrs. R. H. Shaw, chairman, won second prize of $5.00. It was decided that Circle chairmen shall be responsible for Precious Jewels from babyland to the age of six years in their respective circles, and Mrs. S. W. Taylor, who has kindly consented to take charge of children from 6 to 14 years, announced that she will divide these children into two groups, Mrs. Geo. T. Penny being leader of one group. The Auxiliary voted to contribute the sum of $5.00 to Mrs. Taylor to purchase supplies for this work. Their next meeting will be held Monday, December 21st. We were pleased to have a visitor present in the person of Mrs. S. A. Holleman, mother of Mrs. C. C. Robbins. At the conclusion of business the hostesses served refreshments, sandwiches, coffee, and cake to the 40 members in attendance.

Dr. J. D. Williams, new pastor of Welch Memorial church, this city, is improving after an illness. His pulpit was occupied in a pleasing manner by Dr. A. G. Dixon at the Sunday morning worship hour, and at 7:30 in the evening by Dr. S. W. Taylor, president of the North Carolina Conference.

The Ministers' Association of the city will meet monthly under the new schedule, and will enjoy a turkey dinner at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. building on South Main street.

Of the 241 nurses who successfully passed the state board examination at Raleigh, October 27, Ora Ann Kearns and Dora Jean Kearns, twin sisters, were among the list which has just been announced. These worthy girls were reared in the Children's Home, and took their training in Guilford General Hospital, this city. They are to be highly commended for persistent effort and patient courage in this long, hard course of training and study. Thus again the Children's Home justifies the loyal support and co-operation of the N. C. Conference and the denomination at large.

The sympathy of a large number of friends is extended to Mrs. S. W. Taylor in the loss of her brother, Mr. R. L. Huffines, whose death occurred in Rocky Mount, N. C., last week. The end came suddenly as the result of a heart attack. He was a native of Rockingham county, but moved to Rocky Mount many years ago, where he reared his family and became prominent in the business and social life of his adopted town and was engaged in the textile business. Mrs. Taylor was unusually devoted to her brother, having made her home with him prior to her marriage to Rev. S. W. Taylor about 20 years ago. She and two sisters from Greensboro attended the funeral services in Rocky Mount.

We are sorry to announce the illness of Mrs. George T. Penny at her home on Greensboro road. Many friends join in earnest hopes for her early recovery.

The Senior C. E. Society is sponsoring a series of Living Pictures appropriate to the Christmas season, the Madonnas, Christ Child, etc., to be presented Thursday evening at the church, admission being 25 cents. Miss Myrtle Davis makes this announcement.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Ferree on the arrival of a baby daughter in their home. She has been named Mary Ellen for the two grandmothers.

We are sorry to note the illness of Mr. R. H. Gunn, bursar of High Point College, who has been suffering from rheumatism.

Mrs. P. T. Crawford, of St. Louis, who was once a resident of High Point, is the guest of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Trout. Next week she will be the house guest of Mrs. C. C. Robbins. Mr. and Mrs. Trout expect to move to Chicago January 1st.

Mrs. G. I. Humphreys will entertain the Tea and Topics Club Thursday afternoon at her home on West Circle Drive.

Mount Hermon Charge.—Only a short part of the Conference year has passed since we were assigned to this work, but in that time we have visited all the churches and find that we are in the midst of a fine people. The audiences that have filled the different church auditoriums to overflowing make us feel very humble and very grateful. We thank the Conference for sending us among such people as we are finding on this charge. We found the work well organized and moving on well. We are sure that Bro. Carroll is a good man to follow.

Our first quarterly conference will meet at Mount Hermon church on December 10, at 2 o'clock, p. m. All officials are urged to be present. Much important business will come up at this meeting. L. E. MABRY.

Charlotte.—On Wednesday of last week the first quarterly conference met at the parsonage. Rev. R. M. Andrews presided. Several members were absent. The reports were very good and plans were discussed for the up-building of the work and how to interest those who seldom attend. After adjournment of the conference the Workers' Council met; a very interesting talk was made by the Sunday school superintendent, Mr. J. J. Adkins, in which he strongly emphasized personal responsibility and the fact that the success of building up a successful Sunday school was, as he expressed it, a you and I proposition. It was proposed by Mr. Daughtry that plans be formulated for a contest for new members and re-enlistment of former members. Is there a school that will accept the challenge as Winston-Salem did last winter? Then we will appreciate the information. Just how to hold all members gained.

Mr. J. C. Penny's class had 20 young men present Sunday morning. This class has on a contest and it is rapidly gaining numbers. They have organized a basketball team and play their first opponents Thursday evening. The first 25 couples to seek admission are to receive free passes. Messrs. Garrison and Condor are managers of affairs.

The Christian Endeavor Society, under the leadership of Mrs. Love, is doing splendid work. It is an inspiration to attend their meetings. The young women and young men are in earnest and are giving time and thought to their programs. Miss Helen McCall was leader for the Sunday evening lesson. She gave a very interesting talk, as did Mrs. Steve Condor, Misses Mary Shaw and Gray Sykes. Mrs. Steve Condor and Miss Mildred Younginer sang "Whispering Hope," which was much enjoyed. Mr. R. S. Garmon made a very timely talk. "God's Love" was the theme of each talk. Miss Dorothea Andrews made an especially interesting talk on "Rock of Ages." The society is making plans for a White Christmas program.

Mrs. B. W. Little has had her mother and sister with her for a visit recently. Mrs. Little is a very busy church worker.

Mrs. McCall is entertaining her class this month at the home of Miss Kitchen on Thomas avenue. Here is another wide-awake class; they believe in doing things.

Circles Nos. 1 and 2 are to meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. B. W. Little.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Yandle were received into membership at the Sunday morning service.

The morning sermon by the pastor, Rev. R. M. Andrews, was especially interesting and helpful. His remarks were based on Judges 5:20: "The stars in their courses fought against Sisera." The children of Israel for 20 years were mightily oppressed by "Sisera and his host, with 900 chariots of iron," yet God is always on the side of right, though there are times when wrongs and evil seems to predominate—right will prevail. Deborah, a prophetess, sent for Barak and asked him to lead the Lord God of Israel commanded. She gloried in her ability to encourage, advise. Sisera was slain. Right triumphed. So we should take courage in these days of trials and suffering, live for God and right—for time, nature and God are against evil. Oh, that our members would awaken and seize the opportunities and hear these wonderfully helpful messages. REPORTER.

Maple Springs, Forsyth Charge. The new Conference year has brought to us a new pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter, and his family. We extend to them a cordial welcome and our sincere promises in helping them to carry on the work for the Kingdom here in our community. Our former pastor, Rev. L. W. Gerlinger, and family have gone to Henderson. We were very sorry indeed to lose them, but we wish them well in their new field of endeavor.

Rev. R. A. Hunter preached his first sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. His theme was "Prayer," using the words of Paul, "Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you." The inspiring message brought out the importance of prayer; the influence it has upon people and the comfort and assurance it gives.

The first quarterly conference will be held at this church, Monday after the second Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Come! The first meeting is just as important as the last.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its monthly meeting at the parsonage on Thursday evening. The topic, "World Peace," was discussed.

The Young People's Missionary Society will meet next Tuesday night with Misses Frances and Louise Hudgins.

The Sunday school has started a Christmas service, which they are planning to give the third Sunday night. May this Christmas be an enjoyable one to all—firstly, that we may extend our gifts and love to all our friends and, secondly, that we may realize the significance of Christmas, the love the Father had for us to send His only Son into the world to save us.

REPORTER.

Graham.—This is our first report since Conference of what apparently seems to be some of the fruits of our labors here. We were glad to return to Graham for another year and to have the opportunity to live just a little closer to these people here, many of whom we have known and learned to love in years gone by. The response of the people has been all that I could ask for, and I am sure I shall receive a similar response in this, the new year. Personally, I think the Graham church has a great future for it if the field is properly cultivated. The church is not rich in dollars as some others of like membership, but she is rich in lovely personalities, which if constantly warmed by God's spirit will make this church a power in this community for righteousness.

Our Christian Endeavor has grown from six or eight in attendance to 25. Miss Myrtle Foushee is showing splendid leadership as the president.

The Sunday school, under the superintendency of Brother John L. Amick, has increased its attendance from about 140 to 190. The automobile contest under the direction of Miss Myrtle Foushee has helped to increase the attendance.

Last Sunday, the writer had an opportunity to have a part in the worship service of the Primary and Junior Departments of the Sunday school. This department is headed up by Mrs. J. H. McPherson. Mrs. McPherson shows real ability in the conduct of these departments.

I might have said in my remarks about the Auto Contest that Mrs. S. S. Holt's class has so far out-distanced all other classes in their race for New York. Mrs. Holt is the teacher of the young men's class.

The Woman's Auxiliary, under the leadership of Miss Clara Hughes is very active in its work. Our good women here, as in many other churches show remarkable ability in being able to raise money.

Already, a Christmas program is under way. Mrs. S. S. Holt and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman have it in charge.

J. CYLDE AUMAN.

Grace Church, Greensboro.—The minister's annual report for the fiscal year which closed October 31, 1931, follows:

When I came to Greensboro on November 18, 1927, I found this congregation in possession of one of the most perfectly beautiful houses of worship to be found anywhere in the country. The charm of this faithful reproduction of New England Colonial never fails to inspire not only those who visit us for the first time but also those who come week after week. This church is truly "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." I do not have to tell you that upon my arrival here I found a congregation none too happy over a $62,000 building debt, neither "a thing of beauty" nor "a joy forever." Because of this debt your minister has had to tinker a good deal with the financial machinery of this church. He has gotten out his pencil and figured, and planned, and written letters to you about money, and entertained representatives from our creditors in his study, and talked with those in the congregation whose minds appear to be more sensitive to our difficulties than our opportunities, and visited banks, and sought endorsers for temporary loans and even endorsed some of the notes himself. But with it all it has been a happy four years. There are great resources of character in Grace church. I have found a loyalty and faithfulness, a spirit of co-operation and a willingness "to go the second mile" in this congregation unsurpassed anywhere.

And I am glad we can report progress in the financial affairs of our life together. During the past four years we have liquidated $7,332 of our standing indebtedness. All but about $300 of this amount has been paid on principal during the past three years. We have met the deficit in our current expense budget by cultivating our resources and effecting economies in our operating costs. We are operating today on a budget $4,000 less than that for 1927-1928. We have just discovered that we are over-insured and we shall be able to effect a saving here.

During this past year your minister has conducted 67 services in Grace church, preached 52 sermons from its pulpit, addressed 35 mid-week services, and spoken 91 times to groups outside the church. Among these services outside the parish, he has made 57 addresses to college students ranging from Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, to Randolph-Macon, Lynchburg, Va., and William and Mary's, Williamsburg, Virginia. He preached the sermon for the third successive year at the Summer Conference for Southern College Girls at Blue Ridge, N. C., and gave baccalaureate addresses in Reidsville, Liberty and Greensboro, and has spoken to a number of local civic and social groups, and in March addressed a combined meeting of the service clubs of Lynchburg, Virginia, bringing to a close their Civics Week program. During the year your minister has visited the campuses and spoken to the students of thirteen universities and colleges.

While engaging in this outside work your minister has sought to be faithful in the discharge of his parish duties. He has made 1,096 calls on members, officiated at two weddings and six funerals and has welcomed into the membership of this church 16 people, eight of whom united with the church for the first time.

This year the Sunday evening hour is being used exclusively for the young people. Results thus far abundantly justify the change. Attendance has ranged from 22 to 38. A lively interest is manifest.

RONALD J. TAMBLYN.

West End, Greensboro.—The date, November 13th, on which we found ourselves moving to Greensboro does not give us the alarm or fear of being unlucky for us because of the number 13. We found our home at 2107 Spring Garden street, the same street on which the church is located—just a few blocks west.

During our short acquaintance we have been very favorably impressed with the people and the church. From the beginning the people have shown themselves much interested in the welfare of the pastor and his family and very anxious about the good of the church and community. The people are at peace and every evidence is that they love each other. These are conditions that are greatly appreciated by the pastor and family. The people all speak highly of former pastors. I have not heard of a single case where the pastor has been ousted. But on the other land it seems that in every case it has been the wish of the people that pastors remain long r. It is so fine to have people to speak well of the preachers who have worked with them and helped to make them what they are. Such an attitude indicates that a people have appreciation, and it is encouraging to the incoming pastor in that he has reasons to conclude that his own efforts might meet with appreciation. I have found the work here is well organized throughout. The Sunday school is departmentalized with departmental superintendents and other officers over each department from the Cradle Roll to the Adult department. All of these superintendents are active and have regular separate programs each Sunday. Bro. L. M. Foust is a most efficient general superintendent and has well in hand the work of the whole school. He is one of the finest superintendents I have ever met. Other parts of the work as well as the Sunday school seem to be well organized. This pastor has always appreciated church organization and has attempted to organize a number of churches, but here it is a great relief to find that the work has been so well done that it means just step into the organization and go to work. Somebody has certainly been on the job, for which I am thankful. Among the comforts which have been placed in the parsonage is a fine Moore's heater which makes the entire house warm and comfortable. Then on the yard was placed a ton of coke. My, that heater and that coke make comfort to be enjoyed by the preacher and his family.

Attendance and interest have been on the increase at the mid-week services each week. On last Wednesday night the people came in until it was very evident that business had really picked up. The large room was soon filled to its capacity. Extra chairs had to be found and they were all taken. The preacher was well pleased and we certainly did have a good mid-week service. At the close of the service the people seemed inclined to linger just a bit longer. In a moment the cannonading began and the packages, too many to mention, were rolled in. It was a regular General Greene pounding. It was done in the way these people know how to make the preacher and his family happy. The pastor tried to express appreciations and thanks but he was unable to do the occasion justice. He did not have sufficient words. God bless you, good people of West End. I feel that there is a good day now and I believe there is a letter one yet to come.

I do not feel that anyone has run over himself to go to church just because a new preacher has come to town but the attendance has been gratifying. And the field here is such that it seems reasonable to believe that a large attendance can be expected not only while the pastor is new but as a permanent work. This part of the work is very encouraging. Last Sunday being the first Sunday, it was our regular communion service. It was a sweet service, at the close of which five members were received.

We are surrounded by charges served in other days. Members from Burlington, Forsyth, Haw River and Welch Memorial have visited us either at the church or at the home since we have been here. Burlington and Welch Memorial were represented in the congregation last Sunday. It is always a delight to preach to those whom we have learned to appreciate as they have been parts of other congregations served in other days. We are glad to have such at any time, but nothing will be done or said to make any one less loyal to his present pastor.

Mrs. Curry and myself were given a special invitation to attend the reception given by the good Calvary people to Bro. Bates and family on their return for the fifth year. It was indeed a fine reception. Bro. Bates in his unassuming manner is doing a great work and his people know how to appreciate him. It is indeed fine to have such good neighbors as the Bates family and their good people.

With hopes and prayers that this is to be a great year for us all.

GEO. L. CURRY.

Winston-Salem, First.—"More Than Last Year," which is our slogan for this year, successfully met its first test in that the average attendance in Sunday school for the month of November just closed was better than that of a year ago. We did not begin counting in the church services until the middle of January and so we have no way of making comparisons, but we are looking forward to reaching the time when we can make comparisons. Our Sunday school classes are all trying to beat their own records of last year, Sunday by Sunday. Each class is given its last year's record a week in advance. We hope to make "More Than Last Year" true, in having more folks in Sunday school, church services, at Woman's Auxiliary, business meetings, more prayer, more work, more devotional life, more new members, more money, more enthusiasm, etc.

Next Sunday morning Dr. G. I. Humphreys of High Point College will preach for us. We are sure our people will be glad to hear him.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Forsyth.—On Thursday morning, November 19th, this pastor and family arrived at the parsonage of the Forsyth charge and found a number of ladies here with a tempting lunch, which we enjoyed very much. Our household goods reached here the night before, so we began immediately to "set our house in order." Since that time we have been busy getting acquainted with the people, meeting our appointments and trying in every way possible to get the work of the new Conference year off to a good start.

We feel that in many respects this is one of the very best charges in the Conference. The churches are all within a few minutes' drive of the parsonage. The parsonage is located just outside the city limits of Winston-Salem, on Route No. 60, the famous "Boone Trail." Some of the leaders are men and women whom we have known for years and are among the most loyal and faithful Methodist Protestants to be found anywhere, and we are confident that those whom we are getting acquainted with for the first time are just as loyal and faithful.

We have been most cordially received at every appointment thus far and although the people have not ceased to love Brother Gerringer and family, they are making room in their hearts for us also. Brother Gerringer's work here was evidently very acceptable, for the people speak of him and family in the very highest terms. We can hope to do little more than to just continue the good work which he was doing and ask for the co-operation and support which he so justly received while here.

Our six years' pastorate in Henderson was very pleasant indeed. We were happy in the work there and the people were most loyal in their support to the pastor and church. We love them all and pray God's richest blessings upon them as they go on to greater things in kingdom service.

It is our sincere desire that the present Conference year be the best in the history of our beloved church everywhere, and we intend to do our best to help make it so.

R. A. HUNTER.

Saint Paul.—The reporter keeps the Herald readers well informed as to the activities of the church. However, we wish to say a few things about the work.

The work of the new Conference year is starting off very well and we are hopeful of a good year's work. We have a Ladies' Aid society that is very much alive. They are always planning something for the church. They had a chicken and oyster supper Saturday night.

Some of our members have been on the sick list, but all are about well now. Mrs. J. S. Johnson, who has been right sick, is recuperating nicely at present.

This preacher received the largest pounding last Monday night he has every received since he has been preaching. We were pounded with many things, including a rolling pin. We would like to mention the names of all who had part in this, but we do not have their names. But the Lord knows them all and we thank and pray His blessings upon them all.

D. I. GARNER, Pastor.

—Dr. E. R. Michaux, son of Rev. J. L. Michaux, and one of Greensboro's most beloved physicians, was buried last Friday. The funeral service was held in the First Presbyterian church.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Sharpe

Thomas E. Sharpe departed this life November 9, 1931, aged 63 years, 7 months and 18 days. He was married to Miss Mary Frances Nicholson May 3, 1886. To this union were born two daughters, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, of Burlington, and Miss Elma Sharpe of the home.

In early life Mr. Sharpe united with Friendship Methodist Protestant church and remained a faithful member during the remainder of his life. For many years he had served as a member of the board of trustees of the church, a capacity which he held at the time of his death.

Funeral services were conducted from Friendship church Tuesday, November 10, 1931, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. O. C. Loy was in charge of the funeral, assisted by Rev. D. I. Offman and Rev. T. M. Johnson, of Whitakers.

An unusually large number of sorrowing friends and relatives were gathered for the last sad rites.

The deceased was a member of the Junior Order of Burlington, which had charge of the burial.

The floral offering, which was very beautiful, was in charge of Miss Carrie Nicholson.

With the passing of Brother Sharpe, Friendship church has lost one of its most loyal and devoted members, the community one of its most valuable citizens, and the family a faithful and loving husband and father. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him, but we bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well. Since all was well with his soul, we feel confident that our loss is his eternal gain.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family in the loss of this loved one, and pray that God will comfort them in their bereavement.

MAE PATTERSON.

Cecil

Miss Lou Vina Cecil, the daughter of S.A. and Nancy Kennedy Cecil, born in Davidson County, N. C., on August 30, 1867, departed this life at her home in High Point, N. C., on Thursday night, November 19th, 1931.

She gave her heart to God early in life and united with Spring Hill Methodist Protestant church, where she remained a good, useful, and faithful member till God called her to His Eternal Home not made with hands. Miss Vina was an active worker, holding official positions in her church for more than 25 years, already ready to back every forward movement of her church, both with her influence and money. She loved her Master's cause and did much for other churches as well as her own.

She spent most of her life in Davidson County, where she devotedly and lovingly cared for her aged mother. After her mother's death in 1917, she moved to her home in High Point, where she proved to be a good neighbor and a friend to all who knew her. Miss Vina was always happy to have her pastor and friends visit her. She was thoughtful, kind, and congenial with all she came in contact with, and will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends and ministers who knew her. She suffered much in her illness, but she bore her suffering silently, always trusting that some day she would be well and able to attend her church services again. She appreciated the kindness of her friends during her illness and often spoke of their kindness and gladly did everything she could to show her appreciation.

Miss Vina is survived by one half sister, Mrs. I. I. York, two brothers, Barney Cecil and John Cecil, all of this section, and Mrs. H. C. Smith, who has lived with Miss Vina since childhood, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Miss Vina seemed happy to the end and was lovingly cared for by Mrs. H. C. Smith and Mrs. J. C. Newby, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Spencer, a nurse of Asheboro, N. C.

The funeral was conducted from the home Saturday, November 20th, by the ex-pastor, H. L. Powell, assisted by Rev. G. Reynolds, Rev. M. C. Connor, Dr. George R. Brown, Rev. D. R. Williams. Order of service: At home—song No. 158, "Shall We Meet," (choir); Scripture Lesson, Rev. G. L. Reynolds; prayer, Rev. M. C. Connor; song No. 65, "Have Thine Own Way," (choir); reading of obituary and talk, Rev. H. L. Powell; song, special, Mrs. Connor; talk, Dr. George R. Brown; song, special "Asleep in Jesus," Kennedy girls. Undertaker in charge: Casket opened, song No. 330, "Where We'll Never Grow Old." More than a thousand sorrowful friends and weeping, heart-broken relatives filed by to view for the last time the remains of this good and highly esteemed woman. Now the body is borne to the Spring Hill cemetery and committed by the writer; prayer by Rev. D. R. Williams; benediction by Dr. George R. Brown. Beautiful flowers, which were so representative of the beautiful life of Miss Vina, literally formed a beautiful mound over the body that rests among those who have gone before.

Will she be missed? Yes, a thousand times, yes, and the most greatly by her church.

May our Heavenly Father comfort the bereaved ones and may they not weep as those who have no hope. We shall meet again.

H. L. POWELL, Ex-Pastor.

Resolutions of Respect

On October 29, 1931, the Great God of the Universe saw fit to remove from us Mr. John B. York, who was a faithful member of the Liberty Methodist Protestant Church, teacher of the Men's Baraca Class—our neighbor, friend and brother.

We realize that his passing has left untold bereavement in his home, church and community. A place has been made vacant that cannot be filled. His Christian life was one that was beautiful in its simplicity and faithfulness, one of devoted service to his home and community.

A touch of deepest sentiment fills us when we recall the memory of Mr. York who only a few days ago stood before us and taught our class in this sacred Baraca hall. When I remember all the friends, so linked together,

I've seen around me fall.
Like leaves in wintry weather;
I feel like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted,

President of Textile Ministerial Association

REV. D. I. GARNER

TEXTILE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Textile Ministerial Association met at the White Oak Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, December 1. Officers for the next fiscal year were elected as follows: President, Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of Saint Paul Methodist Protestant church; vice-president, Rev. J. S. Hopkins, pastor of Eller Memorial Baptist church; secretary, Rev. R. E. Hunt, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church.

Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead,
And all but him departed!

We, the members of the Baraca Class, feel most keenly our loss, but knowing that our loss is his gain, and that our Heavenly Father doeth all things well, therefore, Resolved:

First, That we bow in humble submission to the Creator, who has claimed our friend to adorn His kingdom;

Second, That we extend to his family our prayers and sympathy in their bereavement;

Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one to the Methodist Protestant Herald for publication, and one to be entered in the minutes of our class.

W. M. HANNER,
J. A. CLAPP,
B. J. GREGSON,

Committee.

—Prof. Walter Francis Reid, S1, inventor of smokeless powder, onetime (1910) president of the Society of Chemical Industry, research chemist (linoleum, cement, silver on backs of mirrors), died of "extreme debility" in Kingston, Surrey, England. A recluse for the last two years, Professor Reid lived in a cold, decaying mansion on milk and well-water, saw no one, was found in a stupor, his hair straggling to his shoulders, his beard to his waist.—Time.

than we can tell the way you are responding to the needs of these children, and we are cutting every corner we possibly can, and will continue to do all within our power to save at this end.

At the first of December the only woman we had in the girls' dormitory was called home. Mrs. Dixon and I moved over in that building and we plan to carry on just as long as possible without employing anyone, and thus save that salary.

We have received just half our salary for the year, and have turned about $100 of that back into the funds. So, you see, we are willing to put our all into the work if you will just keep chipping in and thus help us to pay the bills which have been hanging over us so long.

We just thank you and love you and pray that God will continue to bless you.

Yours in His blessed service,

Clothing and Other Gifts

Woman's Auxiliary, Lebanon, High Point: 6 half-gallon cans fruit, 25 jars jelly, 18 quarts canned fruit, and 7 jars preserves.

Henderson: 1 gallon of peaches, 6 cans of tomatoes, 3 cans pork and beans, 1 can cherries, 3 cans salmon, 2 cans pickles, 10 glasses of jelly, 35 pairs socks, 2 lead pencils, 6 napkins and 5 cakes soap.

Welch Memorial: 1 bag of meal, 1 pair of shoes, 1 bag of potatoes, 1 bag beans, 1 box rice, 3 quarts canned fruit, 3 cans preserves, 7 cans Pet milk and 6 cans pork and beans.

Through the kindness and liberality of God's children we are permitted to make another good report this week. Mrs. Dixon and I, and also all our workers, wish we could write a personal letter to each of you and just tell you: "God bless you—we love you every one." We know it is not easy to give at this time, and we also know that you are called upon for so many things; but those very things increase our needs here. We appreciate more

“Are We Going On to Perfection?”

This is the question now facing the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina. How shall we answer?

A denomination, having more than 30,000 members in the state faces the responsibility of being a dynamic force in the life of its constituency, in the outlook of communities and in the progress of the commonwealth.

Facing such responsibility—the denomination must have an educated and trained leadership, both in the ministry and laity. It must be an education that is Christian, and this means under Christian leadership, where Christian ideals and motives receive their due emphasis under wholesome influences.

Hence the recognition, long since, of the Church as to the need of the Christian College.

This is the why of High Point College. Let us face the FACTS:

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BONDS

Redemption of Bonds at Maturity pledged by the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina—and further underwritten by the General Church.

1. Our Church has achieved an outstanding record in High Point College.
2. Our indebtedness is not great in the light of assets, but its nature is such that the pressure is tremendous—and we must relieve the pressure.
3. In seven years High Point College has attained a yearly enrollment, standing in college circles and community confidence, that have no parallel in the history of denominational colleges.
4. The City of High Point is challenging the North Carolina Conference in this plan of re-financing through the sale of bonds. We must meet the challenge.
5. For the first time in the one hundred years' history of the denomination, the General Church, without respect to area, is being appealed to through its official leadership to back a college. And bonds are being bought outside of North Carolina. We must capitalize this support.
6. There is money enough in the possession of Methodist Protestants in our Conference to absorb our quota of bonds. Let us do it.
7. Let us say, "We are going on"—to sell these bonds, thus re-financing the College, and securing it these days of "trying times."

Is it Depression or Repression that is gripping the Church? Doubtless something of both—but now it is going to be Expression! Expression of FAITH—LOYALTY—PURPOSE.

NUMBER 7

A Day Without a Parallel

The world has had no little day,
It moves along in grandest way;
Each day that comes is filled with glory,
And forms a part of matchless story.

And yet among all brighter days
There is a day of brightest rays,
A day with scenes so grand and fair
No other day can like declare.

This grandest of all grander days
Reveals a scene beyond all praise:
The action of this glorious day
No pen of man can well portray.

On this grand day there comes to earth
Through process of a human birth
A Son of Man with soul so fair
No other can with Him compare.

This faultless One to faulty men
A condemnation would have been;
To free from fear and make us brave
He said He came from sin to save.

No other hope so great could come
To those who live in sin's vile slum;
No grander day can men e'er see
Till, freed from sin, with Him they be.

High Point College Bonds and Government Saving Stamps

During the World War when our government became involved in it and was compelled to borrow vast sums of money to carry on, one of the means employed was that of selling War Savings Stamps. A prominent man remarked that this plan would bring great good to the people in that it would give them a chance to invest their money in government securities instead of spending it. It proved to be so. It was very easy to spend money in those days when money was flowing freely. A similar thing may be said of investment in High Point College bonds. It is twice a good thing to buy these bonds: a good thing for the college and a good thing for the investor in that it will save for him his money and at the same time pay an unusually good rate of interest.

—We highly appreciate the generosity of the brethren who are helping to keep the wolf from the door by contributing to the payment of a balance due for printing the HERALD. Brothers Glenn Madison and B. M. Williams with their congregations are the first to act in this matter.

Herald's Christmas Card

Christmas comes to us again,
Favored ones of sons of men,
Telling how from God above
Came the Gift of His great love.

Greater thing could God have done,
Sending us His only Son?
Baser thing could we e'er do,
Shutting out the Son from view?

Christmas Day will bring God near,
Making Christ to us more dear,
If we let the truth hold sway
Through our minds this Christmas Day.

Endorsing Checks

Some of our new HERALD subscription agents are sending us checks that have no value to us because they have not been endorsed by those to whom they were made payable. We have to send them back for this endorsement. When a check is made payable to Miss Emma Starr the bank will pay it to no one else unless she so orders in writing. If she writes her name across the back of the check she signs away her right in the check in favor of whoever holds the check. To make a check safe to send by mail it should be indorsed in favor of a specified person. When Emma Starr has a check made out payable to her order and she wishes to use it to pay for subscriptions to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, she should write across the back, near one end, Pay to order of J. F. McCulloch. Emma Starr.

Midway-Shady Grove

This charge has the distinction of being the first to reach its HERALD subscription goal. Midway church lies or rather stands a few miles southwest of Greensboro on the road to High Point. Shady Grove is a few miles east of Greensboro. The charge may be said to embrace though it does not include the city of Greensboro. How has the goal been reached so soon? The new pastor, Rev. Charlie Grant, was told that it could not be reached at all. He thought it could, and went into the homes of the people with appeal for subscriptions. He found a subscriber in every home, though some subscriptions were for only six months. We thank Brother Grant and his people for their prompt action. "It takes men of faith to bring things to pass."

—There will be no issue of the M. P. HERALD next week. We wish our readers a happy Christmas time. Expect the HERALD to appear again December 31st.

CHURCHES ORGANIZE FOR BOND SELLING

To organize for and vigorously press the High Point College Bond Campaign we are giving below the grouping of charges, and the place and date of meeting within the group, and the visiting speakers to be present for the meeting. Each pastor is requested to bring as many of his members as possible to the meeting. Certainly all workers should be present.

Some groups have already met, therefore we are not giving these below, and still others will be added to the list from time to time, as the campaign progresses.

GRATEFULLY RECEIVED

With almost every one, cash receipts are being cut short this year. So we will not complain because we are sharing this experience. But, we cannot imagine what we would do if we did not have so many good friends that are remembering us and co-operating in a very substantial manner.

Mr. George Mather, superintendent of the Methodist Protestant Sunday School at Westminster, Maryland, has gone out, with the stereopticon belonging to his Sunday School, and visiting churches, giving them a very interesting and wholesome entertainment showing beautiful pictures of "My Father's World," and receiving free will offerings for the benefit of Alvan Drew School. Recently he sent us a check for $300.00. He had sent us two checks previously, in 1928 and 1929 which totalled $263.81. What a wonderful help! We feel safe in saying the folks who contributed at these illustrated lectures, at least in most cases, received the worth of their money; the churches were not losing anything; no other fund suffered because these offerings were made and Pine Ridge was greatly benefited. Brother Mather was the only one really making a sacrifice, and he seems to have taken delight in rendering the service.

Another good friend is Mrs. Ida M. Trenary, Chicago. In her business relations, she came in contact with an elderly woman, Mrs. Ellen Scoville who had lost her only son. Mrs. Trenary suggested that Mrs. Scoville remember Alvan Drew School in her will, the money to be used for some specific purpose as a memorial to the son, Noah C. Scoville. Recently we received three more payments from Mrs. Trenary for interest and part on principal. The total of payments made through the past three years is $348.06. Again, I am sure none of our other church funds suffer because we received these gifts, and yet what valuable assistance Mrs. Trenary and her kind friend have given to Alvan Drew School. Many other good friends have stood by us through the years, sending us contributions ranging from one dollar up to five hundred dollars at a time. All of these have of course, been duly acknowledged—some of the donors have requested that their names be not revealed.

Certainly we fully appreciate the steady, continued support that has come to us through the years through official church channels—first the Woman's Home Missionary Society and later the Board of Missions, and today we want to thank again all who thus had a part with us in the work.

Do you wonder why it is we are happy? I will gladly tell you why. First, it's because it's Christmas and we are celebrating His birthday, but also because we have so many opportunities to cheer other hearts and lives at this blessed season; and so many friends like these mentioned above are making it possible for us to carry on this work—"In His Name."

Sincerely,

THOS. R. WOODFORD, Superintendent.

Over

Midway-Shady Grove charge is over on HERALD subscription allotment. Brother Chas. Grant, the pastor, was very cheery as he told us about it yesterday. This is Brother Grant's first charge. He is delighted with his work, and with the response of his people to this HERALD effort. So far as we are informed, his charge is the first this conference year to raise the subscription total. We congratulate Brother Grant and his people, and we trust that this is significant of many successes that await them in 1932.

That Christmas Offering

You will recall that the HERALD committee is asking that a Christmas offering be made for the HERALD for the purpose of paying the deficit in publication for the past two years. An offering of ten cents per member is suggested; if we can get that, it will be sufficient to pay the deficit incurred in publishing the paper during the past two years. One leading pastor prefers to make the appeal on the basis of gratitude to Dr. McCulloch for the incalculable good that he has accomplished through the HERALD during the past 35 years. That is a good basis, and whether it results in ten cents a member, or more, or less, it should certainly make its appeal. This cause is so worthy that surely all of our people will want to share in it. IN CHURCHES WHERE THERE IS NO PREACHING SERVICES ON SUNDAY WE SUGGEST THAT THE OFFERING BE TAKEN IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

And the S. O. S.

PLEASE, churches, if you have not sent this in, do it NOW. The need is so urgent, and the amount is small. Only $5 is asked from each church, and it is a credit on the A. C. B. But this small amount will give much and timely relief to the Board of Church Extension. If you can raise this next Sunday, and let it go promptly to Dr. Brown, you will greatly assist us in a time when the need is so urgent. This appeal has brought in about $100 to date.

College Bond Campaign

For the remainder of this month, and through January, my time will be given exclusively to the sale of these bonds. A series of conferences has been planned which takes us to the middle of January. Please look up the places and dates of these conferences, as they are given in another place in the HERALD this week, and PLEASE attend the one that is held in your district. Nothing else before us now is so important as the sale of these bonds. It is an undertaking, too, that needs, and must have, the help of all of us. High Point College is our College, and we will not let it suffer for lack of our support. We must sell these bonds, and during the next month and a half all of us are to go forward together in this undertaking. Let's put this slogan on every tongue: "BUY A BOND."

Roberta

We were with this charge Saturday and Sunday, December 12-13. The first quarterly conference was held on Saturday night, with nine officials, and others present, and everybody in a pleasing mood. We found the church in a good condition, with the new year starting hopefully. An indebtedness of $1,400 has given the church some concern, who we trust that it may not become a disturbing obligation. The quarterly conference ordered that it be carried through the B. & L. If this can be done, the burden will be greatly lightened, and in due time the debt will be paid. The conference gave thoughtful and earnest consideration to a financing plan for the church. A better financial system is greatly needed, and the indications are that it will be worked out and adopted at once. The total budget for this year, including salary and B. & L. is only $1,290. This is a membership budget of $4.00. We expect to see this church on the conference honor roll next fall, as this budget seems to be easily within the reach of this congregation. The salary is paid in full to date and $5 on the S. O. S. call of Brother Pritchard. And the efficient treasurer still has in hand a very good amount with which to begin the next month. Brother Trogdon is beginning his first year as pastor here. He has been cordially received, and he and his people feel encouraged with the prospects of a good year in the work. Brother Trogdon will faithfully and earnestly push the work along all lines, and we are confident that his people will not be lacking in their support. We had the pleasure Sunday morning of studying the Sunday School lesson with the Young Men's class, and preaching at the 11 o'clock hour. We enjoyed the work here, and the fellowship of Brother Trogdon and his people. Our indebtedness is hereby acknowledged to Brother D. V. Furr and family, Brother Carl Blackwelder and family, and Brother L. J. Foster and family for entertainment.

Concord

December 13.—We preached here on this date in the evening service at 7 o'clock. The rain probably kept some away, though the attendance was very good. This is Brother Morgan's first pastorate on this field, but not his first acquaintance with this church and this community. He was reared here. Pastor and people have received each other with open hearts, and the work of the new year is moving with smoothness and zeal. The preaching services are being well attended, and the Sunday School attendance on this day was 408. A movement is on now for paying off the indebtedness on the Sunday School building. All but $600 has been subscribed, and the pastor was very hopeful of getting this pledged soon. The total indebtedness is $2,800. The purpose of the congregation seems to be to pay off this indebtedness, and then carry out the original plans for a new church auditorium. We trust that they may be able to go forward with this, but we warn against incurring much indebtedness. This church has a great field, and we are confident of its continued growth. Brother Morgan is a cautious and earnest worker, and we bespeak for him the full support of his people. It was helpful to us as well as pleasing to be with this church in this service. We are grateful, also, to Brother and Sister L. H. Sides for entertainment at supper.

Brother Garner Honored

Last week's HERALD carries a good likeness of Brother Garner, and along with it, the announcement that he has just been elected President of the Textile Ministerial association. We are pleased with this recognition of his usefulness in the community where he is serving, and we most heartily wish for him every possible success as President of this Association.

Grace Auditorium

Any one having visited this beautiful auditorium will at once recognize its likeness in the picture appearing in the HERALD of last week. For simple beauty, Grace church ranks high in church architecture. The report of Brother Tamblin, dealing with his four years of connection with this church, reveals much thoughtful and persistent effort on the part of the pastor, and a very fine response to his leadership on the part of the congregation. With the heavy work of his parish, and with his many outside appointments, the pastor has certainly not had much leisure time to while away. The results of his labors are gratifying, and we trust that this year may be for him and for his people one full in spiritual and material blessings.

Clippings From Last's Week's Herald

"It is our sincere desire that the present conference year be the best in the history of our beloved church everywhere, and we intend to do our best to help make it so."—R. A. Hunter.

"Our Christian Endeavor has grown from six or eight in attendance to 25. The Sunday School has increased in attendance from 140 to 190."—J. Clyde Auman.

"I have found a loyalty and a faithfulness, a spirit of co-operation and a willingness to go the second mile in this congregation unsurpassed anywhere."—R. J. Tamblin.

"The attendance at all the services is increasing, and we are especially pleased to have some valuable additions to the choir."—State Street Reporter.

"Attendance and interest have been on the increase at the mid-week services each week."—G. L. Curry.

"The Christia Endeavor society is doing splendid work. It is an inspiration to attend their meetings."—Charlotte Reporter.

These clippings are pleasing. They indicate optimism, earnestness, and progress. And they make good copy, too, for the HERALD. Tell us often, brethren, of the good things in your work.

"Christmas Greetings"

It can hardly seem a year since these familiar words were on our lips. And yet it is even so. But, however, rapidly the years roll by, and bring to us this festive season, we never tire of it, nor do these oft repeated words grow trite. The old, old "Christmas Greetings" is always new when Christmas comes again. So we are saying it to our host of Methodist Protestants throughout the conference. In all the spirit, hope, and purpose of this happy season, we say to you again,

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN

"The Methodist Protestant Herald in Every Methodist Protestant Home"

3,000 SUBSCRIBERS—"IT CAN BE DONE"

About 100 of our HERALD Subscription Chairmen are not subscribers and I am unable to reach them through these columns. Pastors, please urge that every Chairman subscribe IMMEDIATELY, so they can keep in touch with the campaign. Also, Pastors, please have a conference with the Chairmen on your charge and help plan for an intensive campaign to be put on in every church, until every non-subscriber has been solicited. Every church has enough non-subscribers, who ought to take our church paper, to raise its quota, with out waiting for renewals to come due. Let's raise our quota from new subscribers so far as possible. About renewals: Chairmen should watch that no subscription expires and is cut off before securing the renewal. Renewals count the same as new against your quota, therefore try to keep all subscribers paid ahead. It will be two weeks before the next issue of the HERALD, and this will give you time for a lot of work for subscriptions, but send in the subscriptions each week, just the same.

Flowers to the living. First Church Thomasville has the honor of being the first to send in a free-will offering for the HERALD deficit, with Brother B. M. Williams and Orange Charge next. In this connection it is interesting to note that these two, First Church, Thomasville, and Orange Charge, raised and exceeded their subscription quotas last year, and we know they will do it again this year. While we are speaking of flowers, did you notice the longer list of subscriptions remitted, as reported in the last issue? With Brothers Morgan and Grant at the top, followed by Mrs. Stafford, all with goodly amounts. This shows good work being done. These folks are out to raise their quotas now. I also note in the list, names of those who are remitting every week; they mean business, too. Congratulations and thanks to all these.

If every church will put on its intensive campaign now, every church will raise its quota. "IT CAN BE DONE." Start now with the thought, "THE METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD IN EVERY METHODIST PROTESTANT HOME." Begin. Send in some subscriptions every week. Ask Brother McCulloch to send you more remittance blanks. Soon you will see for yourself. "It can be done."

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman Directing Committee.

Don't forget the special Christmas offering at each church to apply on reduction of the $2,400 deficit the Herald carries over from last year

"Christmas Greetings." We trust that the season may be full of happiness and peace for all of our people, and that our Christmas joys may be sweetened as we, too, "hear the angels sing."

Appointments

Dec. 18.—Henderson, in bond-sale group meeting.

Dec. 19.—Littleton, in quarterly conference.

December 20.—Littleton charge in three appointments.

December 21.—Bethesda, Halifax charge, in bond-sale meeting.

December 25.—Christmas, at home.

OUR STORY PAGE

LIGHT FOR CHINA

A MISSIONARY STORY

We read in God's Word how the entrance of the Word giveth light, and personal experience proves the truth of this saying. It is most encouraging to learn that the American Bible Society circulated no less than 4,674,123 volumes of Scripture in the Chinese Republic. While the British and Scotch Bible society increased this number to 11,500,000 volumes.

A girl who is somewhat lame, stands at the church door on a busy street and sells regularly 600 copies a week. So eager are those people to have the Gospel distributed, one man has determined to sell 10,000 volumes this year.

Most interesting, as well as heart-touching stories are told about the good that is being accomplished through the distribution of the Word, which is indeed, "A light that shineth in a dark place." One man of seventy-eight years of age, bought a Bible, and soon became converted through the reading of it. He is now an earnest Christian.

Another old man, who realizes the good that the Bible can accomplish, has bought 1,200 volumes. The enthusiasm of those who are trying to distribute the "Good News" is illustrated by one man who has set himself the goal of selling 10,000 volumes this year. One young man received a copy of the New Testament and read it through in two nights and a half, and became an earnest Christian inquirer.

The thrilling stories of men won from opium smoking, scholars won from infidelity, men and women freed from bandits because they were found reading the Bible, should stir up the hearts of many to give of their means to the societies who are doing the wonderful work of spreading the Gospel. Just as surely as we drive darkness out of our homes by letting in the light, so may we drive the darkness out of our heathen lands by sending in the Light of the Word.—Publisher Unknown.

THANKSGIVING A GOOD THING

We read in the Psalms that "it is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord" (Ps. 92:1). It is a good thing for those who hear and see it given.

When we give thanks to the Lord we not only receive a blessing for ourselves, but we are a blessing to those about us. But the best of all is that we bring glory to the Name of the Lord when we give thanks to His Name. That should be our greatest purpose. To receive a blessing for ourselves is very great and wonderful, but if this is our only purpose in thanking the Lord, we may be selfish. The highest and best way is to think of the honor we may bring to the One who gave His very life for us.

Let us not think that the only way we can thank the Lord is by thanking Him with our lips. This is one way, and it is a good way, but it is not the only way. We may be safe to say that the best way to thank the Lord is by living a life of thankfulness unto Him. The life counts more than the words.

Well, how can we thank the Lord by our lives? We thank Him by our lives when we live for Him and obey Him in a glad and happy way. When we see a person that is happy, we know that person is a thankful person. So when we show happiness in our daily lives we are showing thankfulness unto the Lord, and we are also showing to others that we are thankful to the Lord.

Dear boys and girls, a life of thankfulness unto the Lord is a happy life to live. There are some things that we might not naturally like to have come into our lives; but if we remember that the Lord dearly loves us, and that He never sends anything into our lives but that which is for our good, we find it easy to thank Him for all things. If we feel that we have not a thankful heart, let us ask Him to give us such a heart. The Lord can do for us that which we cannot do for ourselves.—Selected.

CROSS-BEARING

When the Romans crucified a criminal, not only did they hang him on a cross, but as a last terrible indignity, they made him carry the cross upon his back. Probably Jesus, when a lad, had been a witness of that dreadful spectacle. How it would sink into His boyish mind the dullest imagination can conjecture. And that was why, when He became a man, He used the imagery of cross-bearing to describe all that is bitterest in life. The cross is anything difficult to bear; anything hard, galling, uncongenial; anything that orbs the step of lightness and blots out the sunshine from the sky. And one of the primary secrets of discipleship is given in our text: "If any man will come after Me, let him take up his cross daily."—George H. Morrison.

METHODIST PROTESTANT YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Sunday, January 31, 1932

Our Young People's Day comes this year on the fifth Sunday in January. At the present time suitable materials are being prepared which will make it possible for every church in the denomination to observe this day.

In compliance with the recommendation of the Board of Christian Education we are asking that the whole day be dedicated to the interests of our Youth. In order that we may have services adaptable to every church we have prepared three types of materials, samples of which will be forwarded to pastors, Sunday School Superintendents, and Christian Endeavor Leaders about January 1. You can then make the selection of the type of service you wish.

Be sure to place this day on your church calendar. If you are not sure that your name and address is on our mailing list please forward same to our office so that there will be no delay in receiving our samples. Any further information which you may desire regarding this day will be furnished you upon request from the Department of Religious Education, Seminary Building, Westminster, Md.

F. L. GIBBS,

Director of Young People's Work.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Kannapolis donation: 1 coat, omitted in report.

Haw River donation: The report should have said 40 pounds of cake instead of 4 pounds. Glad to correct.

Mrs. G. L. Reynolds, 1 coat.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Webster, Grays Chapel, 1 quilt.

Box 12, Ansley, La., 1 quilt.

Mrs. T. D. Sharpe, Greensboro: 6 dresses, 1 coat and 1 skirt.

Someone kindly sent 2 skirts in a hot-water bottle box, no name.

Mrs. Nettie Vickery, Princeton, Ill.: a box containing clothing, towels, dress patterns, picture books and beads for Christmas.

Mrs. Robert McKelvin, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh, for Sunshine Circle: A box of handkerchiefs and other gifts for Christmas.

Ladies' Industrial Club, Eastport, N. Y.: A box of clothing containing 23 dresses, 5 waists, 3 coats, 2 sweaters and several new pieces of goods and some Christmas presents.

Miss Elizabeth Harris, Washington, D. C.: 2 dresses, 1 coat, 5 pairs pajamas, 1 blouse and a piece of cotton flannel.

Mrs. Halley Wright, Forest, Ohio, 1 quilt.

This is our last report before Christmas, and through the kindness and liberality of the people we are able to make another good report. It cheers our hearts and helps with the work to be so well remembered.

How is the Thanksgiving offering? That question comes to us almost every day, and we can only answer in part; for perhaps the returns are not all in yet. We are always hopeful, and have faith to believe that even in times like this God will take care of His own. And surely this is the Lord's work. We try to be His servants, and the children committed to our hands are His children. He has promised and He will supply.

We can only compare ourselves with last year, and that is not very reassuring. From the time Conference adjourned on November 9th until today, December 14th, 1931, we have received from all sources $2,221.92. During the same period last year we received $3,597.65, or $1,365.73 more than this year. We have paid out all that has come in on our bills to satisfy in so far as possible those who have trusted us.

Christmas

We were not able to do for our children this Christmas as we have done for the last three, but the boys and girls understand and appreciate. The Salvation Army of High Point is giving us a Christmas tree and out of the boxes coming in we will fix up a package for each child, and then from two or three sources we have the promise of individual gifts for each child. So drop in on us if you can at 9 o'clock Christmas morning and you will find, we trust, a happy group of children.

Our Request

We are asking every Methodist Protestant home where prayer is offered on Christmas day to offer a special petition for the bless-

PLEASE SEND IN PENCIL MONEY

The manufacturers are writing me some pretty strong letters about the money due them for the High Point College pencils I have written them that I cannot pay them until the money is received from those who have the sale of pencils in charge, and that the bill will be paid as soon as I can get the money. If you have any in hand, please send it to me at once. There is due on the first lot of 2,000, $10.47; on the second lot of 3,000, $43.75; on the last lot of 1,000, $12.50. The amount that is due from your Auxiliary may be small, but it will help that much. Mrs. J. H. Cutchin has several pencils for distribution. I have on hand about 500. If you can dispose of any, please let her or me know, and we shall be glad to supply you. Every Auxiliary in the Branch should handle a few of these pencils. The advertisement they will give to High Point College will be worth more than the money you get for them, and it will help you to help High Point College. Let's keep the College before our people. They will think of it every time they write if you will sell them a pencil. Send the money for pencils to me.

Chairman of Districts.

Charlotte ..... $ 8.48

If our people knew in what desperate financial straits the Board of Church Extension is, I am sure they would see that their charges send in the $5.00 asked for. The amount is so small that any charge can pay it. Why not do it now?

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant Charge.—Our pastor, Dr. Johnson, used the Christmas story from the second chapter of Matthew as the basis for his sermon Sunday, December 13th. First, he pointed out three nations that contributed to the religion of Christ before His birth. First, the Greeks gave the language of almost every book of the New Testament; second, the Romans took the Greek territory and built great roads; third, the Hebrews gave laws on which many laws of our nation are based. Then came the Savior, a Jew, who was to develop a higher type of civilization. He stated that Christ came into a world of religious differences and wrong-doings. He was rejected by even his own people. When Jesus left the world it was in very much the same condition as when He came. But has He really left this world? No! He had a work that would take centuries to be finished and He is still carrying on that work.

Dr. Johnson closed by showing a few things that Christ did for the world. He brought God out of heaven to walk with men. He taught that God was one of mercy. He brought to us a religion that we can live in this life and get full benefit of it in this world, while the climax will come in the next—a religion for this life. Dr. Johnson said the best Life of Christ to him was found in these words: "He went about doing good."

Dr. Johnson urged that we begin thinking of the Christmas season early so that we might appreciate its meaning more fully when the birthday of the Savior came.

The installation service for the new officers of the church was held Sunday morning.

It was announced that D. Grant Coble would have charge of selling college bonds in our church. Mr. Coble made a short talk in regard to the bonds.

It was also announced that L. W. Causey would have charge of the Herald campaign. Roscoe C. Chandley, from Mt. Pleasant church, was with us and gave a short talk on the college bonds. He pointed out that the buying of the college bonds had a two-fold plan. In buying them we first make a good investment for ourselves and, second, we help a good cause.

Among the other visitors that worshiped with us were Mrs. Roscoe Causey, Elaine and Eloise. Also Miss Anice Underwood and Miss Rebecca W. Causey.

DORTHA E. CAUSEY.

Charlotte.—Our Circles 1 and 2 met at the home of Mrs. B. W. Little on Tuesday afternoon of last week. Twelve members were present. Every member present took part in the meeting. Therein is the secret of their success. A substantial and gratifying report was given by the treasurer of amounts realized from the various schemes worked—peanuts, traveling basket, aprons and free-will offering. Mesdames Stegall and Garmon have busy notions, so we are kept busy. Delicious refreshments were served after adjournment and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Wednesday evening we enjoyed our usual good prayer service at the parsonage. It is encouraging and inspiring to have a large crowd present. We are hoping for even more present this week. After the service was over and things had settled, the choir was practicing when the crowd returned and pounded the pastor and his family. If looks are any indication of surprise, then they were surprised.

The M. P. basketball team won the game from the Riflemen last Thursday evening and are scheduled to play the Christian church team. We are proud of our boys. They are good Sunday school workers, too.

A very friendly rivalry is on between the young men's class, Mr. J. C. Penny, teacher, and Mrs. J. C. Penny's class of girls. Just watch them grow!

The Senior Christian Endeavor had a full house Sunday evening. Interest is increasing. Next Sunday evening they will put on a program in the church auditorium. Dr. Andrews will make an address and the regular preaching service will not be held.

Our Sunday school is steadily growing. Several new members joined last Sunday.

The subject of the morning sermon was "Thomas, the Absentee," taken from St. John 20:24: "But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came." Dr. Andrews told of many causes why people are absent from church service, most of the causes being trivial and insignificant—carelessness, indifference, lack of interest, etc. Thomas, however, was absent from an entirely different cause. He was sad over the death of his Master. The result, however, of absence from divine service is usually hurtful, both to the individual and the cause. It was so even in the case of Thomas, though he appears to have had a good excuse from the apostles' meeting. His absence from the meeting was the cause of his doubt or lack of faith; his doubt was so great that nothing less than the personal presence of the Savior could convince him. Does this not convey to us modern Christians a lesson of great significance? Do we not, as Thomas did, suffer from doubt? When we forsake the assembling of ourselves in the Lord's house in spirit and in truth, as He would have us do, do we not tend to grow cold and indifferent to the needs of the work as well as miss the joy of Christian love and fellowship one with another? Let us pause and think on these things.

The subject of the evening was from Col. 2:6, "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in Him."

The walk of a person is considered a true index into one's character. A person's walk, therefore, is considered a good metaphor of his manner of living. Some people are trying to live a Christian life without the Savior, leaving Him, as it were, on the outer door-step. We should take Him into our hearts and homes. He will not come in unless we invite Him. May we all, then, live circumspically, so near to God that it may be said of us that we, too, walked with Him.

REPORTER.

Antioch, Mecklenburg Charge.—As the Annual Conference saw fit to send us a new pastor, we gladly welcome into our midst Rev. J. L. Love and family. He has preached for us twice, each time giving us a wonderful message. Our service on last Sunday at 11 o'clock was a very inspiring one. Souls were made to rejoice and those present could go home saying, "It was good to be there."

I think I voice the sentiment of our people when I say we are very fortunate in having this good man sent to us.

And we wish our former pastor, Rev. Q. L. Joyner, much success in his new field of work.

Our first quarterly meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon, December 19th, at 2 o'clock at New Hope church. The pastor urges very much that all officers of the church be present in order to get properly lined up for the new year.

We are planning to have services at our church on Christmas night. Hope to have good attendance.

MRS. MAE MATTHEWS, Reporter.

Burlington, First Church.—We are at the beginning of another new year and our ships are entering upon their voyages for 1932. We're going to try not to lack in anything. Our attendance is still good, but according to the number on roll it could be much better. We were glad to have with us at the Sunday morning service the High Point College Glee Club, who rendered a splendid concert. There were 413 people present to hear this concert. The boys and girls who participated, 32 in number, were entertained for dinner in the various homes of the church people. Everybody enjoyed them immensely. At the first quarterly conference Wednesday night the pastor gave a splendid report. In it he expressed appreciation of being with us another year and that he and his wife were always willing and at our service to help. He also named several goals toward which he wanted the church to work during 1932, and how to reach these goals. The treasurer, Mr. J. C. Jones gave a complete report of the finances for 1931, the past Conference year. The parsonage board of trustees was selected at this meeting; also Tula Paul was elected as secretary of the church, successor to Mr. T. T. Stafford. After the reports the members knew just where the church stood in all its matters; therefore, our plans and aims for this year are great.

On Tuesday night, December 8th, the annual Baraca-Philathea banquet was held. There were approximately 200 people present. It was one of the best times of the year. Everybody came open-minded, hearts filled with laughter and "empty stomachs." Dr. F. W. Paschall acted as toastmaster and he acted unusually well, the writer thinks. He composed a little poem for everyone who was on the program. He gave the welcome address and when finished everyone was assured of the fact that they were WELCOME. Miss Mittie Jeffries, president of the Philathea class, responded to the welcome wonderfully. Mr. W. T. Way was present with his orchestra. They rendered beautiful music and it was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Way has composed several sheets of music, some of which he presented to the young people at this time. We are very proud of him and our banquet would have been incomplete without the orchestra. Mrs. J. G. Tingen was present and she gave several humorous selections. It was the spice of the program. She kept everyone laughing, the writer especially, because there is nothing I enjoy any better than laughing, except eating. Mrs. Tingen is very responsive. She's a Baptist, but she always helps us out when we call on her and we enjoy having her and appreciate all she does for us. There were several prizes presented at the banquet. The oldest Baraca and the oldest Philathea present received a prize. By the oldest, I mean the person having belonged the longest. There were several eligible for the prizes, but straws were drawn. Mrs. C. C. Durham won the ladies' prize and Mr. M. A. Coble the men's. Mr. Coble thought since he hadn't been a member of the Baraca class all the years, but having belonged to the Men's Bible Class part of the time, that he would present his prize to the oldest man present, Mr. Allen. A prize was awarded Mrs. J. T. Tingen for her kindnesses and Mrs. Ollie Moser for her long years of work and faithfulness. The Baraca and Philathea classes surprised Dr. and Mrs. Paschall by giving to them, as a token of their love and appreciation, a bridge lamp. Mrs. Paschall responded and Dr. Paschall said his wife did all the talking at home and he would just say "Ditto."

I must not forget to tell you how good the menu was. We couldn't do without the ladies. They are the life-savers. Everybody enjoyed the food and "Here's to the Cooks!"

Mrs. Paschall's Sunday school class of girls served the food. Thanks to them, too. This banquet was one of the best yet, and everybody declared they had a wonderful time, and I believe they really did.

The Business Girls' Circle met with Tula Paul Monday evening, December 7th, with 20 present. A good meeting of dues and special money collected. The circle planned to fill a basket for someone in need at Christmas time. We were glad to welcome into our Circle another new member, Mrs. H. W. Wade. Our circle is feeding one child and helping the Woman's Auxiliary feed an additional one. Miss Evie Thompson and Tula Paul were joint hostesses at this meeting.

Since our last report to the paper we have had three people to re-unite with our church, coming by letter from the Fountain Place M. P. church here in Burlington. They are Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wade and Miss Swannie Coble. They were former members of this church and we are glad to have them back with us, sincerely hoping that they feel a part of us because we feel that they are a part of us.

All organizations are running along nicely and there seems to be a great treat in store for us this year. May it be happy and prosperous. There is only way to attain that result and that is by following Jesus, living the Christian life, co-operating with our fellow workers. Come on, church people, let's stand up for the best!

REPORTER.

Spring Church, Spring Church Charge.—Yesterday was a good day for us. A goodly number were present. It was communion service, and that to me is always a sweet service, but on yesterday the service seemed more impressive than ever. The largest number of young people and children took the sacrament that this writer has ever seen. It is good to see the young people taking such a bold stand for Christ.

At the evening hour we attended prayer service at our church here. This was well attended and much interest was manifested. Young Mr. Hart had charge of the service. It is inspiring to see young men taking a leading part in the prayer service.

A number of our members are on the sick list. Mrs. Crew and Mr. Magee of our church at Pleasant Hill remain about the same. We will be glad when they both are again able to attend church. We are sorry to report the illness of our Lebanon reporter, Miss Virginia Grant, who is confined to her room with scarlet fever.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE.

Spring Church, Spring Church Charge.—Brother Neese brought us a most helpful message Sunday, taken from Philippians 2:9-11. His theme was "Jesus Christ." We have been very favorably impressed with all the sermons we have heard him preach. We feel indeed fortunate in having Brother Neese and his family among us.

Our Auxiliary met at the parsonage last Wednesday afternoon. Due to the fact it was so rainy, we had only five members present. We enjoyed being in Mrs. Neese's home, and were very glad to have her join us. We feel that she is going to be lots of help to us. We haven't been organized very long, and greatly feel the need of her guidance.

There will be a Christmas program and a tree at this place on Monday, December 28, at 7 o'clock, p. m. I believe the audience will find our program interesting, as we have a nice crowd of children to work with. Hope lots of the readers of the Herald will be present.

REPORTER.

Hope, Chatham Charge.—Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We do not have a large enrollment, but have a pretty fair average attendance and the interest is good.

Our Woman's Auxiliary is still functioning nicely. We have not put on any money-making projects lately, but have been doing some local work. One of our members, Mrs. M. H. Brewer, had the misfortune to lose her home by fire, and the Auxiliary made a contribution of many useful articles. Also Circle No. 1, of which she is a member, gave a kitchen shower. Then within the last two weeks we, with the help of our men folks, have planted shrubbery around the church which we feel sure is going to greatly improve the appearance of the church.

Our new pastor, Rev. F. R. Love, has filled two appointments for us. Our people seem to be well pleased with him and we are hoping for a good year's work together. He, his wife, and young son are living in Bonlee. We are glad to have them make their home among us.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

KARA ANDREW, Reporter.

Henderson.—The regular meeting of the Auxiliary was held at the church on Monday afternoon, November 23. A large number of ladies were present and Mrs. L. R. Gooch, vice-president, presided. The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Clyde Finch, with a Thanksgiving subject for thought. During the business period reports from the circle chairmen were given and other various committees. It was voted to set a time for quilting two quilts, previously made by the circles, and send them to the Children's Home. A note of thanks from Mrs. Hunter was read by the secretary for gifts given her at the farewell banquet. Mrs. Gerringer, wife of our new pastor, was welcomed into our midst and made a short talk on the Annual Conference. Mrs. F. R. Harris, treasurer of the Auxiliary, also gave a brief report on the Conference. Mrs. Hawkins in a most interesting manner reviewed the third chapter of our study book. Following this the meeting closed with prayer.

On the evening of November 24th a number of the local congregation met at the home of Mrs. C. F. Tankersley, Sr., and proceeded to the parsonage with provisions for our new minister and family. We were received most graciously and after depositing our gifts we enjoyed a short visit, followed by prayer and an expression of thanks for our kindness by Mr. Gerringer.

At the 11 o'clock services Sunday morning, November 29th, Rev. L. W. Gerringer preached a Thanksgiving sermon. At the close of the services a collection was taken for our Children's Home, which amounted to $67.50.

The Philathea class held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday night, December 3, at the church with Miss Lucy Taylor, Mrs. D. R. Starkey and Mrs. S. V. Ellington, associate hostesses. Mrs. J. B. Burchett, president, was in the chair. Miss Elizabeth Fox conducted the devotionals, using the Christmas story from Luke. During the business period the reports of the standing committees and special committees were given.

A nominating committee was appointed to select the officers for the position of president, assistant secretary and assistant teacher. Mrs. H. A. Jordan, program leader, presented Mr. H. J. Whittemore, teacher of the M. E. Philathea class, who made a splendid talk on "The Duties of the Philathea Class to the Sunday School." Following this the hostesses served a tempting salad course.

On Sunday morning, November 29th, the entire Philathea class of the Methodist Protestant church was the guest of the M. E. Philatheas of this city. A large number from both classes was present and Mr. Whittemore excelled himself in the teaching of the lesson on "Paul's Letter to Philemon." We greatly enjoyed the lesson and the fellowship experienced in this coming together.

December 6th at the morning hour of worship, the Holy Communion services were observed. Rev. L. W. Gerringer preached a very fitting sermon and a large and attentive congregation was present.

The first quarterly conference was held at the church on Wednesday night, December 9. There was a goodly number present and a splendid spirit of loyalty and co-operation was manifested. Following are some extracts from the pastor's report to the conference:

"As far as I have been able to observe, the work of the church is as well organized and running as smoothly as the average church, if not better. Therefore, I do not see the need of making such recommendations to this conference as would necessitate any radical changes. My suggestion in general would be that you keep up the good work, and, if possible, do more of it. I do want, however, to make a few definite suggestions or recommendations:

"1. I recommend that a committee, to be known as 'The Social Welfare Committee,' be created by this conference. This committee to co-operate with the county and city welfare officers and agencies, with special attention being given to the needy ones of our own congregation.

"2. That our treasurer be instructed to send at once, ten dollars, in response to Brother Fritchard's S. O. S. call for the Board of Church Extension.

"3. That we earnestly endeavor to send something monthly on the budgets, especially the A. C. B.

"4. That our people be encouraged to make their contributions to the church by the week, or, at least, monthly.

"5. That we give our hearty endorsement and sympathetic support to the campaign to sell the High Point College Bonds. And, further, that we invite President Humphreys to visit our church and speak at an 11 o'clock service at an early date.

"6. That as far as practicable all special days authorized by the General Conference be observed.

"7. That we give our support to Miss Gertha Trogden, representative of the Herald, in her efforts to reach the subscription goal set for our church by the Herald Campaign Committee, appointed by the Annual Conference. A good start would be for each family represented among the official members to renew or become a subscriber at an early date.

"8. And, most important of all, that much emphasis be given to evangelism in our church. That we begin now to think about, talk about, pray about and work about our obligation, first of all, to our own members who have lost interest, and then to the un-churched of our city, and especially those who because of location, family connection, or for other reasons, are logically our responsibility. "Most naturally, I want to be of the largest, best possible service to our church and through the church, to the Kingdom of Christ. Call me when you need me or when you think someone else needs the kind of ministry I can give.

"Yours in the fellowship of Christian service,
"L. W. Gerringer, Pastor."

Henderson ministers and their wives were entertained at a supper Thursday night, December 3, in the dining room of the First Methodist church by Rev. D. E. Earnhardt, the pastor, and Mrs. Earnhardt, the occasion being in honor of Rev. L. W. Gerringer, new pastor of the Methodist Protestant church, and Rev. R. A. Whitten, new pastor of the First Christian Church, who have recently come to the city. Rev. Mr. Earnhardt is president of the Henderson Ministerial Association, and it was in that capacity that he was playing the role of host.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Ellis, of the First Baptist church; Rev. C. W. Cumming, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Gerringer; Rev. R. A. Whitten, and Rev. J. U. Teague and wife, Mr. Teague being pastor of a group of Baptist churches in this section.

Rev. Mr. Earnhardt spoke a word of welcome to the new pastors, who in turn spoke their appreciation for the hospitality shown them in the city. REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—We had a fine service this morning. Bro. Smith spoke to the children a few minutes on "How to Catch Monkeys," a very strange subject, but one which was enjoyed by all, adults as well as children. He spoke to the congregation about the prodigal son. We were glad to have with us today

Bro. Smith's daughter. They sang a duet which was enjoyed by all.

Our Sunday school is still growing and we hope this year will be better than last year.

Our Christian Endeavor is still growing in number and interest, all in a marvelous spirit, with Miss Elva Wilson as president. We have in mind a junior choir. We have already a duet. We are hoping to have a real junior choir before long. All young people are invited to meet with us.

Mrs. C. L. Hampton was elected president of the Ladies' Aid society at the meeting of the organization at the home of Mrs. W. T. Kizer on Monday evening. Other new officers who will serve during 1931-32: Mrs. H. W. Sides, vice-president; Mrs. W. T. Kizer, secretary; Mrs. M. M. Marlow, treasurer. Following the business session of the meeting, which was featured by the election of new officers, Mrs. Kizer served home-made cake, candy and ice cream. Seventeen members and one visitor were present. A number of members were unable to attend because of illness.

Our Christmas program will be a play entitled "A Little Child Shall Lead Them." We hope this will be very spiritual that others may be encouraged and glorify our Father in heaven, the Giver of all good and perfect gifts. Our Christmas program will be given December 24 at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Pine Grove C. E. Society News.—The Pine Grove C. E. Society met at the home of Messrs. Robert and Charlie Ingram Wednesday evening, December 2, to hold their regular monthly social.

A short business meeting was conducted. Afterwards an interesting social hour was enjoyed by a number of young people. Many indoor games were played and music was an attraction of the evening. Delicious fruit was served for refreshments.

The C. E. Society is glad to welcome their new pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome. We feel that he will be a great help to all the young people as well as an inspiration to all.

REPORTER.

Fountain Place.—Since this is the first report from Fountain Place in the new Conference year I want to say that we are very, very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Betha with us for another year. We are sorry that they had to move to another place, but I suppose that it's only fair for them to live part of the time at each church.

On Wednesday night, November 25, a Senior Christian Endeavor Society was organized at our church. The following officers were elected: Mr. J. W. Wright, president; Aubrey Amick, vice-president; Ruth Jones, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. L. H. Gibbs, chairman of Lookout Committee; Hilda Amick, chairman Prayer Meeting Committee, and Pauline Pickard, chairman Social Committee. The first two meetings of this society have been enthusiastic and well attended. The Junior Christian Endavorers meet at the same hour on Wednesday evening. The attendance of this group has greatly increased since the change in time.

Sunday, November 9, the regular fifth Sunday song service was held and was well attended. The Mount Pleasant choir, the Junior quartet from the First Church, and the Central Male quartet were present and added much to the service with their songs.

Last Sunday night the Junior Christian Endeavor gave a short pageant, "Blessings," just before Mr. Betha began his sermon. The girls did their parts well and a splendid lesson was taught in the few minutes given to this part of the service. The loose change in the collection went to the missionary treasury of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society.

Last Saturday night the Annie Forest Bible class served an oyster supper at the church. A good sum was added to the class treasury as a result of this supper, and the food remaining after the selling was over was given to the Salvation Army to feed the needy. The girls entered into the work with a good spirit and everyone is pleased with the result of the supper.

MRS. A. V. AMICK, Reporter.

Flat Rock Circuit, Gideon Grove Circuit.—Annual Conference being over and assignments made, we started off with our first appointment last Sunday with our new pastor preaching an excellent sermon on Faith. While we were very loth to give up Bro. Pegg and sorry to see him go from us, for we had learned to love him so much, for he was among us and in our homes so often, though about seven years ago we were made sad to give up our present new pastor; he is not a stranger, for he has served this charge with good results for several years before, and now we welcome him back among us.

Our work is starting off very fine. We had one of the most business-like quarterly meetings last Saturday I think I ever attended. Mr. Taylor, the president, was with us.

Our Sunday school is in good shape and our Ladies' Auxiliary is doing a most excellent work; they have put in a nice Heatrola after having put nearly $100 on our new seats. We had have a hard pull, but by the help of God our church is out of debt at last and we are looking forward to a good year's work. We ask all to pray for us that we may follow wherever He leads. REPORTER.

Enfield, Whitakers.—The same truck that moved Dr. Johnson from Whitakers to Burlington conveyed us from Greensboro to Enfield. We are grateful to Brother J. M. Catehin for his kindness in moving us free of charge. This courtesy came as a surprise.

Since our arrival, November 19th, we have been busy getting settled in a parsonage again, and taking care of the duties incumbent on a pastor. All churches have been visited and fair congregations have greeted us. The conference year seems to be starting off in a regular as well as encouraging way. First quarterly conferences have been held, and the major things have been emphasized. Certain standards for the year's work have been set as an incentive to our best efforts.

All churches have made Thanksgiving offerings to our Children's Home. Two of the churches held suitable Thanksgiving services, the one at Enfield being in the nature of a union meeting conducted in the Baptist church. Likewise, on my second visit offerings for the Annual Conference Special have been taken at two churches, which is being forwarded to the treasurer of the conference. High Point College bonds and the Methodist Protestant Herald subscriptions are being pushed by the respective committees and agents. We feel certain both of these matters will be consummated soon.

The people of our churches have kindly received us. They are doing their part in arranging for our comfort while among them. The next evening following our arrival, the friends of our Enfield church left a fine pounding on the front porch of the parsonage. Since that time various articles have been coming from others, in fact, practically every day we have received something in the way of food. These people certainly want their pastor and companions to be well-fed. We are thankful for these gifts and we desire to express appreciation through the columns of the Methodist Protestant Herald.

Last Sunday evening, Dec. 13th, the Baptist people of Enfield as a congregation worshipped with us. Our church was entirely filled with people. This we understand is the way Enfield churches welcome a new minister. Our personal reaction is that it is an unusual way and reveals a genuine spirit of hospitality and fellowship.

Plans are on foot for the observance of the Christmas season. We are aware of the many who are dependent on charity, and it is anticipated that our celebration of the Christmas time will partake of the nature of giving to others rather than lavishing gifts upon ourselves and families.

Our very best wishes are extended to all at this Christmas season.

H. FRED SURRATT.

Whitaker's Church. Conference has come and gone and we have to welcome a new, old pastor in the sense that he served us a few years ago. We heartily accept the new and our best wishes go with the old one in his new work.

We had our first quarterly conference December 8. Our pastor's report was very good, and he laid out several goals which I hope we will strive to reach. I think we can, with God's help, if we try hard enough ourselves. The most of us usually do what we really want to do bad enough.

Our Woman's Auxiliary has improved some in attendance lately and we have raised our missionary quota for the college.

With best wishes for a faithful effort in Kingdom work and Christmas greetings for all readers of the Herald and its editor, I am, very cordially,

MISS MOLLIE WHELESS, Reporter.

Greenville Charge, Matthews Chapel.—We are very glad to have Mr. Hethcox with us again. He preached many wonderful and useful sermons during the past year. He held his regular service Sunday afternoon and gave a fine talk on the subject, "Talent of Prayer." Quite a number of visitors attended the service.

The Christian Endeavor Society has made much progress during the year. A contest is in progress. This is creating much interest. Both sides have given some very good programs. There will be a social or some kind of entertainment given to the side that wins the greatest number of points some time during the Christmas holidays.

The Woman's Auxiliary has been doing some very good work during the year.

It is not quite a year old and has made $50. Over half of this has been given for the benefit of the parsonage. The members also gave Mr. and Mrs. Hethcox a pounding on November 24.

We are hoping that we can accomplish more in the coming year than in the past.

Wishing that everyone will have a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

ROSA JANE CLARKE, Reporter.

Winston, First Church.—Christmas is nearly here and everybody seems to be very busy working at this and that, preparing for the glorious holiday season. There are a lot of people, who are very unfortunate, to be remembered this Christmas, more than ever before, no doubt. In helping someone find happiness and comfort, we are helping ourselves, also. Our deeds reflect back on us; if our deeds are good we sometimes have a direct reflection of good and sometimes the reflection is indirect—but, of course, when the deeds are bad the influence can only be a bad one. "Help yourself by helping others to happiness."

Our Christmas program will be given next Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The hour of the evening service has been changed from 7:30 to 5:00. These services have been very successful, we think.

Last Sunday we gladly heard Dr. Humphreys from High Point college. As usual, he brought us a splendid message and a helpful one. Mrs. Humphreys accompanied him and we enjoyed so much having her in our midst for the morning worship.

Our pastor gave us a very good sermon at vespers Sunday evening. Although the weather was extremely disagreeable, there was a very good attendance.

We regret very much to say that the condition of Mr. Clyde Tise, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tise, of our church, is reported as no better. Our sympathy goes out to the entire family.

REPORTER.

Yarborough to Kernersville.—Having moved from South Carolina a few weeks ago, we find ourselves comfortably located in the nice parsonage at this charge. It was with regret that we left the good people of Yarborough charge. We were very happy in serving those appreciative people down there. A great many pleasant experiences occurred during the three years' stay in South Carolina. We love them and pray God's richest blessings upon them as they go to greater things in Kingdom service.

Since we have arrived we have been very busy setting up house keeping, getting acquainted with the people, meeting our appointments, and trying in every way possible to get the work of the new conference year started off on the right road.

We have been received most cordially. We find these people creeping into our hearts and believe they are making room in their hearts for us. It is our earnest hope and prayers that this be the greatest year in the history of this charge. The attendance in general is on the increase.

There are two splendid Sunday schools and C. E. societies on this work. Kernersville has recently organized a Sunday school which we feel is going to rapidly move forward under the efficient leadership of Brother Ad Linville.

From the beginning the people have shown themselves much interested in the welfare of the pastor and his family. The Sandy Ridge people helped make Thank-giving pleasant for us by giving us a pounding. They did not seem to think that their giving was sufficient, so they continued to give. Sunday while the pastor held a short steward meeting the people took the liberty to enter the pastor's car and burden it with another supply of farm products. The other churches, too, have been very generous with their fresh meats, and other farm products. We have not wanted for fresh meats and dairy products since the first week we came.

We would like to mention the names of all who have part in this giving but we do not have their names. We thank and pray blessings upon them all.

D. D. BROOME, Pastor.

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—It was with sad hearts that we had to give up our dear pastor and family. Our people had learned to love them very dearly during their four-year stay with us. We were so hopeful of their staying it was a disappointment when they were assigned to move. They will be sweetly remembered by our people wherever they may live. And we truly hope conference will assign Pastor and Mrs. Pegg back to Flat Rock circuit in the future. Here I pause to congratulate Glen Raven people on getting such a good pastor and family. Just love and co-operate with Pastor and Mrs. Pegg and see if you don't have a good year together.

While we regretted having to give up Pastor Pegg we were glad indeed that our new pastor is Rev. J. R. Hutton. This is Mr. Hutton's third time to serve Flat Rock circuit. Many of the oldest members of our church learned to love Mr. Hutton when he first preached here. And it's a pleasure to them in their old age to have him for their pastor again. Brother Hutton is kindly remembered by the young people of our church. This reporter was a fifth grade pupil in school, when he came the second time. And for the following eight years Brother Hutton was our beloved pastor. We welcome him back to our circuit and hope that each member will do all in his power to make this year the best for pastor and people.

The Sunday school continues about the same, interest is fine. Our school will close Christmas, beginning again April 1st.

A Merry Christmas to all.

GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

Roberta.—Our first quarterly conference was held December 12. We were very glad indeed to have with us Dr. S. W. Taylor, the president of our annual conference, and Rev. J. M. Morgan, pastor of First Methodist Protestant church of Concord.

Dr. Taylor presided. We had a discussion and plans were made concerning our financial program for this year. Every member is to pledge something, or will be apportioned something, according to his ability, either weekly or monthly. If we are a true follower of Jesus Christ and want to advance His church, we must carry on the work of His church in a business like manner.

Sunday morning we heard a wonderful message from Dr. Taylor. His subject was: "Building the Church." He said there were only three institutions that were not man-made. The church, the home and the Sabbath. All other institutions in the world do not mean what the church of Jesus Christ does. We ought to love it, and give of our best to its service, because Jesus gave Himself for it. He said the biggest investment the people of the community had made was the time, money, and effort that they had put into their church. We should be interested and help build His church. God will continue to build His church 'till His purposes have been accomplished. All the people who have Jesus in their hearts and lives from all denominations will make the perfect church. God is building up this church through men and women. Dr. Taylor gave us also some ways of helping build the church:

1. We should know our part in keeping to our means and distribute this amount to our ability. He said, "Out of every American dollar only three-fourths of one cent is paid to the church." This is a time when the church must have our service for the purpose of building the church of Jesus Christ.

2. Attend the church. This is the place where we get spiritual food to carry back to our homes and to our work to be more Christ-like. By living consistent daily lives in our attitudes, speech, and conversation, we are living Jesus Christ and in that way we will show to the world, we are Jesus' followers and are helping build up His church, he said. There will come a time when all will be over and we want to have the assurance that we are on the way. There is going to be something very worthwhile that we would not want to miss. "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." He urged that we be so co-operative that when we stand before His presence, we shall not be ashamed of the way we have lived.

We hope we may have the pleasure of having Brother Taylor with us again soon.

We are expecting our new pastor, Rev. Joel B. Tredgon, and his family to move into the parsonage this week. We pray that this may be the greatest year's work he has had since in the ministry.

REPORTER.

English Street Church.—Last Sunday, our pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, brought to us two very uplifting sermons. His subject for the night service was "Prayer," his text being 2 Chronicles 7:14: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." We were delighted with the attendance at all the services Sunday. There were 153 present at Sunday school, and the church was filled for the preaching service. We found it necessary to open up one of the Sunday school rooms for the service. Although the weather was somewhat unfavorable at the evening service, a gratifying number was present.

Since our last report, two of our most faithful members have been taken by death. On November 28, Miss Molly Moser died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Eva Emerson. She had been a member of English Street church for a number of years. Funeral services were conducted at the church by Rev. G. L. Reynolds, former pastor, and the present pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill. She was laid to rest in Lebanon cemetery. On December 7, W. G. Morgan, another faithful member, was taken. The funeral services were conducted in Salisbury at Park avenue church by Rev. G. L. Reynolds.

The relatives and many friends of these two loved ones have our most heartfelt sympathy, and in their sorrow we point them to the great comforter, who can heal and take away all their heartaches.

The High Point C. E. union met at High Point college on December 4. A large number was present, representing the different societies in the city. New officers for the coming year were elected. A member of our own society, Kathleen Embler, was elected secretary. Always at these meetings the C. E. shield is awarded. This time it went to Springfield Friends society. Our society had held it for three consecutive times and were beginning to feel that it was someone else's time to have it. However, our plans have already begun to get it back next time, and when we set our heads to do anything, we are hard to be defeated, so, look out, Springfield, you've got some competition. Our monthly business meeting and social was held on last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hulin, with 18 members present and four visitors. Among the many things planned for the coming year was a Christmas club of $25.00 to be used for any worthy purpose that might come up. After the business meeting, a most enjoyable Christmas social was held. A very arousing dialogue was given by two members of the society, and many interesting games were played. To bring the evening to a close, cinnamon rolls, coffee, and pop-corn balls were served.

The first quarterly conference will convene on Wednesday night, December 16. Dr. Taylor will be present at this time and discuss with us plans for the coming year. It is hoped that all the members will be present.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. W. P. Ridge on the corner of English and Lindsay streets on Tuesday evening at 7:30 for its monthly business meeting.

REPORTER.

First Church, High Point.—Rev. R. I. Farmer returned Saturday from his sad journey to attend funeral services of his father. He occupied his pulpit Sunday morning, and bravely took up the work where he left it. The program for Universal Bible Sunday was presented, and the responsive reading on the little folder in the shape of a Bible sent out by the American Bible society of New York was used. This litany is entitled, "Search the Scriptures," and is especially appropriate, being prepared from quotations from different parts of the Bible. Mr. Arthur Fidler sang a beautiful solo, "Build Thee More Stately Mansions, O My Soul," taken from "The Chambered Nautilus," by Oliver Wendell Holmes. Rev. Mr. Farmer read extracts from Psalms 19 and John 17, and made "The Holy Bible" the theme of his discourse. He said in part: "I think the biggest need of people is to be able to meet the tragedies of life calmly and serenely, and our only guide in the crucial hour is the Word of Life. My mother bravely said to us last week, 'Daddy and I had so many good times together in his last days because he read the Bible to me,' she being so nearly blind that she is unable to read. To emphasize the universal leaning on the Word of God, when Commander Byrd was preparing to take a trip to the South Pole, he carried his Bible with him, and a Boy Scout, who accompanied him, pulled a small Bible from his pocket and asked Col. Roosevelt to autograph it. Upon doing so, he said, 'Paul, I plan to make a trip to Asia soon, and will take my Bible with me.' This Word of God is true, and its descriptive beauty is refreshing. Man is conquering air, earth, sky, sea, but he has not yet vanquished evil. We have overcome distance, but have not yet conquered the forces of Satan. This Word of God has a place in our lives; it meets every need of human life from the cradle to the grave; brings comfort to the sorrowing, and is a chart on life's sea that leads to the city of God, whose building is not made with human hands. If we read the Bible more in our homes, I am constrained to believe that more children would be brought into the church. Then this Word of God has a definite influence and power on the world. Where the Bible is not known, we find backward nations. Art, literature, and music have their basic principles in the Bible. Then this Word of God reveals to us the way of salvation, and the highest form of knowledge comes from the Bible. Any of us may find peace for troubled hearts and weary minds in the Gospel of St. John. The habit of reading one chapter of the Bible daily, formed in youth, is a great safeguard from temptation through life and a solace and comfort in old age."

The High Point college choir, composed of 35 members and directed by Prof. Ernest B. Stimson, rendered a program of beautiful music in First church, Burlington, last Sunday morning at Fountain Place church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and at State Street church, Lexington, Sunday evening. They were accompanied by Rev. Nat M. Harrison, promotional secretary, who spoke to the audiences on the financial situation and High Point college bonds. On Monday evening the college choir appeared in First Methodist church, Statesville, and Wednesday afternoon will render a concert before the Euterpe club in Greensboro, of which Mrs. J. Norman Wills is president.

On Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock circles of the Woman's Auxiliary held meetings in the following homes: No. 4, Mrs. W. W. Cecil, chairman, with Miss Margaret Walton at Prof. Hinshaw's; No. 5, Mrs. Ross Davis, chairman, with Mrs. S. D. Shelton; No. 6, Mrs. J. A. Gray, chairman with Mrs. J. C. Welch, Sr. in place of Mrs. Geo. T. Penny who is not well; No. 7, Mrs. L. R. Peacock, chairman, with Mrs. H. G. Ferree; and No. 8, Mrs. R. H. Shaw, chairman, with Mrs. D. A. Dowdy. On Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock No. 2, Mrs. C. J. Harper, chairman, with Mrs. Harper and Mrs. Johnnie Oakes Jackson, and No. 3, Miss Mary Wall, chairman, will meet with Miss Wall on Howell street.

The Young Peoples' C. E. society met on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock as usual, and the senior society held its weekly meeting on Monday evening at 7:30 in their room at the church. The mid-week prayer service, conducted by the pastor, will be held on Wednesday evening. Tuesday evening there will be an important meeting of the stewards of the church.

On Thursday evening a very beautiful and splendid entertainment, Living Pictures of the Madonnas, Christ Child, and other sacred pictures appropriate to the Christmas season, will be presented in the assembly rooms of the church. This presentation, sponsored by the Art Department of the Woman's club, will be given under the auspices of the C. E. society, which is selling the tickets at 25c each, and will receive half the proceeds. Mrs. L. R. Johnston, Mrs. H. R. Martin, little Miss Doris Humphreys, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. I. Humphreys; Miss Mary Anne Coe, small daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Coe, and others of our church members appear in these lovely scenes. Rev. Mr. Allen, new rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, takes the role of the Christ.

Next Sunday evening, December 20, at 7:30 o'clock Prof. Ernest E. Stimson and the church choir will present the cantata, "Adoration," by Nexin, which is a lovely production and will doubtless draw a large congregation.

High Point college will close its classes on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the Christmas recess, and out-of-town students and members of the faculty will disperse to their homes. All buildings on the campus will be closed.

The annual Empty Stocking fund, which is contributed by citizens and different organizations and clubs of High Point, is more urgent than ever in its appeals for the unfortunate and needy of the city. Some of the circles of the Woman's Auxiliary will make cash donations to this fund, and circle No. 6, Mrs. J. A. Gray, chairman, will pack a basket of provisions and groceries for a family. Miss Elizabeth Welch and Mrs. J. T. Foister will have it in charge and receive and deliver donations.

Last Sunday's Greensboro Daily News carried an interesting sketch of the Ogburn family of Summerfield by Miss Katherine Hoskins, and with it was presented pictures of the John B. Ogburn home, the old mill more than a century old, and Mrs. John B. Ogburn surrounded by numerous antiques, coverlets, and interesting souvenirs of by-gone days. Mrs. R. R. Blackburn, one of our esteemed members, belongs to this interesting and historic family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Younts and daughters have moved to Trinity, but they are not too far away to attend church services and Sabbath school.

Alfred Monitt, student at the State University, and his friend, Marvin Grunth, a fellow-student, were guests of his mother, Mrs. H. A. Monitt on N. Main St., for the past weekend.

We are much pleased to not that Mrs. George T. Penny and Mr. June A. Gray, who have been ill, are slowly improving.

Concord.—December 6th, proved to be a good day for us. Our Sunday school attendance was good. At the 11 o'clock service the Lord's Supper was celebrated by our pastor, Prof. Morgan, and a large number of people. It seemed that more people took a part in the service than usual. We are always glad to invite the visitors and strangers who worship with us, to take a part in the Lord's supper with us. For the Lord's table is for his children and if we are followers of the Lord Jesus Christ what could be any better proof of our faith in God than to see us gathered around his table.

The evening service was a beautiful one. The Ladies' Missionary society gave a program which proved to be a great blessing to everyone. The church was almost filled with those who came to enjoy this good service with us. The first scene showed three American children who were very unhappy because they had to go to school, church, C. E. society and do odd jobs at home. And in the last scene they had quite a number of visitors from the foreign lands and after learning how these poor children had missed so many of the blessings which they enjoyed daily they began to see how selfish and unthankful they had been and once again they took up their duties with a smile. I wonder if we older people could not be more thankful for the things we have than ever before.

Our S. S., December 13th, was fine. Our attendance was 418 and our offering $7.04. Our pastor delivered a fine message at the 11 o'clock service. At the evening service we were delighted to have Dr. Taylor who preached a wonderful sermon and we welcome him at all times.

Pray for the work here and also our pastor.
REPORTER.

Lebanon, High Point.—Our Sunday school is progressing rapidly under the leadership of Mr. J. W. Montgomery, the superintendent.

At the morning service last Sunday, our pastor, Rev. J. C. Madison, gave us an inspiring sermon on John the Baptist. Mr. Glas. A. King rendered our special music. He sang "The Prodigal Son," which was enjoyed very much by the congregation.

At the evening service, Rev. William Howard, a student at High Point college, brought the message on the Prophecies of the Coming Christ. The congregation was quite pleased with his sermon and hopes to have him worship here again soon.

We are glad to note that Miss Edna Hassell is improving and wish for her a speedy recovery.

At the evening service next Sunday the choir is presenting a cantata.

Our Christmas entertainment will be held Christmas night.

REPORTER.

Midway, Haw River Charge.—Brother Trollinger and family have served us faithfully and well for three years; no wonder our hearts were made glad when we learned that they were with us for another year. We hope that this year will be even more pleasant and the best year of his ministry.

Brother Trollinger has preached for us twice since conference; yesterday his text was from St. John 1:26: "There standeth one among you whom ye know not."

Our Sunday school has shown up well during the first month of the conference year. We are preparing a Christmas pageant, and are planning to give the pageant and have a tree and treat for the children, December 24, at 7 o'clock. Come everybody, and enjoy the evening with us. We missed Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butler, who are sick, from church Sunday. Also Mrs. John Smothers, who is in the hospital at Reidsville. We hope for them a speedy recovery.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

West End.—At the first quarterly conference it was determined to strive for some definite goals for the year. It was determined that the church would enter into the campaigns to increase the Herald subscription in our church and to do all possible to sell High Point College bonds. Certain goals to increase the attendance in the regular services, the Sunday school and prayer services were agreed upon.

Plans were made to efficiently do the evangelistic work of the church whereby the evangelistic fires of a real Methodist church might be kept burning. The duplex envelope system was adopted and plans to begin work at once on the 15th anniversary of the church were arranged for. This service is to be conducted next September and a birthday gift of $1,500.00 is to be presented to the church to be one of the goals of the occasion. This was a most excellent quarterly conference. The people most heartily and harmoniously entered into the plans that were suggested and that are to be a working basis for the year.

Last Sunday was a good day in spite of the rainy weather. A number of visitors were noticed in the congregation. Among them were Brother Tucker from Grace, Bro. Lowman from Midway, Bro. Johnson and family and Mrs. Wood from Sandy Ridge. It is indeed a delight to have our neighbors worship with us.

The new church register has been purchased and a complete record of the church membership and the activities will soon be made. The new church record prepared by our church is a wonderful book and churches of our conference will do well to purchase it. We are pleased to know that West End is one of the first churches to adopt the new book.

The ladies of the church met in their regular auxiliary meeting Monday night, December 14. The pastor had the privilege and pleasure of visiting this organization. He was very favorably impressed. The program was very impressive and the work was all carried out in a most orderly and efficient manner. The work these ladies are doing means much to the West End church. Any pastor would be proud of such an auxiliary.

Our white Christmas service is to be rendered on next Sunday night. This church has been taught to observe the true spirit of Christmas by giving instead of expecting to receive. No arrangements are being made for a treat and the children seem to be happy and are pleased to give. Thank God for a church which seems to have taught itself to observe Christmas in a way that seems so sane. The true spirit of Christmas means so much.

With happy thoughts and best wishes of the season to all, I am, in His name,

GEO. L. CURRY.

Reidsville.—Our church is not dead by any means, if it has not had a report in the paper. We are working away in a quiet manner trying to accomplish something for the Master.

We all were so glad conference saw fit to return to us our good pastor, Dr. Geo. R. Brown and his capable wife for another year, and we are praying this may be the best year in the history of our church.

Last week a Sunday school institute was held in our church and very inspiring addresses were heard. On Tuesday night a banquet for the young people was served in the basement of the church by the Ladies' Auxiliary. There were about 86 present, and all seemed to enjoy the evening together.

The Philathea class has been busy recently decorating their class rooms and has installed a new gas heater.

The Sunday school rooms have been repainted. New rugs were given by the Ladies' Bible class and Philathea class. We now have a modern kitchen, with a new gas cook stove installed by the Philatheas.

Under the Christian leadership of our faithful pastor and his beloved wife we hope to do greater work for Christ and His church.

MRS. D. L. CARROLL, Report r.

Whitakers Chapel, Enfield Charge. — On Sunday morning, December 6, we welcomed our new pastor, Rev. H. F. Surratt, to preach for us the coming year. We are all going to like Mr. and Mrs. Surratt, am quit sure. Just think how fortunate we are in getting such a good preacher. After his introduction he delivered to his congregation a very splendid sermon.

We took an offering Sunday morning for our Children's Home, then Mr. Surratt called the officers of the church to stand and after a few questions all agreed to start a wonderful work for old Whitakers Chapel the year of 1932. We can do it, no use talking, just work.

We have a nice little Sunday school every Sunday at 2:30 with good teachers and leaders.

Just a word about our Ladies' Auxiliary. We met at the hut last Fourth Monday with a large band of workers; these ladies have the Christmas spirit all right, and we hope to go over the top just as soon as we get a little older. We are quite young yet. Mrs. Sam Pierson is president of this society.

Sorry we had to give up Dr. Johnson. May the Lord bless him in his work the coming year.

M. V. L., Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro. — We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Fields into our church. They united with us Sunday, December 6th. At the same time their little daughter, Ann Harper, was baptized.

Last Sunday was a record day for our Sunday school, there being 245 present. Mr. Coe was all smiles.

Our quarterly communion service was held at the morning service. Mr. Bates spoke on the "Holy Sacrament" as "A Monument to the Master." At the evening service he spoke on "The Limitations of Life."

The most of us are full with the "Spirit of Christmas." Christ spent his life in doing good for others. Let us celebrate the date of His birth by doing likewise.

MRS. E. D. OVERCASH, Reporter.

Enfield. The new Conference year brought to us several changes. We shall miss Dr. Johnson, his kindly and sweet disposition and the deep spiritual sermons he always brought to us. We wish for him good health, happiness and Godspeed in his present field of work, and we trust he shall find it possible to visit us whenever he can.

Our church and community are fortunate in welcoming to our midst Rev. H. F. Surratt and his wife. They have already planted themselves deep in the hearts and affections of the Enfield people. He has been bringing us wonderful messages and they also help us in all phases of our church work. We are so glad Mrs. Surratt saw fit to have her membership transferred to our church.

Whitaker's Chapel and Enfield held their first quarterly conference Monday night, December 13th, in Enfield. Our pastor in his report set forth some worthy goals for the year. Come, people! Membership! Let's put our shoulders to the wheel and help him attain these goals!

Our Sunday school, under the direction of Supt. H. M. Whitaker, has been improving; his motto for the year is "A Bigger and Better Sunday School."

The C. E. societies are holding up and doing a good work. At the last meeting of the Workers' Council it was deemed wise to divide the Junior Department as it had such a large number and form a Junior High society whose superintendent is Mrs. Ernest Pellamy. Mrs. Eli Bellamy resigned as superintendent of Intermediates and Mrs. Bryant Sherrod was elected to that place. Let's encourage these new leaders in their important work.

The Baptist congregation and their pastor, Mr. Anderson, gave over their services last evening, December 13th, to worship with us. Mr. Anderson is co-operative and splendid in all of his work. We appreciated this and enjoyed worshipping together. We feel that all present (and the auditorium was full) were benefited because Mr. Surratt presented an inspiring message. Mrs. Charles Miller and Mrs. Cecille Matthews rendered a lovely duet at this service and Miss Annie Barnhill sang a solo at the morning service.

Mrs. Pike, who will soon be 80 years old, continues ill; also Mr. Henry Neal; let's remember our sick in as many ways as we can.

Work has already begun on the Christmas program, the committee for this being Mr. Eli Bellamy, Mrs. Cecille Matthews and Mrs. Exum Bellamy.

Here's wishing each and every reader a happy Christmas. REPORTER.

West Forsyth. — With the services at Tabernacle and Union Hill churches last Sunday the writer completed the first round of appointments for the new Conference year. We have had good attendance and splendid interest at all of the churches during the past four weeks. We have only one appointment at each church in a month, and it takes four weeks to visit all of the churches.

The work of the new Conference year has started off very well except finances, an average of $1.25 for each church for the four Sundays, having been received on pastor's salary. Some church people act as if they think a pastor does not need any money to operate his car, buy groceries and clothing and many other necessities.

The writer conducted the funeral services for William Henry Long at Pleasant Hill church last Saturday afternoon. "Uncle William Henry," as he was familiarly known to the people of Pleasant Hill community, died Friday at 12 o'clock, following a serious illness for four days, having suffered a stroke of paralysis on Monday. He never regained consciousness after becoming critically ill. Rev. P. W. Gibbs, pastor of the Bethunia Moravian church, assisted in the funeral service. Mr. Long was 87 years of age, and resided at the old home place all his life. He was the father of Bro. U. Walter Long and Mrs. W. B. Speas, valuable members of Pleasant Hill church. A congregation which completely filled the church attended the funeral service.

Next Sunday will be a good day for Pleasant Hill church. On that day the meeting of the first quarterly conference will be held. Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock and there will be preaching by the pastor, or some visiting speaker, at 11 o'clock. Dinner will be served at the church during the noon recess. The business will be transacted at the afternoon session beginning at 1:30 o'clock. We are hopeful of a good attendance from the other five churches and we expect a large number of Pleasant Hill people will attend.

Four of the six churches on West Forsyth charge are preparing Christmas programs to be rendered during Christmas week. The first will be given at Pleasant Hill next Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Other programs will be given as follows: Tabernacle church, Wednesday night; Stony Knoll church, Friday night; Harmony Grove, probably Thursday night.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

West Forsyth. Just to say that our reception here has been cordial. We are indeed glad to return to these good people for the fourth year. We are sure that if we will all work together this year we will accomplish much good. And again, we really do think that we have some of the very best of people on this charge.

Now, I must tell you about the surprise which was given me on Saturday, December 12, which was my birthday. A noise as if many voices were blended was heard in the yard, and soon they rushed in, bringing their gifts, taking me by great surprise. Some of the gifts were birthday presents and other gifts were in the form of a pounding for the pastor and family. The happy company was composed of 35 members of the Woman's Auxiliary and other members of Pleasant Hill church. After the gifts were placed on the dining table, the women assembled in the reception room for their monthly business meeting. After the business meeting ended, refreshments were served.

I wish to express my appreciation to those who came and brought gifts. There is a warm welcome awaiting every one of you to visit the pastor and family at any time.

May the Lord guide and direct and bless us all during this new Conference year.

Wishing all of the readers of the Herald a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

MRS. C. B. WAY.

Calvary, Greensboro. — This is just a sort of supplement to the letter of our reporter, which will probably appear elsewhere in this issue of the Herald. But there were two or three things that I wanted to speak of.

First of all, to make acknowledgement of the fine courtesy that the members and friends of Calvary showed us in the reception and supper they put on a couple of weeks ago. It was one of the high spots in my ministerial career, the first of its sort, and to be remembered as long as life lasts. It was a happy occasion, and apparently enjoyed by everybody present.

Our carpenter-members are busy remodeling the balcony of the church for class rooms. The space is to be inclosed, the inclined floors on the side balcony leveled, and four classrooms made. The walls will be more or less temporary, especially in the rear balcony—so if the preacher ever gets to preaching to a crowded house, which does not seem to be an immediate prospect—they can be taken down. Our problem is not altogether solved by this arrangement, but it will be helped until we can do better.

Mrs. Bates entertained her class of girls last Tuesday night week with a supper at the parsonage. In spite of the rain and sleet, 22 out of 25 members of the class were present. Last Monday night the School Girls' Circle held an interesting meeting with Rebecca Coble, one of the members, on the Tabernacle road. This Thursday night Circles 1 and 2 are to have a Pollyanna Party at the home of Mrs. D. E. Curtis, the Auxiliary President.

This coming Sunday morning, the preaching hour will be given over to the Christmas exercises. A pageant, "Christmas Day in the Morning," will be given, and as part of the exercise, a "White Gifts" service will be held. A Christmas service in the morning is a bit unusual, but from all reports, it is going to be very fine. We invite any who read this to attend.

The new year is starting well. Splendid congregations have been present at the morning services. Our finances seem to be in better shape than last year at this time. Everybody is encouraged. We hope to make this the best year in the church's history. WHY NOT?
C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Charlotte.—There is no real need for me to write for the Herald; my reporter covers the activities here so well, but there is just one meeting that I ought to report. Last Wednesday night (we have our prayer meetings in the parsonage this winter) we had an unusually large attendance. It was bad weather and really we were not expecting many, but they surprised us. We had a fine attendance and after the meeting was over we had another meeting. They came in who had not attended the prayer service and came bringing things, so when all were in, we had between 30 and 40 present and, my, the things they did leave on our tables in the dining room and kitchen. We deeply appreciate this expression of love from these kind people. And we are working and praying that we may in some way be worthy of their confidence and good will.
R. M. ANDREWS.

Albemarle.—Sunday was a good day with us. The attendance at the Sunday school and the worship services was very good; the offering was better than usual. Our men's class is growing, every Sunday there are new additions to the roll, and we hope soon to have our same old class back. We once had 106 on roll with around 70 average attendance. When we get back to that we are then going to invite the men's class of Welch Memorial to come down and pay us a visit. We had such a fine group of men at Welch with Bro. E. F. Seagraves as teacher, and we have such a fine group here we want them to know each other. Our work with Welch Memorial people will ever remain a pleasant memory with us. They are so responsive and so congenial that it is a great pleasure to work with them. They deserve much credit for what they are doing there, and under the leadership of their good pastor, Dr. J. D. Williams, I bespeak for them a good year.

We had two accessions to the church at the evening service; both are adults.

We had a very pleasant surprise one evening last week; wife stepped out on the porch and came rushing back, saying: "The whole settlement is in the yard." They were giving us a pounding, but had kept it a profound secret. There will be no hard times at this parsonage for a while, for Albemarle is noted for doing things in a big way.

Our first quarterly conference will be held Wednesday night, December 16th. We hope then to get better organized and start our new year in earnest.

J. R. ANDERSON, Pastor.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BOND CAMPAIGN

| Total .....                  | $28,900       |

High Point made a good showing this week. They are just getting organized, and we are expecting more from them later.

We should not expect High Point to do more than we do over the entire state. The city will be spurred on by what we do. Pastors, committees, workers don't wait until after the Christmas holidays. Make a canvass of your charge, and put it over the top before Christmas.

The charges to make gains this week are: Orange, who comes forth with its first report, $1,300; North Davidson reports a gain of $300; Fountain Place and Gibsonville, $100; Henderson, $100.

B. M. Williams is making good his statement of a previous issue: "We'll sell our quota." We find that his charge, Orange, goes over half the distance toward the goal this week.

Please send in orders for bonds as they are received. Don't wait until you get the full quota for your charge. Let's keep the list growing each week. Christmas should bring to us the spirit of immediate response. It is the finest of times to make the canvas of the churches.
N. M. HARRISON.

A SUGGESTION

The Gibsonville Sunday school is planning to have a Christmas tree for the benefit of the Children's Home and let the children at home enjoy it, too. I am giving you the plan so if there are others who wish to use this plan it is not patented.

We are getting from Dr. Dixon the name and age of each boy and girl, and we are going to let each member of the school have a name to send or, rather, place on the tree something for that particular boy or girl and let them place their own name on the present and the name of the boy or girl in the home to which the present goes, and let them have the fun of taking them down from the tree here and packing and sending to the Home.

Our plan is not to send trinkets, but something new and usable, such things as will help to cut the expense and thus help over this tightness of money which the Home is undergoing just now. We are doing this not only to help the Home, but to help our children to see that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." In this we believe they will give more and a greater number will take part, than simply a money offering.

If this is worth anything to any others in helping you to have your school have a happier Christmas, we are glad to pass it on.

N. G. BETHEA.

THAT S. O. S. CALL FOR CHURCH EXTENSION

The Board of Church Extension is still depending on each church to send in $5.00 to the Conference treasurer to help the Board of Church Extension out of a very difficult situation. If you have not sent yours yet, will you not hurry it along.

Send money to Geo. R. Brown, Treasurer, Reidsville, N. C., and the Board will get it.

ings of God upon this Home. We have our problems which none of you know. God, our Father, knows all about them. Pray for us on Christmas day. If you love a little child as Jesus loved a little child, pray for us. You may not be able to give, but if you are a Christian you can pray.

We thank you and may God bless each of you and make yours a happy Christmas.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

Price—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field. In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

IMPORTANT

This year when the Sunday schools and Christian Endeavor Societies pay their apportionment for the Council of Religious Education they are to do so through the Conference Treasurer, Dr. Geo. R. Brown, as this money is to be applied on the A. C. B. of your church, according to the action of the last Annual Conference. And in sending your check to Dr. Brown, state clearly the name of the church and the charge sending the money. Also it will help to keep check if you will always enclose with your money to Dr. Brown a letter of explanation. This Dr. Brown can send to me for my own personal files.

The apportionment:

In John Wesley's Day there was a question like this—

“Are We Going On to Perfection?”

This is the question now facing the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina. How shall we answer?

A denomination, having more than 30,000 members in the state faces the responsibility of being a dynamic force in the life of its constituency, in the outlook of communities and in the progress of the commonwealth.

Facing such responsibility—the denomination must have an educated and trained leadership, both in the ministry and laity. It must be an education that is Christian, and this means under Christian leadership, where Christian ideals and motives receive their due emphasis under wholesome influences.

Hence the recognition, long since, of the Church as to the need of the Christian College.

This is the why of High Point College. Let us face the FACTS:

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BONDS

Carolina—and further underwritten by the General Church.

1. Our Church has achieved an outstanding record in High Point College.
2. Our indebtedness is not great in the light of assets, but its nature is such that the pressure is tremendous—and we must relieve the pressure.
3. In seven years High Point College has attained a yearly enrollment, standing in college circles and community confidence, that have no parallel in the history of denominational colleges.
4. The City of High Point is challenging the North Carolina Conference in this plan of re-financing through the sale of bonds. We must meet the challenge.
5. For the first time in the one hundred years' history of the denomination, the General Church, without respect to area, is being appealed to through its official leadership to back a college. And bonds are being bought outside of North Carolina. We must capitalize this support.
6. There is money enough in the possession of Methodist Protestants in our Conference to absorb our quota of bonds. Let us do it.
7. Let us say, "We are going on"—to sell these bonds, thus re-financing the College, and securing it these days of "trying times."

Is it Depression or Repression that is gripping the Church? Doubtless something of both—but now it is going to be Expression! Expression of FAITH—LOYALTY—PURPOSE.

NUMBER 8

The New Year

See just ahead! O what a sight!
The New Year comes with face so bright!
His hands are full, also his pack,
That none of us may suffer lack.

He comes with large and varied store—
No need that we should wish for more—
Enough for each, enough for all,
From very great to very small.

But what we have, ourselves must choose;
If we don't take we'll surely lose:
Go forward with expectant air,
Let New Year know how much you care.

Then greet him with a pleasant voice—
'Twill help you make the wisest choice.
Shall we present him now to you?
'Tis NINETEEN HUNDRED THIRTY-TWO!

Dr. C. E. Wilbur

On December 1, 1931, Dr. Charles Edgar Wilbur passed from this life at his home in Bellevue, Pa., aged a little more than 78 years. He had spent several years in the ministry of our church, preaching in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. For a number of years he was Professor of English in Adrian College where the editor of the HERALD knew him well. For 26 years he was editor of our Sunday School publications, filling the office now filled by Dr. Crates Johnson. For ten years he was a member of the International Sunday School Lesson Committee. He made two journeys to the Far East in the interest of Sunday School work.

He was a likable man and made and held many friends. He had a keen sense of humor and had an immense collection of comic anecdotes which he told effectively on proper occasions. He prepared a lecture on American Humor which we heard him deliver in this city perhaps 15 years ago. We will here reproduce one of his stories as an example:

"A man from New Bedford, Mass., made a trip to Portland, Maine. While in this city he became intoxicated and wandered into an iron foundry and lay down and went to sleep. About night time he awoke and looked around. He had never visited an iron foundry before and was startled by the scenes that met his gaze. Fierce flames were rising here and there. Men in queer attire (if they were men) were rushing about carrying vessels of liquid fire. A dark-visaged man came to him and asked him who he was and whence he came. His voice trembled with terror as he answered: 'I forget my name, but when I was on earth I lived in New Bedford.'"

Dr. Wilbur did not allow his faculty of humor to possess his mind to the exclusion of serious purposes. When he was preaching he drove straight ahead to the true goal of his sermon. His death will be felt as a personal loss by many. We share in this feeling. He was one of our friends. Not here but somewhere we hope to meet again.

A Prayer

Our Father in Heaven: Thou has brought us to the open portals of this new year. May we enter them with becoming reverence for Thee and with desire to fulfill Thy purposes. May we each realize our personal responsibility to Thee. May it be our chief concern to please Thee. May we see that we can truly live only as we move and act in harmony with Thy will. May we appreciate the exceeding greatness of our privilege in being permitted to be Thy servants. May it be our chief ambition to be true and faithful servants of Thine. Help us to see clearly what Thou wouldst have us do. May we do with our might the good work our hands find to do. And may we work also with head and heart. May we love Thee with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength, and love all Thy children as we love ourselves. In this new year may we succeed in service as never before. Help us to make a complete consecration. Direct us in our ongoing and lead us to the highest spiritual attainments. And may lives all about us be greatly bettered through our influence and example. May the Spirit of Christ be in us continually, making us humble, earnest and active in service. All this we ask in His name. Amen.

—Japan and China after debating for weeks whether they would fight have decided that they would and are now at it. The government in China is very much demoralized at this time and it seems likely that the Japs will have their own way. The fighting is going on in Manchuria. Just what Japan's objectives are is not clear. Ki Inukai, Japan's premier, is quoted as saying with a laugh, "Why, we wouldn't take Manchuria as a gift!"

—Rev. A. D. Shelton wrote last week from Shelby hospital saying that he had undergone an operation for appendicitis and would appreciate the prayers of the brethren in his behalf. This week he is reported as improving. Let us pray that his recovery may be rapid and complete. He has our sympathy. We know something of the feeling excited by the near approach of the surgeon's knife.

SOCRATES ON PASTORS' SALARIES

By ALSO LYCURGUS

Socrates is home after spending several hours perusing many journals of the M. P. and M. E. annual conferences, also looking over the reports of Synods and Conventions of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches.

His face was radiant, his lips twitching and his whole manner one of excitement and keen interest—it was evident he was ready for an animated conversation; and just then three of his good friends, Appias of Elis, Laches, and Aristippus came in and seated themselves close to their friend and teacher.

"Why," asks Socrates, "do churches pay pastors salaries?" It was a stunner to the trio; all remained silent, but Xantippe, the wife of Socrates appeared interested, which really was unusual when he spoke.

Not getting any response to his question, Socrates now directs it to Aristippus, "Why do churches pay pastors salaries, Aristippus?" It was evident Aristippus wanted to dodge; so the old philosopher said, "Well, to start you off: Are pastors paid according to their need, or according to the size of the membership, or according to the preparation the pastor has made for his life work, or according to the financial ability of the church, or according to the ability of the preacher to preach, or according to the social status of the pastor and the community; or do they just pay him according to the whims of the congregation?"

It is plain that Aristippus was greatly embarrassed, so Lamprocles, the eldest son of Socrates, spoke up and said, "Father, you should have more care than to distress your friends who have just dropped in for a few moments refreshment, with such a dry question."

"But," disclaimed Socrates, "this is an interesting subject of conversation. We have nearly a quarter of a million pastors in our country and the churches annually pay out many millions of dollars; is it not quite important? Let's proceed to the discussion. I repeat, Why do churches pay pastors salaries?" Whereupon Xantippe replied, "To keep the poor men and their families from starving, you fool," and went back to the preparation of their frugal meal.

But without embarrassment Socrates proceeds: "Aristippus, I am greatly puzzled over this question myself; not that salaries are paid or that salaries are not needed, my wife has gone to the root of that matter; but upon what basis are they paid?"

"Now here is the Rev. J. Ambrocles who receives five thousand dollars a year from his congregation while his college mate receives only two thousand. They are practically the same age, both seminary graduates; Ambrocles has a wife, but not children, while Bartholomew has a wife and six children, and none of the children are yet through college, or have positions by which they can support themselves. And yet Bartholomew receives only two-fifths the salary of his college mate, and has four times as many to support out of this salary. How would you answer that, Laches?"

"Well," said Laches, "it may be that Ambrocles is a better preacher." "That might be," said Socrates, "but I have

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN

"The Methodist Protestant Herald in Every Methodist Protestant Home"

3,000 SUBSCRIBERS—"IT CAN BE DONE"

Is it too much to expect 3,000 subscribers when our circulation has been less than half that amount? No, it is not too much to expect if every Pastor and every Subscription Chairman will take this matter seriously, and begin NOW. What Brother Charlie Grant has done on Midway-Shady Grove Charge, can be done on every charge, but a warning is necessary at this time. To succeed there are certain things that must be done by certain persons at a certain time. The persons are the Pastor and the Subscription Chairmen. The time is NOW. And here are some of the things that need to be done: Pastors to get every Subscription Chairman to become a regular reader of the HERALD. (There are approximately 140 who apparently are not subscribers to the paper and I am unable to reach them through this column.) Pastors and Subscription Chairmen to meet and decide these questions, "Are we going to raise our quota?" and "When will we begin?" Decide and commit yourselves on these questions. Every loyal charge, every loyal church and every loyal Methodist Protestant will answer these questions the same way. They will answer the first question, "Yes," they will answer the second question "NOW." That word even in capitals does not convey the magnitude of its importance. Every church beginning NOW, means success, to begin late may mean failure. Brother McCulloch says that the past records show that January is one of the best months of the year for subscription receipts. Capitalize on this and do your very hardest work in January. In all probability January and February will decide the success or failure of this campaign. If we are to succeed this campaign must be put on in every church on every charge beginning NOW. Already some good work is being done and some chairmen are making remittances regularly every week. It takes work to succeed and they are working. But we want to hear from EVERY church. Additional things the Pastor can do; he can help the Chairman plan the campaign, he can mention the HERALD in the pulpit every Sunday and let the membership know how he stands on this campaign. We need action and we need it now.

Because of the large number of Chairmen who apparently are not readers of the HERALD, I have had a lot to say in this column to the Pastor hoping that through him, the campaign may be started, without further delay, in every church. The Pastor can encourage the Chairmen and advertise the campaign and help plan it, but it should be the duty of the Subscription Chairman to get out and do the work of actual solicitation.

I am looking for a big report next week. The holidays are over, we will be getting back into regular routine, and the HERALD remittances should begin pouring in now from every church.

Yours for the HERALD,

E. L. DOUGLAS, Chairman Directing Committee.

heard them both many times, and for the life of me I would prefer Bartholomew to Ambrocles."

"Then," said Laches, "I give up."

"How about it, Appias?" asks Socrates. "Well," said Appias, "I went rather fully into this matter myself some time ago, and I decided that while churches pay their pastors salaries, there is no rule or justice in the way it is done. For instance, I know a preacher whose salary is entirely inadequate for the support of his family and himself, and the people know it quite well. And although he was only recently a great leader among them, having served churches which greatly prospered under his ministry—prospered even more than they have since he left them, but the pastors who now serve these churches receive five times as much as my friend did when he served them, and three times as much as he now receives from the churches of which he is now pastor. It is no secret that this good man has to draw upon the little savings of other years to supplement the present salary in order to live and yet there is no evident desire upon the part of those churches which owe him a debt they have yet to pay, to help him in the least.

"If you have the heart to bear it, you ought to go up the annual meetings of some of these church conferences and see these old men who have given their best to the church—never sparing themselves the least, through long periods of forty or even fifty years; serving on salaries wholly inadequate, out of which they could barely support their families, much less save up for this day of superannuation, be placed on the superannuated list and receive a pittance. Not as much as some of these laymen spend on a single camping trip. And yet these saints, for such they must be to bear up under it, receive this dole with an appreciation that is wonderful in its depths and with a love to all that makes me more sure than ever that there is a reality in the religion of these good men.

"But that does not mitigate in the least the seriousness of the matter, nor reduce the burden these men have to carry unto the ends of their lives. It is wrong, gentlemen. I mean it is wrong, for a man with only a wife with no dependents receiving ten times the remuneration for his services to the church which another is now receiving who also gave his best to the cause when he could have entered other spheres of service and made an adequate support for himself and his loved ones."

"Ah," said Socrates, "my friend, you speak wisely."

THE WETS SUDDENLY DISCOVER "THE PEOPLE"

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin's pool of Congress on the question of a prohibition referendum, proves the contention of the Drys that prohibition is here to stay. She reports less than one-third of the members willing to vote for a referendum and not all of these favor repeal or modification. There must be a two-thirds vote in both Houses of Congress to order a repeal referendum and then three-fourths of the states must ratify any such repeal or modification.

It is no wonder that one of the noisiest of the West, the disgruntled ex-Federal enforcement officer, Maurice Campbell, pessimistically admitted yesterday that it would be 1939 and probably 1941 before the Wets could hope to get a hostile vote upon prohibition through Congress. The Drys do NOT concede wet success then or at any time in the future.

This sudden zeal of the Wets for "the people" is a typical piece of Wet inconsistency. Mrs. Sabin is old enough and experienced enough to remember that the Wets fought every suggestion of a referendum upon liquor, in cities, counties, states and nation, and fought to the last ditch against a referendum upon the Eighteenth Amendment. Now they profess to want "the people" to decide—meaning in their own minds, when they refer to the people, the Wet-controlled machines in the large cities, such as Tammany Hall.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, who proposes to introduce a resolution for repeal, fails to state the Congressional record of his own state. His predecessors in the Senate, Brandegee and McClean, voted against submission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people. The list could be extended through other wet members of Congress now talking loftily about the rule of "the people."

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING

The time has come to settle the question whether the students in our schools and colleges are to be compelled to spend a certain part of their time in the drill demanded in military training. When students are refused admission to a school or college because they object to this drill on the ground of religious convictions we have reached a situation in our American life which calls for action on the part of those who think they know what are the rights of American citizenship. Take, for example, the action of the Board of Education of Council Bluffs, Iowa, refusing admission to the high school to pupils whose parents on account of religious principles opposed to war sought to have their sons enter the school. In Oklahoma the Students Committee against Compulsory Military Training secured from the Farmers' Union support, including free legal aid if necessary, for all students opposed to drill.

At both branches of the University of California and at Ohio State good committees are reopening their petitions to the Faculties and Trustees at the beginning of the school year in order that these bodies need not delay until the close of college for decisions.

Well has it been said, unyielding objection to compulsory drill is a fundamental right, based upon ample precedent and basic American traditions. Our country was founded upon the right to object, and our history is filled with noble defenses of the inviolability of private conscience.

A number of high schools and colleges have ceased to compel students to drill, such as Boston university and the College of the City of New York and Wisconsin university. Harvard has no compulsory military training, but in all our Boston schools above the eighth grade it is compulsory, unless on grounds of physical unfitness or the conscientious objections of parents. Compulsory military training in American schools and colleges in face of the General Pact for the Renunciation of War signed at Paris in 1928! In the face, too, of the statement of Secretary Kellogg, "If the peoples are minded that there shall be no more war, there will not be. Inculcate into the minds of people a peaceful attitude, teaching them that war is not only a barbarous means of settling disputes, but one which has brought upon the world the greatest affliction, suffering, and disaster!"

To pledge ourselves as a nation to seek peace and ensue it, to declare ourselves in favor of all peaceful means to avert war, to discountenance whatever fosters the spirit of war—to do this and then to arm our youth with guns, to set them marching to the stirring notes of fife and drum, so awakening and stimulating the martial spirit—what is this but belying the sacred pledge we made in the Pact we signed in Paris? The day is not far distant when military training in our schools and colleges will be a thing of the past.—Our Dumb Animals.

—Rev. J. E. Pritchard received from his people last Sunday an offering to help pay the balance due the HERALD printers. He will hold it till next Sunday to give others an opportunity to contribute. We thank him and his generous people.

Brother Shelton in Hospital

A letter from Brother Shelton some days ago informed us that he was a patient at the Shelby hospital, having had an operation for appendicitis. A later communication brought the gratifying information that he is having a satisfactory recovery. His many friends throughout the Conference will join us in sympathy and prayers for him and his family. Because of his sickness we are cancelling our appointment with Porter church, and will go instead to Fallston charge. We are sure that Porter will endorse this change under the circumstances, and we shall hope to be there later in the year. Brother J. D. Williams improves slowly, though he has not been able to enter fully upon his work yet. Mrs. E. A. Bingham has been a recent patient for a few days at the High Point hospital. She is at home again and we trust still improving. She too will have our sympathy and prayers.

"Happy New Year"

Most of our HERALD readers will get the paper on New Year's Day. Please let our "Happy New Year" be more than a formal salutation. We sincerely wish for our people not only a day of happiness, but a whole year of it. And just the sort of happiness that comes from faith in God and constant adherence to duty. Happiness like this is lasting, and does not depend upon outward surroundings and circumstances. And it is just the sort that God wants his children to have. So I say again, "Happy New Year."

And that New Year Resolve. Go ahead and make it. You may not keep it, or you may. But nevertheless, go on and make it. By doing so you will at least show the right inclination; and if you keep it, you will have made that much addition to the assets of character. But make it with the purpose of keeping it, and then strive through the year to make your purpose good, remembering that heaven helps those who help themselves—and those who cannot help themselves, too. All of us have need to resolve to be better Christians during 1932, and, surely God will be pleased if we register that resolve on New Year's Day. And he will be pleased also to make grace abound toward us that we may keep it.

College Bonds

We have had two meetings in the schedule as recently published in the HERALD by Brother Harrison—one at Henderson and the other on Halifax charge. Brother Harrison was with us, and in his clear and forceful manner, represented the matter to each group. Interest is being created in these bonds, and we believe that our people will invest in them. This phase of the work is to go on until the conference has been covered, as will be seen from our list of appointments appearing this week. We MUST sell these bonds. As the new year dawns, may there dawn upon us a new vision for High Point College.

BY A BOND, and thus help along this necessary and worthy undertaking.

Week of Prayer

The last annual conference ordered that the second week in January—beginning the 3rd and ending the 10th—be observed as a week of prayer for the conference. Attention was called to this in our weekly letter, December 10; but for emphasis we are referring to it again. We are confronted by local church problems and conference problems that are perplexing to us, but not to God. And we are facing a new conference year with its regular routine work that concerns the Kingdom and the glory of God; and besides, these are unusual times that we are in, and so far as human wisdom can be relied upon, we are in need of special inducements of grace for these special times. All of these things make it necessary for us to be much in prayer, and seem to justify the designation of this special period of prayer. Let us pray. Of course we will throughout the year; but during this designated time, let us put special emphasis on prayer. In the pulpit, the pew, and the home, let us pray, with penitence and consecration, the blessings of God upon us individually and upon the conference. We have no interest in this whatever as merely a conference order; but we do have great interest in it as a season of real prayer. And we have great faith in the power of God to help us with our problems, and his readiness to do it. Let us pray.

Quarterly Conferences

Since our last report we have held three quarterly conferences. The first was on the Forsyth charge, Rev. R. A. Hunter pastor. This was held at Maple Springs on the night of December 14th, with an unusually large attendance. We found the charge very well organized, both in the spiritual and the financial aspects of the work. There is a Sunday School at all five churches; a C. E. Society at Maple Springs and Mt. Carmel; and an Auxiliary at Hickory Ridge, Maple Springs, and Mt. Carmel. The Sunday School at Mt. Carmel was reported to have the best attendance within the history of the church. The total budget for this charge is $2,375, or $5.71 per member. This is $5.00 less than was raised for all purposes in 1930 (We do not have the records yet for 1931). Brother Hunter has been cordially received, and has entered very earnestly upon his work. His slogan, as adopted by the conference, is, "ALL TOGETHER FOR ALL THE PROGRAM OF ALL THE CHURCH." The charge reported to date, $79 on salary. No budget payments were reported. Brother J. E. Pritchard was present as a visitor. At our request he spoke to the conference on behalf of the HERALD. We are confident of a good year on this charge.

The next of these three conferences was held at South Lexington. This was also a well attended conference, with both churches on the charge represented. Reports indicated that each of the two churches on this charge is doing good work. The average Sunday School attendance at Mt. Carmel since conference has been 96; South Lexington has had an average attendance of 270. This school keeps growing, and the room now is not at all adequate. A new church here, with more room, is badly needed. The congregation is already at work on this, and we hope to see a new church here in no remote future. But we advise against any heavy debt. It will be recalled that Mt. Carmel built last year at a cost of $2,500. The present indebtedness is $465. Each church has a good Auxiliary, and South Lexington has a C. E. Society with 75 members. The Mt. Carmel church was reported to be in the best condition ever. The number of accessions on this charge last year is 128. This is the largest of any charge in the conference. Ten women have been named as a committee on the HERALD. The pastor is sure of receiving the subscription allotment on the charge. The salary is paid in full to date at South Lexington, and some on the A. C. B. Mt. Carmel is not quite so well up. The financial allotment to this charge is not large—only $1,725, or $4 per member. We hope to see this all paid in full—every item of it—and South Lexington on every conference honor roll. Brother Isley continues to be popular with his people, and earnest in his work.

Our last of this trio of conferences was held at Littleton. Here again the attendance was gratifying, though not quite so large as at the two other places. Pastor Bingham outlined a good program for the year's work. He will strive to visit every member at least once during the year; preach better sermons; get all conference claims paid in full; have each Sunday School contribute monthly to the Children's Home; adopt the envelop system in his churches; and put special emphasis on evangelism. All of these purposes received the unanimous endorsement of the conference. Vaughn, Littleton, and Corinth have no Sunday Schools. Hawkins has a C. E. Society and an Auxiliary has just been organized. A small indebtedness on the parsonage, incurred for repairs, was apportioned to the different churches. We trust that this may be promptly paid. The conference ordered the parsonage insured in the amount of $1,200. Brother Bingham and his wife are doing faithful work, and we bespeak for them the continued support of the charge. We trust that this may be a year of developments and growth on this work. We were sorry to find our friend, Z. V. Mitchell ill. He has just undergone a major operation. It was gratifying to find that he is recovering. We trust that he may soon regain his accustomed strength.

On Sunday we preached at Littleton, Weavers, and Vaughn, and was heard with pleasing attention at each place. The congregation at Vaughn filled the house. Brother Sam Rogers of this church has been ill. We enjoyed a brief visit with him and his family, and was glad to find that he is apparently better. A brief visit with Brother D. A. Fishel and Miss Pearl gave us much pleasure. His many friends in the conference will be glad to know that his health is much better than it was some months ago. His advancing years and declining health, have made no impairment of his remarkably clear and vigorous mind. He enjoys talking about the conference of other years, and relates many interesting experiences of those days. He inquires, too, about the brethren that are still living, and expresses his interest in them. It is always a pleasure to be in his home.

We enjoyed our visits with all of these charges, and those who befriended us with entertainment and other kindnesses have our grateful thanks. We wish also to express appreciation of Brother N. M. Harrison's kindness in conveying us back and fourth in this eastern trip.

PASTORS PLEASE NOTE

Please read "THE HERALD CAMPAIGN" column this week. Has your charge determined to raise its quota? Now is the time to begin and I am appealing to you to get this started immediately in every church in your charge. A number of pastors have already assured me that they are behind this campaign. Let us begin now and success will be ours. "IT CAN BE DONE."

OUR STORY PAGE

WHEN BYNG ACTED AS A MISSIONARY

Byng was the hospital dog, now this meant that Byng belonged to the Christian hospital, where people who were sick or wounded could go and get help.

The hospital where Byng had his home was in China, and there was a soldier's camp not far away. One day it happened that one of the soldiers noticed Byng coming along the road with something white in his mouth. The soldier was curious to learn what it was that the dog was carrying, so he stopped Byng and persuaded him to let him see what he had in his mouth.

Byng wagged his tail as if he was trying to say, "I wanted you to ask me; it is for you and we want you to read it."

The soldier saw that it was leaves out of a Book, which he showed to his companions. Some of them were able to read and they became so interested in what they read that they longed to get more.

"The dog will likely come this way again and when he does we will follow him and see where he comes from, and maybe we can find out about the Book," said the man who had taken the leaves out of Byng's mouth.

Shortly after this Byng came back and the man followed him home. When he came to the hospital he asked if he could get some more of the Book that he got from the dog.

The Christian people at the hospital were glad to give the soldier what he wanted, for it gave them a chance to visit the camp and tell the soldiers about the Saviour who died to save them. These soldiers were so rejoiced to hear about Jesus that they gave themselves to the Lord in great numbers.—Selected.

"I AM NOT AFRAID OF THE FERRYMAN"

A father had his little daughter out late one evening. The night was dark, and they had passed through a thick wood to the brink of a river. Far away on the opposite shore a light twinkled here and there in the few scattered houses; and still farther off blazed the bright lamps of the great city to which they were going. The little child was weary and sleepy, and the father held her in his arms while he waited for the ferryman who was at the other side. At length they saw a little light; nearer and nearer came the sound of the oars, and soon they were safe in the boat.

"Father!" said the little girl.

"Well, my child."

"It is very dark, and I cannot see the shore. Where are we going?"

"The ferryman knows the way, little one; we shall soon be over."

"Oh, I wish we were there, father!"

Soon in her home, all her fears were gone.

Some months pass by; and this same little child stands on the brink of a river darker and deeper, more terrible still, the River of Death. The same loving father stands near her, distressed that his child must cross the river. Days and nights he and her mother had been watching over her, leaving her bedside only long enough for their meals, and to pray for the life of their precious one. For hours she has been slumbering, and it seems as if her spirit must pass away without her waking again; but she suddenly awakes, with her eyes bright, reason unclouded, and every faculty alive. A sweet smile is playing upon her face.

"Father," she says, "I have come again to the river side and am waiting for the ferryman to come and take me across."

"Does it seem as dark and cold as when you went over the river, my child?" asked the father.

"Oh no! There is no darkness here. The river is covered with floating silver. The boat coming towards me seems made of solid light; and I am not afraid of the ferryman."

"Can you see over the river, my darling?"

"Oh yes! there is a great and beautiful city there, all filled with light; and I hear the music that the angels make!"

"Do you see anyone on the other side?"

"Why, yes, yes, I see the most beautiful form; and He beckons me now to come. O ferryman, make haste. I know who it is. It is Jesus, my own blessed Jesus. I shall be in His arms. I shall rest on His bosom; I come! I come!"

And thus she crossed over the River of Death, made like a silver stream by the presence of the blessed Redeemer.

Dear reader, when it comes your turn to cross the River of Death will you have the presence of the ever blessed Redeemer with you?

Jesus has gone down in love into the river of death and judgment, that its awful waves might never roll over you. He died that you might live. He said, "It is finished." Now, dear friend, trust Him. He will save you just now. Come to Him as a poor lost sinner. Young as you are you cannot do without Him. You can't get to the other side without Jesus. Believe in Him and you are saved.—Sunlight for the Young.

LACKED YE ANYTHING

"And He said to them, When I sent you without purse and scrip and sandals, did ye lack anything? And they said, Nothing" (Luke 22:35).

It seems to me that our Lord would draw us aside at the close of each day and ask us this same question, Have ye lacked anything today? And what can we answer? Can we tell Him that He has disappointed us, and not cared for us with the tender care of perfect love? No, we must give the disciples' answer, Nothing.

"He who hath made our rest secure, Doth here all good provide."

If we have had disappointments it is because we sought for some satisfaction outside His will, and such disappointments are blessings, for they drive us from the broken and empty cisterns to Him, the fountain of all good, in whom we have all things and abound.—Scripture Truth.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

DUTIES OF SECRETARY OF THANK OFFERINGS

The Thank-Offering has been considered a matter of so much importance in the Missionary Work that the promotion of it has been put in the hands of a special secretary.

Her Qualifications

The Secretary of Thank-Offerings should have the qualities of persistence and faithfulness, and that quality of vision which never loses sight of the three-fold value of the Thank-Offering and the Thank-Offering Service to the women of her church.

1. The Thank-Offering has an educational value.

2. The Thank-Offering has a financial value.

3. The Thank-Offering has a spiritual value.

Her Duties

The Secretary of Thank-Offerings shall secure boxes and envelopes from the Branch and shall provide members of her Auxiliary with the same. She shall keep a list of those who have boxes and shall see that they are returned at the time of the Thank-Offering Service.

She shall promote the plan of holding semi-annual Thank-Offering services and shall assist in the preparation of the programs. After each service she shall report to the Branch Secretary of Thank-Offerings, the number of boxes distributed and the amount received.

The Secretary of Thank-Offerings of the Branch shall try to secure the election of a Thank-Offerings Secretary in every Auxiliary. She shall obtain from the office of the Associate Secretary of the Board of Missions envelopes and boxes—both those designed for the women and those for the young people and shall furnish these free at the request of the Auxiliary Secretary. She shall also assist her in every way possible to secure material for Thank Offering services.

She shall make an annual report in writing to the Branch of the number of boxes sent out and the money reported from each Auxiliary and shall be prepared to give helpful suggestions for the programs of Thank Offering Services. Committee on Education, Women's Missionary Work.

—General Store: "We sell everything—even saddles for nightmares."

—William Lyn Phelps says: "If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man."

—Forty Catawba 4-H club members are planting 1,000 black walnut seedlings this fall and 150 adults are also planting a few trees each, says T. L. Robinson, county agent.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY

The American Bible Society, a missionary organization, whose sole object is "to encourage a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment," does a four-fold work:

Translation: Some portion of the Bible appears in a new language on an average of once every five weeks. In this responsibility the Society has a not-worthy share.

Publication: Without purpose of profit the Society publishes the Scriptures in many languages and in all styles of bindings, especially in inexpensive editions.

Distribution: During 1930 the Society distributed 12,035,133 Bibles, Testaments, and Portions in 285 languages. Agency secretaries, missionaries, colporteurs, correspondents, pastors, Sunday school workers, and interested friends participated in this service.

Service to the Blind. In 1930 the Society issued 4,927 volumes in Braille and other suitable systems to persons unable to see. Embossed Scriptures are now available at 25 cents per volume.

The Society must receive each year upwards of $375,000 from living donors to carry on its world-wide work. Voluntary gifts, whether large or small, are welcomed and may be sent to the treasurer, American Bible Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York City.

PLEASANT STREET.

The folk that live in Pleasant Street,
Are just the kind you like to meet,
Smiling lips and twinkling eyes,
That make you think of sunny skies.

They always have a word to say
That sends you happy on your way.
It gives new zest to merely meet
The kind that live in Pleasant Street.

Their dispositions are serene,
You know the people that I mean?
The kind one always likes to meet,
I wish more lived in Pleasant Street.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Orange Charge.—The Christmas season is passing quietly. We have been remembered by a number of cards, for which we express our thanks. We also express our appreciation for gifts of food, etc., which we have received from time to time since Conference. Yesterday, when we went to the Ford after preaching at Chestnut Ridge we found it had been loaded with provisions suitable for a preacher's family. We wish to thank all who have shown kindness to us.

The work is moving along nicely. All appointments have been filled to date. Congregations have been good.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Glen Raven Circuit.—The first quarterly conference convened in Fairview church December 19. An official delegation from each of the churches was present. The business incident to the work of the circuit was attended to with interest. The financial allotments were made and accepted with a response that tokens success.

Christmas programs were given at each church. We were present at Haw River and Glen Raven. Sorry that a conflict in time of Glen Raven and Fairview kept us away from the latter church. These exercises were of a high order and enjoyed by large congregations.

The generosity of the people here becomes more evident from day to day. On the past Wednesday evening the good folks from Haw River invaded the parsonage, leaving in their retreat many useful and necessary articles for the pantry. We were sorry not to be at home, but just the same deeply appreciate the pounding. Also, the Fairview people sent us a nice Christmas box that made us happy to receive.

Jerry Lea Hughes, of the Haw River church, died December 18. The funeral was held on the evening of the 19th by the pastor from the home. To the relatives that survive we extend our sincere sympathy.

J. P. PEGG, Pastor.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge. Our last appointment for 1931 was filled by President Taylor. It was a wonderful sermon, full of Christmas spirit which went out over our neighborhood and caused us to think more about what Christmas was. That it was a time of holy worship instead of a time to engage in some sinful act. He also explained to us what made Christmas. He said that cooking, eating, visiting, giving presents or anything of the kind didn't make Christmas, as most people seemed to think. But that "Christ" made Christmas, and that he wished that he could so deeply put it in the hearts and minds of the people that even the little children would never forget it. Last night, December 26, the Sunday school gave a very nice Christmas tree. Prizes were awarded to our superintendent, F. D. Wilson, and five scholars, Miss Verla Mae Walker, Miss Naomi Walker, Eugene Whitty and little Douglas and Marie Wilson, for regular attendance at Sunday school. A large crowd attended the occasion, but among our visitors the most welcome one, I think, was dear old Santa Claus, who made himself helpful in handing out the fruits and presents to the children. It was a surprise to the little ones to see him Saturday night, after taking such a long trip Friday night, but nevertheless that dear old saint was there, cheerful and loving as ever.

After singing several Christmas songs Brother P. E. Bingham gave a nice little talk and prayed a very touching prayer, which I trust will warm our hearts so that we will start a new year's work with an aim like this, "My aim is to work more for the Lord this new year than I did in the past one."

Collection was also taken for the benefit of our parsonage, which we hope we can soon see some way to pay out of debt. I pray God's blessings on you all in the coming new year, for great success in our work for the Lord.

MRS. D. G. DICKENS, Reporter.

Siler City.—On the first Sunday night in December Rev. J. A. Burgess, of the Alamance charge, was with us and gave us a wonderful message. We had a good congregation and each one enjoyed the sermon very much. We hope he can be with us again in the near future.

Then again on the third Sunday at 11 o'clock one of our oldest and most beloved ministers, Rev. W. M. Pike, came and gave us a great sermon on "Our Heavenly Home." Brother Pike was at his best and a large congregation enjoyed this good message. We have heard Brother Pike preach many good sermons and this was another of his best. We are still without a shepherd and hope Brother Pike will not mind coming to our rescue again in the near future. We are so glad to have him with us.

The C. E.'s and three small Sunday school classes, under the direction of Misses Minnie Cooper, Sallie Smith, Clota Andrew and Flossie Siler, presented a Christmas program consisting of Christmas carols, recitations and a drill by eight girls. Messrs. Marvin Phillips and three Brady brothers did much to help in the program with several old time and new Christmas carol selections. After the program a beautiful old-time tree was unloaded to the children. Also, some of the grown-up children enjoyed some of the burdens of the tree. The smaller children of the Sunday school were presented with a treat.

I now close, trusting the Herald readers have had a very merry Christmas and wishing every one of you a most prosperous new year.

MRS. J. A. COOPER.

Scuth Lexington.—Our first quarterly conference has been held. We were very glad to have Dr. Taylor with us in this service. Our reports were very encouraging. We are paid up to date on pastor's salary and on our conference claims.

Among some of the things brought up in the conference was the matter of changing the name of the church, which we found would have to be taken up in our preaching service. The matter was brought up on the following Sunday morning and the vote was unanimous to change to First M. P. church. We felt that the name of the church should be changed owing to the fact that this is the oldest and strongest of the two M. P. churches in the city.

Our Christmas exercises were held on Christmas eve at 7 o'clock. The church was filled, also the Sunday school rooms, and there were many on the outside who could not get in the church. The children rendered a splendid program with their speeches and recitations. At the close of the program Rev. G. H. Hendry was called on to present a fountain pen to Rev. Mr. Isley which the church gave him as a token of their love. Bro. H. C. Koonts, superintendent of the Sunday school, and several of the teachers were also presented with gifts. After the presentation of these gifts every member of the Sunday school was given a treat. At the close of this the gifts were distributed from the large Christmas tree and everyone, both young and old, seemed happy.

REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—We had a fine Christmas program, and a large crowd.

Pastor Smith preached a fine sermon at 11 o'clock today.

We have prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Our meetings have been real interesting. Visitors are always welcome. We had a large crowd out for Sunday school today.

Christian Endeavor meets every Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Young boys and girls, why not visit us? We will be glad to welcome you.

The good members of our church gave a pounding to a sick widow lady Monday night, December 21.

The members have been doing a little repair work on the parsonage. A new front porch has been put on and the roof repaired; also a new garage nearly completed. We will have to take off our hats to F. G. Starnes, because he was the one who supervised the job. Of course he had a good bunch of helpers.

J. V. DWIGGINS, Reporter.

West Forsyth.—Our appointment was at Harmony Grove church last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. W. T. Way, brother of the pastor, and a member of the Burlington Methodist Protestant church, was present and assisted in the music for the Sunday school and preaching service by playing a cornet. His wife and the pastor's mother were also visitors in the Sunday school and church service.

The first quarterly conference was held at Pleasant Hill church on the third Sunday in December with an unusually good attendance. The pastor preached at 11 o'clock. Dinner was served at the church during the noon hour and the conference began at 1:30 o'clock. Bro. J. H. Spease was re-elected secretary of the conference for the coming year. The item of business which required the most discussion to dispose of was the matter of apportioning the pastor's salary. A committee of six, one from each church, had been appointed at the fourth quarterly conference to make recommendations to the conference. After considerable discussion the apportionments were made, which changed the amounts of some of the churches. Fairly good progress was reflected in the reports of the Sunday school superintendents. The pastor's financial report was poor as compared with the report made at the first quarterly conference last year. The report showed $15.45 received on the salary for the new conference year, and a balance of $53.95 due from last conference year. Only two churches had paid anything on the salary for the new conference year, Tabernacle and Harmony Grove. A total of 49 pastoral visits had been made and one funeral conducted since the adjournment of the annual conference.

The pastor and family wish to express their thanks to the many friends and members of West Forsyth charge and those of charges formerly served for appropriate and appreciated gifts made during the Christmas season. We are also thankful to the many members and friends who have remembered us with Christmas greeting cards and messages. From members at Stony Knoll the pastor and wife and children each received appropriate gifts which were appreciated. Also members of Pleasant Hill and Tabernacle churches presented suitable gifts for which we are very thankful.

Visitors at the parsonage during the Christmas holidays were the following: Mrs. Mary E. Way, mother of the pastor; Mr. W. T. Way, a brother of the pastor, and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hargrove and daughter, Erma Dell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hargrove, all of Burlington. Both of the Mrs. Hargroves are sisters of the pastor's wife.

Very good attendance and interesting programs were rendered at four of the churches during Christmas week, and the ideal winter weather prevailing afforded all the opportunity of enjoying the different programs rendered.

Our appointments next Sunday will be at Baltimore church at 11 o'clock a. m. and at Stony Knoll church at 2:30 p. m. We expect to observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at each church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Belmont, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our church and Sunday school are going well and the outlook is bright. Mr. Royzell Coble, our new superintendent, is taking a great interest in the school.

Our new pastor, Bro. L. E. Mabry, gave us a splendid sermon Sunday, his subject being, "Will You Follow Christ?" Matthew 8:19 was used as the text. We feel that this sermon was a challenge to us to rededicate our lives and take as our New Year resolution, "Master, I will follow Thee whithersoever thou goest."

We had a very beautiful Christmas tree Christmas eve night, at which time a good program was given by the children. Miss Nannie Coble, who had charge of the children, deserves credit for the splendid manner in which they rendered their parts. Every member of the Sunday school received a nice treat and the smaller children received a present also. A large number of "good cheer" packages were given by the Sunday school to the sick and aged of our community and to our pastor.

The intermediate girls of Miss Ramah Shoffner's Sunday school class gave Brother Mabry and wife a Christmas box containing fruits, candy, nuts and a toy for the baby. They prepared six other boxes of fruit which were given to the sick and aged, and sent a nice gift to little Harold Sharpe. You may wonder how these girls gave so much. Here is the secret: With the exception of the pastor's box, which was a free-will gift, they did it with their birthday money. Try this plan in your junior and intermediate classes and you will be surprised how much good can be accomplished with the pennies.

We were more than glad to have Bro. J. Elwood Carroll, our former pastor, visit in our community during the holidays. Brother Carroll will always find a welcome in our homes and church. We shall never forget the good things he did for our church and community. May God bless him as he continues his work for the Master.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Floyd Stinson is suffering with a broken leg. Mrs. W. H. Rich is also on the sick list. We hope they will soon be well and back with us at church.

REPORTER.

West End, Greensboro. Cards and good wishes began to come to the parsonage long before Christmas and they have continued all through the holiday season. They have come in large numbers from our own West End people and numbers have come from the other parishes served in other days. All these remembrances and good wishes were greatly appreciated. A Christmas card is a small thing in itself but when it expresses love and good wishes of the season it means much. We say, "Thank you all." And we wish everyone the greatest joy ever.

West End began to express itself in program on Sunday, December 20. The Sunday school expressed itself by making a gift of more than $200 to the church debt. At the morning hour the pastor used the subject, "Modern Wise Men." The choir rendered most beautiful and appropriate music in anthem and hymn. The congregation joined in singing the good old Christmas hymns most joyously. In the afternoon the Christian Endeavor Society visited Brother Wilson Katledge, one of our shut-in members, and conducted a beautiful program. Brother Katledge replied by rendering music which he makes as he lies in bed. At the evening service in the main auditorium of the church the regular Christmas program was rendered. The choir was at its best as it rendered music of the highest order from the choir loft, and as the choir was invisible the music came in echo style. The departments of the Sunday school from the Beginners to the Adults rendered segments of the program, each department bringing white gifts in large quantities of useful articles and placing them at the altar of the church. These gifts were afterward distributed to homes where there was need. The cash offering more than cared for the superannuate apportionment. West End church for years has practiced the White Gift idea at Christmas. No treat is given and if gifts are presented at all it is in a very modest way and always among the departments, usually on the "Pollyanna" style. No display is made of it. The children have been taught to give and it is indeed interesting to observe their spirit of giving and how much they are interested in others. The decorations at this Christmas service were most beautiful and artistic. Many have been the favorable expressions and many have been heard to say, "The most beautiful I have ever seen."

At 6 o'clock Christmas morning an early

Christmas service was observed. The Christmas story was read and commented upon. Beautiful Christmas songs were sung in the service proper and then songs were sung at the steps of the church and on the street. This was the first service of the kind ever rendered in this church and it is believed it made a favorable impression.

On Christmas eve Santa Claus visited the parsonage and presented to the parsonage family a fine Christmas dinner. Everything to make a complete dinner was included. It could not be expected to be any other than a good and well-balanced dinner when it is known that the good West End ladies played Santa Claus in this instance. We thank you, ladies. Come again.

We were glad to have Rev. W. F. Ashburn to worship with us December 20. We are always glad to have Brother Ashburn with us. His presence always adds to the service of worship.

For Christ and the church,

GEO. L. CURRY.

First Church, High Point.—An original play called "The Big Red Chimney," written by Mrs. L. R. Johnston, was presented by a number of the Sunday school pupils on Wednesday evening, December 23, in the assembly room of the church. This play in four acts constituted the center of the annual Christmas program by the church school. The theme of the play was altruistic, teaching that the true spirit of Christmas is exemplified in doing something for others. Mrs. L. R. Johnston and her committee coached the children, whose presentation was unusually good and realistic, and showed painstaking care and training on the part of the committee and real talent by the youthful actors. Leading parts were taken by Misses Alene and Edith Vance, Joseph Farmer, Yancy Cecil, Doris Koonce and others. Miss Anne Robbins sang very beautifully. Generous gifts of substance and the free-will offering were donated to the welfare board of the city, of which Mrs. C. Hammond is executive secretary.

On Sunday morning, December 27, after a beautiful duet, "Glory to God in the Highest," the congregation had the pleasure of listening to a timely and comforting sermon by the minister, Rev. R. J. Farmer, on the theme, "Gifts That Christ Brought," from John 1:17: "For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." He said that these gifts of grace and truth which Christ brought are inexhaustible. Neither John nor Jesus underestimated the law; we must learn in life that law is the expression of God. Both nature and grace work together in opposition to sin. God so constructed the law that the soul that sinneth shall die. "The wages of sin is death." No reformation is made by law alone, but grace and truth came from Christ. Grace is the attitude of God toward man not earned by anything we may do, but by love which is His free gift to us, although unmerited. His grace is the downward reach toward those who are unworthy. Love exists between equals, but grace only extends downward. That grace is love, and endows the unlovely with loveliness. "By grace are ye saved; it is the gift of God." Grace is not hereditary; I have known godly fathers and mothers who had sons and daughters who disgraced them and brought their gray hairs in sorrow to the grave and vice versa. Every man and woman has the power to reject grace and truth, but not the right to do so. Truth in the abstract produces men like Voltaire, Ingelsoll, Tom Paine, Clarence Darrow, but grace and truth produce men like Henry Drummond, Charles H. Spurgeon, Dr. Cadman and innumerable other great and good men. Do you have the grace of God in your heart? Are you growing in the grace and knowledge of Jesus Christ? It was a source of regret to the congregation not to hear Miss Anne Robbins sing as scheduled in the bulletin, but she was prevented by a cold. We hope for that pleasure before she returns to Cincinnati.

The second of the popular series of Sunday evening sermons was delivered Sunday evening by Rev. Mr. Farmer on "Two Things Required," from the text in Proverbs 30:7, 8, "Two things have I required of thee . . . remove far from me vanity and lies; give me neither poverty nor riches." Gene Stratton Porter said in "The Keeper of the Bees," "A great adventure may be killing white hippopotami in Africa to one man and commanding his own soul for an hour to another." Extreme riches and extreme poverty both have their drawbacks. Spiritual danger lurks in both, and the golden mean in life is lost for all of us.

The fellowship supper meetings will be resumed Thursday evening of this week. This New Year's meeting will honor the young people of the congregation and Sabbath school who teach or are students in college. Circle No. 5, Mrs. Ross Davis, chairman, will superintend the tables, and a covered dish supper contributed by individual members will be served. A short message will be delivered by the pastor.

Among the young people of the congregation who are students at different colleges and universities and are spending the Christmas holiday at home, the following are found: Miss Louise Jennings, from the state university; Miss Vista Dixon, from Baltimore, where she is taking home economics; Wilbur Pritchard, from State College, Raleigh; Miss Dorothy Rankin, from Western Maryland; Miss Anne Robbins, from Cincinnati Conservatory of Music; Miss Margaret Neese, from Greensboro College for Women; John York, from Oak Ridge Institute; Robert Davis, from state university; Alfred Moffitt, from the state university.

Miss Claire Douglas, who teaches in Davenport College, Lenoir, N. C., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Douglas, on Montlieu avenue.

Mrs. W. P. Pickett and her grandson Fletcher Cox, left Tuesday morning for Tampa, Fla., to visit Mrs. Herman S. Meredith. Mrs. Pickett plans to spend the winter months there.

Miss Rosalie Andrews, a teacher in the city schools, went to Charlotte to spend the Christmas season with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Andrews.

Lester B. Teague, his sister, Miss Gertrude, and Hunter Teague, of Sumter, S. C., were guests of Mrs. W. P. Bodenheimer and Judge Lewis E. Teague during Christmas. Their brother, Earl Teague, of Durham, joined them here. While here Miss Gertrude Teague went to Melbane to spend the day with Miss Edna Nicholson, of Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hill and baby daughter, Barbara Anne, have been here for a few days as guests of Mr. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hill, on Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pritchard, Miss Esther and Wilbur Pritchard attended a family reunion at the home of his brother, Mr. C. C. Pritchard, at Thomasville, on Christmas day. Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Pritchard and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pritchard and small son, of Winston-Salem, were also present on this pleasant occasion.

Mrs. C. L. Whitaker has been in Lexington several days with her sister, Mrs. John C. Hunt, who is ill. She was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis White, of Greensboro, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Pritchard spent the holidays with relatives in Red Springs, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis and family are planning a trip to Florida in the next few days.

High Point College will open its doors for classes next Monday, January 4, after a Christmas recess of two weeks.

The new junior high school building will be opened Monday morning, January 4. The old building on South Main street, which has been used for school purposes since 1897, is being razed to make way for the handsome federal building to be erected for a post-office. This historic structure holds many tender memories of school days for a large number of men and women of adult age in High Point, but sentiment and feeling must bow before the march of progress.

Mt. Hermon Church.—A funeral service for Mrs. Mary E. Garrett, a faithful member of our church, replaced the regular preaching service on the third Sunday of this month.

The church is glad to extend a hearty welcome to those who have been away during the past months. Our church also welcomes all visitors to the regular and special programs put on by the church and its organizations.

On Christmas eve the Sunday school gave a splendid Christmas program. The older people as well as the children were delighted with the beautiful tree as well as the nice presents and treat. Thanks to the Sunday school. Our Sunday school attendance for the year has been fine but we hope to make it better in the coming year.

The C. E. Society held its Christmas social in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Isley. A large number of young people attended and everyone had a good time due to the wise planning of the kind hostesses, Misses Ruby and Truth Isley.

A large number of people attended the December auxiliary meeting, which was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holt.

CHURCH REPORTER.

Thomasville, First.—Last Wednesday night before Christmas our church presented a pageant entitled "The Eternal Quest." The characters were as follows: A prophet, Joseph and Mary, three shepherds, the Spirit of the Quest, the Spirit of Youth, and 10 young people who represented the youth of today. A large crowd assembled in the auditorium and everyone enjoyed the program.

We had a Christmas tree also with the pageant, and many gifts were distributed by Santa Claus. Some of the smaller children delighted in seeing Santa, while others cried and would not get close to him. With this program we tried to start the Christmas spirit in the right way. We hope that this spirit was continued and everyone had a merry Christmas.

Our pastor preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday to close the old year. His main thought was that everyone should come to himself and start the new year in the right way. We either go forward or backward, so it is up to us as church members to work and progress in the Christian life. Let us all co-operate and work faithfully that we might make the church stand out larger than ever before.

REPORTER.

Graham.—Our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. J. L. Amick, is smiling broadly; last Sunday and the second Sunday also the attendance was 201, a record for Graham Sunday school. Let's keep him smiling by bringing more next Sunday.

The Women's Auxiliary met in regular monthly session last Monday evening. Despite the fact that less than the usual number were present, an inspirational meeting was held and quite a lot of business was transacted. For the remainder of the winter months the meetings will be held in the homes. Misses Lizabel Foust and Nannie Burke are to be joint hostesses next month.

The Christmas program will be given Wednesday evening. Mrs. J. Clyde Auman and Mrs. S. S. Holt are the directors of this program. By being present Wednesday evening we may show in some measure our appreciation of their service.

MRS. J. H. McPHERSON, Reporter.

Love's Grove Sunday School, Midland Ct.—We are still moving on at Love's Grove, but not what we would like, for there are some hindrances, but we know if we are on God's side we will overcome. Our Sunday school is moving on very well with our faithful superintendent always on the job.

Brother Reed has preached two very good sermons for us; the people like him very well, for he is one of our boys who went out in the vineyard to work for the Master and we are glad for him to come back to preach for us.

Death visited our church December 22 and called sister John Efrid to her reward. She died suddenly. She has many friends left to mourn but we should not mourn for her, for from the life she lived we know she is at rest with Jesus. To Brother Efrid we would say, Weep not, for if we live the right life we will meet her again. Our prayer is for Brother Efrid to look to Jesus for help.

With best wishes to The Herald and its readers.

Laurel Hill.—On Sunday, December 13, our new pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton, preached for us. The sermon was an inspiring one and a large audience was present. We gladly welcome Mr. Shelton and his family into our midst. We are hoping to work together and that we may have a great year doing work for our Master.

We were sorry to give up our former pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, and his family, but were very fortunate in securing Rev. Mr. Shelton. Rev. Mr. Morgan has been pastor of our church for the past eight years. During those years much work has been done for our Heavenly Father. As Bro. Morgan goes from us our prayers go with him.

We are very thankful that our superintendent, Mr. A. A. Sain, is still improving. We are hoping that he will soon be able to be back to worship with us.

On Thursday night before Christmas a short Christmas program was rendered by our Sunday school pupils. After the program many beautiful gifts were distributed from the Christmas tree.

We are very sorry to know that Pastor Shelton is in Shelby hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. But we are thankful that he is improving. We are trusting that he will soon be able to worship with us again.

A pounding was given our pastor on Tuesday before Christmas.

Hoping that all the Herald readers will have a great and prosperous new year.

REPORTER.

State Street, Lexington.—On Sunday evening, December 13, we enjoyed a rare musical treat in the program presented by Prof. Stimpson and his group of vocal and instrumental students of High Point College. A large audience heard this talented and well-trained group to their delight and inspiration.

We are glad to note a pleasing growth in interest and attendance at all the regular services. A 15-minute program of song service preceding the evening address by the pastor is drawing good crowds. These song services are led by Mr. B. H. Leonard in a splendid way.

Mr. John Leonard, brother of the choir leader, has taken the Men's Bible class after being repeatedly urged to do so by many of the men of the class who know Mr. Leonard's ability as a teacher. He and his talented daughters are a valuable addition to the choir.

There will be a program of music and readings and a Christmas tree and visit from Santa Claus Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Best wishes for a happy Christmas and good New Year to the Herald and all its readers and all good Methodist Protestants everywhere, especially Dr. and Mrs. Dixon, Miss Vista and all the folks at the Home.

MRS. J. F. B., Reporter.

Charlotte.—The Christian Endeavor Society had charge of the evening service December 20 at 7:30. The president, Mrs. Steve Connor, presided, giving the opening prayer. The topic was "Christmas Messages in Literature." The opening song, "Joy to the World," was sung by all present, Miss Mildred Younginer, C. E. pianist, at the piano. Scriptures, Isaiah 9:6-7, 9, were read by Misses Helen McCall and Mary Shaw. Favorite songs and why were given by Mesdames Little, "Holy Night, Silent Night," and Love, "Away in a Manger," after which one verse of each was sung. Favorite scriptures by Mr. Herbert Garrison and Mrs. Younginer. "My Favorite Memory of Christmas" was given by Mr. J. C. Penny in his interesting and entertaining manner. Misses Mary Shaw, Beulah Smith, Mildred Younginer and Dorothea Andrews delighted the audience with beautiful Christmas stories.

Dr. Andrews gave a most helpful talk relative to the subject. Misses Dorothea Andrews and Mildred Younginer sang "Sleep, My Little Jesus," with Miss Gray Styles at the piano.

As had been previously announced, this was a "White Gift" service. The offering was a generous one, after which the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Andrews, our pastor.

Misses Rosalie and Alma Andrews are spending the holidays with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Andrews.

Miss Barbara Younginer, a student at N. C. C., Greensboro, is home for the holidays. Mrs. B. W. Little and family spent Christmas in Hickory.

Mrs. J. C. Penny entertained her Sunday school class at her home, "Penny Grov," on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Penny is a charming hostess.

The Sunday school officers delighted the children with a treat of candy, apples, oranges and nuts last Wednesday evening.

Dr. Andrews' sermon Sunday morning was well received by an interested audience. The subject was "A Prayer for the New Year, 1932." Scripture text, Psalms 90:12, "So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts to wisdom." If we had the magic lamp and could wish, what wish would we make? Most of us would wish health, wealth, happiness. Would we as Solomon did seek wisdom? Wisdom to understand, to know? Will God be pleased with our lives in 1932? The substance of one of the sayings of Bill Nye was that he who was caught twice in the same act did not deserve sympathy. If we do not profit by past mistakes we are not trying very hard. We live in deeds. He lives most who thinks most. Esau sold his birthright. He was not thinking of the future—just the present. Jacob was looking to the future; he wanted, he strove for and attained.

As an artist studies his painting, sees it begun and finished and strives to make it perfect, so should we catch the gleam and press forward. Jesus was tempted like as we, yet without sin. He said, Get behind me, Satan. So should we. What will we say to God at Judgment? Time wasted, opportunity neglected? It is only through a consecrated life we are going to make life count. He will guide us aright if we trust Him.

The audience was delighted with a solo, "Silent Night," on the flute by Joseph Little, accompanied by Miss Alma Andrews at the piano.

The C. E. was well attended. The meeting was led by William Bennett and was well conducted. The Junior C. E. Society had a song service. They have some good voices among their number.

The basketball team of our boys are surely doing good playing. They have not lost a game yet. Mrs. McCall's class is to meet Tuesday evening to elect a cheer leader and learn some yells for the game Wednesday evening.

The Sunday evening service was well attended. Dr. Andrews' subject was, "Some Causes of Failure." Text, I Kings, 20:40, "And as thy servant was busy here and there he was gone." The sin of omission. The Lord makes no more allowance for the sin of omission not doing our duty than He does the sin of commission. Jesus uttered no greater condemnation than He did as recorded in Matthew 25:45, "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto the least of these ye did it not to me."

The church is full of folks just piddling on the job, wasting their time at picture shows, card parties, etc. We will wake up in hell some day because we did not do—not because of what we did.

This man lacked (1) conscience, (2) sense of responsibility, (3) loyalty, (4) character. Not many failures are due to lack of opportunity. There are folks in the church who are so busy doing so many things they don't have time to pray, to read the Bible, go to church, visit the sick, or speak to strangers. We know so much better than we do.

(a) Desecration of the Sabbath not due to ignorance.

(b) Social sins not due to ignorance.

(c) Wasted lives not due to ignorance.

If we fail in life we cannot blame anyone else. We are too lazy to succeed. There are people in the church of Jesus Christ just like that, too lazy to do anything for themselves or anyone else.

A happy and joyous new year to all.

English Street Church.—We had our Christmas entertainment on last Wednesday night, December 23. A large crowd was present and a good program was given by the children. The children were trained by Mrs. J. A. Lee, Mrs. Paul Hulin and Mrs. Aya Hoover. Treats were given out at this time.

At the evening service December 20 an unusually large crowd was present. We were glad indeed to have Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Reynolds with us. Our pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, continues to deliver his fine, uplifting sermons.

The C. E. Society will meet at the church on New Year's night and go to some sick person's home and have a short service. Following the service they will go to the home of Misses Callie and Hope Lorlin, where a social will be held. Near 12 o'clock they will return to the church and have a short program to welcome in the new year.

On Christmas eve a large crowd of En-deavorers went caroling. They went to the homes of sick ones and invalids and sang many beautiful Christmas carols.

Ashboro.—Our church as well as the other churches of the town has been very busy for a few weeks preparing for the Christmas programs. On Sunday morning before Christmas we had a splendid sermon by our pastor and an appropriate anthem by the choir. At 7 o'clock in the afternoon a cantata, "The Music of Bethlehem," by Holton, was very beautifully rendered by the choir. As an appreciation of their faithful services rendered the choir, Mrs. Harriette Walker, director, and Mrs. N. M. Harrison, pianist, were presented with a nice book, "Heart Songs." These were presented in a very pleasing manner by our pastor, Rev. R. C. Stubbins.

On Tuesday evening before Christmas our pastor and his wife, who were invited out for the evening meal, were called home about 8 o'clock to marry a couple. Upon reaching home they found a number of cars parked in front of the parsonage and after entering the house and turning on the lights they found the living room and dining room full of people and the dining room table laden with all kinds of good things to eat and to wear. After opening the packages Mrs. Stubbins made a nice talk, expressing her surprise and delight and appreciation of each gift and of the great pleasure of having all these people as their guests for a little while. Mr. Stubbins also made an appropriate talk.

On Sunday evening, December 27, a union Christmas vesper service was held in the M. E. church, the community choir furnishing the music.

Our sick people are improving at home and in the hospitals. Mrs. Rufus Routh is improving nicely at home after being in the High Point hospital very ill for several weeks. Mr. W. F. Redding, Sr., who underwent an operation in the High Point hospital, is doing well and hopes to be home before a great while. Mrs. J. W. Hill underwent an operation at St. Leo's hospital, Greensboro, on Tuesday before Christmas and is doing nicely. Mrs. W. R. Hamlin is improving at her home after a recent illness.

Rev. and Mrs. Stubbins left Sunday afternoon for a few days' visit with their daughter, Mrs. S. P. Thacker, Jr., at Kingsport, Tenn.

Lebanon, High Point.—Our Christmas entertainment was held last Friday evening under the auspices of the Rainbow Sunday school class. The teacher, Miss Ida Guyer, directed the program. We enjoyed it very much and are proud of the work Miss Guyer and her Rainbow girls are doing.

Sunday evening, December 20, the junior and senior choirs presented a cantata, "The Star of Bethlehem." For this program we feel very grateful to our pastor, Rev. J. C. Madison, who was largely responsible for it. The choirs have made much progress under the directorship of Mr. Madison, and this program was one of the best presented here in several years. We want to thank John Morgan and Lester Furr, of High Point College, for their very gracious help at this time.

On Tuesday evening, December 15, the Ladies' Aid delightfully entertained Rev. Mr. Madison with a surprise birthday party at the home of Mrs. J. A. Readdick. We always enjoy parties at Mrs. Readdick's, and this was the best ever. The society showed their appreciation to Mr. Madison at this time by presenting him with a very attractive gift.

At Christmas time the Ladies' Aid remembered several shut-ins with potted flowers and purchased gifts for the Sunday school teachers. This society has been very active with Mrs. Edward Montgomery as president, and we wish for it an even greater success during the coming year.

Concord, First Church.—Our Sunday school attendance was not as good Sunday as it should have been. We had only 306 present. Some people seem to think that Sunday school is not very important and they can get along without it, but surely every person needs to attend the Sabbath school because there are always blessings to be received at the house of the Lord, and every Christian should be intensely interested in the services of the church and should try to be present for each service.

Brother Morgan preached at the 11 o'clock service and the sermon was simply wonderful. His text was found in the 18th chapter of St. Luke, where the rich young ruler came to Jesus and said, "Good Master, what must I do to be saved?" and after learning that he must lay aside his wealth to follow Christ he turns his back upon Jesus and walks away loving his riches so much that he feels that it is impossible to give them up. Brother Morgan explained to us how Jesus looked after this young man as he walked away with eyes full of pity and love because he was not willing to count the cost and be made free. We have thousands and thousands of people today who will not heed the gospel call because they are not willing to give up their pleasures or sins to follow Christ, but we who have been saved from sin and know the joys of salvation can say from the depths of our hearts that there is joy and peace each step of the way with Christ. And we are prone to believe that the eyes of our Savior still continue to gaze after those who turn away from Him and how His great heart must yearn for them to return, that they might be saved from their sins and take up their cross and follow Him.

Miss Maggie Mann had charge of our Christmas program which was a wonderful success. The boys and girls and everyone in the play did such splendid acting, until it seemed just as real as could be. The play showed to each one that no home is complete without Christ. The tree was a beautiful one; the top brushed the ceiling and its boughs were loaded with beautiful dolls and just the kind of toys to make little hearts happy. Santa was present and of course he was welcome. We feel that everyone enjoyed the Christmas program and went home feeling much better than they did when they came.

We especially appreciate the efforts of each one who helped to put the Christmas play across, for without a play on Christmas eve it doesn't seem like Christmas. And may the spirit of Christmas remain with us throughout the coming year, so that our lives will be pleasing in the sight of Him who came to earth on Christmas morn to bring joy, peace and happiness to the hearts of men.

South Lexington Charge.—Although others have been writing, I have not personally reported since conference. Our work both in Sunday school and in regular church services has been progressing well in both interest and attendance.

The first quarterly conference was held at Lexington Tuesday, December 13. Reports were good. We were glad to have Dr. Taylor with us on this occasion.

At the Sunday morning service at South Lexington church the members unanimously voted to change the name of the church to First Methodist Protestant Church of Lexington.

Many persons on the charge have favored the pastor with splendid gifts of various kinds. Among them are the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mallard, automatic pencil, tie rack, Christmas turkey and cake, apples, oranges, candy, nuts and Christmas tree along with still other useful articles; Phoebe Bean, fresh meat; E. F. Everidge, fresh meat, fruits and candies; H. C. Koontz, fresh meat and other gifts; Mrs. C. L. Hedrick, various articles; Mrs. David Brooks, a number of presents; Mis Lola Peters, valuable gift; H. V. Swicegood, fresh meat; R. M. Rowe, 26 pounds fresh meat; R. M. Fritts, peanuts, popcorn and Christmas cake; Miss Zola Fritts, various presents; Mrs. Finch, nine cans of peaches; Mrs. Julia Waitman, six cans of peaches; First church, Lexington, nice fountain pen.

Pastor's salary on the charge is paid up to date, for which we are very grateful.

Each church put on a very interesting Christmas program.

We were glad to have for Christmas dinner Rev. O. C. Loy and family, also as visitors at other times during the holidays Rev. C. B. Way and Prof. E. F. Cude.

C. G. ISLEY, Pastor.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson Charge.—Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. Our superintendent stated that we have the best group of teachers to be found anywhere.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. There was a good number present. Our pastor, O. C. Loy, used as his subject "The Harvest." The harvest is determined by timely labor. In life a few things determine just what we are. We must rise above our environment. That was what Jesus did. We must make our lives count. We must not be satisfied with too little. These are a few of the helpful points Brother Loy brought out.

We are proud to state that Mrs. Claudie Shoat, who has been real sick for quite a long time, is improving very rapidly. The sick list in our church isn't very long.

Among the visitors Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Murphy and children, of Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leonard and children.

We are very proud of the fact that Mr. Marvin Osborne has moved back to Mt. Pleasant community. We hope he will be with us in the church services for another year.

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Charge.—We had our Christmas exercises Christmas eve night. The children had a short program, after which a pageant was given. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bergeron proved themselves to be very helpful to us. Mrs. Bergeron had charge of the program and also presided at the piano. She had the speakers all so well trained that every part in speaking and singing was carried out to perfection. Mr. Bergeron sang a Christmas solo which was very much enjoyed. It was the best Christmas exercise we have ever had at our church. Everyone seemed to have the Christmas spirit. The decoration was beautiful. The lighted candles around the rostrum made it look so Christmaslike. Much credit is due Mrs. A. C. Bergeron for her efficient work. As usual, the children received their Sunday school treat. We were glad to have one of our former Sunday school boys with us, Mr. Everett Cashatt, principal of Atkinson school. He is visiting his mother through Christmas, Mrs. W. M. Cashatt. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beck, of Carthage, are spending Christmas with the latter's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Beck visited Mr. Beck's father Christmas at Galax, Va. Mrs. Bertha Campbell, who has been indisposed for some time, is back in her usual place at church again.

We are wishing all a happy new year.

MARTHA PARSONS.

The above is the report of cash received during the last two weeks following Thanksgiving and leading up to and through Christmas. We are thankful beyond expression for the privilege of making so good a report. The spirit which prompted these good offerings at this season of the year is wonderful. May a kind and loving Heavenly Father bless abundantly everyone who has contributed for the support of the children gathered here.

Special.

Just before Christmas a fine looking young man came and said, "We have come to put down an oak floor in the entire lower hall of the girls' dormitory." In a very short time he had the lumber and the nails and his men were putting down the floor. Before they quit they got more lumber and finished the entire lower hall and the dining room. Just what an improvement it made no one can know until you see it. Come and see. Five men volunteered their services and came along and worked free of charge. The names of those giving the flooring and of those doing the work must be withheld by their request, but we know them and God knows them and He will bless and repay them. The job would have cost the Home around $250, and consequently we would have had to go without the improvement had not our Father prompted His servants to come and do the work. May God bless each of them. He will.

Plastering Needed.

We have some places needing to be plastered and cracks mended in our walls. We wonder if there is a good plasterer who will donate his time if we can get the materials? May we hear from you? Thank you.

Clothing and Other Gifts.

We have received a number of boxes of clothing and other donations. Our report is long this time and Mother Dixon is sick and worn out, so please let us report these other donations next week. Just one donation has gone over all too long, so we report that.

Mrs. J. W. Hopkins, Greensboro, 1 dress, 2 princess slips and 1 pair pillow cases.

Christmas.

We had a good Christmas with only one child not able to be at the Christmas tree. The gifts were distributed at 9 o'clock Christmas morning. Out of the boxes which came the Home prepared one package each for every child. The Rotary Club of High Point prepared and sent to each child one package. Mrs. C. W. Bates' Sunday school class, of Calvary, prepared and sent one package for each child. And the Gibsonville Sunday school prepared and sent one package for each child. So each child received four packages. Besides that a number of the children received gifts from friends or relatives, and these too were distributed from the tree. They were happy.

The gifts in the main were common-sense gifts which will be useful through the coming weeks. The Lloyd Sunday school class, Asheboro, Miss Esther Ross, teacher, sent candy, and the Philathea class of Asheboro sent 10 dozen handkerchiefs. Others sent handkerchiefs, stockings and other things which helped to make up the Christmas packages, all of which will be reported next week.

May the dear Lord bless all of you and give you a happy and prosperous new year. Pray for us.

A. G. DIXON.

SIXTH DISTRICT RALLY.

The sixth district of the North Carolina Conference, composed of Haw River Circuit, Reidsville, Flat Rock and Kernersville charges, will gather for the annual rally at the Brown Summit church, on Haw River Circuit, Sunday, January 31. The first service will be held at 11 o'clock, at which time the sermon will be preached by one of our outstanding ministers. In the afternoon a number of short addresses will be given, and perhaps a round-table discussion of some of the problems will be made.

Program assignments are now being made, and we are hoping for a large delegation from every church in the district. Let every pastor urge his official board to come and bring all they can to this meeting.

J. L. TROLLINGER, Chairman.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Garrett.

George W. Garrett, age 88, a Civil War veteran, Route 6, Burlington, passed into the Beyond November 22, 1931. The funeral was held in Mount Hermon church, Mount Hermon charge, where the deceased was a member, by the pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, assisted by Revs. D. I. Offman and T. M. Johnson. The interment was in the church cemetery.

Brother Garrett was more widely known to our people as the father of H. A. Garrett, a former superintendent of our Children's Home. While it is true that a life is measured in deeds, not years, it is also true that the greatest contribution one can make to the world, in addition to his own life of righteousness, is to leave worthy sons and daughters. Two other sons, William B., of near Burlington, and D. Monroe, of Haw River, survive; also three grandchildren and the widow, Mrs. Mary Vestal Garrett.

This life that has passed was one of quiet, calm trust in God, unpretentious, never stormy, yet, like the rock reef in the ocean or the cliff on the mountainside, never moved by storm.

As I become reminiscent I am conscious of the fact that George W. Garrett was one of the men in the community whose silent influence made impressions on me as a boy that so became a part of one as never to be eradicated—a sort of feeling that "I am a part of all I have met."

The sympathy of the community goes out to those who feel the loss most keenly. And you feel the loss keenly when the loved ones go, no matter how long they are allowed to remain or how aged they become.

T. M. JOHNSON.

Resolutions of Respect.

On October 3, 1931, God suddenly but gently called and the soul of Marshall Hatley readily responded. His activities here on earth were then over, but he still lives in the memory of his fellow men and his good deeds while on earth will ever remind those who knew him that a good man has passed this way to the land of perfect happiness and joy. Among other things that commended his life to those who knew him was his faithfulness to the Men's Bible class of the First Methodist Protestant church of Albemarle, N. C. For many years he was one of the most faithful and faithful members of this class. He was seldom ever absent and if for any reason he could not be present it was well known that it was for justifiable reasons. His good life will ever be held in the highest esteem of his comrades. His many years of service, loyalty and devotion as demonstrated in this class will not be forgotten by the fellow members and his life will be an incentive to cause others to follow in his footsteps to ideals high and noble. As his place is vacant among us we shall greatly miss his presence and wise counsel. But we bow in humble submission to the will of the Heavenly Father, saying in the words of our Master, "Thy will be done."

Because of our great love and appreciation for this our brother we as a class of men do resolve:

First, that, because of this man of God whose life for so many years served as an inspiration to us, we will continue to be mindful of his good deeds and endeavor to follow his example here in this life and strive to so live that we may be able to meet him in the upper and better world.

Second, that we extend our heartfelt sympathies to Mrs. Hatley, the bereaved companion, and to the other members of the family, commending them to Christ Jesus our Lord, who is ever ready to sustain the sorrowing and whose strong and everlasting arms are always outstretched ready to draw to Himself that He might console.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be made a part of the records of this class and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased and that a copy be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald for publication.

GEORGE L. CURRY,

J. P. GREEN,

CHARLES L. TAYLOR,

Committee.

Sharpe.

On November 9 death made a costly visit to the Friendship community on Mt. Hermon charge and claimed for its own Thomas Eli Sharpe, who was one of the most faithful members of Friendship Methodist Protestant church. Both church and community are feeling very much the loss, but neither of these possibly so keenly as the home from which he was taken. We could point out many good qualities of Brother Sharpe's life, but that for which we admired him most was his never failing loyalty and faithfulness to his church and Heavenly Master.

The pastor, Rev. J. E. Carroll, being away from the charge, the writer conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. D. I. Offman and Dr. T. M. Johnson, after which the body was laid to its final rest in Friendship cemetery.

Those to suffer most keenly this loss are his wife, Mrs. Mary Sharpe; two daughters, Mrs. A. H. Patterson and Miss Elma Sharpe; a nephew, Clifton Sharpe, who has made his home with the deceased all his life. To these we extend our deepest sympathy and pray upon them God's abiding love.

O. C. LOY.

Carter

Griffeth Jefferson Dickson Carter was born September 2, 1853, and died September 4, 1931, aged 78 years and 2 days. He was married to Miss Laura P. Neil August 22, 1876. To this union were born 11 children, 3 dying in infancy and 8 surviving.

Brother Carter professed conversion and joined Pleasant Gap Methodist Protestant church in 1877. His wife brought her letter from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Bald Creek and joined with him.

Their home was the home of the minister when in the community, and many are the times he has rested and been refreshed beneath their hospitable roof. The brethren attending quarterly conference in the days when they rode over the mountain on horseback and the president of the annual conference also were often entertained in their home. They both remained members here at this church until called from earth to the home God has prepared for those who love and serve Him.

Their children bless their memory today because of the Christian training they were given by these Godly parents.

Brother Carter was a delegate to the annual conference a number of times, and he assisted in building this church. He is greatly missed not only here in his old community but by a large circle of friends throughout the county.

He is survived by the following children: Charles W., David B., J. Thad and Howard Carter, Mrs. L. R. Blackwelder, Mrs. Nat T. Holcombe, Mrs. J. H. McPeters and Mrs. C. P. Gaston.

Brother Carter was a loyal churchman. He was not demonstrative in revivals and emotional meetings, but, far better, he gave his time and money to the work of the church when it was not stirred by any special emotional appeal. Every pastor loves and knows the value of the faithful church attendant and supporter. He was one of this select class of God's faithful children. He died as he lived, trusting in God and believing in the life eternal obtained through the atoning blood of Christ.

Ministers who had charge of service were Revs. Homer Casto, E. G. Cowan and J. S. Williams.

May we say with the poet:

"There is no death; the stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forevermore.

"And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life; there are no dead."

REV. HOMER CASTO.

Terry.

Mr. William Arlie Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Terry, was born January 6, 1885, and passed away at Duke hospital November 18, 1931, aged 46 years, 10 months and 12 days.

Mr. Terry is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Terry; four children, Edna, Wyoming, Hal and Willard Terry; his father, Mr. Thomas Terry, of Siler City; one sister, Mrs. C. C. Stout, of Snow Camp, and three brothers, H. L. Terry, Siler City; Monroe Terry, Chapel Hill, and W. L. Terry, of Burlington.

The funeral service was conducted from the Mount Hermon M. P. church November 20, 1931, at 2 p. m. Rev. T. J. Whitehead was in charge of the service, assisted by Rev. G. W. Holmes.

Mr. Terry was a member of Plainfield Friends church. He lived in our community for more than 20 years and had a number of friends and relatives in our church whose hearts were made sad by his unexpected death. The church extends sympathy to the bereaved ones.

—On Dentist's Office Door: "Will be back in 15 minutes—gone 10 minutes already."

—During the past six years, Lincoln county growers have shipped 421,516 pounds of turkeys, for which they have received $140,150.

—C. W. Henderson, of Gneiss, Macon county, produced an average of 113.7 bushels of corn on two acres of land by using good seed and fertilizer.

OUR ENEMIES

Our enemies are pricking goads

By which we may arise

From out a mediocre world

Unharm'd—into victorious skies.

Each unkind word that's meant to sear

And burn an earthly name

May be employed as searing iron

To brand it in the halls of fame.

Impeding stones rolled in the way

By hate or jealousy,

We may surmount—nor count them harm,

The climbing elevates, you see.

No one can wrong a fellow man

As he himself doth wrong.

He loses virtue slinging vice

That radium-like will make one strong

Yet sap the slinger's strength ere long.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

Price—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field. In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

Mrs. Gerring and I express our appreciation to our many friends who have so kindly remembered us during the joyous Christmas season. Some of them will not see these words because they do not read the Herald. I wish they did. If time permitted we would be so glad to send a personal message to all those who have remembered us with beautiful cards and other Christmas remembrances. But a pastor's time is usually so completely taken up that he scarcely has time to "show himself friendly," or to keep in touch with his friends. Believe us, dear friends, when we say that we do deeply appreciate the fact that you thought of us during this season in which we were remembering Him who is "a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." May His presence go with you and His blessing be upon you throughout the coming year, is our prayer for you.

Yours in the fellowship of His service,
L. W. GERRINGER.

In John Wesley's Day there was a question like this—

"Are We Going On to Perfection?"

This is the question now facing the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina. How shall we answer?

A denomination, having more than 30,000 members in the state faces the responsibility of being a dynamic force in the life of its constituency, in the outlook of communities and in the progress of the commonwealth.

Facing such responsibility—the denomination must have an educated and trained leadership, both in the ministry and laity. It must be an education that is Christian, and this means under Christian leadership, where Christian ideals and motives receive their due emphasis under wholesome influences.

Hence the recognition, long since, of the Church as to the need of the Christian College.

This is the why of High Point College. Let us face the FACTS:

Redemption of Bonds at Maturity pledged by
the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina—and further underwritten by the General Church.

1. Our Church has achieved an outstanding record in High Point College.
2. Our indebtedness is not great in the light of assets, but its nature is such that the pressure is tremendous—and we must relieve the pressure.
3. In seven years High Point College has attained a yearly enrollment, standing in college circles and community confidence, that have no parallel in the history of denominational colleges.
4. The City of High Point is challenging the North Carolina Conference in this plan of re-financing through the sale of bonds. We must meet the challenge.
5. For the first time in the one hundred years' history of the denomination, the General Church, without respect to area, is being appealed to through its official leadership to back a college. And bonds are being bought outside of North Carolina. We must capitalize this support.
6. There is money enough in the possession of Methodist Protestants in our Conference to absorb our quota of bonds. Let us do it.
7. Let us say, "We are going on"—to sell these bonds, thus re-financing the College, and securing it these days of "trying times."

Is it Depression or Repression that is gripping the Church? Doubtless something of both—but now it is going to be Expression! Expression of FAITH—LOYALTY—PURPOSE.
